Hot Race in American League Continues

NEW YORK (CP)—Big Vic Raschi and squat Yogi Berra teamed up yesterday and guided the New York Yankees to within one percentage point of the pace-setting Cleveland Indians.

Raschi pitched one-hit ball for seven innings and Berra clouted a grand slam home run to escort the Bombers to a 5 to 2 victory over Detroit Tigers.

Boston's third place Red Sox claimed to within three games of the Indians by humbling the last place St. Louis Browns 9 to 6.

Southpaw Bobby Shantz shut out Chicago 3 to 0 for the Philadelphia Athletics to chalk up his 16th victory against nine losses in an American League night game.

The New York Giants defeated Chicago Cubs 7 to 2 in the National League. Five Chicago errors helped the Giants to win.

Preacher Roe hurled his 20th victory of the season and Andy Pafko hit his 24th home run as the Brooklyn Dodgers, National League leaders, defeated Pittsburgh Pirates 3 to 1.

The win kept Brooklyn six games ahead of the Giants. Philadelphia Phillies, aided by four errors, defeated Cincinnati Reds 10 to 4.

Boston Braves claimed a 7 to 4 triumph over St. Louis Cardinals after waiting more than a month to receive credit for the game in National League records. The game had been suspended August 2 to allow the Braves to catch a train.

Battle Over Blonde—Franchot Tone Comes Out Second Best

HOLLYWOOD (CP)—Franchot Tone, out of town Thursday night with a bride-to-be, ran into the flying fists of a groom-to-be. He wound up in hospital Friday with concussion of the brain and a smashed face.

The beating—it was one of Hollywood's thumpiest in several seasons—was administered by actor Tom Neal who was waiting for Tone when he came home with blonde Barbara Payton.

While Barbara screamed, the 35-year-old Neal knocked Tone out so cold it took several hours to restore him to consciousness. The veteran actor, 46 years of age, was operated on later for multiple fractures including a broken nose and left cheekbone.

To Increase Mail Service

AN increase in mail service between Prince Rupert and interior points is a likelihood with the advent of the six-day-a-week train service September 30, says Postmaster J. R. Morrison. No official word has yet been received regarding the mail but notification is expected soon.

Judge's Chambers,
Prince Rupert, B.C.,
August 20th, 1951.

Dear Friends:

For as long as any of us can remember, the doors of the Prince Rupert General Hospital have been open to the sick and injured of this community, twenty-four hours a day, year after year. Without discrimination of any kind it has served the needs of our citizens.

As our growing community taxed the facilities of our hospital, expansion kept pace with the requirements. Today, however, we are faced with a serious shortage of beds and the heating plant has become inadequate for our needs.

For this reason I am appealing to all citizens to join with me in the first Capital Fund Raising Campaign the hospital has ever undertaken.

We have much to be grateful for. Here is our opportunity to acknowledge our responsibility to our hospital and ourselves. I have every confidence you will want to do your part in making this $75,000 Modernization Fund Campaign the success it should be.

Sincerely,
W. O. Fulton

Atlantic Treaty Nations Must Get Balance of Power

Conference at Ottawa Is Told by Van Zeeland, President of Council

OTTAWA (CP)—Military power of 12 member nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is still far below the level of Communist armed might, Foreign Minister Paul van Zeeland of Belgium said today.

"A balance is the only way in which war can be avoided," Van Zeeland, president of the North Atlantic Council, declared in opening the seventh session of the council.

He said that NATCO was pressing to catch up to the military strength of "adversaries of our common civilization." He added: "We are still a long way from our objective."

Labor Board Is Criticized

Prince Rupert Trades and Labor Council Thursday night endorsed a motion by the Vancouver body condemning action of the Labor Relations Board in de-certifying the Marine Workers & Boilermakers' Union in the small boat yards of Vancouver.

