Revolt in Albania

LONDON (CP)—Yugoslavia contended today that armed rebels are being parachuted into Albania to fight against the Kremlin-controlled regime of Premier Enver Hoxha.

To combat apparently growing unrest in the small Balkan Soviet satellite nation, Russia is reported to have sent about a dozen MIG jet fighter planes to Albania.

Yugoslavia also declared an Albanian rebel campaign, apparently, is being directed by "reactionary" Albanians now living in Italy.

Besides parachutists, Yugoslavia said planes are showering anti-Communist leaflets over Albanian cities and towns.

Another 10,000 have been jailed, he said.

Because anti-Hoxha leaflets and ammunition for guerrilla fighters have been dropped by planes from the west, notably Italy, there has been a sharp increase recently in the number jailed, the informant said.

ISOLATION REMOVED—

Speed And Efficiency in Egg Is. Woman's Rescue

Lighthouse keepers even in the most inaccessible points along the rugged British Columbia coast no longer live the life of isolation they once endured. This was fully demonstrated in a remarkably efficient mercy operation which was successfully concluded last night by the Department of Transport in co-operation with the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Not a great deal more than 24 hours after L. P. Dupuis, lighthouse keeper at Egg Island in Queen Charlotte Sound, 240 miles south of Prince Rupert, had notified, Department of Transport headquarters here that he believed his wife was suffering from acute appendicitis and required immediate surgical attention, Mrs. Dupuis had been safely landed in Vancouver General Hospital.

Egg Island is about midway between Prince Rupert and Vancouver.

On receiving Mr. Dupuis' radio-phonied appeal, N. A. Beketov, agent for the Department of Transport here, dispatched the lighthouse tender Alexander Mackenzie, Capt. Norman MacKay, to Egg Island at 5:30 Thursday afternoon. The Mackenzie reached Egg Island at 2 p.m. yesterday and promptly took Mrs. Dupuis aboard. After a four-hour crossing of Queen Charlotte Sound, the tender was at Port Hardy at 6 p.m. to transfer the patient to a waiting Royal Canadian Air Force plane.

At Sea Island airport, an ambulance was waiting to take Mrs. Dupuis to the hospital and thus complete the rescue operation at 10 p.m. Friday.

Word received today by Mr. Beketov was that Mrs. Dupuis' condition was satisfactory although it was not revealed whether she had yet had surgery. She had been feeling ill for 12 days and her condition gradually worsened until it became necessary for her husband to appeal for rescue.

Planes cannot land in the turbulent sound near Egg Island so it was necessary to send the lighthouse tender to take her off, a small boat being used for the landing from the Alexander Mackenzie.

The tender, having some routine work to do on the way back to port, may be back here tomorrow night.

P. H. Linzey escaped injury other than a shaking-up about noon yesterday but his car sustained considerable damage when, endeavouring to avoid collision with an oncoming truck while turning off Third Avenue into Sixth Street, he struck two parked cars, one owned by Fred Hegg and the other by David Zille.

The newspaper quotes a distillery representative as saying that some clubs are buying 100 to 500 extra cases per week in anticipation of a possible tax increase.

Communists Fighting Back

TOKYO (CP) — Two American tank columns stabbed across the Red Korean border today in a daring challenge to Chinese offensive build-up.

One column struck across the 38th parallel, north of Uijongbu on the western front, then pulled back before dusk.

Another thrust was made into Red lands north of Chupungpyong reservoir, on the central front. Both ran into fierce fights.

An armored force, north of Uijongbu, fought off Red anti-tank guns, mortar and hand-grenade attacks. It stayed 3½ hours in Red territory.

Vital Necessity, Gen. Kepner Tells Legislature of Alaska

JUNEAU.—Lt. Gen. William Kepner told the Alaska Legislature that a civilian defense system is vital to the Territory and cities should seek the aid of the military "only as a last resort."

He said the Alaska command wants a strong civilian defense organization to (1) minimize the diversion of military forces that will have their hands full against the enemy and (2) a good civilian defense organization that probably will be able to lend valuable aid to military bases.

"A sound civil defense organization is a vital necessity to all," he declared, and concluded with the quotation: "So much to do, so little time."

Kepner mentioned specifically among the problems the evacuation of women and children, principally from areas where the enemy may make a paratroop attack.

