New Edmonton Chemical Plant is Taking Shape

EDMONTON (CP)—A huge new chemical industry is taking shape in Edmonton as an offshoot of Alberta's wealth of oil and natural gas. Important chemicals not at present produced in Canada will be manufactured out of by-products from the nearby refineries. Wood pulp from British Columbia will be processed into yarn and staple fibre.

Columbia Cellulose May Enter Into New Fields

ANNOUNCES EXPANSION — Harold Blanche says Columbia Cellulose to branch out.

Harold Blanche Forecasts Expansion in Speech at Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Expansion of the Canadian activities of both Columbia Cellulose Co. Ltd. at Prince Rupert and Canadian Chemical Co. Ltd. at Edmonton was indicated today by Harold Blanche, president of the Celanese Corporation of America, parent company of the two Canadian subsidiaries.

Addressing the Empire Club here, Blanche said existence of Columbia Cellulose makes it possible for the organization to enter fields of other cellulose and wood products by means of full and economic use of forest reserves in licensed areas.

"It may well prove desirable to erect facilities to produce pulp products such as kraft and newsprint in addition to high alpha and rayon grade pulp. It would seem logical to produce saw-lumber products as well as plywood and shingles."

Mr. Blanche did not indicate where future expansions would take place. Columbia's plant at Prince Rupert has already increased its production, Mr. Blanche said.

The Daily News will not be published on Monday, nor will any other newspapers in British Columbia.

Next Monday, November 12, will be generally observed as Remembrance Day in Prince Rupert although Sunday is the actual anniversary of the World War I armistice. The Canadian Legion's cenotaph service will be held on Sunday morning but the annual Armistice Day banquet will be Monday evening.

Local stores, in line with the rest of the province, will be closed on Monday and practically all offices are expected to follow suit.

Sea Yields Two Bodies

Two badly decomposed bodies, discovered a day apart in different localities, are awaiting identification, police said today.

Yesterday, crew members of Princess Louise discovered a body floating face down near the prow of the ship at dock. Decomposed beyond recognition, police say, however, that parts of clothing are identifiable. One shoe appears to be an oxford-type saddle with a buckle top. Blue or black denim pants and blue cardigan sweater were worn.

The second body was found Tuesday. Port Edward police were notified by a native who discovered it on the Skeena River shoreline between Sunny-side and Cassiar. Coroner's inquest will be held this afternoon at B.C. Undertakers.

Better Deal For Vets

Social Credit Takes Up Cudgels—Want of Confidence Motion Rejected

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government was urged Wednesday to act at this session to increase war veterans' allowances.

Victor Quelch (Social Credit, Acadia, Alberta) and Percy Wright (CCF, Melfort), both veterans, made the request during the throne speech debate in the House of Commons. Both supported a Canadian Legion request that the basic monthly allowance be increased to $50 from $40 for single veterans and to $100 from $70 for married.

Quelch moved a motion of non-confidence in the government. It will likely be voted on next week.

Meantime, the Commons voted 160 to 19 against a CCF motion calling for use of price controls and subsidies to reduce living costs and to "equalize sacrifices which people are asked to make at this time."

The motion was technically one of non-confidence in the government. It was supported only by the CCF and some Social Credit and independent members including J. L. Gibson of Comox-Alberni.

Toughening Up Missionaries

SALMON ARM, B.C. (CP)—A "boot camp" for toughening missionaries for work in the jungles has been set up here by the New Tribes Mission.

Thirty-two members of the mission—24 Canadians and eight Americans—are preparing for work in Thailand jungles.

Under Camp Councillor Roy Larsen they are learning everything from carpentry to cooking. The 13 women in the party are learning to saw planks and pound a nail.

The group, non-denominational and representing 15 churches, takes its religious training from "Rusty" Walters, ex-furniture factory worker from Los Angeles.

The camp is on 117 acres of heavily forested land. Founded by Paul Fleming, former missionary in Malaya, headquarters of the mission are in Chico, Calif. Mrs. Fleming and 23 members of the mission were killed in an airplane accident last year.

Haines Road Now Closed

JUNEAU (CP)—The Haines cut-off road, which joins the town of Haines to the Alaska Highway, is now closed to traffic, it was announced today.

The Canadian government has put a gate across the entrance to the Canadian section.

The territory will keep the road open to Mile 32, however, to facilitate an earlier opening of the whole road in the spring.

Others are propylene glycol, used as a cooling agent in liquid-cooled aircraft engines, and di-propylene glycol, used in printing inks, textile processing and in specialty oils and greases.

