(1) The Canadian Army, the year 1951 was filled with expansion and far-flung activity. (2) Across Canada recruits flocked to the colors as the call went out for men to serve with the Canadian Army in Germany. (3) In far-off Korea, Canadian Infantrymen fought the Communists almost the year 'round. (4) Also in Korea, Canadian Artillery joined United Nations forces in laying down the heaviest artillery barrage in battle since the Second World War. (5) General of the Army Dwight Eisenhower and Defence Minister Brooke Claxton are seen on a reviewing stand in Rotterdam as they welcomed troops of 27th Brigade arriving to join NATO forces in Germany. (6) Recruiting opened in the Canadian Women's Army Corps (RF) for the first time since disbandment after the Second World War. (7) The memorable visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh was felt by the Canadian Army everywhere. ## Canadians Share in U.N. Efforts to End Tensions

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PARIS (CP)—Canada was in the forefront of United Nations efforts during the year to build up the world organization's anti-aggression elements. This work, most obvious in Canadian fighting forces in Korea, went ahead parallel with the country's efforts towards strengthening defence forces in Europe under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, for which another Canadian brigade is in Germany.

Throughout the year, however, the Canadian delegation to the UN worked both in public and behind the scenes in efforts to end the Korean war and to ease East-West tensions.

L. B. Pearson, Canada's external affairs minister, was a member of the first small group of UN figures appointed as a committee to seek a cease-fire in Korea. This group's efforts during the 1950 session of the General Assembly, stretching into early 1951, were rewarded by the Chinese Communists, but probably had their effect in leading to later negotiations in the field.

As one of the first contributors to anti-aggression forces in the world, Canada was a leading member of the UN Collective Security Committee which has worked through the year to work out a system whereby the UN will be able to go into action in the event of future aggression. Under committee proposals, the UN will be able to go into action without any of the fumbling which marked the early days of the UN.

Joseph Stalin 72 Years Old

MOSCOW—Prime Minister Joseph Stalin celebrated his 72nd birthday today. The occasion was observed quietly with no undue publicity. He met with leaders of the Politburo.

WEATHER

Synopsis
Snow has been falling for many hours over much of British Columbia as mild Pacific air moves against the coastal region from the Pacific. Temperatures have climbed close to 40 at most west coast stations and have been climbing at most other stations. Heaviest snowfall of the coast is concentrated in the Vancouver and Lower Fraser Valley areas with amounts averaging six inches. It is expected that the snow still falling in these areas will change to rain during the morning.

The system causing this influx of warm air on to the coast will pass south of Vancouver Island overnight. Precipitation will show a marked decrease with the passage southward of this system but it is expected that the trend to mild temperatures will continue. Quite cold air is still persisting at the heads of many valleys on the south coast and there will be risk of freezing rain until late in the day.

Forecasts
Vancouver City—Snow, changing to rain this afternoon. Cloudy with a few showers to-morrow. Milder, Winds light. Lows tonight and highs tomorrow—At Vancouver Airport, 35 and 40.

North Coast Region—Mostly overcast today and tomorrow. Showers along the Charlottes. Frequent snow flurries mixed with rain along the mainland. Little change in temperature. Winds light except west (20) today over more exposed sections. Low tonight and high tomorrow—At Port Hardy, Sandspit and Prince Rupert, 32 and 38.

Demand Red Accounting

United Nations Not Satisfied With Prisoner-of-War List

MUNSAN (CP)—The United Nations Command demanded today that Communists account for more than 1090 Allied soldiers whose names are missing from the Reds' prisoner-of-war list.

The demand was made in a stiffly worded note. It was handed to the Red liaison officer in Panmunjon.

Communist chiefs are also asked to open the gates of North Korean prison camps to the Red Cross.

U.S. Fliers Being "Tried"

BUDAPEST—Four United States fliers, who claimed they lost their way and had to make a forced landing in Hungary, are to be tried by the Hungarian court of justice for espionage, it was announced today.

HMCS Athabaskan Cited—Bar for Cmdr. Bob Welland

OTTAWA (CP)—The President of the Republic of Korea, Sygman Rhee, has awarded the presidential unit citation to the Canadian destroyer Athabaskan for Korean war service, it was announced today.

The Athabaskan, which called at Prince Rupert early in the summer on her way home to Esquimalt after her first tour, is now on her second period of operational duty in the Far East.