A letter from Hon. John Cates, minister of labor, stated to the meeting that, while nothing had been allowed in the estimates this year for setting up a full time fair wage inspector at Prince Rupert, request of the council would be placed before the legislature.

Civic matters were discussed and delegates were urged to see all eligible voters registered for forthcoming civic election in December.

G. W. Watmough, after his report on the Labor Day dance, and Mrs. Watmough were given a vote of thanks for their assistance.

President J. S. Black was chairman.

Inflation Is Threat

Will be discussed at NATO Conference in Ottawa Next week

OTTAWA (CP)—There is a "very real feeling" among western leaders that inflation has become a major menace to western security, External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson told a press conference here in disclosing that both short and long range economic aspects of rearmaments are going to be examined by those leaders at the Nations of the Atlantic Treaty Organization here during the next week.

The capital is already filling with delegates. Inflation has become as big a threat as bombs to the western world, Mr. Pearson said.

For that reason the Atlantic Pact council would devote a lot of its time to studying the relationship between rearmament and the economy of the free world.

Fortunes Gathered With Running of Famous St. Ledger Race Today

MONTREAL (CP)—J. E. Walker of Vancouver today won $38,000 when he held a winning Quebec Army and Navy sweepstake ticket on Talma II, winner of the St. Ledger classic.

Second prize money—$22,887—went to M. Munro of Vancouver who held a ticket on Fraise du Bois II.

Lucien Picard of Montreal will collect $15,245 for a ticket on Medway III.

Talma II, French-owned 100-to-6 outsider, today won the one-mile six-furlong race at St. Ledger, the last classic of the English flat-racing season.

Fraise du Bois II was second and Medway third.

Talma II romped home an easy winner by 10 lengths.

Next Move to Communists

Dean of Newsmen, Maritimse, Dies

ST. JOHN, N.B. — Fifty years an active newspaperman in this city, Frank I. McCafferty is dead. Much of this time, he served as city editor, and was widely known through eastern Canada and United States. He was AP and CP correspondent. His age was 79. He was regarded as the dean of newspapermen in the Maritimes.

The statement added that this admission was "no indication that the United Nations command will admit to any trumped-up charge, no matter how loudly they protest."

The Communists had suggested as terms for a resumption of the conference that the United Nations admit all neutral zone charges made by them (the Communists).

Alabama Has Prison Break

Convicts Were in Entire Charge for Time—Two Guards Dismissed

SPEIGNER, Alabama (CP)—Six of 21 convicts who made a daring break from Draper prison last night were back in custody today.

Among those still missing is 33-year-old Leo Self, one of Alabama's most notorious convicts, who made four previous escapes. He was serving a 20-year sentence for robbery.

The prisoners raided the penitentiary arsenal before escaping.

Two guards were discharged as a result of the break. For a time the convicts were in entire control of the prison, holding the guards, whom they had seized, as hostages.

Fred Rose Unable To Get Work

MONTREAL, Sept 15 — Fred Rose has been looking for employment, and says that to date he has not been able to find any. Rose, a former Federal member, was recently released from the penitentiary where he had served a term on an espionage charge.

Tonight's train, due from the East at 11:15, was reported this afternoon to be on time.

Big Wins in Daily Double

Vancover Exhibition Park daily double combination, Peaceful Jane to Van Vic, yesterday paid off $3,401.10, believed to be the largest pay-off in the history of British Columbia racing.

Three Vancouver men shared the only two tickets sold. The winners were Cyril McGuire and Stan Goddard, who held an interest in one ticket, and J. J. Diamond, one time horse owner.

Peaceful Jane paid $190.40 for a two-win ticket and Van Vic returned $20 in second place.

Civic Pride and Beauty

A DAILY NEWS representative, on a recent trip to Eastern Canada, had a hurried glance at several cities in Ontario and Quebec.

He saw the model city of Arvida which, in the way of planning and design, is something really to behold—possibly as attractive and well kept community as there is in Canada. (We are told that Alcan plans taking equal pains about the development of Kitimat.)

