Good News, Ketchikan

WE PEOPLE of Prince Rupert are very happy to read the news that our good neighbors at Ketchikan, who have been waiting patiently although a little discouraged of late, seem to be a lot nearer to getting the big pulp mill which has been actively mooted for the last few years and so often on the verge.

In fact, Ketchikan seemed to have its pulp mill in the bag even before Prince Rupert got the original announcement of Columbia Cellulose Co. which lost no time once it got started and now has the plant in operation at Watson Island—much to the gratification and satisfaction of us all.

Ketchikan's pulp mill, at the outset at least, appears to be a larger plant than the original Prince Rupert project although it has been forecast by CCC executives that an early expansion of the local plant may be expected. We know the great difference that the new mill at Prince Rupert has made to the economy of the whole country around here.

It is of direct interest to Prince Rupert, and will be of great benefit to this port and railway line, that the products of the plant at Ketchikan will be transported here for transshipment over our railway line, the traffic of which is already growing by leaps and bounds.

Band Needs Help

PRINCE RUPERT'S City Band, which put on an acceptable open air concert Thursday night in spite of the fact that its membership has been diminishing of late, is worthy of better all-around support. Indeed, it is at the crossroads right now and, if something is not done about it right away, it may just disappear. But that need not be so and it is to be sincerely trusted that it should not disintegrate for lack of numbers and enthusiasm.

Last year the band had some 25 members. Now there are less due to departure of bandmen from the city and for other reasons. Therefore, there is the problem of keeping up a supply of prospective new bandmen to meet with inevitable turnover. In fact, a good band should have at least some 40 members.

The supply of bandmen is something that should not be too hard to provide in a city of the growing population and importance of Prince Rupert. There must be a good deal of already developed talent too. But a better solution might be the infusion of youth with its vigor and enthusiasm. There is a flourishing High School band here now which might well prove a steady pool of new talent for the City Band. Co-operation between the two bands would appear to be a natural.

Good, enthusiastic sponsorship for the City Band is also something to be desired—possibly by some organization that would be available permanently to advise and assist the band in its problems of a financial nature.

Then again there could be a fuller expression of appreciation of the band by those who have occasion to use and enjoy it.

A good band is a great thing for a community. Every effort possible should be exerted to keep our City Band not only going but growing and improving. It is already a highly creditable organization and should be fostered in every way possible.

As I See It

Who Killed King?

THE ASSASSINATION of King Abdullah of Jordan is one more confirmation of what I wrote from the Middle East a few months ago.

A whole vast belt of the earth is on the eve of a truly revolutionary situation. This belt stretches all the way from Iran and across all the Arab countries, including all North Africa.

IT IS no new thing for rulers to be murdered in that part of the world. But it is instructive to consider who might have wanted Abdullah killed—and what various persons or powers might hope to gain from his removal.

Abdullah had passed over his elder son, who is supposed to be "mentally unstable." Also this son had quarrelled fiercely with Giubb Pasha, the English general who commands the Jordan army.

But Abdullah had also tried to pass over his second son, and taken some steps towards naming the boy king of Iraq as his heir to the throne. As this second son has now seized the throne, and had many of the Jordan leaders agree to legalize that, he qualifies as high on the list of suspects.

BUT THERE are many other interests, any one of whom might have wanted Abdullah killed. The Communists might hope to cause more trouble for the Western allies. It is true that the Communist party almost invariably avoids murder as a political weapon—and carefully schools its adherents in its supposed folly. But, as Trotsky found out, there are times when the general rule is broken.

THERE IS, of course, a powerful underground force in Israel which might have had a hand in the killing—that is Irgun. These extreme Zionist nationalists have sworn an oath that they will never rest until the new, or revived, State of Israel includes the whole area which Israel was said to cover in ancient times.

Irgun leader, Menachem Beigin, told Robert St. John (see SHALOM MEANS PEACE, page 186) about this.

"We shall never recognize it (the partitioned country). We would not take immediate action, however, because this is a dangerous moment in Jewish history, our people being surrounded by enemies. Instead, we would continue and intensify our campaign to educate the people, especially the youth, on the necessity of an 'undivided country.'"

