

RUSSIA MAKES NEW PROPOSAL FOR KOREAN PEACE

BULLETINS

EVERYBODY PERISHED

MONROVIA, Liberia — Twenty-eight bodies have so far been hauled from the charred wreckage of a Pan American four-engined Constellation and carried to a tiny Lutheran missionary station at Sanyeh for burial. No survivors were found among 31 passengers and nine crew members who crashed against a jungle mountainside Friday during a rainy-season flight from Johannesburg, South Africa, to New York.

PENSIONS PROVIDED

OTTAWA — Pensions of $40 a month for needy Canadians at the age of 65 and extended financial aid to the blind came close to a reality at Saturday's session of Parliament. Health Minister Paul Martin put through all stages bills providing old age pensions at 65 instead of 70 as at present and a measure widening the scope of financial aid to the blind.

UNITED STATES READY

WASHINGTON — The Department of State issued a statement today saying that United States was ready to play its part in a Korean peace proposal providing Jakob Malik's proposal is "more than propaganda."

Disqualifying Is Ruled Out

BERLIN — Disqualification of Middleweight Champion Sugar Ray Robinson in a non-title bout with Light Heavyweight Gerhard Hecht of Germany was reversed today by the West Berlin Boxing Commission and the bout was declared "no decision."

The bewildered Robinson had been declared the loser of a ten-round bout in the second round after being disqualified for kidney punching. Irate spectators threw soda bottles into the ring at the American fighter.

Korean War Still Raging

Malik Peace Bid Brings No Let-up—Reds More Active

NEW YORK — The Korean war roared into its second year today while the Soviet call for a truce along the 38th Parallel stirred hopes that an end of the fighting may be in sight.

Chinese and North Korean Communists are more aggressive all along the 100-mile long battlefield.

Communist jets streaked out of their Manchurian sanctuary. Allied warships continued to pour steel into east coast North Korean ports.

The cease fire proposal by Russia's Jakob A. Malik, for the time being at least, put no damper on the fighting.

Red ground forces showed more fight than usual but by late afternoon today there was still no sign of their expected first anniversary offensive.

Allied officers, noting an enemy build-up in the west, had predicted a limited counter-attack.

Thirty-one Red-nosed MIG-15 jets darted back and forth across the Yalu River boundary of Manchuria. One was shot down.

Malik's Bid Is Received Doubtfully

Canada, United States Receptive

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Russia on Saturday proposed a conference by both sides in Korea for a cease-fire, armistice and withdrawal of troops from the 38th parallel. Jakob Malik, chief Soviet delegate at the United Nations, made the proposal which diplomats noted was the first Russian peace bid omitting conditions specially favorable to Communist China.

United Nations Secretary-General Trygve Lie on Sunday backed up Malik's bid, virtually putting the Russian proposal on record as a basis for unconditional hope for a cease-fire. Lie telephoned the United Nations headquarters a statement from his home in Oslo, Norway, where he arrived Saturday on vacation. He urged negotiations for a cease-fire at the "earliest possible date."

United Nations diplomats here are hopeful but wary, trying to guess whether there is a trap in the Russian proposal.

The extraordinary Soviet move made headlines all over the world and touched off United Nations hopes that an end might be in sight of the venture in aggression which started just one year ago today when the North Koreans invaded South Korea.

CANADA INTERESTED

OTTAWA — Prime Minister L. St. Laurent today termed the Malik statement "on peace in Korea as an 'important development' and promised it is going to be fully explored by western powers."

Mr. St. Laurent told Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew that "there is no indication anywhere that there is going to be any brushing aside" of the statement by the Russian United Nations delegate.

Canada's External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson, in London, said it would be "a great mistake" not to follow up the proposal.

Asked to comment on the week-end broadcast by Jakob Malik, Pearson said:

"If Malik's statement should be satisfactory basis for proposal from Moscow, then we should make the most of it. 'If the USSR is anxious to end the conflict in Korea on terms we can accept,' Pearson said at a press conference, 'then we should certainly follow it up.' Pearson noted that there were 'ambiguities' in Malik's statement.

