Parliament Receives Transportation Report

Canadian National Could Get New Deal

Equalization of Rates on National Basis and Co-ordination of Services Proposed by Commission

OTTAWA (CP)—Recommendation for equalizing freight rates across Canada and co-ordinating transportation under federal jurisdiction were before Parliament today in the report of a commission on transportation.

Prime Minister L. S. St. Laurent tabled the report this afternoon.

The 200,000-word document was prepared by a three-man commission after two years of investigation into transportation problems.

Major recommendation in the report is for a federal subsidy to help defray the cost of a rail link between east and west running through thinly-settled Northern Ontario. The estimated cost is $7,000,000 per year.

A transport control plan, outlined as proposed new transportation policy, would bring together the railways, aviation, shipping and pipelines under a single controlling body. Three federal organizations now regulate these carriers.

The report also calls for the federal government assuming jurisdiction over interprovincial and international highway transport. The government claims it possesses this jurisdiction but has never tried to make use of it. Several provinces contest the field.

Rate equalization proposals are aimed at smoothing out differences between eastern and western rate levels which has been the cause of protest from the western provincial governments for many years.

The commission turned down a proposal from the Canadian Pacific Railway that the west's low statutory "Crow's Nest Pass" freight rates on grain and grain products should be removed from direct control of Parliament and be subject to increases like other rates.

The commission proposes a re-capitalization plan for scaling down top-heavy financial structure of the government-owned Canadian National Railways and reducing the annual fixed charges that leave it in a chronic deficit position.

Fixed interest rates on the government-held debt would be placed on a more flexible basis and the company would also be allowed to retain part of its annual earned surplus.

Truman Blames Russia Causing Rearmament

WEST, Florida (CP)—President Truman accused Russia Wednesday of forcing United States to help rearm the free world by its own aggression and "ruthless program of rearmament."

He cited repeated Russian refusals to agree on a "fool-proof" program for control of atomic and other weapons. This, he said, makes it vital for United States to build up its defenses "as quickly and vigorously as possible."

Truman said American rearmament is "above all, an effort to prevent a world conflict." It is also an effort to prepare our defenses to meet such a conflict if it is forced upon us.

aluminum company's use, since power is one thing which should be controlled by the people. Mr. Winch accused the government of giving the company an "empire," allowing Alcan to reduce resources of the province without proper compensation.

"Why should the province hand away this heritage?" he asked.

Tonight's train, due from the East at 10:15, was reported this afternoon to be two hours and ten minutes late.

TO VISIT HERE—The Eugene High School band, on a tour of British Columbia and Alaska, is due here tomorrow morning on the Princess Norah and during its stay will play a concert in the local Civic Centre for Booth Memorial High School Assembly. Tour stops are scheduled at Juneau, Ketchikan, Alaska, and at Prince Rupert and Ocean Falls. The young musicians will present a concert at each city. Back here next Wednesday afternoon they will play for a students' tea-dance then.

YUKON CAPITAL MOVED

OTTAWA — Reconstruction Minister Winters announced in the House of Commons yesterday that the Yukon seat of government is being moved from Dawson, famed centre of the Klondike gold rush, to Whitehorse, 500 miles south. The reason is Dawson's dwindling population and the increasing important position of Whitehorse as an air centre.

Cellulose Freight Being Flown Here

Five thousand pounds of special freight have been flown to Prince Rupert for Columbia Cellulose. Instruments, valves and crates of apparatus were flown from Vancouver to Sandspit by a chartered DC-3 Tuesday. Much of the shipment was from American factories. A second flight by the Prince Rupert-Sandspit Canso aircraft of the Canadian Pacific Airlines was required to bring the freight here for delivery to Watson Island.

WASHINGTON (CP)—Head of the CIO Packing House Workers said last night his union was "free to strike" March 26 because economic stabilizer, Eric Johnston, refused to approve an 11-cent-hourly wage increase.