It is conceivable that Irgun, or the Stern gang, might have swung back to the violent tactic.

EGYPTIAN interests and even King Ibn Saud were amongst those ardently opposed to Abdullah's plan for what he called Greater Syria. In fact, there are several powerful interests any one of which might have hoped to benefit from his removal.

While the FIND THE KILLER puzzle might provide a wonderful plot for a detective story thriller, there is no mystery about the loser.

The British have lost the one firm ally which they had in that part of the world. The new nation of Israel is also put in a much more difficult position than it was before.

From what I saw on my visit to that country, I agreed with what the Israeli government people told me—that they needed real peace with all their neighbors more than they needed anything.

ABDULLAH was a cunning, subtle personality. Was he a party to some kind of a secret understanding with the leaders of Israel even when the Arab League, of which Jordan was a member, was at war with the new-born or reborn state? His army quickly seized Old Jerusalem, but made no serious, sustained attempt to advance further.

Egyptian leaders could not prove that, but they never forgave Abdullah for what they suspected.

The Aztecs, early inhabitants of Mexico, had elaborate systems of irrigation and studied astronomy.

Reflects and Reminisces

TWO PORTS

There ought to be a few disadvantages and drawbacks at Prince Rupert. There's Churchill where eighteen grain ships will load this season. And Churchill has fog, ice, snowstorms, more fog, below zero and blizzards. And here's Prince Rupert, where no blankety blank ship of any description has loaded for years and years in any season. And Prince Rupert has no ice, no fog, no snow storms, no below zero and no blizzards.

A perfect example of minority rule is a new baby in the house.

That was a good bear story, Barney Mulvaney slipped to the Daily News yesterday. Many a substantial man of affairs would read that when all he'd do with a United Nations yarn would be to lean back and murmur, "oh yeah!"

KEEPING THIS SIDE

United States continues to hesitate about joining with Canada to put through the St. Lawrence Seaway and power project. The undertaking is a vast one and if ever achieved could have vast consequences, in a shipping and commercial sense. It would cost hundreds of millions. To mention a figure like that would have scared this country years ago. But today, Canada is becoming used to any amount you fancy.

will live in California for a while. So they sold out. They gathered little bergs from the nearby base of famous Mendenhall. This kind of ice appears to be "different." Formed under extreme pressure, crystal clear, tasteless and slow melting, a real demand developed in bars, hotels, cafes and in packing salmon for air shipments. Prince Rupert is surrounded by mountains, and gosh, there isn't a worthwhile glacier anywhere, as far as we've heard of, anyway.

Services in the Church

Saturday Sermon

Stewardship

By Rev. H. Godfrey Bird, St. Peter's Anglican Church, Seal Cove St. Mathew 16:3—"And the Lord commended the unjust steward, because he had done wisely: for the children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light."

The parable of "The Unjust Steward" is often regarded as one of the more difficult parables of our Lord. It raises the questions: Why did our Lord tell it? Is it consistent with His teachings? Has it any message for us today?

Let us first fix in our minds that "The Lord" in our text refers to the steward's employer.

Our Lord told this parable to His followers to remind them what things were held in esteem by the world. Having given his steward notice for his dishonesty the rich man commended the steward for quick summing up of his own position, his eye to the future, and his prompt action. The worldly master recognized his steward's worldly wisdom. If prompt action was commended by the world—in the face of material and physical starvation—more and greater diligence should be used by "The Children of Light" in the face of spiritual starvation.

The parable is quite in keeping with Our Lord's attitude towards material carelessness and spiritual carelessness. It has a great message for us if we ask ourselves quite honestly just how many of us would starve in short order—if we used just the same care in looking after our physical welfare as we are at present using to look after our spiritual welfare. Do we too often forget, that man is a spiritual being as well

GAS AND GERM WARFARE

These two types of attack are not new although germ warfare has been used on a limited scale up until now. Both are designed to destroy people, livestock and even crops. If gas is not fatal, it will incapacitate soldiers and home front workers for long periods. Apart from this gas attack causes panic, which is what an enemy desires.