"It would be best, of course, to accomplish this limited evacuation beforehand if our intelligence sources gain information that such an attack is pending. This would permit a greater saving of civilian lives.

"As an example, if we assume that enemy troops have dropped on Anchorage and later they drive the civilians ahead of them as shields when attacking, this furnishes a peculiar and distressing problem. We know this could happen if no preparations have been made."

He said correspondents had reported such tactics by Communists in Korea.

"We must clear the decks beforehand, if possible, in a critical area," he continued. "The proper authority to undertake this movement is the local civil defense organization. My principal interest lies in ascertaining that the highways our forces will use in defensive operations are not clogged by evacuees."

During the year about $900,000 was loaned to members for provident and productive purposes. In addition some $350,000 had been loaned to the Co-operative. Loan purposes included assistance to many fishermen to maintain independence through ownership of boats and gear. Home purchase loans had also been numerous.

The meeting approved recommendations as follows by the directors:

(1) That a dividend of 3% be paid on shares.

United States Rivers Flood

NEW YORK (CP) — Drenching rains sent swollen rivers of far southern United States over their banks today with others approaching the flood stage.

Heavy rains and melting snows also inundated parts of New York and New Jersey in East and North Dakota and Illinois in the west.

One hundred persons were driven from their homes in Mississippi, with two deaths reported due to high water.

Another year of successful operation was reviewed by the Prince Rupert Fishermen's Credit Union at the annual meeting last night in the Odd-fellows' Hall. The Union's business in the way of disbursements and receipts amounted to $5,186,000 during 1950.

Members' savings showed considerable gains. Shares increased by about $60,000 to a total of $463,253 while deposits went up about $90,000 for a total of $543,665 at the end of December 1950.

Assets went over the million dollar mark to $1,053,231.

Although nearly all eligible members in the area already belong, membership for the year increased by 127 for a new total of 1495.

Bombing Ice Jams in River

MEDICINE HAT (CP)—A 1000-pound bomb will be dropped today on a giant ice jam in the South Saskatchewan River here which has held firm under a two-day barrage of smaller bombs hurled at it from dive-bombing RCAF planes.

Six families evacuated their homes but another 2000 persons, mostly children, are in immediate danger in the flood-threatened district.

The city is partly flooded. Quebec and Ontario also reported flood conditions as spring run-offs and rains sent rivers spilling over their banks. At Chateaugay, Quebec, 700 were forced from their homes Friday.

BOMBAY REVIEW

BOMBAY, INDIA — After sweltering and sweating for several days, during plane trips, I take back my slighting remarks about the dharti, the nether garment of the Indian male. I realize now that it is an early form of air conditioning.

While I sat stewing yesterday at Hyderabad I saw one enormous gentleman ever more suitably garbed. He was swathed in what looked like a loose yellow bandage, hung from the shoulders, but with plenty of bare hide showing through. He was a cool customer in more ways than one. They had called the departure of the plane for Delhi, and Mr. Yellow Sheet was Delhi bound. But he and his retinue calmly continued to eat the breakfast which is provided in the plane fare. When an exasperated official protested the corpulent Big Shot shrugged his shoulders, ate a few more mouthfuls, then got up.

IT IS AMUSING AND ENLIGHTENING for a westerner to get the different reaction of the personal-service class here. They are openly appalled and I suspect downright disgusted that a white-haired old man like me should be travelling around India all alone. They just cannot understand anyone from the rich west doing such a thing.

You soon learn here that in this land where labor is so cheap the personal-service people have worked out an elaborate system of compelling anyone better off to "share the wealth." They have an elaborate, but unwritten code, of what is done and what is not done.

WHEN YOU GO TO A NEW town, and the hotel people see you are a foreigner, they greet you like a long-lost friend. You soon find that these people are the fiercest, most furious critics of the new regime in India, and would hail with the greatest delight a return of the British Imperial raj. The many bearers, etc., who served the Americans would be even more glad to see them back in India (I suspect even at the cost of another war). For they frankly tell you the Americans were even better "masters" than the British. By "better" they mean more generous hand-ousters.

ONE KEEN YOUNG MAN IN Bangalore regaled me for an hour with his tale of woe. He could not say anything bad enough about the present Indian government.