Earlier, Johnston declined to okay the raise on the ground it would break through the wage ceiling limiting increases, in general, to 10 percent above levels of January 15, 1950.

Ralph Helstein, president of the CIO union, with about half of the industry's packing house workers, told a press conference a definite date for the walkout would be determined by a policy committee now meeting in Washington.

CO-OP HEARS SCIENTIST—

New Discoveries of Movements And Habits of Fish Disclosed

Speaking before the annual general meeting of the Prince Rupert Fishermen's Co-operative Association, Dr. J. L. Hart of Nanaimo dealt particularly with the fish of interest to the fishermen of the north coast. As director of the Biological Research for the Pacific coast, Dr. Hart delved deep into his ample knowledge and experience to handle this subject.

He described the department's efforts to ascertain the abundance of albacore in the North Pacific and the possibility of controlling the abundance of the schools. He described special tagging hooks now being used. These hooks were first produced by the members of his department. They remain in the fish's mouth after a weakened line breaks under a 30-pound strain. It saves landing the fish. However, as up to date, no albacore have been recovered with these tags in their mouths. The full benefits have yet to be seen.

At present the department is investigating the year classes of fish in an effort to try and follow the life and growth of the albacore. As earstones and scales have been found unsatisfactory for ascertaining the age of the tuna, another method had to be found and at present they are attempting to use marks that appear on the vertebrae. While these marks bear a definite relation to age, scientists are not yet certain if they are annual marks. They discovered that five ages are represented among the albacore under investigation. Dr. Hart feels that the Japanese and North American tuna are probably separate families. Under investigation the Japanese fish always appear larger in the same age group.

The sad feature of the investigation is that the appropriation for the work has been cut and research will be confined to shore sampling with possibly only one field trip for the year.

The possibility of utilizing voluntary fishermen to help in this work is being considered. While it is established that the movement of tuna is associated with the temperature of the water brought in the subject of oceanography, the group working on this subject (Continued on page 8)

Hongchon Is Taken

Allies Within 18 Miles of 38th Parallel

TOKYO (CP)—United Nations troops returned to Seoul in force today and searched rubble streets of the old South Korean capital for hide-out Communist soldiers.

Meanwhile all along the Korean front Allied troops surged northward on the heels of the retreating Reds.

At some points Allied troops are less than 18 miles from the old 38th parallel border to North Korea.

American assault troops stormed into Hongchon today and found the former main Communist supply base on the central front in ruins.

P.T. Opposing Premium Hike

Parent-Teachers' Associations here may join in the protest to the provincial government at the increase in hospital insurance premiums in British Columbia. Conrad Street P.T., at its meeting last night, decided to send a letter to the P.T. Council asking for endorsement of protests against the increase.

Mrs. John Denning presided at last night's meeting which heard of further plans for the forthcoming White Elephant sale which is being convened by Mrs. George Redhead.

Mrs. Denning was chosen as representative to the meeting of the Cancer Society.

Mrs. C. Johanson reported on Open Day held last Thursday and it was learned that 179 parents and friends had visited the school that day.

After the business session, Mrs. G. Montgomery showed very interesting films on a trip to New Zealand which were thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

Refreshments were served under the convenship of Mrs. C. Johanson assisted by Mrs. V. Pick, Mrs. H. Blair and Mrs. J. Thompson.

Neely Moore, exploration superintendent for Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. here, is returning on Saturday night's train from a trip to Toronto on company business.

Bicycle and Car Collide

Two boys on one bicycle and an automobile, driven by James Currie, were in collision at the corner of Sixth Avenue and McBride Street at 12:55 noon today. The boys were thrown from the bicycle and taken immediately on board by the car driver. At the police station they were found to be uninjured. The boys were riding east on Sixth Avenue. The car was coming up McBride in a northerly direction.

Must Resolve Talks Soon

PARIS (CP)—Talks between Russian and western deputies on the possibility of the Big Four foreign ministers meeting are nearing a "break or settle" stage, observers said today.