Fuel for heating and generating power for the huge plant will come from Alberta's natural gas well.

No details of the CIL project have been announced. The company has taken a five-month option on a 300-acre site one mile east of the city. Dr. J. H. Shipley, development manager, and Dr. H. G. Little, chemical department manager, both of Montreal, declined to comment on the company's plans when in the city last week.

Cloudiness is expected to persist in almost all regions of the province with considerable shower activity especially along the coast. Another disturbance now developing in the Pacific will reach the coast about midday tomorrow.

Public Should Be Told

LATE last week a delegation from Ootsa Lake, here to see the government, made public the settlers' protests against offers of compensation received from Alcan interests for homes and holdings which will be flooded in the company's B.C. hydro development. Members of the delegation said they consider the offers too low. They feel that they are being unfairly treated in the present negotiations, and they are not convinced that an arbitration hearing would bring them justice.

The public of British Columbia is in no position to judge the merits of their case. The public knows little if anything about it. The public has been given as little information on that question as it has on several other matters concerning the change in the country's topography which will result from damming rivers, flooding a large area of the interior, and diverting the water through a mountain tunnel to a new outlet.

British Columbians appreciate the value of a half-billion-dollar aluminum industry, the payrolls it will bring this province; the new wealth and the new development.

They would still like to know what the project is going to do to Tweedsmuir Park. They would like to know if the flooding is going to leave that territory's beautiful lakeland a cemetery of marginal dead trees. They would like to know what has been done to salvage the timber that will be inundated if it is not harvested. And they would like to know whether or not the settlers of Ootsa—Canadian citizens who pioneered a rugged country—are being pushed around.

Preliminary inquiries made by this newspaper last year indicated that the great Alcan project could be undertaken without substantial loss to British Columbia either in fisheries, park beauty or water use. The clear implication was that the province could acquire a huge new industry at a minimum cost in injury to other industries or other resources. Nothing has been said officially to contradict that impression. Nothing, in fact, has been said recently.

