CHURCHILL SEEKS ATOMIC SECRETS

City Surplus In Past Year

Prince Rupert's 1951 city council will be able to start off with a "clean slate" and with excess revenue in its coffers. Finance Chairman Ald. T. B. Black told the last meeting of the old council last night that estimates show "anticipated excess" of revenue over expenditure.

He said this was due to under-expenditure by the waterworks department and more revenue than was estimated from police fines, long distance telephone commissions and social assistance grants.

All revenue accounts were up to estimates or slightly over, he said.

In expenditure, the board of works was over the estimate, including the $33,000 gravel purchase. Also over-spent were the police department, fire department, health, sanitation, hospital and social assistance branches. All other departments were well within their estimated expenditures for the year.

"I don't think the new finance committee should have much trouble and I don't think they should have to go to the bank to borrow money as we have in the past," Ald. Black said.

He gave a vote of thanks to his committee and all city personnel with whom he worked. He said City Clerk R. W. Long and his associates had been especially co-operative and helpful. Ald. Black retires from city council this year.

Moose and Caribou Scarce As Wolves Prey on Usual Meat of Cassiar Trappers

TELEGRAPH CREEK (Special to Daily News)—Surrounded a few days ago by a band of wolves while on their trapline on the Teslin River, Benny Frank and Henry Quock succeeded in killing five grey wolves weighing 120 pounds each.

Trappers are in a tough spot due to lack of meat in the Nahlin district where wolves are decimating moose and caribou. The Allwood family, including four children, is said to be facing starvation at 17-Mile Lake, 78 miles north of Telegraph Creek, due to lack of wild game.

Grizzlies, due to the open winter season so far, are still fishing for cohoes on the spawning grounds.

Three for President

PHILADELPHIA (CP)—Harold E. Stassen Thursday night announced that he will seek the 1952 Republican nomination for President of the United States. He is the third Republican aspirant for the nation's highest post.

Previously Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Governor Earl Warren of California announced their candidacies.

All three were nominated at the Republican convention in Philadelphia in 1948.

Warren was vice-presidential nominee that year, running mate for Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

British Premier Would Shake Down U.S. Control

WASHINGTON, D.C. (CP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill will probably urge a greater exchange of atomic information between the United States and Great Britain during his far-reaching conference with President Truman.

US Airmen Freed Today

Cross Through Austria
From Hungary to Munich Base

MUNICH—Having been released by the Hungarian government following payment of $120,000 in fines by the United States, four American airmen are back at their base near here today.

They crossed the border from Hungary into Austria and were then brought on here.

They were said to have appeared to be tired but one said they had been "treated well."

Road Work In Alaska

During the 1951 construction season the Alaska Road Commission continued its important program of highway construction and improvement throughout the Territory. Efforts were concentrated on the reconstruction and hard-surfacing of the main routes, replacement of narrow bridges on these routes, and on extending the farm and industrial road system.

By the end of the season hard-surfacing of the Glenn Highway between Anchorage and the Richardson Highway was complete except for a 16-mile section in the vicinity of Sheep Mountain. The remaining portion of the Glenn Highway between Big Timber and Tok Junction, formerly known as the Tok Cutoff, was under extensive reconstruction during the entire season and resulted in almost complete elimination of narrow and crooked road. Included in this work was a relocation around the east side of Mentasta Lake that shortens the road by approximately nine miles.

On the Richardson Highway between Valdez and Big Delta four contracts for grading were in progress, three of which included hard surfacing. McLaughlin Incorporated, contractor on the section from Valdez to Mile 36, substantially completed grading between Valdez and Thompson Pass. This work included the widening and paving of the tunnel in Keystone Canyon and the elimination of many steep grades and sharp curves.

Between Miles 82 and 130, the contractor, C. F. Lytle and Green Construction Company, completed all grading and placed hard surfacing from the beginning of the section to Milepost 120.

The section from Big Timber to Paxson is under contract to the A. J. Hopper Corporation for grading only. During the past season approximately 15 miles of

Americans Dying in Red Prison Camps

MUNSAN (CP)—United Nations Command said today that at least 450 American soldiers have died in northern Korean prison camps. An official communique said that this is 77 per cent of United Nations troops known to have been imprisoned in rear areas.