GAS WARFARE—

While gas warfare does not present as much danger as atomic attack it can be serious if weather conditions are favourable, depending on wind temperature and degree of moisture. The nature of the terrain has much to do with the success of the attack. Open country allows free movement while built up areas tend to retain gas. The three most effective gases are Choking, Blister and Nerve Gas. Any of these may be distributed as vapor, as solid particles or by the process of liquid droplets.

In the case of gas attack, keep your respirator handy, make sure it is always in good condition, practice putting it on quickly, do not touch any food or water in open containers.

After a gas attack liquid and mud picked up on footwear is still dangerous material as are the vapors arising from liquid on the ground. First remove as much of danger as possible by hosing contaminated areas and where destruction has taken place cover with chemical bleach and earth. Seal off suspected areas with three inches of earth, sand or ashes. Where droplets or vapor have been used all equipment should be exposed to weathering from sun, wind and rain.

GERM WARFARE—

Germ warfare presents new problems in civilian and military defence. It can be carried out by air in the form of mist sprays, from submarines through mist machines, by percussion bombs and by fifth column poisoning of food and water supplies.

Because germ and toxin attacks can sometimes be carried out secretly, defence is difficult. However, there are things you must do to lessen the chance of success of this type of warfare. First of all don't listen to rumours about germs, because that is what the enemy are trying to create . . . panic.

Above all report any unusual sickness among humans, animals and poultry. Keep your house clean at all times and if there is a raid don't run out from shelter immediately after.

Watch for another bulletin next week.

Mankind's End Predicted

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP)—Wild animals, says famed naturalist-painter Charles E. Knight, will have disappeared from the earth completely in another 100 years. Man himself may not survive another 1,000,000 years.
These are the considered opinions of a man who has spent a lifetime studying and drawing wild life and prehistoric fossils. The 77-year-old artist explained the basis for his beliefs: "Man, the builder, is also the great destroyer of all time. He's the boss killer, and when he appears the animals and trees soon disappear."
He goes to Florida, drains the Everglades and destroys the food and shelter of birds. The birds go elsewhere—and men shoot them for their plumes or just for sport. Stockmen look at the woods and want to put their herds in them. Lumbermen look at the trees and want to cut them. Then the land becomes eroded, between the grazing animals and the lack of trees, and man's source of food and water disappears in the ocean.
Knight, a calm, good-natured man, remarked casually it is fortunate for Americans that our nation was not discovered by Europeans a thousand years—or even 500 years—earlier than it was.
"If it had been, the country would be completely decimated by now. The soil would have been ruined, the animals killed off and the country fished out. Man just can't seem to stand seeing anything alive."
He takes a more detached and scientific view of the probable extinction of the human species. "Other well-equipped animals have gone, due to changes of climate and changes of food," he explained. "We have come across places where hundreds of fossil animals obviously perished together. Besides, any animal has a tendency to degenerate in confinement. Just look at our dogs. They can't compete with a wolf. Man is like that, too. The average civilized man today couldn't compete with the old Indian in withstanding the vicissitudes of life."
The Brooklyn-born artist, whose work is hung in the great natural history museums of the country and who is recognized as the top man in his specialized field, has never hunted in his life.
Most of his work has been in zoos—you can study the animals from a "closer range"—and in museums where he has been able to reconstruct with his paint brush animals extinct for thousands of years.
He calls this work "putting skin on" fossils. Many times he has dreamed up wild and literally woolly animals on the basis of a few ancient bones, and then had his conception of how the animals looked verified by later discoveries of additional bones.
Knight says that although recent discoveries have pushed the birth of man back to around 1,000,000 years ago, scientists have never found anything "very old" in this country.
"Very old" in Knight's calendar means about 250,000 years. After all, the man has eaten marrow from woolly mammoth bone. The 5000-year-old mammoth was discovered, preserved in ice, several years ago.
"It was horrible," he recalls, "and tasted like rancid grease. Meat will keep all right indefinitely in ice, but it degenerates very rapidly once released. A few years back a bunch of Russian scientists tried to eat some mammoth meat thousands of years old, and they all got deathly sick."
The major value of the deep-freeze mammoth, he said, was not culinary, but established that they were covered with red hair.