CHINA APPROVES?

TOKYO (CP) — The Peiping radio was heard today quoting an editorial saying that the Chinese people fully agree with the peace proposal.

The editorial, in the People's Daily, was the first Communist Chinese mention of Jakob Malik's cease-fire speech of Saturday in New York.

The Peiping radio broadcast the full text of the speech following a series of first anniversary comments warning the Chinese people that the war would be a long one.

TRUMAN RECEPTIVE

TULLAHOME, Tennessee (CP) — President Truman said today that the United States is ready to join in a "real settlement" of the Korean war "which fully ends aggression and restores peace and security."

While Truman did not so label it, that was obviously his reply to the proposal by Jakob Malik for a cease-fire and withdrawal

Bad Sunday For Leaders

NEW YORK — New York Yankees, with assistance from the Boston Red Sox, pulled to within a game of the American League leading Chicago White Sox Sunday.

The Yanks edged Cleveland Indians 5 to 3 while the Red Sox split a double-bill with Chicago, winning the nightcap 8 to 6 after dropping the opener 6 to 5. Tail-end Pittsburgh Pirates upset the National League front-running Brooklyn Dodgers 10 to 7 and 5 to 4. The setbacks, Brooklyn's first double-header loss of the season, cut the Dodgers' lead over New York Giants to six games.

Donolie, Carmelita, At Juneau

JUNEAU — Ray Hart's Donolie was first to cross the finish line Saturday in the international yacht race from Puget Sound to Juneau via Prince Rupert.

The race is a predicted log event rather than a speed race. The winner is the one holding the closest to its predicted schedule.

The awards were to have been made at a banquet Saturday night but decision was made to submit the predicted logs at the December meeting of the International Power Boat Association in Seattle. First place award will be presented at that time.

Hart, from Bremerton, piloted his yacht across the finish line at 1:02 p.m.

Carmelita, owned by Norton Clapp of Seattle, followed at 3:26 p.m.

The Nickenius, owned by Dr. J. Wayne Graham of Seattle, is not expected here until some time today. It was reported earlier that the Nickenius had dropped out of the race because of rough weather along the lower British Columbia coast.

WEATHER

Synopsis
Strong northwest winds in the waters near the Queen Charlottes are reported for the third successive day and fog is again blanketing the low lying areas along the west coast.

A weak disturbance has moved into the central regions of the province from the north, bringing considerable cloudiness to the Cariboo and Prince George regions. Elsewhere skies are relatively clear but small amounts of moisture are now drifting into the southern regions at higher levels and some cloudiness will form from time to time during the next 24 to 48 hours. It is not expected to prove any serious threat to the weather.

Forecast

North coast region—Cloudy today and Tuesday. Fog near the Queen Charlottes throughout the period and along the northern mainland in the early mornings. Little change in temperature. Winds—northwest (35) near the southern tip of the Queen Charlottes and northwest (15) over the rest of the region. Lows tonight and highs Tuesday—at Port Hardy, Sandspit and Prince Rupert, 48 and 65.

of troops from the area of the 38th parallel.

In guarded language which did not mention Malik or his proposal specifically, the President told a crowd gathered to dedicate an air force testing centre: "We are ready to join in a peace settlement in Korea now as we have always been. But it must be a real settlement which fully ends aggression and restores peace and security to the area and to the gallant Korean people."

Mill Closed To Visitors

W. C. R. Jones, manager of the Columbia Cellulose Company mill at Watson Island, told the Daily News today that it will be necessary to bar all visitors from the mill during the next two months.

"We just aren't ready for visitors yet," Mr. Jones said. "We were eager to have the people of Prince Rupert see the plant, and that is why we held the 'Open House' last week.

"But during the next two months we will be striving to get the whole mill operating at full capacity and we just aren't able to handle visitors."