They were, apparently, among 571 Americans the Reds said Wednesday had died of disease or were killed by Allied air raids or artillery fire.

"We must presume they died in prison camps," said Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, official UN spokesman. "This is the first time we have had knowledge of any deaths in prison camps."

KIDDINGTON, England (CP)—Rev. Arnold Mallinson, vicar of a church in this Oxfordshire town, has appealed for gifts of stuffed owls. He wants to put them in the church belfry to scare away bats.

— WEATHER —

Synopsis
Cloudy skies cover most of British Columbia today. Temperatures range from above freezing along the coast to below zero at points in the Cariboo.

A weak disturbance from the Yukon will move over the province today and tonight. It will bring light snow flurries to most regions mixed on the south coast with rain showers. Temperatures will remain about the same except in the Cariboo where increased clouds tonight will not permit the mercury to drop as low as last night.

Aside from some clearing in northern B.C. little change is expected tomorrow.

Forecast
North Coast Region—Cloudy today and Saturday. Scattered showers or snow flurries today. Sunny periods tomorrow. Colder tomorrow. Winds south 15 to day, north 15 tomorrow. Lows tonight and highs tomorrow—At Port Hardy, 30 and 38; Sandspit, 30 and 38; Prince Rupert, 27 and 35.

City Loses $5000 As Result Of Short Count in Census

Prince Rupert's share of the provincial three per cent municipal aid tax will be close to $5000 less next year than in the fiscal year of 1951 due to the population as given by the recent federal census.

Heavy Snows Close Roads

Milder local temperatures and cool moisture-laden air from the north teamed up to give this city one of its severest snowfalls in one day, stopping highway traffic and delaying air flights.

The Prince Rupert-Terrace highway was announced closed at noon today by the Provincial public works department. Snow plows are busy at both ends, a spokesman said, but continuing heavy snowfall is severely hindering clearing operations.

On one stretch of the road five feet of snow drifted last night. A foot of snow was reported in sections of the Prince Rupert-Port Edward road. Snowplows left here before noon to begin clearing.

Meanwhile, in the city a foot and a half of snow lies on the ground, more than five inches of which fell today. And at press time it was still snowing heavily.

FLYING
Canadian Pacific Airlines flight to Vancouver was delayed until 1:30 p.m. The northbound flight from Vancouver was delayed several hours by closed down conditions at Port Hardy.

Snow piling up on city streets is limiting traffic to a crawl and many motorists are forsaking their cars in favor of walking.

No word has been received of a chartered aircraft on which seven Vancouver basketball players were to arrive here today. It was presumed the plane did not take off. It was to carry part of the Eilers basketball team scheduled to play here tonight and tomorrow.

Two other players were to arrive on the CPA flight. Fuller and later details will be found elsewhere on this page.

Australia Wins the Davis Cup in Fifth And Deciding Game

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Before a crowd of 15,000, Frank Sedgman completed his job today of sparking Australia's Davis Cup team to another victory.

EDMONTON, England (CP)—Because people live longer these days, a local organization has raised the age limit for Christmas gifts to Middlesex pensioners from 65 to 70.

With the issue still in the balance in the fifth and deciding match, he sliced Vic Seixas into ribbons, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2 to retain the cup for Australia three matches to two.

Minister Expects Another Big Year in Canada Trade

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe declared Thursday that 1951, a year in which a record total of $4,600,000,000 was poured into expansion of the Canadian economy, was "a good year" for Canadian business. He forecast it will be as good in 1952.

In a 3000-word annual review of Canadian economic development, the minister of trade and defence production noted:

- 1—Capital investment—one of the keys to Canadian prosperity—jumped $800,000,000 from the previous high of $3,800,000,000 in 1950.
- 2—Inflation, one of the big threats to the economy at the beginning of the year, slackened in the last half. As government anti-inflationary action took hold, prices advanced less rapidly towards the end of the year. Panic buying disappeared.
- 3—The threat of Communism and unprovoked aggression in Korea had been met. A "solidarity of opinion and of will power" was marshalled through the North Atlantic Organization "to supply a positive answer to the Communist challenge." Rearmament was undertaken on a large scale. A start was made on the Colombo Plan to raise living standards in South and South-east Asia.