Old Kingston is also a showplace, a quick drive through which, even the older sections, was very impressive.

Of course, there were also seen some run-down communities and the natural conclusions were made about the state of civic pride of the people dwelling therein.

Coming home, we could certainly say that Prince Rupert, although favored by one of the most picturesque and natural setting and notwithstanding the fine gardening efforts of many citizens, leaves much to be desired. And, as we have often said, its dilapidated sidewalks, open rat-infested ditches and many pot-holed roads set a poor example and offer little encouragement to the rest of the citizenry.

The Financial Post comments appropriately: Canada's towns need a beauty treatment. As places to live in and visit, many are fast losing their attractiveness. Seedy, rundown, unkempt are the adjectives for too many.

In town after town, thoughtlessness or ineptitude has led to such conditions. Streets are poorly cleaned, traffic clogs residential streets, shack developments litter the outskirts, and industry seemingly can build anywhere it pleases. It's not just that neglect and decay are evident on every hand, but many places, despite fantastic growth in population, put forth no effort to provide compensation in other ways. How many have added a square inch of park or recreational area?

Often the very thing that attracts industry in the first place is the desirability of a town as a place in which to live as well as to work.

Action to preserve and extend the amenities of many of our towns and cities is urgent. Here is an important job for local governments and local groups of citizens.

Time to Protest

ADVOCATING a line of action in advance of a meeting of combined Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce at Quesnel called to vigorously protest the disgraceful state of the main highway system and to unify their demands that something be done at once to rectify the situation, the Prince George Citizen, speaking out in a strong editorial, said:

It is unfortunate that such action was not taken earlier in the year, although the delay can probably be explained by our mistaken belief that the government, once it recognized the neglected condition of our highways, would have something more tangible to offer than promises.

Instead, the roads have deteriorated to a point where they can be truthfully termed the worst in the whole province.

Businessmen should... in a body... take a leading part in the fight for better roads—not next year, but now. By consolidating our demands in one loud voice it is possible that Victoria will listen and act.

At the very least, it gives us an opportunity to display our unity in this important matter and to show that we are not content to relax in supine indifference while the government permits the lack of suitable roads to stifle progress.

And from what we have been hearing lately, Prince Rupert and some of the western end Boards of Trade might say "ditto" and "amen."

Anyway, the minister of public works is coming in a few days to see and hear all about it.

St. Laurent 0—Truman 85

IN FISCAL 1950, there were 44 attempts on the life of President Truman. In fiscal 1951, there were 85, and 3629 persons were questioned about letters and telephone calls they made to the White House.

What's the score for Prime Minister St. Laurent and Governor-General Alexander?

The deputy commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police told the Financial Post there have been no attempts on the life of either man in the past two years "unless it's something we don't know about—no threatening letters, phone calls, no suspicious characters—nothing of the kind."

We leave readers to their own reflections.—Financial Post.

Tito's Trieste Offer
A FEW months ago, when I went into Yugoslavia from Italy, Trieste was still a thorn in the flesh of everybody.

It was like a tiny little comic opera kingdom, all by itself. To get from Italy into Yugoslavia or back again you had to check through a whole extra set of officials. Even the trains were operated, for a short stretch, by the administrators of this little No Man's Land.

Now Tito dramatically holds out the hand of friendship to Italy and offers to settle the whole Trieste dispute by direct negotiation.

The reason is obvious. Yugoslavia acutely fears an attack from the East. And from what is coming over the radio from Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria, this is a real possibility. The highest Russian spokesmen in the satellite countries are making verbal attacks of such fury that they sound like exhortations to war.

TITO HAS clearly said that in the event of an attack by Russia on the western allies, through Germany, Yugoslavia will immediately fight—on the side of the West.

He is a realist of the realists. He knows full well what would happen to his country, and himself, if the Russians were able to win quick success in such an attack through Germany. Hence he is only stating the obvious. He would be an utter fool to ask his country to stay "neutral" in such a conflict—and Tito is nobody's simpleton.