The Soviet delegation, after eight days of meetings, are still trying to break the united front so far presented by the United States, Great Britain and France. R. Herbert Morrison, Britain's foreign secretary, is due here Friday. His arrival is not officially connected with conference of deputies but, if an end of the discussions is in sight by the week-end, Morrison's presence in Paris would provide a useful short cut for any quick policy decision which may be involved.

First Aiders Wanted

MEN are needed this Friday night in the Fire Hall.

What's going on there is as old as sin. Since women have curled their hair, or as long as monks have thrown up their hands at the world, First Aid to the injured has been known and practised.

Under the leadership of such time-tried men as R. E. Eyolfson, chief first aid instructor, or John (Joek) Davidson, superintendent of the St. John Ambulance Brigade, one can learn the first necessity of life—health.

Health is what the most backward natives in the world place at the head of their list in the jungles of Mexico. These are the Lacandon Indians who set broken bones with homemade splints, and know how to treat flesh wounds with fresh earth or leaf poultices.

First aid is their precaution against hazardous hunting. Health to them is the normal state of life.

Whether savage or civilized, good health is the common link of good sense.

Before a man frets on lesser things, let him first be practical. Let him consider the art of living. And to live, the ancients say, "is to love thy neighbor."

And the art of loving your neighbor is in the story of the Good Samaritan who bound his neighbor's wounds, "pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him."

First aiding follows these principles.

THOSE TIGERS, SNAKES

NEW DELHI, India.—Just before I left home, Sikh friends who had spent most of their lives in Canada said to me:

"Whatever you do, when you go out to India, don't try to out-Gordon Gordon Sinclair. Don't give us another 'Footloose in India' series."

"No chance of that, even if I tried," I answered. "Gordon's in a class by himself. So long as I don't go 'Headloose in India' I'll be satisfied."

But my resolution to look the other way whenever anybody mentioned snakes, tigers, yogis, holy men who walk on fire or sit on nails, has been shaken!

For ten days hand running the Delhi papers have carried items about a tiger operating just south of this great capital. Today they report that it killed a cow last night in the village of Motki Majid.

MY UNPLANNED INTRODUCTION to the snakes of India came yesterday. Just across from me lives Elizabeth Brunner, a Hungarian girl painter who came out to this country when her mother felt a compulsion to study Indian mysticism.

The mother, herself an artist of note, died a couple of years ago and Elizabeth has stayed on here alone. She is a portrait painter of an extremely high order, and her two life-size pictures of Tagore are as fine works as I have seen for a long time. Also a fine one of Mr. Nehru.

YESTERDAY MORNING, ELIZABETH and I went for a car ride. But no sooner had we got going than Elizabeth shrieked to the driver: "Stop! Stop! There they are! There they are!"

It turned out that "they" were Elizabeth's pet snakes—hooded cobras, no less. I had already seen their portrait, painted by Elizabeth, and she was anxious to convince me that they were just as nice and friendly in real life as she said they were in the picture.

As the grey-bearded snake charmer uncovered the round wicker baskets in which he transports his pets, a crowd gathered by a magic process.

The cobra seemed sleepy at first, until his master sort of tickled him under the chin. But Elizabeth patted him and fondled him (the snake, I mean, if it was a him, not her). She kept shrieking to me:

"See what a pretty face he has. See what a pretty face he has."

I knew that Elizabeth believed in Gandhi teachings of ahimsa—that is, that if you are kind and harmless toward other creatures, they will be kind to you. I have a great admiration for that doctrine myself. But I could not help but ask myself:

"I wonder if the cobra believes in ahimsa, too."

WE DROVE THROUGH THE bazaars and saw all the amazing sights and sounds that one always sees there. For me there was one new one: Two full-grown men taking a thorough soap and water bath in plain sight at a street corner tap. They were modestly enough covered amidships, and completely indifferent to passers-by.

AS EVERYBODY KNOWS, COWS and water buffaloes walk everywhere in India—even in the most crowded streets. But, strangely enough, they never seem out of place.