JUSTIFIED OPTIMISM

"The events of 1951," he said, "justify an increasing optimism, not only for our future here in Canada but for the future of the countries of the free world with which we are associated."

In the year's expansion of the economy, the major preoccupation was with rearmament, "a complicated and protracted business," resulting in rising prices and in shortages of raw materials.

But, on the other hand, "some slackness appeared in our economy in the last half of 1951. Sales of some consumer goods declined and unemployment occurred in certain localities, but these are specific, not general difficulties."

Canada undertook a three-year, $3,500,000,000 defence-production program and distributed $1,326,000,000 worth of defence orders in the first seven months of the year. But the Canadian program was small compared to that in the United States and a large part of the equipment had to be imported from the U.S. There were delays in production, but these were gradually being overcome.

In the field of resources development, some of the projects

Fighting in Korea Tough Job— Local Soldier Tells of Escape

Having almost completed the 18-month period of attestation for which he signed on, Lance Corporal George Evans, home after spending over a year in the Korean war, is not decided yet whether he will take his discharge from the Army, to which he will soon be entitled, or stay on and possibly see service in Europe.

In any case, he does not expect to return to Korea. He has been here over Christmas and expects to leave for Vancouver January 10.

The young 6-foot four-inch, 200 pound veteran of the Far East war, who spent from February to October in Korea with a spell of only five days' leave in Tokyo, Japan, during that period, counts the latter part of September about the worst time his outfit—Second Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, had. About then the war seemed to have intensified and one never knew when the Communist enemy was going to break out.

However, the worst time the Princess Pats had was in April when the regiment received citation for holding out in what seemed to be a desperate situation.

The Sixth ROC (Korean Army) had broken before the Communist pressure and the Pats, together with British and Australian infantry and New Zealand infantry, were sent in one night to hold the line. Finally, they became completely surrounded on a hill by the enemy and for two days were contained in what seemed to be a contracting trap. Finally, they were rescued by the United States First Cavalry which drove an opening through the enemy lines to give access to the Canadian escape.

They may have been surrounded but the Pats were not forgotten. Supplies were dropped by parachute from flying box cars. "It surely broke the low feeling to see those supplies come down, even if we did not

Horse Meat

THERE has been quite a fuss raised about horse meat. Some people have declared that under no circumstances will they eat it. Others are already doing so.

Experienced livestockmen say there is nothing to worry about, that the question will largely disappear because the heavy horse is disappearing. Nature or man never intended the horse as a meat animal. In Europe, where horse meat has been sold for centuries, the eating was incidental. Before that there was years of hard work in the fields or on the streets.

Nowhere has the horse been raised primarily for meat. We have much better animals for that. These are the beef cattle, hogs and sheep and fowls. In most cases this livestock has been specially bred for meat production. They put it on in the right places and much more cheaply and earlier for the feed used, than does the horse.

It was a phase of farm mechanization that brought the horse into the Canadian meat picture. Ousted by the track and tractor, he was turned out to pasture where he grew fat and tender, and in these days of high-priced meat anything fat and tender is liable to wind up in the butcher shop. But when the present surplus is gone there will be no more, for the breeding of draft or heavy horses in Canada is almost at an end. In contrast to almost anything else, work horses have steadily declined in price. A good team that would bring $500 before the war are hardly worth a fifth of that today.

On Right Side

IN PRACTICAL POLITICS it will be very difficult for any government to maintain surpluses of the size achieved in Canada during recent years, however sound they may be at the time of inflation, comments Winnipeg Free Press. If, after considering the rising needs of defense and the possibility of some shrinkage in revenues as the inflationary forces are tempered, as it hopes, the government concludes that its existing taxes will produce another large surplus next year, it may feel justified in some small reduction in tax rates. That may be inevitable in politics. In economics it would be much sounder than the easy course of spending a windfall which is not likely to continue long, of making commitments today which cannot be carried satisfactorily tomorrow. However these matters may be managed, the fact remains that the government of Canada is in a sounder current fiscal position than any government in the free world. It is using real anti-inflation measures more courageously than any other government, and all its errors of budgetary miscalculation have fortunately been on the right side of the ledger. If all governments had made the same kind of error, with resulting surpluses, the inflationary problem throughout the world would have been largely solved already.