Mr. Jones expressed regret that some of the visitors at the 'Open House' were inconvenienced when power was cut for a brief period Thursday. He said that, during the next two months, while initial operating difficulties are being ironed out, such inconveniences are apt to occur.

As the tourist season progresses there will be many requests from out-of-town visitors to see the mill but, for this summer, all such requests will be refused, according to the mill manager. He added, however, that it is hoped that in the fall a regular visitors' schedule can be effected.

Devastating Forest Fire Sweeps Islands

Millions of Feet of Timber Destroyed, Also Machinery—Aero Camp Endangered

Five hundred logging camp employees fought from two directions under leadership of provincial Forest Branch officials at the week-end and finally controlled a great forest fire which was sweeping through dry slash and snags into thousands of acres of the famous Sitka spruce timberlands around Skidegate Lake between Sand and Cumshewa Inlet on the north and south sides of the Queen Charlotte group. There has been no damage to cut logs and logging equipment.

Foresty officials here today said that six million feet of timber had already been destroyed. Logging and loading machinery of the Kelley (Aero) Logging Co. was included in equipment caught in the path of the roaring flames.

The fire was raging on both north and south sides and around Skidegate Lake. The slash of old logging operations, now dry after days of hot weather, made the task of fire-fighting an extremely difficult one.

All activities of the employees at two camps—Northern Pulp Mills (Pacific Mills) from Sandspit on the north and Aero (Powell River) on the south—were being concentrated on the fire against the fire.

The fire south of Skidegate Lake, out of control until today, was covering an area of three to five miles and could be a menace to the Aero camp two to three miles distant on the Cumshewa Inlet beach.

On the north side of Skidegate Lake the area of the fire was about one thousand acres at the time being, seemed the least serious.

In all, six thousand acres were burned over.

Worst in History
A week-end dispatch to the Daily News from Queen Charlotte City described the Moresby Island fire as the most devastating and spectacular ever recorded in the history of the Queen Charlotte Islands. It had been partially subdued Friday due to the efforts of hundreds of forest fighters, only to break loose again on Saturday with increasing fury.

The fire extended from Skidegate Lake in a southeasterly direction, reaching a distance of 15 miles to McCoy's Cove on Cumshewa Inlet.

Aero (Morgan) logs ready for loading and at least one logging machine were destroyed, the correspondent reported.

Lack of water and the speed at which the flames were travelling over rough terrain were proving factors of serious han-

Russia and Korea

REMEMBERING that nations in the past have often talked of peace while planning for war and suspecting that Russia herself has indulged in such practice during recent years, the western world will receive with hopeful reserve the statement at the week-end of Jakob Malik that the Soviet wants a conference to end the war in Korea.

Possibly the most significant aspect of the Russian statement is the proposal that both sides in the war should draw away from the 38th parallel as part of a cease-fire agreement. Heretofore, Russia had insisted that both sides should draw entirely out of Korea. Now the Russian proposal is more like the terms which have been advanced by the United Nations as corollary to a Korean peace.

The question arises, of course, whether the Chinese Communists and the North Koreans are a party to or subscribe in any way to the surprise Russian proposal. That has not been made known.

It may be that Russia is just talking propaganda again and that there is nothing serious about her peace intentions—that she is not talking on behalf of the parties really concerned.

Russia has talked peace in the past and has followed up with new aggressions in the cold war. Maybe that is the case again. But we can still be hopeful.

At least, we know that the whole western world wants an ending of this sorry Korean business and that the United Nations would be glad to negotiate on any reasonable and sincere terms.

Fire Hits Charlottes

FOREST fires are relatively rare on the northern mainland and the islands and conditions on the Queen Charlottes were ripe for such a devastating conflagration as has been reported from there during the week-end.

Possibly, it is remarkable that, long before this, there has not been a serious fire in the old logging areas there and the slash and snag accumulation of many years' operations.

The very accumulation of such snag and slash together with windfall made good fuel for fire and rendered difficult the fighting of fire. Lack of water and the facilities for handling it are also adverse factors.