India government man no good," He went on to explain that whereas in the old days a British official might give jobs to five or six "boys," the new Indian official, holding exactly the same appointment, might hire only two or three.

I asked this chap why he vainly kept on trying to get "bearer's" jobs when there were too few of these to go around? Why did he not seek jobs in factories?

He could get a job in the leather factory tomorrow, he said, at about 40 rupees a month. But to get the job he would have to pay a bribe to the foreman equivalent to about one month's pay. He had no scruples about paying the bribe. But where was he to get 40 rupees bribe money?

I HEAR THE SAME STORY everywhere here, and as I want to give the full picture I think I must mention it.

On the whole, the achievements of this new regime in India are remarkable. But the outcome of the events in India is clouded by a widespread habit of petty graft and personal dishonesty.

We in the west have the occasional very rare experience of attempted short-changing, say at the wicket of a busy movie theatre. Here in India, I am sorry to say, in a single month I have been short changed not

THE LETTERBOX

WANTED—PIECE OF MUSIC

Editor, Daily News:
I have been asked to try and locate a piece of music and have been wondering if any Old Country people could help me find "The Sign of the Cross" that used to be played before every Christmas in England forty years ago much like the Passion Play in other countries. The music wanted is in the last scene and runs something like this:
"Shepherd of Souls that stumble by the way
That shelters all who seek his loving breast."
It seems strange that such music should disappear. It has been searched for in every music store in England, also here, but up to now the search has been unsuccessful.

If any one knows where there is a copy, it would be appreciated if they would contact the Daily News.

EXPLOITING RENTS

Editor Daily News:
It is a disgrace the way that landlords and landladies are taking advantage of the pulp mill being here. In all my travels this is the first city I have come across where the landlords are so grasping and greedy for money.

I understand that, before the pulp mill came here, Prince Rupert was little more than a fishing village. I will certainly have no regrets in leaving.

You have always wanted Prince Rupert to be on the map. Well, it certainly is right now for its avarice and greed.

On all sides you hear the same exclamation: "Isn't it terrible the high rents we are forced to pay?" I ask: is that going to benefit your town working such hard-ship on the average working man? Surely there is more to life than grasping the dollar from our fellowman.

When I say hardship, I mean hardship—the true meaning that these people do not understand.

If I feel embittered it is because I am in the same position as a good many others here are. I know what it is to have the better part of my pay check go for rent.

Saturday Sermon
Destroy This Temple

(By Rev. Basil S. Prockter, St. Andrews Cathedral)

I do not think that anyone should be under illusions about the position or standing of the Churches of Christ anywhere in the world today. Powerful forces stand opposed or entirely indifferent to the cause of Christ and these are not limited to one hemisphere or to one political or economic ideology. And while it is true that in many parts of Europe and Asia, Christian Churches are being suppressed or subordinated to the State, it is equally true that in the West, few who are important or would like to be important have much time for unqualified Christian allegiance. This is an age when generals plan and launch offensives on Sundays, ministers of state hold their international conferences, captains of industry, labor leaders, educational bigwigs and so on, have much more important things to do for the most part than worship and learn from the God-Man of Nazareth.

For all this, both in East and West, the human leadership and membership of the Christian Churches must accept much blame. They, too, like the people who are passing them by, have been too concerned with themselves in those parts of the world where the heat is really on, is that it matters little what happens to organization, to buildings, to money and to personnel. The enemy is faced with a strange and uncanny strength which comes into evidence when the Church is to all human intent, weakened and disabled. This strength is not a human strength. It is not the stubbornness of the persecuted, but a new song and a new creative energy and spirit. It is the old challenge and prophecy of the Christ, "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will build another." It is the new and current evidence of the Meaning of the Resurrection.

When the Church forgets that she is expendable like her Master, the world has means of reminding her that she is worthy of no better treatment than He was.

And the issue of the event over and over again since the first Easter has been the dawn of a new day for the world which He has redeemed, and for the Church which is His Body.

Water System For Kincolith

Kincolith village is on its first step to becoming a "city."

A domestic water system costing in excess of $20,000 will be installed at once, according to F. Earl Anfield, superintendent of Indian Affairs.

Returning from a tour of inspection with Assistant Superintendent W. B. Bailey, Mr. Anfield was impressed with the new housing that is going on at Kincolith.