FIGHTING IN KOREA

know how we were going to get out," said Evans. "We just fought, not knowing where we were, who were friends and who were enemies." The Pats lost five men killed, two dying of wounds, and nineteen wounded. The Australians and the British suffered much heavier casualties.

War in Korea is almost entirely in trenches. The terrain is rugged and hilly. There are small evergreen trees but dense, rubbery creeping vines covering the ground makes travelling through the bush difficult.

BAD WATER

Water is the worst problem for armies on the move for the water in Korea is very impure. Illness which hit almost the entire personnel of the Pats at one time was attributed to the impure water. Now troops fighting in Korea are supplied with "pills" to dissolve and sterilize the water.

Mosquitoes are bad in the summer evenings but worse are the large ravenous horse flies in the warm summer days which sting severely.

Winter weather is damp and because there are no sheltering trees and the wind blows right through one. In summer, days are hot, seeming the more severe are not, almost oppressive. Spring and summer days are hot and evenings cool. "It's a great country in which to get a sun-tan in summer."

Evans' duty was to operate a bazooka (rocket launcher). This weapon has a range of up to 1300 yards. "I never got a chance at enemy tanks," George said, "but fired at many enemy fox-holes."

The Chinese Communists are great at concealing themselves, virtually burrowing underground to be out of sight in daytime. Their favorite time to come out is between 11 p.m. and 3 a.m. "They sneak up so close, you'd hardly know how they can get by."

The Communists seem to be well equipped with automatic weapons—Japanese and Russian being much in evidence as well as American which are picked up.

Evans does not think much of the quality of the food they get at the front in Korea. They are American rations, varied but not of very high quality. Pay is in American scrip.

JAPANESE ATTITUDE

Evans was long enough in Japan to observe the attitude of the people there. They are courteous and apparently anxious to please. He noticed that the young Japanese are all anxious to fight. "It seems to be in their blood. The height of their ambition seems to be to die as warriors. In fact, one senses that they feel we are doing a job in Korea which they should be doing."

The local soldier saw few Prince Rupert people in Korea but did run across Major Roy Durnford, senior Canadian padre, Pte. William Kinley of Aiyansh and Cpl. Kenneth Johnston, who has been back in Canada for some time after suffering an injury.

Reflects and Reminisces

It's a time when folks forget things. A parcel or a purse become mislaid. You undertake duties, usually unaccustomed to, and always exacting. There's too much to think about. Oh, it's all right now to say it won't be back for a year, yet the annual feeling takes a while to wear off.

GONE FOR AYE!

We know a fellow who thinks he's lost part of his false teeth. Perhaps it's incorrect to say the denture has gone for good. Anyway, with plenty of good food before him three times a day, he's miserable. Who wouldn't be? Then, there's the other chap who, purchasing a neat little gift for his hostess, forgot all about it until after he'd returned home.

Gracie Fields will have another husband in February. He is a radio expert of Rumanian origin. All in all, like enough he will also feel at home in contributing entertainment as well as receiving some.

The Yamateru Maru, to load 344,000 bushels of grain at Prince Rupert is due here today. It might be thought there's nothing about her to remind one of Christmas but what she represents and her contents could make a marvellous stocking.

MORE LATITUDE

Millions observe Christmas and celebrate New Year. For there's a difference between the two. The latter is when lots of us step out and cultivate the attractive notion that the sky is the limit.

TONS OF THEM

Prince Rupert Curling Club is one of Canada's most northerly and westerly sporting organizations of the kind which is enough to make any man seize his broom and skip over the ice with a renewal of vigor and pleased expression. And speaking of this sort of thing, no fewer than 36 tons of curling stones have been landed at Port Churchill during the recent season. Many dozens of rinks can be found in the prairie provinces.