Enjoys Alaska Trip as Prize

Enjoying reward for her skill in winning a Vancouver contest, Mrs. A. B. Quale, of Vancouver and Mr. Quale, a B.C. Electric worker, will be here on Canadian National's palatial SS Prince George tomorrow morning on its fifth summer cruise to Skagway, Alaska, this season.
When they boarded the Prince George at Vancouver last night, the Quayles were welcomed by the ship's master, Captain E. B. Caldwell. Later, they were given a rousing send-off from the firewell gallery by relatives and friends.
Mr. and Mrs. Quale, with all expenses paid, will also enjoy a rail trip from Skagway into the Yukon, as far as Whitehorse, for Mrs. Quale's writing, within 25 words, why she would like to go to Alaska on a luxury cruise aboard the SS Prince George. Her husband did not know she had entered the contest until she surprised him with the great news that they were going to Alaska on this year's vacation.
The lucky couple are not lonely during their ten-day trip. The popular ship is again loaded to capacity with 250 vacationists hailing from many parts of the North American continent.

Long Trains Coming Here

Indicative of the constantly increasing passenger traffic along the line of the Canadian National Railways through the central interior to Prince Rupert, one of the longest trains in years came in on Thursday night. It had thirteen coaches including five sleepers. Of course, all five were not still filled when they reached Prince Rupert as people had left the train at the busy towns along the line. Among those coming through to Prince Rupert were forty tourists who caught the steamer Prince Rupert and went on to Vancouver.
When the train left Jasper it had seventeen coaches. A couple of them were cut off at Prince George.
Passenger trains in and out of Prince Rupert all carry two sleepers now and, on several occasions lately, there has been a third.

Keep Logs In Alaska

JUNEAU—The Alaska Development Board, meeting at Juneau, renewed its support of the Forest Service policy of prohibiting export of pulp logs from the Territory. At least primary manufacturing of this natural resource, of which the Territory possesses 80 billion board feet of commercial quality, should take place in Alaska, the Development Board declared.
There had been a move to market southeastern Alaska spruce and hemlock at British Columbia pulp mills.
The Board supported construction of the proposed Copper River highway, Juneau-Atlin road and Fairbanks-Nome road.
It urged that the Juneau-Haines-Skagway car ferry be continued for next year as a necessary facility to link Southeastern Alaska and the Interior.
International approval of the Ketchikan-Prince Rupert air service was called for.

BIT OF ENGLAND

BERLIN (AP)—Garden is to be planted here with trees and flowers brought from Britain. The garden will be for the use of the German community in West Berlin and Burgomaster Reuter has welcomed the gift as "a living memorial to Anglo-German friendship."

MONTREAL (AP)—A reporter claimed that of 50 cars he watched making a right turn at a downtown intersection, only two paused to give pedestrians the right of way. One carried a New York licence, the other an Ontario one.

VERDUN, Que. (CP) Perhaps it was the heat. An alderman opposed to a controversial measure before city council voted for it by mistake. Another opponent of the motion missed the session when it was tied up by a traffic jam. The measure was passed.

All Star Softball

Home Run Breaks Up Game Between Select Teams

Tiny Carlsen broke up the softball game last night between two Prince Rupert All-Star teams with a long seventh-inning home run. The game was won by Rusty Ford's nine, 8-6 over the team managed by Harry LePage. Both Monk Sundburg, for the winners and Art Olsen, for the losers, pitched good ball.

The Ford's scored first in the top of the second inning when Don Hartwig led off with a double and came home on a single by Ben Wagner. LePage's got the run back in the bottom of the second when Watson got a life on an error and scored on another error on a hit by Jerry Ford.