An engineer will be arriving to install the pipes and equipment already laid out for the installation of the water system, the source of which will be a dam in the Kincolith Creek, Mr. Anfield said.

Preliminary plans for the decennial census, which will begin May 1, were made by the department officials.

Mr. and Mrs. Alf Rivett and son Arnold returned yesterday aboard the Chilcofin after a vacation trip to California.

Defending Freedoms

WHAT we Canadians strive for in the existing international crisis is, basically, the defense of our freedoms. To assist in the mobilization of the nation for that defense the federal government is asking for certain emergency powers. Danger lies in the fact that these powers are admittedly difficult to define. The government asks the authority to apply price or other controls and to take any action open to it under actual war conditions except censorship, detention and deportation of persons, and spending of public money without parliamentary approval. The threat to our freedom is that much of this authority would be wielded by orders-in-council rather than by approval of the membership of the House of Commons.

As the history of Ottawa's actions in the recent war established, a government invested with special order-in-council power becomes reluctant to submit its acts to the slow-paced examination of the House.

Recently Dr. J. A. Corry, professor of political science at Queen's University, noted this danger in a speech to the advisory council of the National Liberal Federation and proposed some methods of ensuring the responsibility of our government to Parliament and the people. The main point of Dr. Corry's suggestions was that if Canada is again to suffer order-in-council government, parliamentary committees should be appointed to examine the effects of government orders "on individual rights and freedoms."

Here is a practical suggestion to which members of every Canadian political party might well lend support lest we some day find that in our final battle for the survival of democratic freedoms we have lost more than we have gained.

The Best You've Got

"IF I'D GIVEN my family half the intelligence I gave my business I shouldn't be the lonely, homeless man I am," the divorced corporation president confessed. Like many others he had taken for granted those nearest and dearest to him. He had treated the very essence of his life with hit-or-miss methods which he would never dare to apply to his business.

This all-too-typical story is told in the April Reader's Digest by I. A. R. Wylie who draws the moral that the love and friendship which are the best of life need the best we've got—all the time.

If you want to have and hold love, you've got to watch the little things, says writer Wylie. Love is an exacting task, not made up of occasional glamorous gestures but of a steady self-discipline, a sensitive awareness of what hurts, what pleases. To prove the point, the author cites examples: a famous composer left his wife forever because she drummed on the breakfast table with her fingers; a girl who would have gladly died for her husband lost his affection because she wouldn't powder her nose or keep appointments on time.

Many know from everyday experience that these irritations aren't trivial, and they can sympathize with the woman who told the Reader's Digest author: "I wouldn't care so much if Jim failed me in a crisis, if only he would be pleasant when there wasn't one."

But, someone may ask, shouldn't you be able to put off your best manners at home and rely on those who love you to understand and forgive? The answer offered in the article, "The Best You've Got," is that you do so most unfairly and at your peril. You don't win love with your moods, weaknesses and foibles, and you cannot expect to keep it with them. An explosion of home tantrums nets nothing but the weary job of picking up the pieces. And, whether you realize it or not, there is a little less each time that can be mended.

Wedding is Impressive

Miss Arletta Hamilton Becomes Bride of Ole Slatta

An impressive double-ring candlelight service at St. Paul's Lutheran Church recently united Lillian Arletta, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Hamilton of this city, and Ole Slatta, younger son of Mrs. K. Slatta and the late Mr. Knute Slatta, also of this city. Rev. E. Soliland officiated.

The dainty bride was beautifully gowned in a princess style white satin dress with lace insets, slightly entrain, long sleeves and sweetheart neckline. Her headress was of white satin styled in a lattice-work Juliet cap and bound with pearls from which fell a lacy fingertip veil. She wore satin ballerina slippers. Her colonial bouquet was of yellow roses. The bride wore a double strand of pearls, the gift of the groom. She was given in marriage by her father.

A yellow taffeta ballerina dress with overskirt of yellow net was chosen by Mrs. Betty Holkestad, sister of the bride, in her role as matron-of-honor. Her elbow-length gloves were of yellow lace. Yellow ballerina slippers completed the ensemble. She wore a transparent picture hat and carried a nosegay of pink carnations.