As I See It

In Praise of Poets

JUST after Christmas, I always think of poets and poetry, for the obvious reason that somebody in the family is bound to give me a book of poems. Here is a riddle about which I wonder:

How is it that the poets who are nearly always rather impractical people, often express the greatest truths in life decades, generations, or even centuries before the hard-headed "realists" reach those same truths by objective reasoning? Take Tennyson. Fifty years before an airplane ever flew, this "visionary," this impractical dreamer wrote that he "dip[t] into the future, far as human eye could see, and

Saw the Vision of the world and all the wonder that would be; Saw the heavens fill with commerce, Argosies of magic sails, Pilots of the purple twilight, Dropping down with costly bales;

Heard the heavens fill with shouting, and there rain'd a ghastly dew From the nations' airy navies grappling in the central blue."

When Tennyson wrote that amazing prediction, the "realists" would have pooh-poohed the idea that a heavier-than-air machine would ever be able to fly through the air.

Incidentally, the same type of "realists" now pooh-pooh the remainder of Tennyson's prophecy, namely that the world wars would end in the setting up of The Parliament of Man, the Federation of the World.

There the common sense of most shall hold a fretful realm in awe And the kindly earth shall slumber Inarted by universal law.

Robert Burns, another poet, of a vastly different background, arrived at about the same conclusion.

Maybe the reason why poets are so often ahead of the hard-headed realists is because all good poetry is, as people say, "inspired." The poet somehow or other becomes the earthly writer of sentiments which seem somehow to come by mental radio from other levels of life. Blake, who wrote about building Jerusalem, in England's green and pleasant land, was a notable example of this.

RIGHT NOW, one famous American poet is under the clouds—suspect by the Un-American Activities Committee.

Hollywood movie makers have indefinitely postponed the making of a proposed film to be called HIAWATHA. For the Song of Hiawatha makes the Gitche Manitou (Lord in Heaven) say:

"I am weary of your quarrels. Weary of your wars and bloodshed, Weary of your prayers for vengeance. Of your wrangling and dissensions. 'All your strength is in your union. All your danger is in discord. Therefore be at peace henceforward And as brothers live together.'"

I am a bit mad at Longfellow myself for that poem HIAWATHA, for he takes liberties with the facts of history.

Hiawatha was not the chief peacemaker who engineered the most successful peacemaking federation in the history of mankind. The number one man was Degawawida, born in Deseronto, Ontario. He spent his whole life welding together the six great Indian nations—who had been formerly as hostile and warlike as Britain, France, Germany, Russia, America, Japan and China have been in our own century. Moreover, his Six Nation Confederacy kept the peace, absolutely, until the white man came and upset it all.

Appointment of a civil defence co-ordinator for Prince Rupert was approved last night by the council. This was recommended by a recent meeting of the civil defence committee.

The position will be advertised and applications will be received up to January 9, 1952.

THEIR SUCCESS DEPENDS ON YOU

USHER IN THE NEW YEAR WITH A GALA OPEN HOUSE

Out the old... ring in the new... with a gala open house. Tell out the word to your friends and neighbors today. Tell them to come and help you usher in a brand new 1952. You'll want plenty of food on hand—festive food as gay as the occasion. But you'll want food that can be served with the minimum of effort throughout the evening.

Do not plan a buffet table built around a giant punch bowl of egg nog, featuring a variety of tempting canape spreads, pickles and olives, too, and midget pickled onions... and a dish of fresh shrimp with a zesty dunking sauce.

Guests... whether they come at nine or one... will enjoy themselves to any of the flavorful spreads given below. Be sure you have an assortment of crackers on your tray... wheat wafers, salted butter thins, and, if you like, potato

ROAST BEEF SPREAD

Finn Immigrant Looks to Rupert

A well-educated 34-year-old Finnish citizen from Stockholm, Sweden, who recently arrived in Canada is looking for an opportunity to settle in Prince Rupert. He has written to the City Hall for information concerning employment possibilities here.

In Sweden, writes Lars H. Lindberg, he was a manufacturer of stainless steel surgical instruments and a distributor of general hospital supplies and equipment. Such an industry, however, has not yet started in Canada and he is looking for a different line of employment in woodworking, or other industry.