Ford scored again in the top of the third on Larry Matthews' single and an error on a hit by Young. LePage's bounced right back with four fast runs when Jordy Smith led off and was safe on an error. Bob Losie singled, Don Scherk hit a long triple to score two and scored himself when Frenchy Vigar's grounder was kicked. Watson then drove in Vigar with a besehit for run number four in the inning.

Ford's got one back in the fourth when Don Hartwig walked, stole second and scored on a single by Denny Waters. The fifth inning was scoreless but Ford's team tied up the game in the sixth on a single by Don Hartwig, a walk to Ben Wagner and a double by Rusty Ford who had replaced Lloyd Lahti in the fifth.

LePage's were set down in order in the bottom of the sixth and the game was a 5-5 tie.

In the top of the seventh Monk Sundburg gained first on an error, as did Darryl Young, and then Tiny Carlsen stepped up and drove a long line drive out to the Masonic Hall porch an (three runs were in. In the last of the seventh Art Olsen led off with a double and scored on Chris Dallyn's single but that was the best LePage's could do.

Although there were a few errors the game was close and interesting all the way and there were many good plays to balance the errors.

BATTER UP

By LARRY STANWOOD

A highlight of tomorrow's Ketchikan-Prince Rupert tussle which is likely to be an under-current of the whole game is the return revenge bout between Prince Rupert All-Star pitcher Jack Lindsay and Ketchikan's pitcher-manager, Harry Ludvigson.

Last year, at Ketchikan, Ludvigson out-pitched Lindsay. This will be the first time the two have faced each other on opposite mounds since. Jack's had a good long rest, too, just returned from a three-week holiday and should be in good shape.

Following is the line-up for the home team:

Dave Abel and Herb Morgan, catchers.

Cliff Dahl, first baseman.
Bill Sunberg and Benny Windle, second base.

Doug Shier and Bruce Simundson, shortstop.

Don Scherk, third base.

Stan Cornwell, Miner Simundson, Bill Gunn and Andy Marshall, outfielders.

Pitchers will be Letourneau, Sharpe, Rosedale, McDonald, Larry Matthews and Lindsay.

We expect Letourneau will start the first game of the double-header, with Lindsay starting the second.

SEASON'S AVERAGES

We expected to have the season's batting averages for our readers today but met a snag. Somehow, a scorebook—the first few games—turned up missing and, in waiting for word on attempts to locate it, we ran short of time. After Sunday's game, however, we'll have the averages but they will be taken as of June 19, first game on record, between Abel & Odowes and Gordon & Anderson.

International games will not count in the batting averages or fielding percentages.

TICKETS IN DEMAND

We assume all baseball fans have their advance tickets by now for the international double-header—two for the price of one.

There are, however, still a few available at the Grotto and Bud's Place and our advice is not to waste any time getting them for tomorrow's game promises to be a high-strung event which fans won't want to miss.

Like one of them told us the other day, He's batching while the Missus is on holidays.

"Will have to get up early Sunday morning then to do the housework. Can't miss that game." Game starts promptly on time as advertised on the front page of today's Daily News.

We beg to make the following correction in the league standings, in which we erred on two occasions. (Slip of the typewriter.)

LONDON (CP)—Four small fish in a jar on top of a television set were found dead after the BBC broadcast a supersonic whistle. Three tadpoles and several hundred thousand unhearing human listeners survived.

SWIM CLASSES at Gyro Park each Tuesday and Friday are proving highly popular. Instructors Ian McHardy and Miss Gloria Sather (left) found today that the size of classes are growing each day. Nearly 200 children, ages 8 and up, have registered so far. Classes are sponsored by the Civic Centre, part of the summer recreation program.

Swim Classes At McClymont Park are Proving Popular

Close to 200 youngsters are taking part in the Civic Centre sponsored swim classes each Tuesday and Friday at Gyro Park and more enrolments are coming in all the time, says Ian McHardy, instructor.

HISTORIC COIN
LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—Paul Harvey found an 1852 half-cent coin while digging his garden. It bore an impression of St. George and the Dragon and the words "Bank of Upper Canada 1852" inscribed on it.