What Tito wants, of course, is a guarantee that, if Yugoslavia is invaded from the east, the U.S.A. and British Commonwealth will stand by Yugoslavia.

I HAVE a feeling that such a war is the one we have to fear right now. Maybe I'm wrong. But I do not feel the Russian leaders will ever make the total plunge by deliberate choice. But what we are likely to see is more clashes on the Korean pattern, where the issues are confused, and where little attacks may be attempted, without certainty of total new world war.

The Russians must know that there are Americans in high places who hate Tito's guts. From allied sources in Belgrade I got this picture of such American reasoning:

Suppose Tito's Yugoslavia is attacked, by Russian satellites, but not by the Russian army itself. Suppose we do really get behind Tito and support him 100 per cent. Suppose he wins an emphatic, clear-cut victory. That would mean that the Tito brand of socialism might spread like wildfire all across western Europe—for what most people in western Europe fear about Communism is not its economic theories but the ruthless disguised Moscow imperialism and police state which goes along with it.

THOSE western statesmen who sincerely believe in the UN Charter naturally favor standing behind Yugoslavia if she is attacked. But the American business and financial interests who are primarily interested in maintaining and extending the capitalist system are against honest aid to Yugoslavia in event of attack. They say, "Let Tito stew in his own juice."

IF THE North Atlantic Treaty powers want to take the one step which is most likely to forestall the most likely war of the next few months, they could

Reflects and Reminisces

AND WHAT OF THE S?

On the subject of living costs, a lecturer refers to the "spirituality of food." By this is meant the risk of becoming chicken-hearted in the event of consuming roast poultry, or turning brutal should a good old beef-steak relieve one's appetite. This sort of nonsense arouses curiosity. What does the lecturer fancy, say, for lunch? He might prefer coffee and a bowl of kippered nuts.

It is so easy to be good natured. I wonder how anybody takes the trouble to be anything else, observes Douglas Jerrold.

PREFERRED RAILS

It's just thirty years ago this month since Clarence Prest, calculating young flier from New Mexico first saw the north. Prior to 1921, precious few, if any, planes were noticed here, and nobody had occasion to worry over lack of landing fields. His frail little air craft had flown all the way from Las Vegas to Edmonton. And from there westward, the railway took care of the flier and his property. The former feared the lofty peaks of a hitherto unseen land.

It was fair time and this was a major drawing card. Aviation was distinctly a novelty. Long chances were the rule either when landing or taking off, the site being where the acropolis, or Roosevelt Park is situated. Prest had adventure in his blood and on this, his first flight to Skeena, circumstances could have given him kinder treatment. It was there he lost his plane. At night, he kept it tethered, so speak, at the Acropolis, and fully exposed to the whims of fall weather in Prince Rupert. And that was more violence than could be endured.

NEARER SIBERIA

It was Prest's pet idea to go from Las Vegas to Siberia by air. He used to discuss it with new-made friends while here. After leaving, he was unheard of for a while, but made another attempt this time going direct to Alaska. His flight was interrupted by a fall in the midst of a great heard of reindeer in the Alaska tundra. And that happened not so far from the shores of the Behring Sea.

Andrej Gromyko tried to dictate the Japanese peace treaty at San Francisco, and was turned down cold. Once back home, he will have nothing to show for time, effort and expenses. But no one can say Andrej lacks nerve. Fancy trying to dictate a treaty when your country only fought five days!

BELIEVE IT OR NOT!

When air liners crash or burn, and entire passenger lists are never heard of again, one has to be stout-hearted not to sometimes wonder if, after all, aviation is best. Accidents do multiply—but so do the number of passenger miles flown. Flying, we are told, from the most responsible of quarters, is actually becoming safer. Yet somehow, it's hard to take!

do something like this:

Make a clear-cut declaration that in event of attack on Yugoslavia they will come to her aid with all the power they would muster if such an attack were on one of themselves.

