Governor General and Party Greeted by Large Crowd on Their Arrival in the City

In speech in reply to an address of welcome The Duke mentioned that the war was not yet won, but that there was need of unity of action to complete the work.

Nearly all the city turned out last evening to greet the Governor General and his party on their arrival from the east. The train pulled in promptly at 8:30 and as the visitors stepped from the car they were met by Mayor McClymont and three past mayors of the city, M. P. McCaffery, Fred Stork and S. M. Newton, and also by Judge Young, A. M. Manson, M.P.P., and Major McMullin and J. McGregor, V.C., and Inspector Ackland of the Mounted Police. The ladies were welcomed by Mrs. McClymont.

The returned men were drawn up at attention on the platform and after the party had been introduced to the members of the reception committee by H. McCall and George McNicholl, the former of whom had gone up the line to meet them, the Governor inspected the veterans and chatted with each for a few moments. Half an hour later a reception was held at the Exhibition Building at which Mayor McClymont presented the Governor with an address of welcome and Prince Rupert flowers were presented to the Duchess by little Margaret Stalker and to Lady Dorothy by Miss McMullin. The reception committee had seats on the platform and there was a large and enthusiastic crowd present.

His Excellency the Governor.

The Governor's Speech.
 In his reply to the address the Governor said:
 "As the representative of the King, I have the honor to thank you for the address presented to me. It will be my high privilege to inform His Majesty of these expressions of loyalty and devotion.

"The throne of the Empire stands today in a stronger position than ever before. When the war came to a close we saw the ancient dynasties of Europe come crashing to the ground, while perhaps the most notable feature throughout the Empire was the instantaneous and spontaneous expressions of devotion to His Majesty. In the metropolis, the people instinctively turned to Buckingham Palace and their one cry was 'we want King George,' and that one cry echoed throughout the Empire.

especially during the times when things looked blackest and when the outcome was far from certain I shall always remember that period of March, 1918, and the succeeding months. Today I come amongst you and we can look back with pride and satisfaction upon the victorious termination of the war.

Splendid Support.
 "I have had the privilege of meeting a number of those who have done so much for us and nobly done their part in the battles in France and Flanders. I was also glad to meet some of those who have taken part in the South African and other campaigns. As the representative of the King, I wish most sincerely to express my gratitude to them and my appreciation of the splendid work they have done. And their efforts would have been useless, however, had it not been for the splendid support which they received from those who performed had to remain at home, and from the women of Canada and their splendid part. As the outcome of the war, we will have to see never again will it be possible for such an outrage to be perpetrated.

"In the great conference in Paris, steps have been taken which we all trust will lead to such conditions throughout the world that never again will we have war. Armies may accomplish much, governments may accomplish much, but after all, the course of events is directed by the people and it is for everyone of us, individually to take our share and do our part in seeing and helping that peace be made permanent and lasting. Public opinion is the most potent factor of all those which govern human actions and it is to develop the growth of a sound public opinion that its influence can be brought to bear.

Glorious Scenery.
 "We have today travelled through the most glorious scenery it has ever been my privilege to witness. I have been able to see and hear something of the immense potential value in various industries, agriculture, timber, fishing, mining and many others with which you are all familiar. The opportunities and the assets which we possess are enormous, but after all none of these assets are of the slightest value unless the capacity of turning them to the best use and advantage. At this very moment the whole world is confronted with a condition of affairs never before known. For the best part of five years the best brains and intelligence have been solely employed for the purposes of destruction. While travelling, I was told that your spruce here was indispensable for the manufacture of aeroplanes, which were also used for destruction. We cannot afford any longer the further destruction of life, of material and of time. We must aim at construction and it is for every one of us to see in what direction we can best handle more work.

Not Permanent.
 "Expedients and palliatives cannot improve economic and social conditions permanently. There are only two ways to do it, by economising our resources and increasing production. We can all contribute in these directions and it is solely by economy and work that we shall be able to make up for these five years of destruction. If we realize what our duty is now, with the same foresight and discrimination as we realized what our duty was during the war, we shall be able to look forward to the future with equal confidence. Canada is essentially a country of faith. Her whole history stands for success. And although Canada's history may not be long in years, it is all in accomplishments as any in the world.