Under new logging regulations, it is being made obligatory on operators to clean up the country over which they pass. However, these are not yet applicable in some parts of this district.

Wisely enough, tighter regulations in regard to fire protection and conservation are part of the latest forest management policies of this province.

Time Congratulates Us

TWO LETTERS from the office of Time arrived at the Daily News office at the week-end.

One was a personal letter to the editor from Frederick S. Gilbert, the assistant publisher, who got around to reading our special Columbia Cellulose opening edition after he returned home to New York and was then constrained to write us: "My sincere salute to you for a swell job," adding: "I sincerely hope that, after the honeymoon is over, Columbia Cellulose and Prince Rupert will continue to live happily ever after."

The second letter from Time contained a tear sheet from the forthcoming issue of the weekly news-magazine in which the British Columbia section dramatically features the recent opening of Columbia Cellulose.

TORONTO NOTES

TORONTO. — How smart are our smartest business men?

Here in the busiest city in Canada the big department stores have the best eating places in town. In one of them is a freak corner which acts as a mysterious voice amplifier. That is, it takes up quite ordinary conversations—say between Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Smith, and sends them shooting out into space in such a way that they can be heard in the opposite sides of the vast room.

At times this is quite embarrassing—say when there is a big public dinner in progress and a sudden hush in the noise picks up and amplifies some conversation like this:

"Have you heard the latest about . . . ?"
The owners of the big store have spent large sums bringing in acoustical experts to try to do away with the freak sound amplifier.

Now if they had that freak and mysterious whisper spreader in Europe or Asia they would charge a premium price to get in that corner—maybe even to get into the restaurant with the chance to listen in on the mysterious whispers.

BACK IN OLD WESTERN ONTARIO for a few days I have been doing some probing into a favorite subject of mine—the history of the Indians.

I came on this bit the other day.

The Hurons and Iroquois were bitter enemies—especially as the Hurons were allies of the French and the Iroquois allies of the English. Out in western Ontario around the present London district, because they would join neither bloc.

Finally the Iroquois attacked the Hurons and virtually exterminated them. Hence playing the part of the neutrals does not always have the happy ending which I reported from Switzerland.

There one of the cantons refused to join either of its big neighbors—and finally drew both of them together in what finally became the Swiss confederation.

IN TORONTO, POLITICAL opinion is swiftly solidifying behind building the St. Lawrence canals as an all-Canadian project. The Americans have been stalling round on this for so many decades that at long last the patience of the Canucks is wearing out.

The best engineers here say that it is quite possible to build the power-and-navigation project entirely on Canadian territory. This method will cost somewhat more than would an international project—and also, they say, it would be impossible to get quite so good electricity development and navigation facilities as would the joint plan.

But surely it would be better to get 90% benefits rather than no benefits.

Also, once Uncle Sam sees that Jack Canuck really means to go ahead with the development—either alone or in partnership—Uncle may quickly be converted to the necessity of going ahead with us.

BACK HOME IN CANADA I am struck by one vital difference between our way of life and

Neuberger on Pulp Mill

On a wooded island crowned with high mountains, the Celanese Corporation of America recently dedicated the first plant to tap the vast spruce and hemlock forests of northern British Columbia, writes Senator Richard L. Neuberger in the Portland Oregonian.

The plant was constructed at a cost of $27,000,000 and it will produce 250 tons of dissolving pulp daily. Ironically, many of the groves to be thinned lie practically along the boundary of Alaska, where elaborate plans for a pulp industry have thus far failed to materialize.

Columbia Cellulose Company, the subsidiary operating the Prince Rupert project, holds forest management licence No. 1 from the province of British Columbia. Over a huge wilderness area, much of it unexplored, the company has agreed to cut only as much timber as grows to maturity each year.

EXPANSION FORECAST
E. T. Kenney, provincial minister of lands and forests, described the opening of the plant as a historic event in the annals of British Columbia. He predicted a great expansion of population as a result of logging camps, trucking, increased railroads. (Continued on page 3)

Europe's. Here we make it possible for most of our university students to take jobs in summer time and hence pay most, or even all, of their way through college.