The citation said that the ship had taken part "with great credit in all types of operations including the support of the Inchon landing."

It was also announced today from Ottawa that Commander Robert Welland, who was in command of the Athabaskan on the first tour, had been awarded a bar to his DSO. Capt. Geoffrey Brock of Winnipeg has been awarded the DSO for Korean service.

Snow Holds Air Travel

VANCOUVER—Thick snow held up traffic from the Sea Island airport today. Flights, including that to Prince Rupert, were late in leaving. A North Star transport, with 27 military personnel aboard, had to circle around for an hour and make five approaches before being able to get down.

Trucks were pressed into service today to haul snow away from hundreds of men shovelled Vancouver streets.

Their Fate Not Known

Eleven Persons Still Missing From Burning Ship

ASTORIA (CP)—Fate of 11 persons, including five Canadians, missing in a fire which swept the Danish ship Erria at the mouth of the Columbia River, was still not determined today.

One hundred and three others, including 23 passengers and 80 members of the crew, were rescued by the United States Coast-guard shortly after flames whipped through the mid-section yesterday.

Members of the crew said the fire started from sparks from shorted electric cable.

John Ray, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Ray of Vancouver, said he and a number of others were trapped in the ship's lounge by flames. Adults shoved him through a porthole but were unable to climb through themselves. He said he saw the hair of two men catch fire. A boy suffered a burned foot.

LOS ANGELES (CP)—Representative Clyde Doyle (Democrat-California), member of the Armed Forces Committee of the House of Representatives, said that Russian seizure of Alaska by way of the Aleutians was possible six or eight months ago but is now impossible.

"It has been made so by our new installations and through measures taken by the Canadians," he said in a talk to the Democratic Luncheon Club.

Doyle recently returned from a trip to Alaska, Europe, England and North Africa.

U.S. Rejects Red Protest

WASHINGTON, D.C. (CP)—The United States has rejected a Russian protest against American law which Soviets claim encourages subversive activities against their government.

In a note released Thursday the United States told Russia that "false charges of interference in Soviet internal affairs came with singular ill grace from a regime which has for many years consistently supported subversive activities directed against the United States and other nations of the free world."

Provisions of the Mutual Security Act, passed by Congress in October, authorizes expenditure of $100,000,000 for assistance to Soviet satellite citizens fleeing from Iron Curtain countries.

House Votes Down Procons

OTTAWA (CP)—House of Commons voted 82 to 22 against a Progressive Conservative move to kill the government's anti-price fixing legislation.

Progressive Conservatives were alone in supporting their motion except for J. L. Gibson, Independent member for Comox-Alberni.

CCF and Social Credit members voted against the amendment.

Earlier, Prime Minister St. Laurent said he did not think it would be necessary to enforce the closure rule as he had threatened yesterday. The House may complete its business by tonight and adjourn for the Christmas holidays.

Already 150 members have left Ottawa for their homes.

Lost Life At Kemano

A 31-year-old hard-rock miner, who was killed at Kemano Bay Tuesday, was brought to Prince Rupert today by the Morrison-Knutson Co. Ltd. vessel Nitinat. RCMP said the body will remain here pending notification of and advice from next-of-kin.

Police said so far they had not been able to trace the dead man's relatives but his address is in Vancouver.

The miner was killed at 2:45 p.m. by a wind-blown snag on his way to work at the Kemano Bay tunnel project.

A coroner's inquest was held yesterday at Butedale by G. G. Graham. Accidental death was the verdict returned.

Fatal Fire In Caboose

FLIN FLON, Manitoba (CP)—Two men were burned to death and two suffered severe injuries Thursday when fire destroyed a caboose on a wood-cutting site, eighteen miles from Lynn Lake in Northern Manitoba.

Fire broke out while the men slept.

One of the two who escaped walked eighteen miles to Lynn Lake through 30 below zero weather, only lightly clad.

Steel Strike In Deadlock

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Cyrus Ching, federal mediator, informed President Truman today that there was a hopeless deadlock in the steel strike dispute. Negotiations to prevent the strike have broken down completely.

Air Traffic Held Again

Passengers, mail and express coming north from Vancouver today are being held at Sandspit overnight and should get in tomorrow morning. Reason is that heavy snow delayed three DC3 flights in getting away from Vancouver before noon and they were unable to reach Sandspit in time this afternoon for the connecting Canso to make the last hop here before nightfall deadline.