Lindberg says he has public school, college and university education in various European countries and has studied literature, history and classic arts. He has commercial experience, knowledge of international trade and is familiar with office work.

He lives at present with his wife and three-year-old daughter at 591 Broadway Avenue, Toronto. He has read of Prince Rupert in recent publications giving publicity to this area.

Former Liquor Store Here Is Sought by City

An appeal to J. D. McRae, M.L.A. and Hon. E. T. Kenney, minister of lands and forests, regarding the purchase of the old government liquor store here as a telephone exchange building was recommended last night by Ald. H. M. Daggett, utilities chairman.

Ald. Daggett advised the new council that a special purchase of the building should be sought by the city.

The Provincial Liquor Control Board had advised the city earlier to put in a bid which would be considered "along with other tenders."

"I don't think the city should be put on the spot to tender on this building. The government used it for many years, paying taxes to the city. We should appeal to our government representatives to argue our point," said Ald. Daggett.

The utilities committee is eyeing the former liquor store building—a 50-foot wide concrete structure—as a future home for the new automatic telephone exchange system now under negotiation.

Coming Home From Korea

Chief Petty Officer Writer Ted Mills, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Mills of this city, expects to be home in Victoria next March after his second tour of duty with HMCS Sioux in the Korean war. On this next leave, Ted is hoping to visit his home town and his parents. His wife and daughters live in Victoria.

Local friends heard during Christmas from Ted whose cards were printed both in Korean and English.

A Prince Rupert boy all his life, CPO Mills started his naval career here with the Sea Cadets and graduated into the original Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve. Going active at the start of World War II, he served throughout the conflict and was aboard HMCS Iroquois on her maiden patrol to Norway and Denmark. After the war he was for a time with the Canadian National Railways ticket office here and later with the Black Ball Line in Victoria but returned to the Navy and has been here since.

In the canteen on the ship, soldiers bought cigarettes at two packages for a quarter and saw a free show every night.

From Rotterdam, where the Italian-owned vessel disembarked the Seafothers, the troops moved on to Hanover, which Cpl. Yule calls "quite a city" and of which he hopes to see more of during his leave on New Year.

John MacDonald of the Daily News staff returned to the city on yesterday's plane after spending Christmas at his home in New Westminster.

B. Halsrow and C. Reid left by plane yesterday on their return to Victoria after spending Christmas at home here.

Ronnie Ward arrived in the city by plane from Calgary on a 10-day visit over Christmas and New Year with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ward. The younger Ward is a geologist working for an independent oil company.

Revive Folk Dance In Nova Scotia

LOCKEPORT, N.S. (CP)—Community folk-dancing and square-dancing has been revived on Nova Scotia's south shore, thanks to a Chinese-born physical training instructor and his American wife.

James and Helen Chan came here last year from Springfield College, Mass., after Mr. Chan accepted the position of physical instructor for the elementary and rural schools here. Since then they have completely revived folk and square dancing.

James Chan, born in North Vancouver, later moved to Hong Kong. He returned to the United States and studied at several folk training institutions.

All their classes and dancing sessions here are sponsored by the local Home and School Association.

"Ours is a wonderful and rare opportunity... to see the miracle of folk and square dancing as it brings parents and young people together, rekindle the glow of courting days for the older folks and make grandparents realize they are not as old as they thought," says Mrs. Chan.

"In an age when movies and radios keep the masses sitting and watching, instead of participating, there is a particular need for folk and square dancing."

When working as a team the Chans wear colorful folk costumes and Mr. Chan does the calling. They have a large collection of folk recordings and a complete amplification system for holding dances or giving instruction.

YATELEY, England (CP)—Residents of this Hampshire village complained that trials of a British jet airliner shattered their nerves. The big machine was said to have caused plaster to fall from walls in low-flying swoops over the village.

Steel Strike Call Deferred

PITTSBURGH (CP)—The Steel Union yesterday called off the county-wide strike for New Year's Day but left final decision on the proposed work stoppage to a special convention January 3.