In Europe—even in Britain—that just isn't done.

It just isn't the custom for university students to get summer-time jobs. Hence relatively fewer of the people ever do get a chance to get higher education.

WHENEVER I VISIT MY OLD home in central Ontario I ask myself the question: Does higher education pay—in actual cash? I think you can easily prove that boys who went through high school make more money than boys who went through public (or grade) school only.

But I imagine you would have a much harder job proving that university graduates make more money than high school graduates.

When I look back over my old school chums, and size them up now, this is what I see:

The few who became the ultra-rich are not university graduates—but boys who quit school during or on completion of high school. I am talking about the richest-rich—not the just rich. Of the latter, I would say that the university graduates as a whole definitely average more than the high school graduates as a whole.

But I'm not sure—and will sure be delving into the 1951 census figures to find the truth.

Report from Parliament

By E. T. APPLEWHITE, M.P.

It is perfectly true to say that no part of the North American continent is receiving as much attention and publicity these days as is that part comprising the federal electoral district of Skeena. It is no function of these letters to advertise publications but I do feel justified in referring to a most interesting feature article on

The Politics of Aluminum appearing in the June issue of Fortune, under the title of "The Great Aluminum Farce." The criticism is directed to the American authorities, the article claiming that there's a right way, a wrong way—and the U.S. government way of providing more aluminum. However, my reaction is, who are we, to criticize? The outcome has been the greatest and soundest era of expansion ever known (or dreamed of) for Central British Columbia.

Speaking of the aluminum industry in the United States, the article claims that low-cost power dictated the concentration of primary aluminum on the West Coast of the U.S. but electricity shortages, higher freight and shipping rates, and a main market rooted in the East have eroded the power advantage. Of the 2,200,000 tons of Surinam bauxite landed at Gulf of Mexico ports each year, all is processed into alumina in the area at Kaiser's Baton Rouge and Alcoa's Mobile plants, reducing its weight, and transportation costs, by half, then is forwarded to Alcoa's new Point Comfort plant in Texas to its plants at Alcoa, Tenn., Badin and Massena; or to the big Kaiser and Alcoa smelters on the West Coast. Together with Alcoa, Reynolds' Arkansas operation sits astride the U.S.'s best-grade bauxite deposits: Alcoa's East St. Louis plant, supplied by Arkansas bauxite, processes it into alumina. East St. Louis alumina is delivered to Alcoa's reduction plant in Tennessee at 1 cent per pound, less than U.S. West Coast installations get theirs, which helps to overcome the higher charges for T.V.A. power.

Two steps removed from full integration, Reynolds' Alabama complex relies on Arkansas alumina, turns it into 50,000 tons of ingot, rolls some into sheet for shipment. For the U.S. West Coast, producers must bring alumina at least 2,800 miles for cheap power; send aluminum some 2,500 miles back to market. But the biggest and lowest-cost ingot producer in the world, Alcan, enjoys abundance of inexpensive power, an unrivaled concentration of alumina-aluminum plants. The as yet dimly projected Tula reduction plant with capacity of 375,000 tons of low-cost ingot would use Canadian water carried via ten-mile tunnels to generators in Alaska. Now the bright spot in all this is Kitimat, which will boost Canadian capacity by over 100 per cent. It will, to quote Fortune, be "fabulously efficient," and will operate with power costs of 1 cent a pound compared with 2 3/4 to 3 1/4 for new Gulf Coast capacity. We of this district, with Alcan itself, will be like Al-can's test transmission line towers, "sitting on top of the world."

Speaking of publications—may I offer my congratulations to the Prince Rupert Daily News on its special Columbia Cellulose edition. To one like myself, far from home, it was particularly interesting and enjoyable. After reading the list of distinguished visitors who attended the opening, I am convinced that I am quite right when I say our district is getting more publicity, and sound, valuable publicity, than any part of North America.