Three Canso flights got away to Sandspit during the day to make connection with the DC3's on the return to Vancouver.

Steel Industry Pushes Mammoth Expansion Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian industry is pouring about $125,000,000 into an enterprise that one day may turn the tide on the critical steel shortage in Canada.

Steel Administrator Kenneth Harris said in an interview that when the current steel expansion program is completed—in about 18 months—production of the vital metal may be boosted by more than 1,000,000 tons a year.

By mid 1953 Canada may be producing at the rate of about 4,600,000 tons a year, one-third greater than this year's expected output of about 3,400,000—the highest in history.

"Considering the size of the country and its population, that's an amazing expansion program," said Mr. Harris. "It may ease the steel shortage in 1953 but there are many, many problems to hurdle before the shortage is actually over."

Things may become a lot worse before they turn for the better—and that is the immediate outlook for steel. Darkest days of the shortage are expected in 1952.

With Canada's rearmament program moving towards peak output and her economic machine accelerated by expansion in oil, iron ore and other industrial development, it will be a "tight squeeze" for Canadians who want steel next year.

PRIORITY CONTROL
No new controls are being planned, said Mr. Harris, but the government, through its current system, can apply maximum control at the mills—source of steel—and in that way redirect the movement of steel to cover priority needs.

In other words the government does not tell a manufacturer that he cannot produce ash trays from steel, but the government can prevent him from getting as much steel as he wants from the mills, by applying priority control.

In effect it can decrease or increase the flow of civilian goods by simply easing or stiffening control over the flow of steel from the mills. The same type of control is applied over imports from the U.S.

Canada has tried to cut the shortage by requesting greater supplies of steel from the United States but that country is experiencing as great a shortage as Canada.

Usually, Canada obtains about 1,000,000 tons of steel from the United States annually. This year she may get around the same amount and another 600,000 tons from other countries.

Whose Fault?

IF THE PUBLIC doesn't always get all the facts it should on labor issues, management must accept a large share of the blame.

A recent issue of Business Week presents a detailed survey of how United States newspapers cover labor news. It finds that, contrary to popular belief, "there is really a considerable amount of honest, impartial coverage of labor news in the American press."

The survey mentions one hazard familiar to all reporters on the labor beat: In a controversial situation they usually have no trouble in getting the story from the union. But when they approach the employer, all they get is "no comment."

Reporters in Canada—even in Prince Rupert—have often had this same experience. A Cincinnati newsman is quoted as estimating that "80 per cent of labor is willing to give you 70 per cent of the total information you need for a story; 60 per cent of management will give you about 40 per cent."

Public opinion is much too important a factor to be ignored in these matters. An informed public opinion is as vital to management's interests as it is to labor's.

Every reporter covering the labor scene welcomes a statement from the employer involved in any story he may be writing. If he doesn't get it, the employer has no one to blame but himself for a one-sided report with a "slant" he doesn't like.

Who Does Typing?

SOME business men and executives consider it either a waste of time or beneath their dignity to do their own typing. Others, when they find work to be done in the way they want, get at the job and do it themselves, being primarily interested in getting the work done right.

Consider the case of Hon. T. C. (Tommy) Davis, Canadian ambassador to Germany:

The affable gentleman from Saskatchewan, who has been a lawyer, judge, legislator, provincial cabinet minister and diplomat, is a typist too.

He's been proving it in Bonn, capital of West Germany. He's had to.

He says he learned to type in those distant days when he was a young lawyer in Prince Albert, and recent circumstances have revived the talent and put it to work.

The ambassador has been pressed into duty as a makeshift stenographer for two reasons.

One is that the embassy, with only himself and two other Canadians of diplomatic rank on its staff, has had its work sharply increased due to the negotiations and discussions arising from the arrival of the 27th Brigade in Germany.

The other is a temporary shortage of stenographers. Because of holidays, sickness and other reasons, the number of stenographers available at one time was nil and someone had to do the typing. In a number of cases, it was Hon. T. C. Davis.

As I See It

Churchill and Hugo

IN THE last few years Winston Churchill has spoken strongly in favor of outright European union. He did so even in his election manifesto.

But now the election is over. Mr. Churchill is Prime Minister again. He has sharply backed away from the very thing he so enthusiastically supported.