The bridesmaid, Miss Christine Currie, was gowned in a green taffeta ballerina dress with matching overskirt of net. Her elbow-length gloves were of green lace and she wore matching green satin ballerina slippers. Her headress was of pleated green taffeta with short matching veil. She carried a nosegay of yellow carnations.

The small flowergirls, MaryAnn Ritchie and Karen Forman, wore matching mauve ballerina dresses with overskirts of white net with matching mauve gloves. Their headresses were of mauve lace in crown shape with shoulder-length veils also of mauve. Bouquets were of varied carnations.

Best man was Charles Currie, Jr., of this city. Ushers were Sandy Hamilton and Jim Flaten. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Howard Lavigne sang a beautiful solo, "I'll Walk Beside You."

Following the ceremony about 200 guests were received in the navy canteen of HMCS Chatham by the mothers of the couple. The bride and groom stood under a flower-decked arch to receive congratulations from the assembled friends. The toast to the bride was given by Rev. E. Soliland and the groom responded suitably. The toast to the bridesmaids was given by Mr. Charles Currie. Mr. Jack Ritchie acted as M.C. Rev. Soliland read many telegrams from friends and relatives.

The mother of the bride was dressed in a Kelly green dress with hat to match and a corsage of pink rosebuds. Mrs. Slatta wore a black afternoon dress with black hat and a corsage of pink roses.

The hall was decorated in an Easter theme with yellow, green and mauve streamers. The bride's table held a beautiful three-tier wedding cake and was surrounded on two sides by white tapers and baskets of Easter flowers.

Mrs. Rothwell catered for the wedding and everyone enjoyed dancing to the music of Andy McNaughton at the piano. The bride and groom will take up residence on Eighth Avenue East. The bride is employed as nurse for Dr. Miller, local dentist, and the groom is a member of the Imperial Oil Co. staff.

Big Day for Monty-Twins

It was a big morning for Mike Montesano, mechanical superintendent for the Daily News, who was an hour late for work getting organized after an outstanding addition to the family. Twin brothers had arrived at the Prince Rupert General Hospital to be permanent company for Mr. and Mrs. Montesano and sister Lynn.

They and Mrs. Montesano are doing well and, of course, the whole popular pioneer family is receiving hearty congratulations on this doubly blessed event.

Dr. W. S. Kergin was the attending physician.

Grandparents Wed 70 Years

A near record marriage anniversary of the grandparents of Miss Margaret McLeod of Prince Rupert was held in Vancouver Easter week-end.

"How to be Happy. Each Mind Own Business Advise Pair Wed 70 Years" was the headline of the 70th wedding anniversary story of Mr. and Mrs. Finley Klingensmith appearing with a picture in a Vancouver newspaper.

The elderly couple are staying with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Murdoch McLeod, Miss McLeod's parents. There is one other daughter, Miss Ruth Klingensmith, also of Vancouver.

"My grandmother is a good manager," said Miss McLeod, one of the ten grandchildren.

"If a husband tends strictly to his business and a wife to hers, they'll get along," said Mrs. Klingensmith, granny to nine great-grandchildren.

The first 75 years of smoking won't hurt you. That's the encouraging word from Mr. Klingensmith, who has finally given up the habit. "But I smoked for 75 years first."

He enjoys an occasional glass of beer, and brandy, "but only medicinally you understand."

His wife has never developed a taste for either cigarettes or spirits.

Former Post Office Sold

Will be Used to House Chinese Cannery Workers

The old post office or Dominion building has changed hands. The property at the corner of Second Avenue and Seventh St., formerly part of the Black estate, is now owned by Mah Sing, Chinese labor contractor, of Vancouver.

John I. Fraser, cannery manager for Canadian Fish Company, said today Sing bought the building to house some 50 Chinese cannery workers which the company expects to hire this season.

Renovation is to begin as soon as permit is received from city council. It is expected cost of converting the building into living quarters will be "several thousand dollars," said Mr. Fraser.

Mah Sing is to arrive from Vancouver shortly and will be in charge of operations. The cannery workers are to be boarded as well as housed.

WA President At Kincolth

At the Naas River village of Kincolth on Tuesday evening of this week the Woman's Auxiliary of Christ's Church met to welcome their diocesan president, Mrs. J. B. Gibson, who was paying her first visit to their branch. The president, Mrs. Martha Stewart, opened the meeting with prayer and said how much they appreciated Mrs. Gibson having come all the way from Prince Rupert at this time of year to tell them of the founding and work of the W.A.