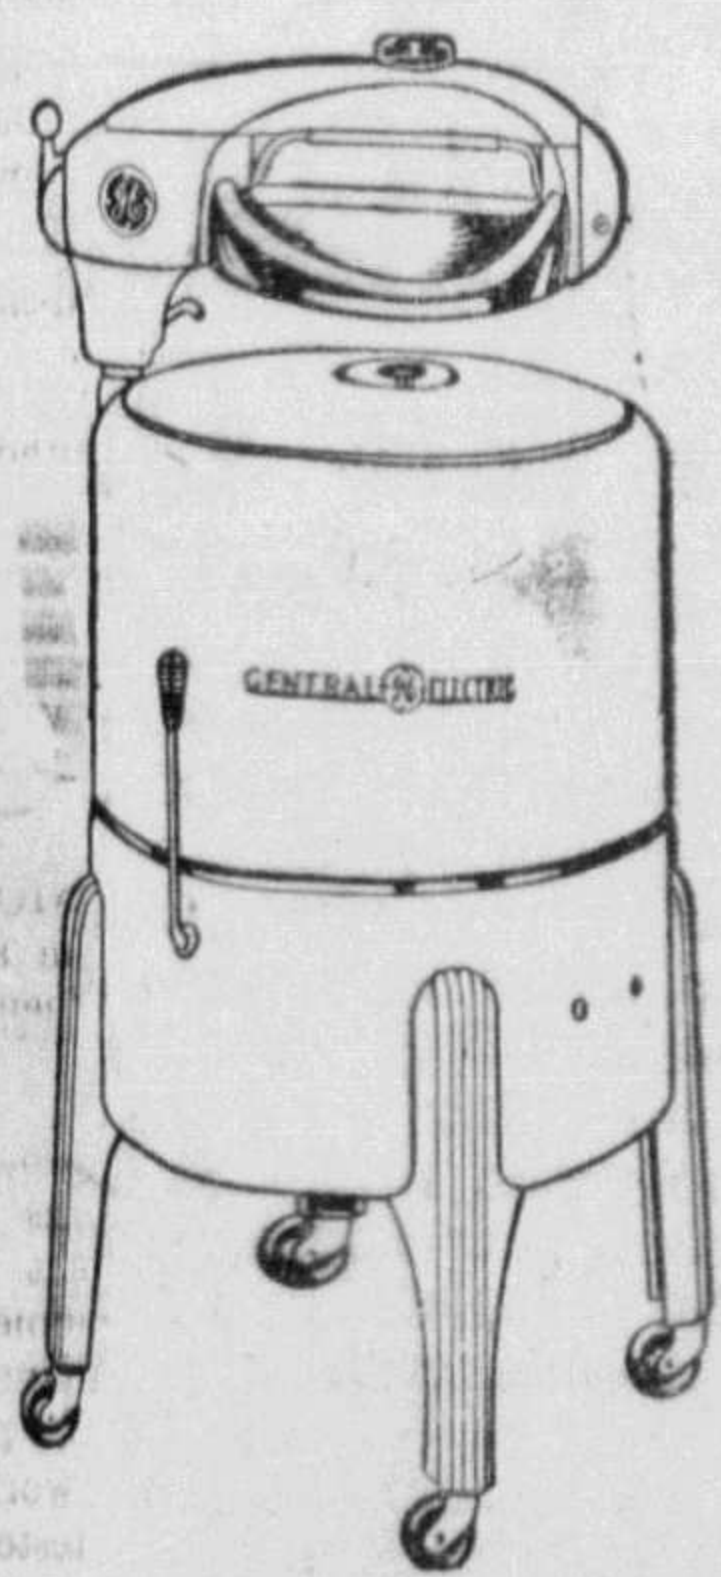

The complaints of Ootsa settlers serve as a reminder of other questions that have been asked and have not been answered. The people of British Columbia would appreciate word from their elected representatives on these different points. Surely they are entitled to that information.—Victoria Times.

FOUR OLD GUY

Monday saw another anniversary of Guy Fawkes Day. Guy, as you know, managed to wangle 35 barrels of gun powder where-with to blow up the British Parliament. This was ever so long ago. Fawkes, of course, failed. Just what his main kick was we haven't the faintest notion but doubt if it could have been the high cost of living, inflation, housing shortage or even what to do concerning margarine.

Churchill announces he is cutting the size of his cabinet down to sixteen. Ottawa, however, requires twenty. As for British Columbia, nothing less than eleven is considered essential. Then, counting Yukon, Canada has nine more sets of governments. Nor does all this include the number of small fry office holders, the payment of whom must also come out the taxpayers.

RATS-AND CATS

Editor,
Daily News,
How appalling it is to read of the tremendous destruction wreaked by the almost unchecked rat population here in Prince Rupert. Not only do they damage marketable goods but, most important, they constitute a real health hazard. The amount of foodstuffs actually eaten by the rodents is almost negligible in proportion to what they foul.

This certainly calls for the utmost in planned action. It is most commendable that the health authorities, as well as civic authorities, have set up a special committee to delve into methods most effective to rid us of this bane.

The three points already established are all excellent in controlling rats, but are self-limiting, as they do not begin to attack the rat in either home or warehouse. Poison is not too effective around the home, as only too often our dwellings are made most unpleasant by the self-burial of stricken rats in inaccessible places.

It does strike me that we have too long overlooked one of nature's most effective controls by not encouraging cats! Now our feline fellows may not be everyone's idea of a companion but, rest assured, he is one of the best rat traps.

It has been proven that the domestic cat hunts best not when forced to do so to exist, but from the compulsive instinct to destroy his natural prey in the balance of nature.

The average householder could very easily discourage rats by simply keeping a cat. I do not imply by this that he must be made into a pet. In our mild climate, all the animal needs is some form of shelter and to be fed fairly adequately.

For a warehouse operator, it entails a degree more planning. Each floor would require its individual hunter who should be provided with food and fresh water constantly. The cat tribe is usually very fastidious, so some provision must be made for sanitary purposes. Usually a box of sand suffices. No doubt this will prove to be a controversial suggestion.

Those Opinion Polls

PORT ARTHUR.—In the restaurant of the House of Commons the other day some MP's came over and congratulated me for calling the shot so closely in the British election.

Well, we can't always be wrong and this time I happened to hit pretty near the bullseye.

I confess I went out on a limb deliberately because I thought this was a good chance to help debunk those public opinion polls. They are useful but not infallible.

NONE of the opinion polls which I saw recorded in Britain came within a mile of the actual result—for all of them showed the Conservatives leading Labor by a margin of several per cent.

The actual result, as we all now know, was that Labor led the Conservatives in the total votes, even though the Tories did win the most seats.

Some professors were even further off the beam than the routine polls. They had worked out a fantastic formula which, they claimed, would give in advance the exact number of seats by which the winning party would win in a two-way fight.