"We have difficult problems to face, but with the same spirit as was displayed during the war, we have no reason to dread the future.
 "I thank you again for your cordial reception and welcome which you have accorded to my wife and myself. It is a great pleasure to meet you. I can assure you I shall always look back with the liveliest satisfaction and pleasure upon this my first visit to your city and which I hope will be by no manner of means my last. I again thank you, Mr Mayor, for your address of welcome."

BRITISH COMPANY PROPOSES TO CARRY ORE BY AEROPLANE

(Special via G. T. P. Telegraphs.)
 Mazatlan, Sept. 27.—There is a proposal here to use aeroplanes for conveying supplies to the mines and carrying back the ore to the coast. Most of the mines here are located in the mountains from 30 to 300 miles from the coast and the cost of transportation on the backs of burros is very high, slow and uncertain. It is at present impossible to carry machinery to the mines weighing more than a few hundred pounds. By airplane several tons could be carried. There is a British Company ready to undertake the service provided landing places can be secured. That is the great difficulty but it is not considered insuperable.

FRISBIE

the friendly motor

Frisbie Motors give long, uninterrupted service with practically no repairs except occasional grinding of valves. Valves in cages, accessible in a few seconds. An "all muscle" construction throughout, every part designed for hard work. Overhead valves, opening directly into combustion chambers. No pockets or crevices to gather carbon, and waste fuel. This type of construction effects a gain of 15 to 20 per cent. more power than is possible with L or T-Head designs. Intake and exhaust manifolds are cast integral with the cylinder; miles ahead of the old, leaky, bolted-on manifolds. Large valves insure full charge on the intake and a complete, clean exhaust.

1 to 6 CYLINDERS—5 to 75 HORSEPOWER

Frisbie Motors are made in following sizes: 1-cyl., 5 and 7 H.P.; 2-cyl., 10 and 16 H.P.; 3 cyl., 18 and 25 H.P.; 4-cyl., 30 and 40 H.P.; 6-cyl., 50 and 75 H.P.—Bore and Stroke, 4 1/2" x 5" and 6" x 6". For work or play, the Frisbie will measure up to your hardest tests.

THIS IS LAST DAY FOR LIMERICKS IN PRIZE COMPETITION

Entries continue to come in for the limerick competition which closes this evening at six o'clock. Those wishing to send in contributions must do so at once. The verses will be published on Monday and the winner in all probability on Tuesday. The following are some of those recently submitted:

They may sneer, they may jeer
at the rain;
It is surely a great source of gain.

Both as water and ice
It brings a high price;
Eighteen hundred a barrel!
How insane!

The Fair.
The elements frowned on the Fair,
But just the same we folks
were there.

Those three days it rained—
Well—really it pained;
But then—what the deuce do
we care!

Not Wet.
A stranger from steamer just in Met Rupert girl drenched to the skin;
And asked, "Are you wet?"
Said she: "No not yet,"
And passed with a bad, little grin.

The Bear Hunter.
Oh, there was a man with a gun;
He got a big bear on the run;
The bear quickly turned,
The trail the man hurraed,
Crying wildly, "Oh, hunting's no fun!"

The Whistle.
Oh, I am so glad of the dock;
My reason may give you a shock;
Each morning and noon—
It's really a boon—
I set by its whistle my clock.

The Limerick Maker.
Ah me! my poor soul it is quaking;
I find no rest sleeping or waking;
Harassed all the time,
I'm seeking a rhyme.
Oh, spare me from limerick making!

The Mayor.
There was once a Mayor at the City Hall
Who would not stand for Su-
day baseball,
But he should stop hooting,
And go Sunday shooting,
Then the sporting vote he would get all.

Bold Profiteer.
There once was a bold profiteer
Who filled this town full of hot air,
With soft words of honey
He extracted our money
And now he lives free from all care.

The Duke.
There came to this town a great Duke (Who must have come here by some fluke),
He was feted and praised
And he said "I'm amazed
To see mountains wherever look."

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Bohler, of Kitsumkalum, who took so many prizes at the Prince Rupert Exhibition are showing a big display of agricultural products at the

Alice Arm, Sept. 27.—The Royal group of five claims and a fraction adjoining the Dolly Varden and the David Copperfield was bought today for cash by J. Miller of Prince Rupert, Charles E. Betts of Prince Rupert, and David Jas. Hancock of Alice Arm. This is the only property that has changed hands this year for cash without a bond.

The property consists of nearly 300 acres and is very valuable as it is located close to the Dolly Varden, and the David Copperfield. The consideration was large and the property warrants extensive development.