"It happens suddenly to most of them," says the instructor. "They get the knack of the technique all at once."

And there are many others besides those in the swim classes who use the pool on these warm days. On several warm nights lately the pool has been packed right up to closing time at 9 p.m.

HOOP BALL
Another game has been added to the McClymont Park playgrounds. It's a new version of basketball, called "Hoop Ball," and features a circular court with one basket in the centre. Looks interesting and is claimed to be gaining in popularity in school gyms, parks and other playground centres.

M. J. Saunders is sailing tomorrow on the Princess Kathleen for Ocean Falls on business in connection with his contracting work at the paper town.

Blackwood on Bridge

By Easley Blackwood

"All right," said Mr. New, the eager kibitzer. "Today I play." Mr. Champion snorted as he spread the cards for the cut. For some weeks now Mr. New had been getting in his hair and he was aching to teach the upstart a lesson.

Mr. Dale cut the 10 of spades, Miss Brash the deuce of hearts and Mr. New the deuce of clubs.

"Looks like you and I, Dale," said Mr. Champion as he picked up a card and flipped it over. But the card was the deuce of diamonds. Mr. Champion muttered something hotly under his breath as he sat down opposite Mr. New.

The rubber started off quietly enough. Miss Brash opened the bidding with one heart and Mr. New passed. Mr. Dale felt that his hand wasn't good enough for two bids so he decided to raise his partner's bid at once. With her usual optimism Miss Brash bounced right into game.

It didn't take Mr. New long to make up his mind about his opening lead. He promptly got his singleton spade out on the table. This was a very bad choice and one that is frequently made by inexperienced players. There is nothing wrong with the singleton lead in general. Sometimes it is the only lead that will defeat the opposing contract. But it is seldom a winning lead when the opener also has four trumps.

Mr. Champion won the first trick with the ace of spades and returned a spade. Deightedly, Mr. New ruffed, thereby winning a heart trick which he was always going to get anyway. Looking around for new worlds to conquer, he laid down the queen of clubs. Miss Brash won with the ace, took three quick rounds of trumps and parked her losing club on the fourth spade in dummy. She conceded the ace of diamonds, making four hearts as advertised. Note that if Mr. New had opened the queen of clubs Miss Brash would have had to lose one trick in each suit, for down one.

singleton when you had a trump trick anyway?" Mr. Champion wanted to know. "I thought I might trump two spades," said Mr. New, lamely. "Two spades!" roared Mr. Champion. "How did you think you could get into my hand again? The opponents have to have something to get into four hearts—even with Miss Brash bidding it."

"I resent that word 'even,'" said Miss Brash. But she was smiling as she entered the score.

American Gob Tells of Georgia Life— Halibut Fishing Again

Two American Navy destroyers, assigned to reserve cruise duties, tied up at Ocean Dock here Friday afternoon with about 300 men aboard. They are the USS Rombach and Brannon and they're here until Monday morning.

USS Rombach, captained by Lt.-Cdr. W. T. Davern, carries the naval reservists—about 75 of them—while USS Brannon is "more or less along for the ride." Their last port of call was Vancouver and this is as far north as they go. Prince Rupert was put on the itinerary schedule as a port of call because "American sailors have always been treated so well here," says the captain of USS Brannon, Lt.-Cdr. Dunston. "Word gets around fast."

And while the talk is about American sailors, let's have a look at the private life of a junior grade lieutenant from the central part of Georgia, USA. He is Robert C. Collier, and he's been back in the Navy just 10 weeks. He was reserve and was called back into service but for two years before that he was trying to settle down into private business, operating a men's wear store.

A small farming town, halfway between Atlanta and Augusta, is Collier's home. Until lately, Georgia mainly has been a cotton-growing state, along with tobacco and a few grains, but the trend is to something much different these days, says the Georgian.

Modern, scientific farming of beef cattle is slowly turning own language. Crows talk, he says, just like human beings, only, of course, their vocabulary is very limited—to about four or five words.