They said:
Find the ratio between party A and party B and then raise that ratio to the third power. That is, "Cube it." The answer you get will be the number of seats by which the leading party will win. They cited several examples to prove it—applying the formula to past elections.

FOR THE benefit of old timers like me who either never could do this "cube it" stuff or else have forgotten how—get your high school sons to do it.

Better still, get your high school daughters to do it—for my observation is they are more likely to have the right answers than the sons.

But don't do it expecting to get some magic key to the right answers. For the English professors with their "cube it" formula were even further off the beam than Gallup and Co. The official figures show these totals:

DAILY NEWS CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS BRING RESULTS

Labor 13,911,582
Conservative 13,721,345
Under the professors' cube-the-ratio formula you would do this:
48.72 X 48.72 X 48.72
48.05 X 48.05 X 48.05
The answer to the above is the number of seats by which Labor should have beaten the Tories, by the professors' formula. Actually, the Tories beat Labor, in seats.

I BELIEVE that opinion polls can and do serve a very useful purpose. But I also believe it is all to the good that people have learned, once again, that you just can't know the answers in advance, even if you hire thousands of people to go around asking.

In Britain the opinion pollsters listed Conservative, Labor, Liberal and then about 10 per cent "don't know."

Next time they would be wiser to list the last-named as "won't tell."

Obviously in Britain many people just would not tell the professional poll takers. So the results were as far off the beam as they were when Truman beat Dewey—and almost as wrong as they were recently in Australia where the polls predicted a large majority in the referendum to outlaw the Communist party. There the vote went heavily the other way.

through, will employ at least 500 persons. All are so close that most workers could choose to live in Edson. With wives and families they might double Edson's population within five years.

"Just imagine the headaches that would bring," says Mayor Kankewitt, retired former owner of an Edson department store.

"I hope the expansion doesn't happen all at once, as it did in Edmonton. Town finances never would keep pace.

"ON TOP OF THE WORLD"

"Right now we're on top of the world. The city's power plant gives us the revenue we need to pay for our new sewer system and water extension. But where would we get the money—without crippling ourselves—to give public services to twice our present population?

"So far our progress has been steady. The town supports only three unemployed. There's work for everyone."

Edson, 100-odd miles west of Edmonton, is mainly a railway town, divisional point on the CNR. Logging is its next industry. Only in recent years has the surrounding grey top soil been found ideal for some forms of agriculture, particularly growing seed potatoes.

The town spreads northward from the railway yards some 14 blocks. Its low business premises mostly skirt a street ending at the railway station—hopelessly numbered 50th Street though the town extends less than a dozen blocks each side. In the last year new building has been mostly houses.

Edson serves a trading area of 8,000 population, including the coal branch to the southwest where much of Alberta's coal production centres. It lies on the main Edmonton-to-Jasper highway, which would be on the Yellowhead route to the Pacific Coast if the Trans-Canada highway should be routed by the north.

"That's where we'd like to be—on the Trans-Canada highway," says Mayor Kankewitt, first elected mayor only 3½ years after he arrived in Edson. "But what headaches it would cause us!"

Civic Centre Membership Drive Commencing Friday

A new plan for the solicitation of annual memberships in the Prince Rupert Civic Centre has been adopted this year. This week-end, pupils of Booth Memorial High School will start the canvass which will take the form of an interhouse competition—Alpha, Beta, Gamma and Delta teams vying for the honor of obtaining the greatest number of memberships.

Two hundred of the students realized by Principal A. M. Hurst and his staff, will concentrate upon house memberships and are resolved on doing a thorough and prompt job from one end of the city to another. They are hoping that they will find the citizens enlightened on the benefits and functions of the Civic Centre and ready to put up their cash at once.

"We budget for a $5000 deficit on the year's operations," said Civic Centre Director John Stirm. "Memberships should take care of that deficit. And we could easily accommodate 2000 more members than we now have."

Last year 1800 Civic Centre memberships were taken out. The objective this year of Joe Scott, who has assumed the responsibility of chairman of the entertainment committee, is to get 2500.

While the family canvass is on, companies, organizations and individuals are also being asked to be prompt and generous with their patronage subscriptions.

Game Records on West Coast Possible

Hunters in this area have the best chance of any North America to come in or special attention—ment-wide publicity. That is, ever since it has discovered that the west coast of British Columbia is practically the only area in which Columbia black-tail deer are pure-bred.