ENGLISHMEN VICTORIOUS

Win at Football Over the Callies by Score of Three to One. Sons of England 3, Callies 1.

that was the score in the final of the exhibition games played last night on the Athletic grounds. It was a great victory. The Sons may play a poor game occasionally against other teams, but they always give of their best against the Scots, and they did it last night. They played the dashing, swinging type of football which says better than the more methodical methods of the Scotsmen which are more adapted to velvet turf.

Playing down hill in the first half gave the Callies an advantage but the Englishmen crossed over with a lead of one goal, scoring from a breakaway by Percy Tinker. Bennett, the Callie centre, was too well marked to be effective and was a trifle wild in his shooting.

In the second half a penalty kick against Jim Currie was converted by Robinson, and Tinker added one more with a good shot which Clapperton stopped but did not clear. Bennett reduced the adverse majority with a good effort, but in spite of some good work by Tommy Black the whistle blew with England triumphant.

For the winners the outstanding players were Tinker, Robinson and Kelsey. Percy plays good football and always knows where the goal is. Robinson and Kelsey worked untiringly and for an old timer at the game the latter seemed the sprightliest man on the field.

The losers were rather off color. Their best men were probably Geordie Abbott at half, and Tom Black and Harry Foot forward.

A good crowd attended the game and got their reward in clean and exciting football. Geo. Russell refereed in an effective manner. The teams were:

Sons of England—Judge; Wearmouth and Darton; D. Robinson, Kelsey and Wells; Davis, Howe, Tinker, Robinson and Tabrum.

Callies—Clapperton; Currie and Murray; Black, Main, Bennett, Wiggins and Foot.

WAS DELIVERED BY AEROPLANE

Glasses for Passenger on Ship Sent From Seattle and Dropped Aboard Vessel.