If we were to do that, the danger of an attack on Yugoslavia would be greatly diminished.

It would be hardheaded common sense. It might prevent another "little" war that could start the big one.

Saturday Sermon Gods Without Life

(By Rev. G. Fawcett, Full Gospel Tabernacle)
The scripture gives us a vivid picture of the heathen world. It describes their gods in graphic language:

"Their idols are silver and gold, the works of men's hands. They have mouths but they speak not; eyes have they, but they see not; they have ears, but they hear not; noses have they, but they smell not; they have hands, but they handle not; neither speak they through their throats." (Ps. 115:4-7.)

Gods without life! Gods without power! Gods who cannot solve life's pressing problems, nor help their blind worshippers, neither in time nor in eternity! The Scripture further describes such gods and their worshippers in the 115:8. "They that make them are like unto them; so is every one that trusteth in them."

Strange as it may seem, the tragedy of heathenism in a more subtle form has descended with deadly effect into the very circle of light. Among those who profess to be Christians, the God of the Bible has been recreated, the God of man's imagination, stripped of the blazing majesty of His righteousness, shorn of the eternal verities of Divine truth. His very love corrupted till it has no meaning whatsoever, deprived of the virtue to redeem and impart new life to the broken and sinful lives of men and women. God has been made remote, almost impersonal, and at best only endowed with the qualities of human character. He is a God of man's own making and is worthless as the Scripture which we just read stated.

Paul speaks about such a religion in his letter to Timothy, when he speaks about those who have a form of godliness, but deny the power thereof. And in the opening verse of his Epistle to the Galatians he pronounces a solemn anathema upon false teachers and so called preachers of the Gospel. In contrast to this powerless religion or false gospel, Paul speaks about a glorious life changing gospel in these words: "I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God unto Salvation, to everyone that believes, to the Jew first and also to the Greek."

This false gospel, or recreated God that we are speaking about is not the product of stupid, ignorant unlearned men, but on the contrary, it originates and is proclaimed by some of the most clever and brilliant minds in the religious world. What does it mean, you may ask. Simply

Red Price is Held Too High

TOKYO (P) — There has been no response as yet from General Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters to the Peiping broadcast Thursday night which said that Korean cease-fire talks "could start again immediately" and an agreement quickly reached if the United Nations would take the blame for all neutrality violations the Reds have charged. However, the price asked by the Communists appears to be too high for the Allied commander to accept.

The Red offer was not made on the official level. It came during a Peiping broadcast dispatch quoting a Communist correspondent in Kaesong.

Guide Leader To Visit City

Miss K. Boul, a Blue Diploma'd Trainer, one of the highest training qualifications in the guide movement, will spend a few days in Prince Rupert next week working with the Guide and Brownie leaders and Guides and Brownies of Prince Rupert and Terrace.

Miss Boul is to hold four sessions in the Civic Centre for local leaders in the movement and for any ladies interested in Guide or Brownie work.

It is also planned that she will conduct a Guide meeting on Tuesday afternoon for all local Guides and a Brownie meeting on Wednesday afternoon for the local packs. Both these meetings will be held in the Anglican Cathedral and the Guides and Brownies can be sure of having meetings they will not forget in a hurry.

It is expected that a number of local ladies will make an effort to attend some of Miss Boul's lectures, particularly parents or guardians of the Guides and Brownies, and see what can be done for the amusement of Girls in this community ranging from 8 years to 16 years. She will hold evening meetings on Monday and Tuesday and morning meetings on Tuesday and Wednesday in the Civic Centre.

WIN A PRIZE

Your choice of these and many other wonderful prizes for a winning 250 word essay. We'll send you entry form and full information on receipt of your name and address in the coupon below.

This essay contest is directed to our younger citizens that they may learn of the beneficial effects of the Pulp and Paper Industry to our provincial economy.