When in opposition, politicians talk as private citizens talk—that is they advocate things which they consider desirable theoretically. But when those same politicians take over the job of running a country or a province, they find themselves bound by a hundred-and-one facts of life which, as private citizens, they could ignore.

That is why you see socialists elected to abolish capitalism or imperialists, but make very little headway at that task when they get in power. That is why you see even the Communists come into power in Russia, determined to reverse the whole trend of Czarist Russian imperialism—yet 30-odd years later they are pushing the very same expansionist causes as the Czars pushed.

IN HIS election manifesto, Mr. Churchill said: "We should all continue to labor for a United Europe, including in the course of time those unhappy countries still behind the Iron Curtain." But now, after the election, Mr. Churchill tells France and the U.S.A. that Britain cannot actually join such a European federation herself. She can only work in closest association with it.

But the Scandinavians won't join unless Britain joins. So it goes. Meanwhile in Germany the U.S. commissioner, John J. McCloy, has issued what sounds like an ultimatum to the nations of western Europe: "Unite within six months—or else!"

The "or else" is like shaking the U.S. club.

IT HAS always seemed to me that the "U.S. of Europe" idea was bound to be tried—and equally bound to fail.

Take the dilemma of Britain. Britain cannot become a part of an actual union of Europe without inviting the break-up of the British Commonwealth.

Indeed I have often suspected that the strange enthusiasm of some Americans for the U.S. of Europe idea was because they KNEW that such a development would mean the break-up of the British Commonwealth. We recently had a noted U.S. figure tell Canada that we were "crazy" not to join the U.S.A.

THE WEAKNESS of the U.S. position is that she is trying to force Europe to do what she is not willing to do herself.

Suppose instead of saying "You Europeans ought to unite," Uncle Sam said "Let all us

CANADIANS

More than one person has become wealthy merely by being in close touch with Ottawa. And George Davidson, Canada's representative to the Economic and Social Council, was being mentioned as possible president of the council at its next session.

The Canadian delegation suffered a great loss in March with the death of R. G. Riddell head of the permanent Canadian delegation at UN headquarters in New York. Herbert Norman became acting head of the delegation and D. H. Johnson, formerly Canada's minister to Pakistan, was appointed to head the permanent delegation.

Canada's recognition of responsibilities far afield was shown in a number of aid contributions. For Korean reconstruction work, the Canadian government set aside $7,250,000; for the International Children's Fund, $500,000. These were among other material grants to ease suffering in various countries around the world.

democracies unite. Let us set up one vast federation of free peoples—with one parliament to govern defence and foreign affairs for the whole group.

Not only all western Europe but the whole British Commonwealth could join such a larger federation.

HOWEVER, the world learns by trial and error. Sometimes unsound things have to be tried out before mankind sees just where they are weak and wrong.

I figure that's how the U.S. Europe idea will work. Anyway, great prophets have seen it coming. In the room where he ended his days in France the immortal Victor Hugo wrote on the wall: "I represent a party which does not yet exist: the party of revolution, civilization. This party will make the Twentieth Century. There will issue from it first

"The United States of Europe, then "The United States of the world."

Notice of Increase in Subscription Rates

Effective January 1 the price of the Daily News will be increased 25 cents to $1 per month.

The decision to increase the price, taken reluctantly by the management is the direct result of continually rising production costs. Wages, newsprint prices and other operating expenses have gone up tremendously in recent years.

The need for higher subscription rates is being felt all across the continent. Many papers have moved their daily price from five to seven cents, and some to 10 cents. The scheduled increase applies to all carrier delivery prices. The carrier boys themselves, who also face the problems of inflation, will get increased remuneration for their work.

Street sale and store sale price of the Daily News will remain at five cents but the Saturday edition, with the comic supplement, will be 10 cents.

Old-Timers Foregather At Over Seventy Dinner

Some were close to being over eighty at the Christmas party and dinner held last evening under the auspices of the Women's Co-ordinating Council. The occasion, in the United Church Hall and known as the "Over Seventy" event, can be said to have been an outstanding success.

Residents of Prince Rupert here since before incorporation, and many others who came a little later, rejoiced to meet one another and chat and laugh as they munched one of the finest Yuletide feasts ever prepared.

The rooms were bright with seasonable lighting, including a large Christmas tree in a corner of the stage. The premises were adorned with the national colors, as well as greenery trimmings. It all looked most effective.