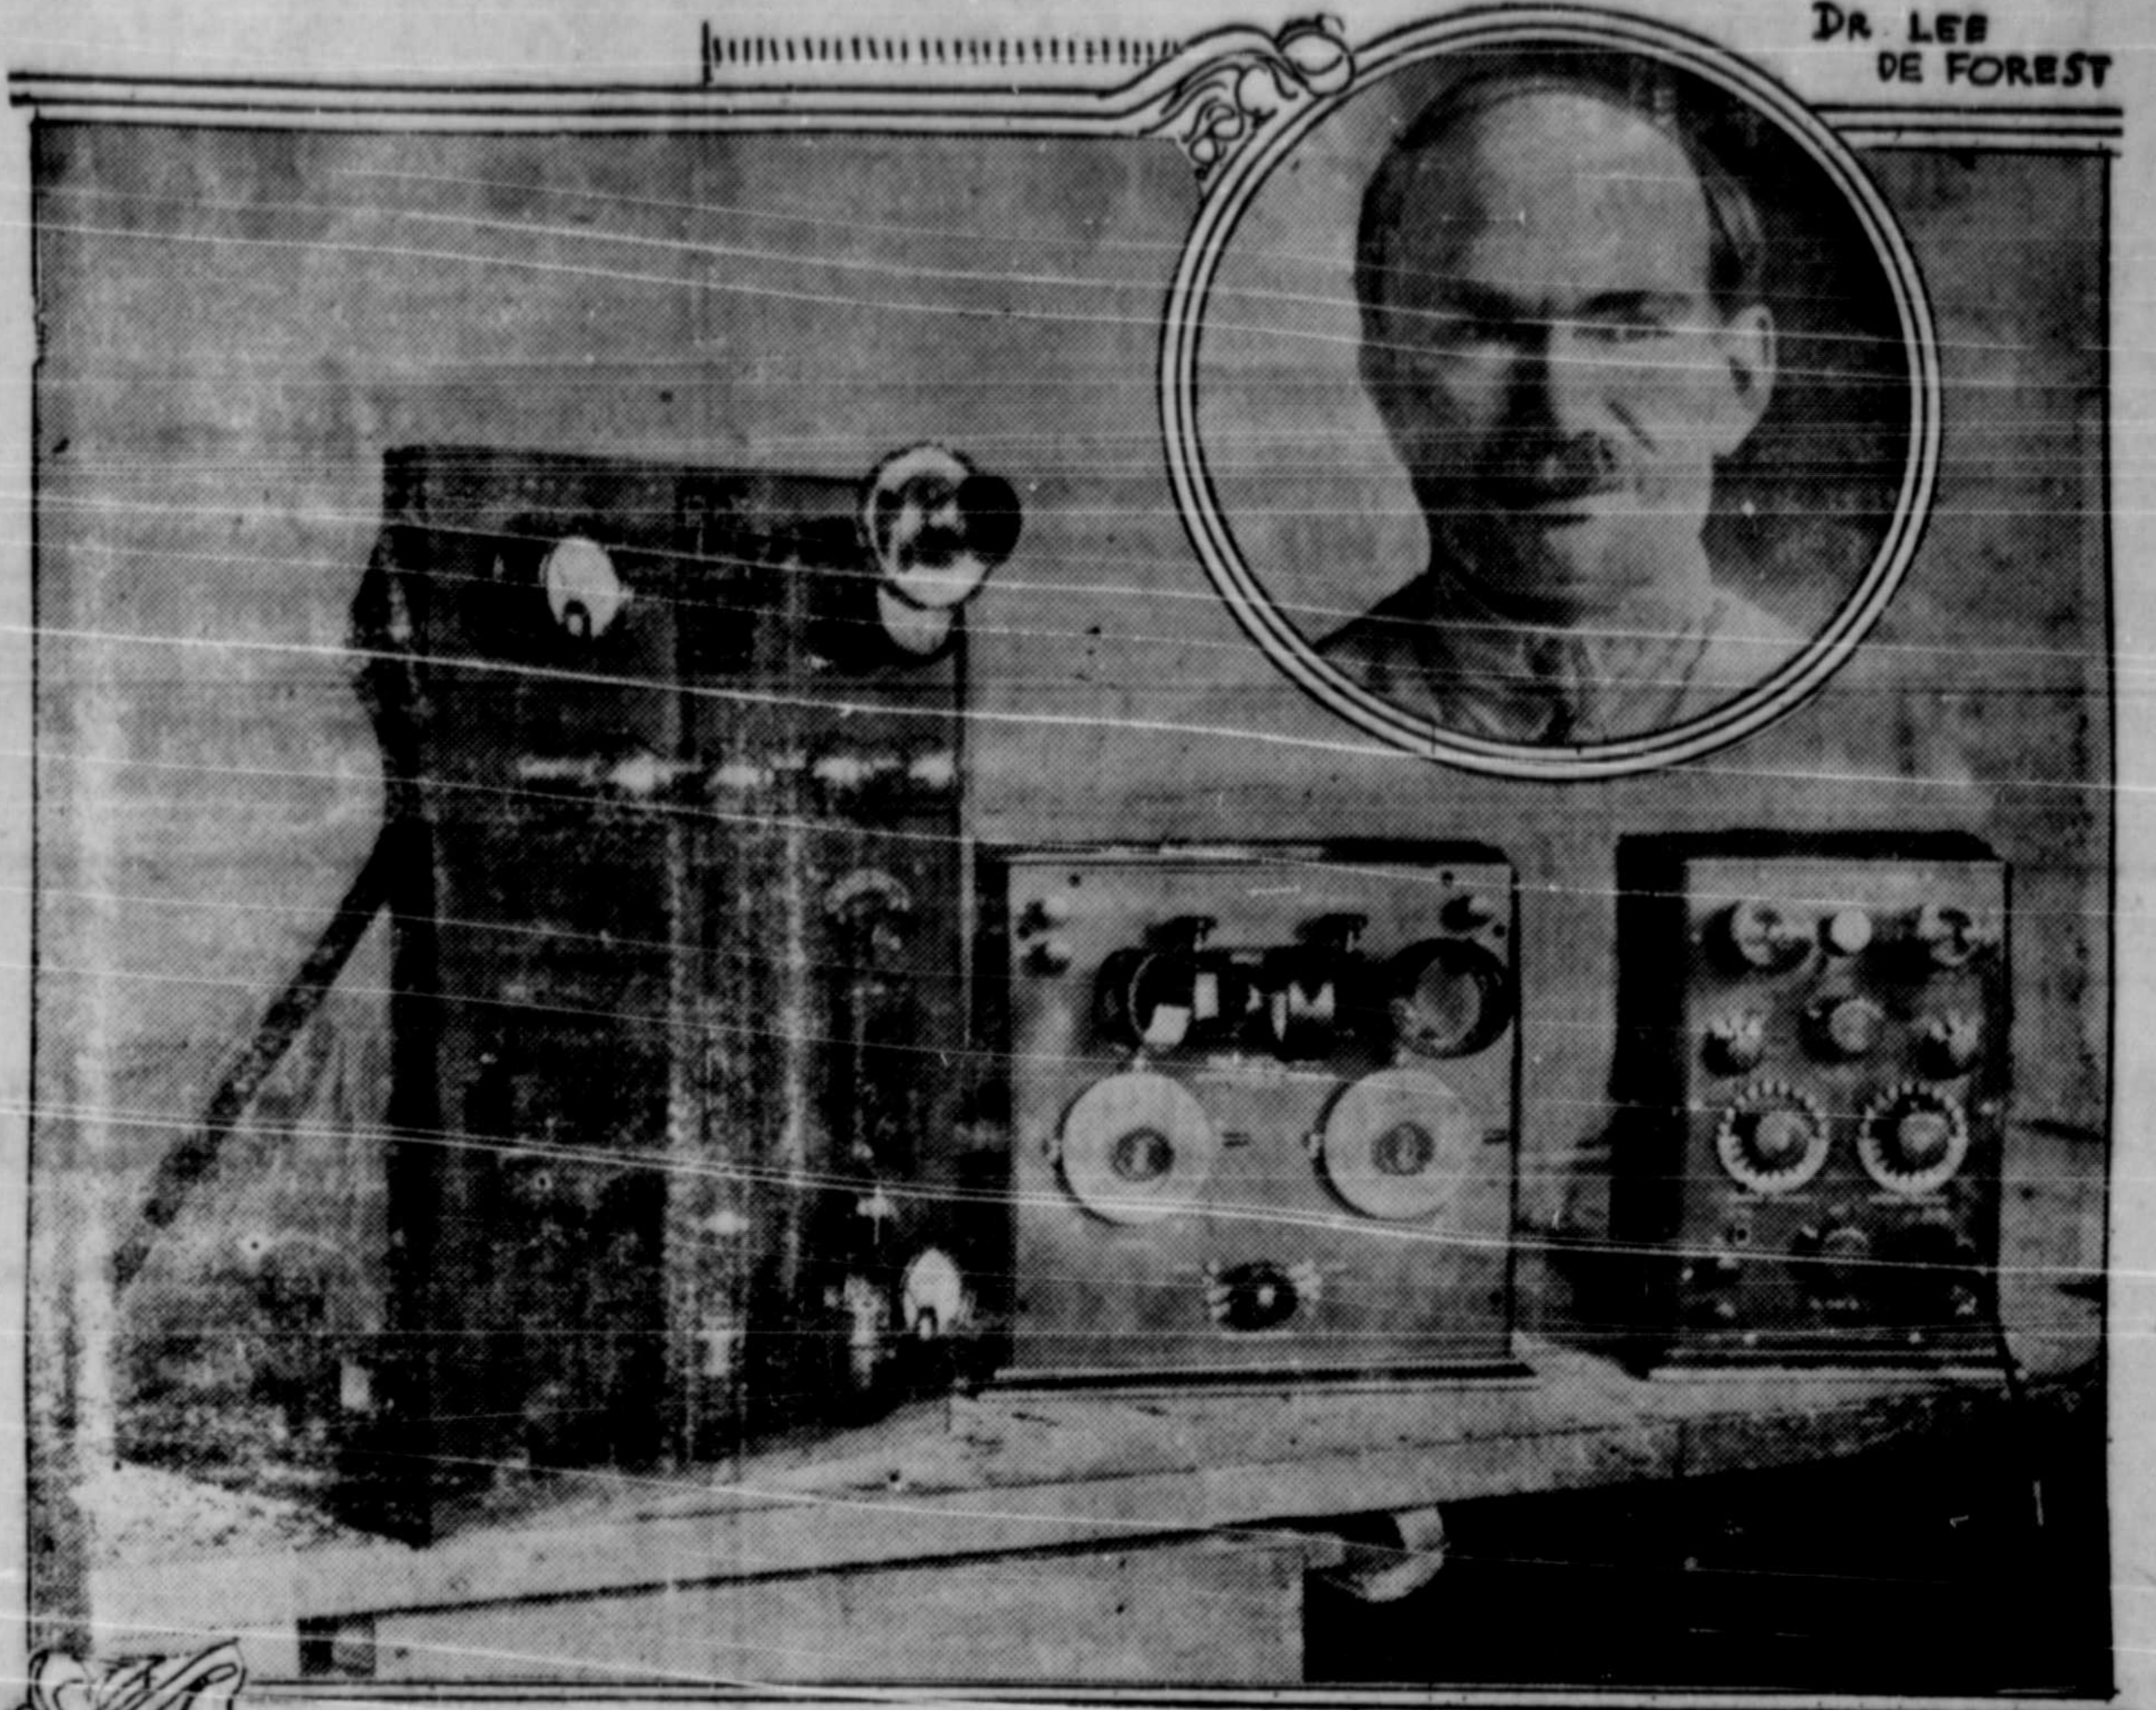

Victoria, Sept. 26.—In the excitement of departure from Seattle aboard the N. Y. K. liner Suwa Maru a well known lady of the Queen City had the misfortune to drop her glasses overboard and faced the prospect of considerable inconvenience during the trans-Pacific passage. The loss was noticed by the lady's friends on the dock and prompt steps were taken to replace the glasses by wiring the prescription to Victoria in the hope that the order could be filled before the Suwa's departure from this port on her outward trip to the Far East.

Within three hours the new glasses were available and were delivered at the Outer Docks as the liner drew alongside. It was then learned, however, that the prescription had also been filled at Seattle and dispatched to the outboard ship by seaplane.

Ship Overtaken.
The Boeing seaplane overhauled the Suwa Maru off Port Townsend and manoeuvred aloft to drop the package which had been carefully wrapped in several layers of cotton batten, on the deck of the liner. Expectantly the passengers aboard the ship watched the operations of the airman, who was doing his level best to bomb the liner.

Fished Out of Sea.