The Steel Workers' 170-man wage policy committee voted to direct 650,000 United Steel Workers' Union of America members in the steel producing industry to stay on the job after their contracts expire at midnight Monday.

The committee, however, emphasized that the strike was put off only until the convention at Atlantic City, New Jersey, takes some action.

New Carrier Rates of Daily News January 1

Effective January 1 the price of the Daily News will be increased 25 cents to $1 per month.

The decision to increase the price, taken reluctantly by the management, is the direct result of continually rising production costs.

Wages, newsprint prices and other operating expenses have gone up tremendously in recent years.

The need for higher subscription rates is being felt all across the continent. Many papers have moved their daily price from five to seven cents, and some to 10 cents.

The scheduled increase applies to all carrier delivery prices. The carrier boys themselves, who also face the problems of inflation, will get increased remuneration for their work.

Street sale and store sale price of the Daily News will remain at five cents but the Saturday edition, with the comic supplement, will be 10 cents.

ROAD WORK

road south of Paxson was completed and preparations made to rebuild the remainder during the coming season.

The fourth contract, between Rapids and Big Delta, is held by C. F. Lytle and Green Construction Company and includes both grading and paving. A line change was constructed between Rapids and Donnelly that will eliminate 1000 damage by the Delta River, and equipment is new on the job to accomplish the remaining grading and hard surfacing.

An important new 128 mile link in the highway system was formally dedicated October 19, 1951, when an impressive ceremony, held at Girdwood, opened the new Seward-Anchorage Highway. Portions of the old Seward-Hope road, between Seward and Mile 52, are still under reconstruction preparatory to paving, and the section from Girdwood to Anchorage has been placed under contract for hard surfacing. Additional paving contracts are to be awarded during the coming season and will be administered by the Bureau of Public Roads under a co-operative agreement with the Alaska Road Commission.

Under a similar agreement the Bureau of Public Roads is administering a contract covering re-grading and paving of the Alaska Highway eastward toward Johnson River with Rogers Construction Company and Babler Brothers the contractors. A line change near Halfway House that will eliminate much winding road with blind curves is under construction and will be available for use early next summer.

EAGLE TO DAWSON
The Taylor Highway, extending from the Alaska Highway northward to Eagle, and including a branch connecting at Boundary with the road to Dawson, was pushed almost to completion during the past season. Construction of two bridges and grading of approaches to them will permit travel to Eagle next summer. The branch road to Boundary was opened early last season and a ceremony commemorating this was held at the Alaska-Canada boundary August 16, 1951, in connection with the annual "Discovery Day" celebration.

Work was continued on the Richardson Highway - McKinley Park road with efforts concentrated at the west end. A pioneer road was pushed through between Cantwell and McKinley Park station and there remains only the construction of necessary bridges across the Nenana River to permit travel between these points.

Other work undertaken by the Alaska Road Commission, in addition to maintaining nearly 3000 miles of road, included completion of the paving of the Alaska portion of the Haines Highway and the widening and improvement of the Sterling Highway from its junction with the Seward-Anchorage Highway to Homer.

The farm and industrial road system, was extended as much as available funds would permit, aggregating approximately 20 miles of new construction and 30 miles of reconstruction and surfacing of existing low standard road. Additionally, some 20 miles of new construction was undertaken on a co-operative agreement basis at the request of various other government agencies.

To provide adequate facilities to handle the enlarged highway program several buildings were erected by the Alaska Road Commission during the past season. These included a new warehouse at Fairbanks and a warm storage building and a dormitory at Glennallen. A trailer camp containing twenty 30-foot house trailers has been set up in Valdez to provide housing for engineering personnel employed on the many contracts in effect in that area.

The Alaska Road Commission is again maintaining the Richardson Highway over Thompson Pass out of Valdez through the winter months, funds having recently been made available through co-operation of the Army. This work has been undertaken successfully for the past two winters and has resulted in Valdez becoming a valuable year-round seaport through which a large volume of military and civilian freight is moved to the interior cities of Anchorage and Fairbanks.

Plans for the coming season are now being formulated to accomplish many of the needed road extensions and improvements which will so materially aid the development of the Territory.