You may ask, what is the difference between a cow and a water buffalo? The best answer I can extract is "about one hundred rupees." That is, a buffalo is worth about $25 more than a cow. Experts also tell me the milk is richer—that is, about six percent butterfat instead of four or four and a half percent.

They have a folk-saying here that any human who drinks buffalo milk becomes slow and phlegmatic, like the buffalo. If so, all milk drinkers must be affected. For they mix the two kinds of milk in the distributing plants in order to get the precise standard of butterfat which the law demands.

ELIZABETH TOOK ME TO SEE one of the most influential editors in all India. He talked to me with the utmost candor for over an hour.

He was not talking for verbatim quotation. But one thing he did say:

The Western democracies in general, and the U.S.A. in particular, are losing ground in the ideological struggle for the hearts and minds of the people of India, and all Asia, because they have no real contact with the great mass of the people.

The diplomats see government heads, fellow diplomats, and meet the society leaders in the Asian countries. But it is precisely these "society" leaders who are everywhere on the defensive in their own lands—who are, in fact, "on the way out."

The above words came from a key Indian who wants the cause of the West to win out, but who believes there must be a drastically new approach if that is to be so.

Butter at eighty-five cents. It wasn't anything like that, for price, when made the hard way in the little old churns. And that was some considerable time ago.

A FEW DAYS AWAY

Every night, lately, these broadcasts have been doing their damndest to make us feel as Irish as County Clare. All this was pleasant at first. Indeed, one might just as well say it is yet. But when you absorb "The Minstrel Boy," "Kathleen Mavourneen," "The Rose of Tralee" and a few others due later on, one wonders what the reaction will be, on or about March the seventeenth. That's Saturday!

A change in senate affairs—more or less indefinite, but persistent—is spoken of from time to time. Something else is noticed, this being the fact of membership including about eighty good Liberals.

DOWN TO CASES

After next Monday, a more sober sort of life, although this has nothing to do with refreshments. Buying on the installment plan won't be so easy and gracious. There will be less cash and a shorter time to repay. The hand of the Department of Finance will be less gentle. We'll all be paying for more defence and fewer of the things one likes to take a fancy to.

LOOKING BACKWARD

Pictures of the federal capital city, back in the 'sixties, are appearing in an Ottawa daily. Things of decided interest are not necessarily up to date. These are so far behind the times that just for that reason they command a steadily widening attention. A glance at Canada and Canadians can hardly fail to bring attention. Particularly so, when Confederation was being threshed out.

FAREWELL

Alas for Dawson! It was learned in Parliament yesterday that this former dream city of fortune hunters everywhere is about to become a ghost town although her few remaining people give stout-hearted denials. Fast-growing Whitehorse will be the new capital of Yukon. Dawson's decline was inevitable, but it retains a renown and a fame approached hardly anywhere else on earth.

That lawyers, who comprise thirty percent of the House of Commons, do most of the talking, is no surprise. Suggestion that they be taxed on lawyer fees, as noted in the Printer's Word would, no doubt, be considered ridiculous. It would, in all likelihood, be called outrageous, preposterous, unconstitutional, unfair, unjust, increase living costs, hurt struggling beginners, be immoral and be condemned in French, English and Latin.

Party Prize Dessert

ANGEL WHIP

1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1 egg
1/4 cup water
Juice and grated rinds of 1/2 lemon, and 1/2 orange
2 teaspoons butter
1/2 cup Carnation Milk, undiluted, chilled ice-crystal cold

Sift together sugar and flour. Beat egg; add with water, fruit juices, rinds and butter, to dry ingredients. Cook over low heat until thick. Whip Carnation Milk until stiff. Beat into cooled mixture. Pile in dessert glasses lined with lady fingers (chocolate-dipped, if desired); or serve on fruit salads; or use to top cup-cakes which are to be served at once. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

Carnation is Milk that Whips

NOTHING BUT WATER is removed from milk in processing Carnation. It has twice the food values of ordinary milk.