In Mrs. Gibson's address she mentioned that the Kincolth branch had for many years been the banner branch after it had been formed by the late Mrs. W. H. Collision very soon after the W. A. had been organized in the diocese of Caledonia in 1907.

After discussion the senior member, Mrs. Lucy Doolan, voiced the opinions of the meeting in a well worded speech which was later translated from Nishga into English by the secretary, Mrs. Eva Stewart. It was decided to have a box for their United Thank Offering, which monies would be used for missionary effort elsewhere.

Mrs. Mary Barton, in whose house the meeting was held, also spoke and the branch's Dorcas work was displayed by Mrs. Clara Stewart, showing that the Kincolth members of the W.A. were expert in the use of both sewing and knitting needles. Tasty refreshments of individual plates were served at ten o'clock.

Among those present were Mrs. Emma Nelson, Mrs. Dorothy Robinson, Mrs. Rose Trimble, Mrs. Myra Barton, Mrs. Flora Angus, Mrs. Lily Stevens, Mrs. Esie Doolan, Mrs. Laura Doolan, Mrs. Sarah Barton, Mrs. Fredelia Gurney, Mrs. Marion McKay, Mrs. Lucy Morgan and Mrs. Katie Clayton.

Japanese Dance For Red Cross

On Wednesday night people of Port Edward in large numbers viewed the beauty of the Orient when the Japanese members of the community staged a display of Japanese folk dances. The performance was organized in aid of the Red Cross.

They collected $200. The dancers, berobed in colorful silk gowns of their native land, were for the most part youngsters and teenagers who seemed to enjoy performing as much as the audience enjoyed watching them. Against a backdrop depicting Mount Fujiyama and artificial cherry trees, the boys and girls danced stories of new found love, lost love, sadness and happiness.

The sum of $200 was raised as a result of the affair which was under the direction of Mrs. Yoship Tanaka Jr.

The performance will be shown at the Civic Centre here next Saturday evening under Job's Daughters auspices.

Sgt. L. A. C. Potterton, officer commanding the Prince Rupert district RCMP detachment, left for Masset on the Chilcotin last night on official duties.

Jets Take Commanding Lead In Title Series

Kid Gavilan Turns Tables

NEW YORK (CP)—Cuba's Kid Gavilan signed for a welterweight title fight yesterday and celebrated last night by shipping Gene (Silent) Hairston in a ten-round action-packed ten-round Madison Square Garden.

Gavilan, a 7 to 5 favorite, was weighed 150 to 155½.

It was a doubly sweet triumph for the sleek Cuban Hawk who had avenged a split decision loss to the New York deaf mute in a previous fight in Philadelphia, five months ago.

Penticton Down Twenty Points On Series Opener

Local Stars

RAY SPRING

DON SCHERK

Prince Rupert Jets go into the second game of the B.C. Senior B championship series tonight with a 20-point lead by virtue of a smart win last night over the highly-rated Penticton Omegas.

In the first game of the series the Jets piled up a 66 to 46 score and, except for their nervousness in the first five minutes of the game, were the best team all the way.

The Jets were sparked by the brilliant playing of Don Scherk, Ray Spring and Art Olson. Scherk was sensational and his three breakaway baskets in the second half will not be forgotten in many a year. He scored 19 points as did Ray Spring, who was a ball of fire all evening. Spring scored five of six foul shots and was the fastest man on the floor in the first half.

Art Olson did a very effective job of holding Penticton's Chuck Raitt, who is a mere 6'4", down to 11 points.

It was the Jets' dominion of the play under the baskets that gave them the edge over the Omegas.

Joe Davis played smart ball, too, and every player on the team was in top form as Alex Bill's boys won their first playoff victory.

For the losers, Bill Raptis and Chuck Raitt were the two most effective players, although Cowboy Douglas also showed well as he came through with the top score of 13 points. Raptis, who played here a year ago with UBC, was not the player that he was at that time and seems to be packing around a little more weight which slows him down somewhat.

Raitt is a fine ball player, and it is to Art Olson's credit that he held him to 11 points, as he is a 20-point man on most occasions.