That is the prime factor brought Mr. and Mrs. Fitz all the way from Rupert and on Queen's Island. They are looking for records and the Islands and sections of the West Coast hold many a record-breaking "coast" deer. Mr. Fitz, an executive member of the Boone and Crockett Club of New York, is sponsoring a big game reference book, is interested in anyone who may have a "big head."

Fitz in private business as a graphic illustrator for advertising agencies, is America's greatest big game hunter when on holidays. One of his trips he is accompanied by his wife, a nimrod and a prospector.

They are waiting in the hotel room on the Prince of Wales, the couple were enthusiastic over their holiday here. They have never anywhere met so cooperative people. They wanted to help.

In the Boone and Crockett Club annual big game competition, which offers two prizes for the largest and finest head in each class, a new standard for measuring heads has been adopted. Mr. Fitz was one of the first exponents of the new method which is based on an average measurement of both horns.

A record-sized bear, the measurement, which holds any water in the record system, is measured, e.i., from the front teeth to the eye socket. One thing has saddened the Fitzes. "It is the way the deer are hunted on the island. We are told that some people practice on the deer all summer and winter, and that anyone can get away with shooting as many of them as they like."

The Islands are ideal spots for deer, says Mr. Fitz, for there are no natural enemies, such as wolves, coyotes or cougar. And deer should be hunted to keep the numbers from breeding too much, he maintains. "But such indiscriminate killing as we noticed can only end in one thing—complete extinction."

He thinks a lot of B.C. game. For many of the finest records came from this area. From Smithers area, a goat head won the more Hill Trophy for the all-round head of the year. From the Musqua River comes the prize head of a sheep and from the same and in the Prophet River a Canadian Moose have set record growth.

REASON is the way Mr. Fitz explains why the B.C. west coast STEAMER Prince George SAILS FOR Vancouver and Intermediate Ports Each Thursday at 11:15 p.m. For KETCHIKAN WEDNESDAY MIDNIGHT. For Reservations Write or Call CITY OR DEPOT OFFICE PRINCE RUPERT, B.C.

Anyone interested in establishing a record for his trophy should contact her, says Mrs. Fitz, for she is secretary of the Boone and Crockett Club. Dodgers Now Baseball and Losing Money Trust Laws

WASHINGTON, D.C. (C) — Chairman Celler (Democrat, New York) of the House monopoly committee yesterday released figures showing that Brooklyn Dodgers earned profits of more than $2,364,500 from 1945 through 1949.

Celler's committee is investigating organized baseball to find out whether it is operating in violation of the anti-trust law.

A Brooklyn spokesman said he thought it was appropriate to release Dodgers' figures now since the owner, Walter O'Malley, announced recently that the club lost $229,318 in 1950.

Ferry Cut up

By EVANGELINE VANN

Prince Rupert

ANCOIS LAKE — The old Burns Lake ferry is being cut up and shipped out. Quite a party here! In wind and rain, the lake has been back and forth for twenty-years just as sound as she was when made in Prince Rupert. Jim Love of the Victoria Machinery Depot, who is superintending the operations. "I came out from John Brown's shipyard, Glasgow, in 1942," volunteered Jim.

"She is going to be cut into six sections, the whole ship weighs sixty-eight tons. This piece which is being cut off now, weighs six tons, and the next piece 6½ tons. She will be pulled farther up the ways as we cut her. Then she will be loaded onto low bed trailers for Burns Lake, and then onto flat cars by rail to Chase, where she will be used as a ferry on Shuswap Lake, after being welded together.

She will have a new steel deck, wooden saloon house, new wheel house, and twin screw Chrysler engine.

Young Prince George Farmer Awarded Trip

Selected to attend the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair in Toronto, Nov. 13-21, to compete as British Columbia candidate for the T. Eaton Company Scholarship, which will send the winner to agricultural college for a four-year course, is Keith D. Johnston, of Prince George. Winner of the scholarship will be selected the first day of the fair by a panel of six judges. Johnston, who has been farming since he graduated from high school, has elected to enroll at the University of Saskatchewan, if he wins. Son of a Prince George farmer, the 21-year-old candidate has been active in calf clubs since 1943 and has twice been a member of the local team selected to compete in finals. While in Toronto, the candidates will tour the fair, attend dinners as guests of the Royal and Eaton's, see the Santa Claus parade, a hockey game and tour local industries.

Burns Lake Smallest Public Park

By EVANGELINE VANN

Ranger Island Testimonial To Youthful Ingenuity And Industry

The character of the kaleidoscope is its unpredictability. Turn it, and it changes from the cold, geometrical design of commercial enterprise, beautiful in its way, to something warmer, if more elusive, the fruit of youthful ideals.