FOR WHIPPING—for creaming coffee and cereals and other cream uses, leave Carnation undiluted.

FOR COOKING and all other milk uses, dilute Carnation with an equal amount of water for whole milk of extra smoothness and richer flavor.

Silbak-Premier Working Again

STEWART.—Although apparently authentic information was received here authorizing the resumption of work at the Silbak-Premier mine, there was some hitch between the mine property.

The wheels are moving again to the relief of the family men who are employed at the mine and to the merchants whose business largely depends upon the continued operation of the property.

Stewart Still Feels Winter

STEWART.—Intense cold, strong north winds and drifting snow continue to make things distinctly uncomfortable for the residents of this area. Roads and streets have been almost impassable at times, filling up to a depth of from four to five feet until cleared by the rotary snow plow which has been giving yeoman service this winter.

The road to the Silbak-Premier mine was partially closed for a few days but has now been cleared and traffic resumed.

TORONTO.—The appointment of D. H. Hawley to be chief of commercial operations, Canadian National Telegraphs, was announced here today by General Manager J. R. White. A native of Trenton, Ont., Mr. Hawley began his telegraph career in 1919 as a clerk in the operating department of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company which was later incorporated into the national system.

Welter Title To Bratton

CHICAGO (CP)—Johnny Bratton last night won the National Boxing Association's version of the welterweight championship by defeating Charley Fusari in a blistering 15-round battle in Chicago Stadium.

Decision was not unanimous. One judge voted 76-74 in favor of Fusari, New Jersey ex-millman. Fusari survived two knockdowns to make a courageous fight from start to finish. Referee Freddie Gilmore joined in voting with the other judge, 78-72, for Bratton.

Bratton dropped Fusari for a count of four in the fourth round with a hard right to the chin. In the tenth, he knocked Fusari sprawling with a savage left hook and a right-cross to the jaw.

Ski Heil—

(By Marlie Bulger)

The weatherman played a nasty trick on skiers last weekend. Conditions—a blizzard of driving snow—made it almost impossible for planksters to fully enjoy the sport. But all is forgiven again with yesterday's snowfall. Skiers hope—with optimism—that snow conditions again will make aim to the end of May this season.

Miss Marla Johnson appeared on skis for the first time on the blustery kindergarten run—hope she enjoys it more on a later day. Last A den will agree that it wasn't the coldest day to master the "ups and downs" of skiing.

At a club executive meeting last week Archie McLeod was appointed treasurer to replace George Mostad. It was also decided that persons other than club members would be nominally charged for use of the main lodge.

This week Odd Eidsvik and George Mostad leave for Sun Valley, Idaho. Everybody hopes both have a wonderful time and will expect to hear all about it in three weeks. (George will remain in Vancouver.)

Waterfront Institution

Johnny Garofani, feed-front people for the last 12 years, has become an institution at Cow Bay. He is owner of Smiles Cafe, which at meal times is a humming beehive of fish-talk, boat-talk and more fish-talk.

And not seldom is heard the remark: "That was a good dinner, Johnny."

Customers in the winter are mostly those who are steadily employed at the different fisheries, machine shops and other industries along the waterfront, with a few year-round active fishermen and port visitors known in Johnny calls this his slack season.

But in the halibut, salmon and herring seasons things are different, he says.

"Sometimes it looks like the whole fleet is here."

Smiles Cafe doesn't have much trouble with its staff, said the owner. "Tim," the cook, has been with Johnny many years and has been cooking along the waterfront years before that. One waitress stayed seven years, he said, growing staff turn-over wasn't very great.

And at present, Isla Hague is serving customers there in her sixth year. Her attitude goes with the big sign on the roof: "Smiles" for always to her customers she is cheerful, pleasant and ready with a smile.

"I think the people here are nice—I like waterfront people," she said. "I think they are very honest and friendly." That was one big reason she had stayed so long, she said. The other main reason was that "the boss is easy to get along with."