The referees had a busy evening and at all times kept the game well in hand without slowing up its terrific speed. Twenty-nine fouls were called on the Jets and 25 on Omegas by Referee Basil Sands of Vancouver and Empire Ole Slatta of Prince Rupert.

The Jets suffered the first casualty as they lost Flaten on five fouls just 10 seconds after the second half started. Before the game was over, Spring also went out on fouls, and for Penticton, Powell, McGannon and Raptis all left the game via the same route in the closing minutes of play.

It was a happy crowd that left the Civic Centre when the game was over and they should be back for more tonight. Certainly the Jets carry a big lead into the second game but Penticton can't be counted out. They have beaten the best teams in the south and tonight might upset the apple-cart although to find any Penticton money today will be a difficult task for any of the fans who wish to place a small wager.

Last night's performance was sparked by a very effective cheer team led by Bo-Me-Hi cheerleaders Leona Webster, Barbara Moore, Pat Hill and Rena Ingram.

The Job's Daughters provided entertainment during the half-time intermission as they presented one of their new military drills which was very effective. In a preliminary game the Booth 3 team came through with a win over Annunciation School by a 30 to 14 score to break a one-game apiece tie and to win the Ormes Drugs trophy.

Line-ups:
Penticton—Tidball 6, Raitt 11, Powell 4, McGannon 1, Douglas 13, Russell 4, Raptis 7, Moore, Burtart, Total—46.

Inspired By Beauty

While Prince Rupert Jets racked up points last night—two by two in lightning speed succession—to win over Penticton's Omegas by a lead of 20-odd, spectators were still further refreshed by the show of the best in this city's pulsehitude.

During short times out, cheerleaders tripped out on the floor to aid home-town enthusiasm for their team. With their "Yeah Jets!"—"Come on Jets," and similar cries they really worked up more audience admiration than response.

And at half-time of the game only a few left their seats for refreshments or a smoke. They stayed to watch with admiration the display of Job's Daughters' drill team, marching to the pipes of William MacKay. Thirty girls, in short plaid skirts of the Scottish uniform, showed just how a ceremonial drill must be performed to win outstanding international prizes as they have in the last two years.

To rounds of swelling applause the team was led by Majorette Margaret Giske through intricate formations of pin-wheels, diagonals and sharp-cut, precise right and left wheels.

The high-stepping fast pace must have been gruelling towards the end of their 15-minute performance without a rest, but there was never a falter and only a smile on each face as they stamped off the floor to thundering ovation and cries of "more, more!"

INSPIRED JETS
Perhaps all this inspiration had its desired effect on the Jets, for in the next few minutes of the game they doubled their lead over the visitors, from 12 to 25 points ahead. Half-time score was 17-29, for the Jets.

While in the beginning of the game there were mainly cheers for the Jets from the well-packed auditorium, the crowd's sportsmanship could not be held down and they cheered with enthusiasm as Penticton's Chuck Raitt or Bill Raptis smashed through the strong defence to score spectacular points.

Perhaps the greatest display of maneuverability was seen—if one was quick enough—when lanky Joe Davis would make his remarkable recoveries from heavy checking. At times his hips would nearly graze the floor, but always he came out of over-balance swiftly and gracefully.

Referring to the danger of democracy being swayed by the crowd, Rev. J. C. Jackson gave a thought-provoking sermon in First United Church last night. He said that the public have been known to persecute above-average citizens as they do below-average as exemplified in the lives of such men as Jesus, Paul and Bunyan. The Christian must be above the average, Mr. Jackson said.

Charles Graham, inspector of mines, and Provincial Constable F. H. Brooksbank returned to the city on the Catala last night. They have been investigating a fatal accident to Melvin Preston at Surf Inlet.

"It was an unforgettable sight," writes L. P. Douglas of the Royal Navy, in a letter to Col. J. W. Nicholas, of the British air raids. Mr. Douglas was employed here with the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co.

March 31, 1926
There is a report going that the Capitol Theatre Co. of Vancouver has purchased two lots on Third Avenue, near Fulton Street, with a view to building thereon, whenever the time may be thought opportune for a theatre.

Despite poor weather, the total halibut catch landed at Prince Rupert during the month of March was 3,159,700 pounds. This compares quite favorably with past catches.