There is the call of danger, for example, which a flock of crows gets from their leader. They always have a leader, who is elected for his wisdom and shrewdness. And if a leader should move his flock into danger, he is forcibly ejected from the fold, so speaks Collier from experience.

"They're getting wise to us now and it's quite a trick to shoot a crow. They recognize you for miles."

One brand of publicity which has come from his state hasn't been much exaggerated, believes the sailor. It concerns the stories about Okefenokee, "the terrible swamp," in southern Georgia.

"It's pretty bad, especially for a stranger. There are spots in that swamp, too, where nobody could get out." The swamp, featured in plots of several adventure and thriller yarns in the past, marks the outer fringes of the Florida Everglades, and abounds in alligators, moccasins, snakes, rattlers, and even crocodiles have been reported. However, the swamp remains a lure and temptation to the adventurer and sportsman, for it is the last refuge for deer in numbers, for wild turkey and grouse.

"I'm about as far away from home now as I could get, but I'm having a good time. Seeing other countries, and the way other folks live is one of the greatest educations—and I wouldn't be here, if it wasn't for the Navy," Lt. Collier said with a slow grin. "Hope we see you again."

Most passengers on the south-bound CNR steamer Prince Rupert Thursday night were tourists, either round trippers or visitors from the east by train going through to Vancouver. Local persons embarking were W. Shrubalski, A. Shrubalski, Mr. and Mrs. G. Rivet, Miss M. Thornton and Miss R. Bentsen.

Union steamer Coquitlam, Capt. William McCombe, arrived in port at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon on her regular call on her way from Vancouver to Queen Charlotte Islands and had the following passengers for here: J. Pitman, W. Traeger, F. Young, Mrs. J. McKay, Mrs. R. McCarthy, Mrs. A. McQuinstan, Walter Cameron, P. A. Bond, Paul Johanson and George Casey.

HALIBUT FISHING
Little word as yet has been received from the two newly-opened halibut areas, Area 2B and Area 2C. Some of the vessels out have reported "fair" fishing, a few say fishing is "good," others say it is too early to tell.

But both fishing companies and fishermen are eagerly awaiting the result the test areas will bring for the late season has been urged by them for several years.

Since fishing halibut has been restricted mainly to the month of May—for the last five years or so—fishermen feel they haven't been getting the most of halibut runs. They claim there are two separate runs, one in the spring and one in the summer. Therefore, fishermen's theory is that the summer run, not having been fished for such a long time, should be numerous and fish should be of fine quality.

International Fisheries Commission consented to test the theory of the fishermen by opening the two areas, one near the south end of Queen Charlotte Island, the other, beyond the north tip. These areas were not fished during the May season so there should be the regular spring run still available. It is the increased numbers of halibut, compared to Areas 2A and 3A—if any—in which the commission and the fishermen are interested.

Results, however, will not be known until some time early next year, when final tabulation by the commission has been completed.

Meanwhile, more than 40 vessels are divided between the two

Fearful Thriller

Amazing and mysterious story of a terrifying visitor from a nether world in the sky, Howard Hawks' suspenseful picture "The Thing," much discussed film production is showing at the Totem Theatre here Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next.

The weird yarn is that of a group of scientists investigating Arctic phenomena near the North Pole who witness the crash of a mysterious space ship and signal a group of Army fliers of the crew of the space ship is rescued and taken to base where thrilling developments ensue as the fearsome "thing" is studied and found to present a horrible threat to civilization unless some means is found of destroying it. A competent cast of newcomers enacts the sensational screen story.

Suspenseful Melodrama

Suspenseful melodrama comes to the screen of the Capitol Theatre here on Monday and Tuesday in "The Man Who Cheated Himself," starring Lee Cobb, Jane Wyatt and John Dall.

The story is that of a veteran police detective who becomes involved with a murder rap while covering up for a fickle society woman whom he loves. Cobb's younger brother and a protegee on police force cracks the case and thereby develop dramatic circumstances. Solving of the criminal case, however, is only the beginning of the personal conflict. How it is unravelled and finally settled provides strong fare. John Dall plays the younger brother and Jane Wyatt is charming in the feminine lead.