In the evenings—Johnny long since has stopped staying open at night—Isla usually goes bowling. She is a member of an organized league and says her average this year is around 145.

Beryl Karasosky is the other waitress. Often she is seen to frown or even pout, but not for long. Anyway, a customer said, that was just an act, for "she's mostly friendly." She thinks the boss "is pretty good" too, and she "rather hates to leave" the cafe or cannery work in April.

Actually, Johnny says he's tagged fish. He said that the department would not want fish with chipped fins reported from now on as this was being done in the canneries and fish landing places.

Speaking of trawl fishing, the immense variety of species presented a problem. In order to build up catch statistics, port contact men were being maintained at landing places. Fortunately, earstones can be used to determine the age of this type. Disc tags were being used and quite a lot of experimentation was being carried on with gear. The investigation to ascertain the fish population of certain banks showed that the number of lemon sole in Butterworth Rocks area is probably five million, a figure based on the percentage of tags recovered.

Hecate Straits crabs, which are now being fished both by American and Canadian boats, were also under investigation. The north and east coasts of Graham Island were both estimated to have about three million "heads" of crabs. An interesting item was the rediscovery of the crabs after migration. They had moved from a bank six miles off Graham Island to another one mile off shore. This was ascertained by the rediscovery of tags.

A great deal of biological research to explain the changes taking place in Hecate Straits crabs was carried out. Owing to the size limits for market fish, few females were being taken and the effect of this was being considered. Some interesting research observations had been made by an ichthyologist Dr. Kinsey. However, the work to preserve these crabs is very important because of the tendency of American crabbers to fish the Hecate Straits during the summer months, when the coasts of Washington and Oregon are closed.

Dr. Hart's talk was very much have discovered that previous conceptions of the Japanese Current were incorrect. They are certain now that it is the result of upwelling which is a condition brought about when continuous warm winds blow the surface water and allow cold water to rise from below, bringing with it many nutrients and strange fish. Formerly this warm water was thought to have been a current travelling across the Pacific from Japan.

In an effort to relate oceanographic research to commercial fishing, the intention is to supply certain fishermen with log books to keep accurate data for the department and at least six will be trained in the use of bathythermographs. These are instruments which measure the temperature down to 60 fathoms.

SPRING SALMON

Speaking of the work of research work on troll spring salmon, Mr. Hart mentioned that it is usually two years before the results begin to appear. However, they had discovered from recent tagging, particularly in the Quatsino and Uclulet areas, that the direction trend was definitely southward. He suggested that, as a conservation measure, it may be necessary to close certain areas where small fish are being caught. He also pointed out that the work of tagging was being confined as much as possible to fish of small size. This was because each fish tagged had to be paid for and the smaller ones were cheaper.

Cohoe presented a different picture. There was no direction trend. Their dispersal was in all directions. He pointed out that the department's investigation corroborated what had been the opinion of fishermen for a long time. They found that the coho grows at the rate of about 3 1/2 inches a month.

After tagging springs in Alaska, the same direction trends were noted and, of the recoveries of tags, 33 per cent were found in the Columbia River, 20 per cent in the Fraser and 34 per cent in general small creeks; while out of 863 coho, 70 recoveries showed no direction trend.

In the future, Dr. Hart expects his department to start tagging in the North Island and Cape Scott areas, and asks fishermen to watch for

Mr. Abel opened the queen of spades which was won on the board with the king. The ace of trumps was laid down and then Mr. Dale entered his hand with the queen of diamonds. Here he made the key play—he led a small trump, not the jack. Mr. Abel played the eight, a club was discarded from dummy and Mrs. Keen won with her lone queen.

The spade return was won with the ace in the closed hand and the jack of hearts was led, driving out Mr. Abel's king. The jack of spades won the third trick for the defenders but that was all. Mr. Dale ruffed the next spade lead, picked up Mr. Abel's last trump and spread the hand. Note that if Mr. Dale had led