The tax rate for 1926 was set at 44 mills at last night's city council meeting. General rate is 11, schools 12, and special 21, totalling 44.

The Montreal Maroons won the first Stanley Cup game, defeating the Victoria Cougars 3-0. The western champs, somewhat stiffened after their long journey east, hope to do better tonight. Anderson, of Victoria, suffered a fractured leg and dislocated hip.

High Rents, Crime, Domestic Infelicity And Then Tragedy

by Laurine G. Murdock

Let's take a scene in the home of a low salaried, high rent payer. Let's call him Mr. Problem. His rent, food, clothes, bus fare, union dues, etc., are more than his monthly salary so:

"Say, Mary, I brought home a couple of bottles of rye." He deposits a clinking package on the table.

"But, why, John, you know that, with the high rent and other things, we can't afford to drink?" She was dismayed. "You don't even drink. What are you up to?"

"Don't be too disturbed, my dear, other people do it," re-turned.

"John, you don't mean you've started to bootleg?" She was filled with consternation.

"Yes, dear, I'm afraid that's the only way we can make ends meet this month. With little Johnny having to have his teeth filled, we are short." He put a comforting arm around his thunderstruck wife.

"Has it come to that?" she answered. "Oh, if only the rent wasn't so high."

"We're over a barrel, Honey." He added, "oh, yes, the Drink-alots are having a party tonight and they don't think they will have enough to drink so I told him about the two bottles that I have and he said: 'Bring 'em over.'"

"What about the police?" asked Mary, very worried.

"Let Johnny take it over. The cops will never think for a minute that a little fellow like him would be carrying liquor."

So little Johnny who had been listening from a crack in the door runs enthusiastically out into the kitchen: "Sure, Daddy, I'll take it over."

The child seemed actually proud to do this dreadful mission. Kids are like that, though. Makes them feel a little more like Dick Tracy or The Lone Ranger. Danger holds its thrill for children, too, I guess.

WORSE AND WORSE
"Atta boy. Keep it under your hat now, no telling those school kids," the father warns. So Johnny delivers the liquor, he keeps it under his hat. He learned his lesson well. He'd make a dandy crook some day. He did all right, for awhile.

It wasn't until after he struck out from greener pastures graduating from selling "booze" to giving a guy a "fix" and selling large quantities of "dope" heroin, cocaine, just name it, Johnny had it. Yes, he had learned his lesson well. His own parents had taught him that there was an easier way to make a living than working.

Wondering where Johnny is now? Well, Johnny is either of three places. He's still loose with the police on his tail, (close), he may be in a "pen" and he may be dead. That happens sometimes when a greenhorn penetrates a "big shot's" territory. In my estimation he's better off dead. Wouldn't you rather ther have seen Johnny go through school, be a doctor or a lawyer or just buy his own boat and go fishing? He would have if his parents didn't have to pay such high rent.

So, dear friends and gentle people, I should have said, taxpayers and those who don't but those who do, isn't it about time that tax money was put to use in the right direction? After all what is more important than the young people who are growing up in our city today?

High rents are an element in the promotion of divorce, the separation of parents, the coralling of "mother-left and father-left" children into orphanages. It's an old adage and its still true—"Love files out the window when poverty enters the door." Crowded, hot, tiny suffocating rooms are no place to try to hold a marriage together. No relaxation for a weary husband coming home at night to find his wife bitter and frustrated due to a terrible day with the children trying to keep them quiet so Mr. Cantsleep can sleep. Finding no place where he can read, or sleep because of the children's noise, disgusted, he puts on his coat and hat and heads down town and you don't need a detective to know where he's going. He drowns his sorrows, disappointments, hopelessness in the many beers he drinks. Around two in the morning home comes Papa to a worried and irritated wife. His obstreperous manner is enough to tell her he's been spending the rent money on unnecessary things. He is thoroughly tongue lashed; result they wake the children, the children wake the neighbors, and so on.

This all goes to find Papa spending a good deal of his time in the beer parlors. Then there's that night Papa doesn't come home. Well, folks it's the end of something that started out OK. A very sad end! Mother has to go out and work and the children have to go to a home. All of which in my mind could have been prevented if our town or city was investigated as to its more sordid features.