DID YOU KNOW?...
British Columbia's Pulp and Paper Industry converts trees into hundreds of pulp and paper products. The dollar value of these products is considerably more than the same amount of timber converted into lumber products.

Prairies Get Too Much Rain

WINNIPEG—Harvesting weather has been unfavorable over most of the prairie provinces during the past week with showers or heavy rains reported from many sections, according to the Weekly Crop Report of the Department of Agriculture of the Canadian National Railways. Intermittent operations have been carried on depending on the degree of rainfall. Many points which had just resumed operations had to stop because of further showers. Rains occurred the night of Sept. 12. They were heaviest in Northern Manitoba and northeastern Saskatchewan and lighter elsewhere. These intermittent showers, however, cause further delays and prevent harvesting operations from becoming general over widespread areas. The major requirement of Western Canada is warm dry sunny weather. The threat of frost cannot be discounted in all sections where the crop is late. Weather was cooler in the Okanagan Valley where the peach movement will be completed this week-end. Prunes will be moving next week. Bartlett pears are nearly finished and the movement of Flemish pears has commenced. D'Anjou pears will not be on the market for another three weeks. Grapes are now moving and McIntosh apples will commence moving this week-end. Practically all fruit crops will reach estimates previously reported.

Britain Stops Iran Shipments

LONDON—Great Britain this week stopped British ships from delivering cargoes to Iran. A Board of Trade spokesman disclosed that vessels carrying "certain scarce materials to Iran have been diverted." He said this was in line with a British Treasury statement earlier this week cancelling financial and economic concessions to the Tehran government. Breakdown of Anglo-Iranian talks for settling of the oil nationalization dispute brought about the British squeeze on Iran.

New Vault Tough Job

A three-ton steel door was a tough job to stand upright and place into the vault entrance in the Canadian Bank of Commerce building and Bank Manager Edward Boulier is happy that the work is nearing completion. In line with expanding business, a new vault was found necessary. The huge streamline model, with double locks, arrived in Vancouver aboard SS Parma, direct from London via the Panama Canal route. It was landed here last week by Princess Nora.

LONDON—Hospital authorities examining a man charged with attempted suicide found he had swallowed pins, needles, broken glass, cufflinks, studs, buttons, flashlight bulbs, pieces of tin, paper clips and wool. He hit the ceiling. "What else can happen to me in this rubber?" he roared, waving his arms in the air.

IN RE ESTATE OF GONZAGUE LOUIS GENDRON DECEASED. INTENTESTATE TAKE NOTICE that as Administrator, duly appointed by the court, of the estate of Gonzague Louis Gendron, who died at Queen Charlotte City, British Columbia, on the 14th day of March, 1951, I require all creditors and others having claims against the said estate to send the same to me, properly verified, at the address mentioned below on or before the 15th day of October, 1951, after which date I shall proceed to distribute the estate to those entitled by law, having regard only to such claims of which I shall then have been notified. And further take notice that all persons indebted to the said estate are required to pay their indebtedness to me forthwith. Dated at Prince Rupert, B. C., this 14th day of September, 1951. Blackwood on Bridge
By Easley Blackwood

This is the sixth hand of a rubber in which Mr. Dale was paired with Mr. Muzzy against the experts. His luck had been so good on the first five hands that he decided to open up and get a little fancy on the defence in this deal. Without knowing it, Mr. Muzzy co-operated beautifully.

Mr. Dale elected to open a spade against Mr. Champion's four heart contract. As you know, the correct lead from his spade holding is the king. But Mr. Dale knew Mr. Muzzy would not pay much attention to his lead, no matter what it was. He would not try to "read" it while Mr. Champion undoubtedly would. So Mr. Dale laid down the ace of spades, which usually denotes possession of the king. Now Mr. Muzzy looked at his spade holding. He saw the 3, 7 and 8. They were all "equals."