A feature of the program was the presence of young people, several of whom contributed to the musical entertainment, these including a violin solo by Jeanette Sparks, and accordion solos by Eddie Cicoone. Mrs. Peggy Andrew and Mrs. Ralph Smith gave songs. The piano accompanist was Mrs. J. S. Black.

Calling the gathering to order, the president of the Old Timers' Club, M. M. Stephens, introduced Mrs. T. Norton Youngs, president of the Women's Co-ordinating Council, who extended a welcome. It was a pleasure to have them and to one and all, best wishes and compliments of the season were cordially expressed.

Mr. Stephens on behalf of the club, fittingly acknowledged how all appreciated the hospitality and kindness it was their good fortune to share. It was indeed a privilege to once again assemble as Christmas drew near and once more realize the goodwill of the Women's Co-ordinating Council.

Alderman John Currie, who first came to Prince Rupert in the early days, remaining in the city for many a year, and who, after an absence in Vancouver, had returned here, Mr. Stephens invited to speak.

"I sat in the city council with Alderman Currie, in early days, and can recall no one who was more conscientious, or possessed

Atlin Fish Xmas Tree

Employees and children of Atlin Fisheries Ltd. and Canadian Fishing Co. Ltd. assembled Wednesday night for a gay Christmas party which featured Art Williamson of Atlin as Santa Claus, centre of attraction.

More than 170 people attended the evening party at the Sons of Norway Hall which was suitably decorated—including a Christmas tree—by Atlin Fisheries staff. Comedy films were shown to the children by T. G. Bateman. Santa then handed out bags of treats and gifts from two oversized stuffed mailbags.

Further refreshments of ice-cream, soft drinks and coffee were served. Following the company party, employees conducted a dance to the music of Mike Colussi, greatly enjoyed by everyone.

Conrad Street Closing Exercises

At both Conrad Street School and Seal Cove School, the closing exercises for the holiday season consisted of happy class parties held in each room.

The class rooms were beautifully decorated for the Christmas season. The children played games and provided programs of entertainment consisting of recitations, musical numbers, and Christmas carols. Refreshments were enjoyed in true party spirit.

A highlight of the festivities was a visit by Santa Claus to some of the primary classes. Santa distributed presents and gave each child in the school a gift from the Parent-Teacher Association.

Local and PERSONAL

Noel Taylor of Masset, after spending a few days in the city, is returning to the Chilcotin tonight for his home on the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Ray Lindner, serving with the Canadian army at Churchill on Hudson Bay, arrived in the city during the week and is sailing tonight on the Chilcotin to spend Christmas and New Year holidays at Masset with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Lindner.

Local school pupils sailing tonight on the Chilcotin for their homes on the Queen Charlotte Islands to spend the Christmas and New Year holidays include Misses Andrea Stout and Anna Swan for Port Clements, Howard Lindsay, May Lindsay, Irene Lindsay, Marilyn Lindner and Margaret Adams for Masset.

Capt. and Mrs. A. F. Davidson and son left on today's plane for Victoria to spend Christmas and New Year holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Adkins, who have been visiting in the city, are returning tonight by the Chilcotin for their home at Masset.

F. A. Genin, engineer for Automatic Electric, who is making a survey of the local telephone system, left by today's plane for Vancouver enroute to Chicago to spend the Christmas holiday season at his home.

O. Stout of Port Clements, after a brief visit to the city, is sailing on the Chilcotin tonight for his home. Accompanying him is his daughter, Andrea, who attends school here and is going home for vacation.

Christianity Democratic

Christmas Spirit Progressive And Unlimited

The Christmas spirit is the forerunner of democracy; it is the spirit of progress and has no limitations.

Bishop J. B. Gibson held this theme in addressing a Rotary luncheon meeting yesterday as he called on the spirit with which Christmas was celebrated to make way for peace on earth.

"The world is a series of contradictions—of joy and sorrow, happiness and pain, peace and war. The beast is sharing the stall with the Babe—in these times we look onto the Christmas spirit for peace."

At Christmas time, differences are forgotten, and friends of long ago are remembered all over the world by a simple greeting card. This also indicated the real presence of the Christmas spirit, he said.

Bishop Gibson read partly a letter from Primate W. F. Barfoot, relating recent experiences in Korea when he visited Canadian troops. The Primate called Korea a place of more misery than was ever seen in history. He saw it as a place of hunger, poverty, filth and death, but wherever one saw a Canadian soldier, one also saw a crowd of hungry children waiting for something to eat.