Hon. Robert Winters has introduced a small bill with a view to improving the operations of the National Housing Act. On May 11 he had made a statement to the house concerning changes to this Act. The bill authorizes the governor-in-council to establish interest rates payable by the borrower, provided that such rate, when established, shall not exceed two per cent in excess of the average yield upon long term government securities. Upon approval of this legislation it would be the government's intention to adjust interest rates by one-half of one per cent. This with a view to attracting more investment money into housing.

BLAME WEATHER
GRINDSTONE, Magdalen Islands (CP)—Weather conditions were blamed for poor fishing this spring. Herring was abundant but stormy weather delayed catches. Cod fishing was not as good as in former years, and the mackerel were late in arriving in these waters.

School Sale is Successful

Borden Street Junior Red Cross Raise $200

"How much did we make at the sale?" was the question on the lips of many of the children and in the minds of others as the receipts from the Junior Red Cross sale were being added up at Borden Street School on Friday afternoon. The answer was finally $200.12. One Grade Six girl's comment probably summed up the general attitude of the children when, on being commended for her help in the sale, she replied: "I like it, I like to work for the Junior Red Cross and the teachers and the school."

The story behind the whole effort is worth considering. Throughout the year work of the Jr. Red Cross is emphasized. It is service and, through service to others, builds up an atmosphere of friendly co-operation. The school has also donated through self-denial on the children's part over thirty dollars this year. That frequently means that the pupil has given up the price of a cone or some candy. A small sacrifice you say? It's more than that. It is thoughtfulness and practical consideration for others.

The main source of revenue for the sale, however, comes from the year-long campaign of coupon collecting. Since the opening of school in September the children of Borden Street School have brought in over seventeen thousand tea and coffee coupons. They have brought them from their homes and in many cases where the mother had planned on keeping the coupons to obtain a desirable premium for the home she has yielded to the child's eagerness and turned them over for the pupil's class. Week by week at school assembly the records of the various divisions in the number of coupons collected are compared and graphs are colored to indicate which division has done best. Other times the children collect coupons from their friends and other neighbors. The totalling of the numbers is a practical effort in arithmetic, for there are many half coupon values to be reckoned. Then there is the big item of going through the premium lists to determine what premiums may be obtained for the coupons and making out the long and detailed lists. The children get good training in doing so; and they realize how much their success depends on the friendly and interested guidance of the teachers. In due time the parcels arrive.

Killing boys are ready to bring the packages from the post office. Mr. Wilson chuckles as he recalls how he had been getting President of the Junior Red Cross, Bobbie Mitchell, and a helper pick up the parcels. He had two go one day for the par-loading and other auxiliary projects.

Although the plant is brand new, its president, Harold Blanche of New York, told the audience at the dedication that the undertaking soon will be expanded substantially. It is eventually destined to be the world's largest producer of the high-grade pulp material known to the trade as "high alpha."

A gathering of Indians, prospectors, king's ministers, New York newspapermen, Canadian mounties and construction workers mingled elbow to elbow as the plant went into operation. The factory will increase by 15 per cent the present continental output of the raw cotton rayon fibres which go into everything from women's garments to wall-to-wall carpeting.

Immense quantities of water are used in the process. Part of the Columbia Cellulose expenditure was invested in a dam on the surging Kioiya River, to assure a pipeline flow of 25,000 gallons every minute. Logging camps have been established at Terrace and along Khutzeyma Inlet, for the delivery of logs.

RAILROAD FIXES SITE

The location of the farthest north railroad on the Pacific coast fixed the site of the great plant. This is the Canadian National's famous Smithers division, which comes down to tidewater nearly 600 miles beyond Vancouver and only 70 miles from the headlands of Alaska.

The plant will use a great curving concrete dock constructed during World War II by the American army. This dock delivered munitions, bombs and blockbusters to forces in the South Seas and the Aleutian Islands. The hills were honey-combed with munitions dumps. This was done to keep dangerous explosives out of such crowded ports as those of San Diego, San Pedro, Portland and Seattle.