He gives practically no thought to which card he plays in this situation. (How can it make any difference?) In any case, he grabbed for one of his small spades and came out with the eight spot. The combination of the ace lead is on his left and the apparent come-on signal is on his right was too much for Mr. Champion. He felt sure the king of spades was in Mr. Muzzy's hand. Therefore when Mr. Dale led the four of spades at trick two, he ducked in dummy—and Mr. Muzzy won with the jack. Nothing happened for a few moments and Mr. Champion started to fidget. "Muzzy," he growled, "are you going to sit there and think all night?" "Who's thinking?" replied Mr. Muzzy honestly. "Well, whatever you're doing, kindly stop it and lead." "It's not my lead," said Mr. Muzzy indignantly. An inspection of the last trick proved Mr. Muzzy was wrong, as usual. Finally he led a third round of spades and Mr. Dale won with the king. As you see, it was impossible for Mr. Champion to avoid the loss of a heart trick to the queen and he was down one.

That Mr. Muzzy is just too clever for you," said Mr. Dale, grinning. "Flashing the eight of spades on the first trick was a masterpiece." The female octopus, found on the shores of most warm seas, may lay as many as 50,000 eggs within a few days.

Refusing to Re-Arm Japan
TOKYO—Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida, who guided Japan along the road to independence, told his people Friday he will refuse to rearm his country. His stand was viewed in some quarters as indicating he would step out of office as soon as the United States-Japanese security pact becomes law. He instructed his countrymen to keep faith with the western world. Observers predicted Yoshida will resign in favor of Hatoyama, founder of a new party, who was elected recently.

WATERFRONT -- WHIFFS

Rush Eases but Waterfront Still Busy—Some Fishing Still On

The rush has eased off along the waterfront, machine shops, boatworks and fish houses are ready to say, but everyone seems to be just as happy—or happier.

"Business just about right—we still have to hustle, but the big rush is over." But it's only a lull—the calm before the storm, is the way most of them look at it. There is still the end of the season rush to come.

Union steamer Coquitlam, Capt. William McCombe, arrived in port yesterday afternoon with passengers and a heavy freight cargo, sailing onward to Queen Charlotte Islands at 11 p.m. Disembarking here were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McRae, Mr. and Mrs. McGillivray, Miss D. Bentena, Dr. Dorothy Markin, A. F. Mulligan, Mr. and Mrs. S. McDougall, Mr. and Mrs. F. Gale, W. La Croix, R. A. Smithwick.

An important transaction was concluded this week at the Yacht Club. Al Faulkner sold his Molly Hogan to Rae Johnson, woods manager of Columbia Cellulose Co. Ltd. Molly Hogan has the lines of a most seaworthy craft and was in coastal short-run service for several years. Meanwhile, Al joined the ranks of Canadian Customs and now is working in the Federal Building.

MARINE HOSPITAL CRUMBLES

Probably one of the grimmest reminders of the burst bubbles in early Prince Rupert days is the crumbling ruin of a three-storey building on an island in Dodge Cove.

Old-timers will remember it but few others have even heard of the "quarantine hospital" and the former quarantine station on Digby Island.

In general preparedness for big shipping expected with the opening of this port on the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, the government was induced to build the quarantine station across the harbor to take care of "all the snips from the Orient."

The quarantine station included several huge cauldrons which were to be used for boiling clothes in order to kill Oriental contamination. Fumigating devices there were as well.

And across a narrow pass, a wooden trestle bridge led to a magnificent, three-storey, 22-or-so roomed building in modern architecture of the day and in a setting of flowers and lawns.

Here contaminated sailors were to remain in order to protect the first Canadian port-of-call from any danger of epidemic.

The hospital was staffed with an emergency unit and a gardener was employed to look after the grounds. The building faced no exposure, for behind it rose the rest of the little island on which it was built and before it to all sides lay the banks of Dodge Cove.

Today the Prince Rupert hospital is faced with the problem of too many patients—overcrowding, not enough beds—but that was not the case with the quarantine hospital in 1912 and for a few years thereafter.