When dead overhead the weighted package was dropped, but evidently the speed of the ship was not truly calculated by the pilot of the seaplane, for the precious spectacles missed the objective and fell harmlessly into the sea. Not to be outdone, the air pilot circled around and, dropping a grappling hook, succeeded in picking up the floating package, and at the next attempt the eyeglasses were safely delivered aboard the ship. The opportunity was not overlooked by the movie operators of the Universal Film Company, who were travelling to the Orient aboard the Suwa Maru.

PIONEER INVENTOR PERFECTS SMALLEST WIRELESS 'PHONE

DR. LEE DE FOREST

THE COMPLETE OUTFIT—THE TUNING SET FOR LOCATING CALLS—THE RECEIVING SET

In a rather plain, barely furnished, cement floored office just to the right of his main laboratory at High Bridge, New York, Dr. Lee de Forest, pioneer worker for the perfection of wireless telephony, sits hourly before the smallest wireless telephone outfit ever made and converses freely with several different persons whose receivers have been tuned up properly. Although the walls of the laboratory are a labyrinth of wires that look like snarled worsted, not a wire runs out of the modern building in Sedgwick avenue. Dr. de Forest needs no wires to talk to his friends. This latest, the smallest wireless receiver and transmitter ever perfected, is the latest child of the de Forest proffle brain. It is his pet. It will be known, when it is ready to be commercialized, as the radiophone, and was made especially for use on ranches, farms and other places where wires are impractical. In this machine, for the first time, alternating current has been tamed enough to use in connection with wireless telephony. This in itself is considered by electricians and inventors as a wonderful achievement.

Governor's Party Sail in Harbor In Launch up Tuoks Inlet After Inspecting Seal Cove.

The party visiting the Prince Rupert Cannery with the Governor General arrived at Hull's wharf at 1 o'clock. They spent a very delightful morning on the harbor and visited the Prince Rupert Spruce Mills and the Cold Storage plant as well as the cannery. With the beautiful weather prevailing these places could not be seen to better advantage. Accompanying the Duke were the Duchess and Lady Dorothy Cavendish as well as members of the vice-regal staff. They all seemed delighted with their outing.

The trip was made on the Royal North West Mounted Police launch, the Chackawana.

SAVE YOUR SIGHT

EYESIGHT—The most valuable of all the senses—is the most neglected and the least understood. Many suffer from it, which, upon examination, can be traced directly to defective eyesight.

The removal of the cause will often restore the delicate and run-down sufferer to robust health. When glasses are properly prescribed, they restore the vision to normal and eliminate all eye strain.