The building of the factory on Canadian soil with American capital has dramatized the failure thus far to create a pulp industry in Alaska, which is believed to have hemlock and balsam and spruce resources equalling even those of British Columbia.

Past Mistresses' Sale and Raffle

Past Mistresses' Association of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association held a successful sale and raffle a few days ago in Gordon & Anderson's store. The proceeds of the affair will go to aid the Loyal Protestant Home at New Westminster.

Mrs. E. A. Evans was convener, assisted by Mrs. Frank Ellison, Mrs. W. Thomson, Mrs. Vic Menzies and Mrs. H. Paulson.

Winner in the raffle of an electric tea kettle was Mrs. J. Sparks with No. 288.

Funeral is Impressive

An impressive funeral procession Saturday afternoon paid final tribute to Mrs. Millicent Stewart, of Kincolith, who died Wednesday at the home of her sister, in Port Edward.

The Alyansh Harmonic Silver Band, under Bandmaster John G. Moore, played the funeral march in slow step. It led the procession, followed by Canon Rev. Basil Prockter, officiating minister, and the bier which transported the casket aloft.

A long line of cars followed the procession.

Member of a prominent village family, Mrs. Stewart had been semi-invalided for 14 years.

She is survived by her husband, Fred; five sons, Willie, Robert, Vincent, Johnnie and Colin; six daughters, Hazel, Beatrice, Laura, Betty, Delores and Lucy; two brothers, Cuthbert and Herbert Morven; two sisters, Mrs. Dorothy Beynon, Port Edward, and Mrs. Ethel Monroe.

Closing at Kindergarten

The First United Church kindergarten closed Friday with exercises, presentations of certificates and a program of entertainment.

Tribute was made to teachers Mrs. G. S. Reade and Mrs. C. Strand by Mrs. Lawrence Sieber, who spoke in place of the pastor.

Ice cream and cake were served to the children following the exercises. Program featured skits and songs: "Ten Little Indian Boys," by a boys' group; "There Was a Little Girl," by Paddy Field; "Mary Had a Little Lamb," by

Blackwood on Bridge

By Easley Blackwood

Mr. Dale got a little fancy on today's hand with his second round two-heart call, but the bid guided his partner into the correct contract of three no-trump.

Mr. Abel opened the jack of hearts and Mr. Champion hopelessly finessed the queen. But when Mrs. Keen won with the king, he wished he had ducked in an effort to block the suit. Mrs. Keen led back the seven of hearts and Mr. Abel overtook it with the nine which was permitted to win. A third lead of hearts drove out dummy's ace. Mrs. Keen discarded the deuce of spades.

Well, everything was still all right if Mr. Champion could win five club tricks, as he had four natural winners in the other three suits.

How to play the club suit—that was the question. In the first place the five outstanding clubs could be counted on to split 3-2 in opponents' hands about 68 per cent of the time. In other words the chances were better than two to one that simply laying down the ace, king and queen of clubs would bring in the entire suit.

Could Mr. Champion increase the percentage in his favor? Let's see. If Mrs. Keen had four clubs to the jack he would have to take a first-round finesse toward Mr. Abel's hand. And Mr. Abel was known to have two set-up heart tricks. Not so good. Wouldn't it be awful to take a first-round club finesse and have Mr. Abel win with the singleton jack? ... Mr. Champion dropped this thought quickly.

AN IMPORTANT PLAY

Well, then, suppose Mr. Abel had four clubs to the jack. Here Mr. Champion should add to his chances of success. In this case the dangerous first-round finesse would not be necessary.

Kitwanga Wins Football Game

Defeated Prince Rupert
4-2 Saturday Night

The native Kitwanga football team scored a decisive win over a Prince Rupert selected eleven on Saturday evening by four goals to two. Up to the last fifteen minutes the city team was scoreless but Pavlikis got two goals to make the score look better for the Prince Rupert eleven.