No patients came at all, nor came any ships from the Orient. Probably in desperation, feeling that the great building would never be used, a luckless scarlet-fever stricken sailor on an American vessel passing through Prince Rupert was hurried ashore and the hospital had its first—and last—inmate.

Since then, various suggestions for disposal of the building had either been found impractical or improbable. For a time it mooted as a convalescent hospital for First World War soldiers but nothing came of it, and so, year by year, its deterioration became a matter of course and the least said about the building, the better some quarters felt about it. Today it is merely a shell—and a reminder.

ON COOKING FISH

Gregory Clark, a Daily Colonist reporter, is of the firm belief that people of British Columbia—and especially in west coast fishing centres—know very little about cooking fish—in particular, halibut.

This he realized on a recent visit to Britain. In Canada, halibut is either grilled, fried or pan broiled. The flesh is dry and of the consistency of pork. It has a good, familiar fried-fish flavor.

"But when you order halibut in any small English coastal town, or Scottish, to which the trawlers come home from far up to Greenland, you get a dish so fabulous in flavor that you wonder how a country like Canada, with three oceans on its borders—the Atlantic, Pacific and Arctic—can be so needless of its own blessings."

According to Clark, they steam halibut in British restaurants and in most cases one can't get halibut in any other way.

"You can offer them money

SALFORD, England (P)—Residents of Augusta Street were left high and dry when John Billington went on his vacation. His house has a tap which was constructed in the old days to turn off all the water in the street. John turned it off before he left.

STAITHE, England (P)—James Riches, 78, is retiring as sub-postmaster of this Norfolk town with a good record. In 57 years he has never taken a holiday and has never missed a day at work.

—no; they have their principles.

The halibut that is steamed comes out a light and most delicately flavored fish, with a thin sort of parsley broth to it.

"The difference between it and our Canadian version of halibut," declares Clark, "is the difference between a poached egg and an egg fried on both sides, with leather edges."

A changing of our cooking ways is indicated.

FISHING LIGHT

Fishing of all species is reported light during last week and is believed to be falling off generally. Queen Charlotte Island areas are reported poor; Naas and Skeena areas, fair; and Bella Bella area fair to good in places.

Cod fishing was light last week with only two vessels landing 11,789 pounds. Relief, Capt. M. Sollows, brought in 9,489 pounds of black cod; 692 pounds red cod, and 47 pounds ling cod, selling to Royal Fish Co.

Neptune, Capt. Barney Roald, sold 2300 pounds black cod to Co-op.

Totem Books Human Comedy

Tracing the career of an aging football star down the hill and then up again to a powerful, climactic comeback, "The Guy Who Came Back," feature offering at the Totem Theatre next Monday and Tuesday, is a heart-warming human comedy drama.

Paul Douglas enacts with warmth and humor the drama of the fading star who will not admit he is ready for the bench and comes back from the bottom to prove his class. Escapades between glory range from an hilarious sequence in a night club to another in a wrestling ring.

Joan Bennett is an understanding wife, patient and helpful. Linda Darnell is the temptress who cuts widely into the hero's path but knows how to bow out gracefully.

Stark Drama In Reporter Story

Stark drama and raw realism contribute to a hard-hitting story in "The Big Carnival" which shows at the Capitol Theatre next Monday and Tuesday. It tells how a ruthless reporter uses a grim tragedy to mend a broken career.

Banned from the city dailies because of his falling for liquor and women, Kirk Douglas settles for a minor job in a smaller city paper and waits for a news break. When a desert roadside stand operator is buried in a cave-in, he contrives to have his removal delayed so he may build up a big story for his own triumph. Jan Sterling is a faithless wife who collaborates with the callous reporter and then turns upon him as well.

Fine assisting performances which add dimension and credibility to the story are given by Vob Arthur, Porter Hall and Frank Cady.