The smallest public park in Canada, an island of an acre, one mile down the lake from the village of Burns Lake, is the result of the work of a Young Ranger Band, who took possession of the island. The clearing, beautification, and protection of the forest and wild life were the aims of the Young Ranger boys and girls, under the guidance of Walter Wilson, former Forest Ranger here, who took me out to the island in his canoe.

The day was frosty, and sunny. The look-out on the hill glittered in the sun. The red of the buckbrush vied in brilliance with the stems of the rose bushes. A flight of mallard passed overhead. A "butterball" swam ahead, as we chug-chugged down the lake. The dark green spruce, whose cones glowed warmly red, showed up amidst the olive green of the leafless (Continued on page 8)

By this time feeling lost soul myself and very cold, until rescued by truck driver. On entry to Burns Lake found road strewn with hazards, and progress like obstacle race. Children had taken over, the fire bell clanged, soap for windows demanded "treats," or else—. The curfew walls, treats and tricks are over, good will triumphs over evil, and all is well.

BURNS LAKE SMALLEST

...solars, and now and again a low green willow appeared by the side of the shining railway track.

We encircled the island until we could see the cabin with Y.R. on the front. While landing I could see that a path had been made all round the island and that the trees, birch, poplar, spruce, alder, and willow were now about fifty feet high.

"Old timers know about this," said Walter, as we walked towards the cabin. "A year before I came here, Bill Saunders of Palling had started a Young Ranger Band in 1929, after the youngsters there had turned out on their own to put out a forest fire there. I liked the idea, and Mrs. Wilson and I started a group of Young Ranger boys and girls here in 1930, and when we started to clear the island the trees were lying ten to fifteen feet deep after a disastrous fire. Some of the trees were two feet in diameter. We worked evening after evening, and at the week-ends clearing and burning, and it was finally cleared in 1932."

"How about this lovely cabin?" I asked.

"The young people thought they would like a club-house," Walter went on. "So we cut logs from the mainland and a half mile down the lake, the Young Rangers loaded the sleighs and from the ice two of Palling's Young Rangers brought teams and hauled the logs up to the building site. I thought it best that the building should be permanent, and so money was raised, and the two best cabin-builders in the district built it, on rock foundations which extend to the rock of the island."

"When Canon Hinchcliffe, then Minister of Education, was initiated into the Young Rangers' secret society, he wanted to know what he could do to help along this fine ideal, and I suggested that the island be made a public park dedicated to the use of the Young Rangers, as long as they existed as an organized band, and this was done. Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada, formally opened and dedicated the island and clubhouse in 1935, when he and his company, and many others now in many parts of the world were initiated into the society. Mrs. Wilson and I held camps on the island for four years, and the Forestry Branch put up sufficient money to run the camps afterwards for some years."

As we entered the cabin, Walter remarked: "This door has never been locked. All visitors are welcome, and the motto on the wall, 'Let no one say, and say it to your shame, that all was beauty here until you came,' has undoubtedly helped to protect the cabin and island. Hundreds of people have enjoyed the land, and in winter, knowing that they would find shelter and wood ready cut, they have made a fire, and left as much as found, 'the law of the woods.'"

Boys and girls from the Queen Charlotte Islands to McBride attended these Young Ranger camps, and undoubtedly did a great deal to change the whole tenor of thought as to the value of the forests, getting the idea and ideal over to the older people. Prior to 1930 the cost of fighting forest fires had been over forty thousand dollars annually, with a tremendous loss of valuable timber. In the following five years, in this district, the cost of fire fighting was less than five hundred dollars, with no loss of valuable timber.

Totem Shows Baseball Film

"Angels in the Outfield," coming to the Totem Theatre this Friday and Saturday, is a comedy laid against the thrills and excitement of big league baseball. It is also the story of a man whose faith in life and affection for people is renewed in a mysterious way.

Paul Douglas plays the part of a tough, surly browbeating manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates whose ungovernable temper and use of invective serve only to bring about a loss of morale to his team with resulting loss of games. Then three influences enter his life and leave their mark not only upon his person but upon the fortunes of the team. First of the influences is Janet Leigh, a girl newspaper reporter who is sent to get a story from the women's angle. Second is an eight-year-old girl from an orphanage. Third is the voice of an angel which informs Douglas that he will have celestial help. How these influences get under his hard exterior leads up to an exhilarating and gratifying climax.