Kitwanga attacked from the start and Prince Rupert was lucky to scramble the ball away. Pavlikis was high with a drive and then, following good combination, George Williams scored. Parkhouse missed an opening and then had a fine shot turned over the bar by the Kitwanga goalie. Darrow Gomez now came on to complete the city team but Jim Morgan put the visitors two goals up although well offside. The Rupert team was lucky when their goalie saved on the line. Aird shot past, Morgan and Ford showed to advantage.

Prince Rupert started the second half with a good attack but Roy Harris cleared. Morgan kicked out from Pavlikis. Gomez ez stopped a Kitwanga raid. Then Nisyok, in goal for Prince Rupert, blocked a great drive. From J. Morgan's corner D. Morgan added a third for Kitwanga. Rupert forwards combined well but Pavlikis shot wide. Baxter's shot was saved at the upright. Robinson stopped Williamson. A. Morgan then scored direct from a corner kick and his team led 4-0. Williams was through but shot over. Nisyok saved a hot drive from R. Morgan. Baxter, Phillips and Pavlikis were combining well and finally Pavlikis scored from close in. Another lovely passing bout, with Bowman starting it, found Pavlikis adding his second goal with a hard drive to finish the scoring. Final score: Kitwanga 4, Prince Rupert 2.

Catholic Devout at Eucharist in Terrace

Six Hundred of Faithful Attend Impressive
Outdoor Ceremonies

More than 200 Prince Rupert Catholics journeyed to Terrace Sunday to meet at the first Eucharistic Congress held in this part of northwestern British Columbia. This is the first year the Eucharist has been observed in the Vicariate of Prince Rupert which covers nearly 134,000 square miles.

Most of Prince Rupert pilgrims travelled by a specially chartered train which left at 8 a.m. Sunday and returned at 10 p.m.

The Congress was attended by Catholics between Telkwa and Prince Rupert, with some 600 taking part in the solemn and colorful outdoor services performed by the most Rev. Anthony Jordan, O.M.I., in charge of the Prince Rupert Vicariate.

In a setting outdoors near the Terrace Catholic Church, marked off by ribbons and ceremonial flags, Bishop Jordan celebrated Pontifical Mass. The altar was erected on a raised platform and was shaded from the hot sun.

Bishop Jordan was assisted by Rev. P. E. Keane, O.M.I., of Smithers, as deacon, and by Rev. Lawrence Turgeon, as subdeacon. Rev. F. J. Rayner, Prince Rupert, was master of ceremonies. Prince Rupert altar boys served the mass, after which Father Keane preached an eloquent sermon on the Holy Eucharist.

The Pontifical Mass began at noon. In the afternoon, the Procession of the Blessed Sacrament commenced in the Terrace Catholic Church, at 4 o'clock. Rev. E. M. Leray, O.M.I., parish priest of Terrace, carried the Blessed Sacrament. Rev. N. Racette, also of Terrace, and Father Turgeon assisted as deacon and subdeacon.

Raw Violence In Pen Film

Raw violence inherent in the savage existence behind grim prison walls, is in "Convicted," exciting drama, coming today and Tuesday to the Capitol Theatre. Glen Ford and Broderick Crawford are co-starred in a tough-as-nails story of the Big House.

"Convicted" tells the story of what happens to a man in prison, his revolt at the harsh surroundings, his incessant dream of freedom and his hoped-for regeneration as a useful citizen. Ford plays the convict who learns, the hard way, to live by the convict's code. Crawford plays a district attorney who becomes the two-fisted warden of Ford's prison.

In "Convicted," scenes of prison routine were made by filming background scenes in San Quentin, California's largest prison. Other Federal prisons were the models from which interior scenes of "Convicted" were duplicated.

"Lost Boundaries," feature picture coming to the Totem Theatre here this Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, deals with the race question, telling the story of a Negro doctor and his family who passed for whites. The story is based on a Reader's Digest, which commanded much attention.

Mel Ferrer plays the part of a young doctor who is unable, after obtaining his medical degree, to obtain a hospital internship because he is a negro. Finally, he