And they got it, too. Canadian soldiers saved up their own rations to give to the starving Koreans.

"That also is the spirit born of Christmas," said Bishop Gibson. He asked all Rotarians to attend at least one Christmas church service of their own denomination.

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Bridden, after a visit to the city, are sailing tonight by the Chilcotin on their return to their home at Masset.

Don Prevost arrived yesterday by plane to spend the Christmas season with his mother, Mrs. W. McKinnley.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hayward and child left by air today for Vancouver to spend the Christmas and New Year holiday season visiting in Vancouver.

Among the earliest pioneers who spoke for a short time was Mrs. Anderson, whose husband, the late P. W. Anderson, was a contractor here.

It was not until early in the evening that the assembly, which gathered at 2:30, finally broke up.

The number of old timers and friends who were present totaled 70.

Mr. Stephens, in the course of the proceedings, thanked Rev. L. G. Sieber for his courtesy in permitting use of the church hall. The pastor, who had pronounced grace, assured the club that they would be welcome again next year.

On the $280 per capita taxation collected by Ottawa this year, $110 is for defense spending and $170 for other purposes.

"MAY THE TRUE SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS ALWAYS DWELL IN THE HEARTS OF MEN OF ALL NATIONS".

Down through the years, Christmas in Canada has always been a time of family reunions, a time of goodwill, a time of rejoicing.

As we celebrate Christmas this year, the great family of United Nations is gathered around the conference table to reach a goal of world understanding.

It is our fervent hope that the spirit of our Canadian Christmas—the spirit of peace and goodwill, will prevail. With this in their hearts, nations and peoples will resolve their differences and, once again, rejoice in "peace on earth, goodwill toward men".

King Ed Rides High; Towns C.C. Arrows

In a one-sided, lopsided and utter rout yesterday afternoon, King Edward Pee-Wee hoopers rode over Civic Centre Arrows to a slaughtering of 4-1. D. Melnosh, of Coach Tapalian's five, had half of his team's points, while only one man scored for Arrows.

There is no doubt about it, King Ed, with mostly first year hoopers taking to the hoops in the proverbial ducks to the coach says its mainly the new school has its own where players practiced yesterday.

Leeman accounted for two baskets in the only scoring for King Ed. McIntosh, Lambie and Hodgkinson 15 between them. But the factor accounting for King Ed's good playing is their making and co-operation.

An avid chess player himself, the director believes there are quite a few others in the city who play the game for lack of opportunity or because they have not played for some time.

Meanwhile, an attempt will be made to start a checker board club. The adult games and the committee room are arranged for playing

Lean Times For Japan

PARIS (AP)—After six good years under the occupation, foreign business men anticipate lean times ahead in an independent Japan.

All business begins playing the game under Japanese government rules after Jan. 1. Those rules are going to be tough at the start.

For foreign business men they will mean higher taxes, rising costs of operations and stiffer personal living expenses. Japan intends to restore its power in the Far East and the world. It appears intent on seeking foreign assistance, particularly technicians needed to rebuild industry, but still not grant foreign business any concessions that impede recovery.

Foreign business men in Japan today are mainly retailers, technicians, importers and exporters, bankers, engineers, transportation firms, insurance men, accountants, lawyers and newspaper men.

Taxation is their biggest problem. All foreigners, as of Jan. 1, 1952, will cease to get the current 50 percent tax reduction on individual income except in a few categories considered essential, such as technical consultants. Foreign firms recently have been increasing cost-of-living (Continued on page 7)

Petaïn Would Have Joined With Allies

PARIS (AP)—The late Marshal Henri Philippe Petaïn said he wanted to escape from France and join the Allies after the Germans invaded the unoccupied zone of France in 1942 but he had not a plane and was forced to go to Germany.

Text of the collaboration chief's testimony, before a Parliamentary investigating committee in his island prison four years ago, was made public Thursday.

The 91-year-old hero of the First World War died last July. He had been condemned to death for treason in 1945 but the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Asked by investigators if he had thought of joining American forces in North Africa after the Germans had moved into unoccupied France, Petaïn replied: "Yes, not only did I think about it but I told myself I had committed a tremendous blunder in not having a personal plane."

In the 24 years from 1927, when old age pensions were introduced in Canada, the federal government has paid out a total of $735,000,000 for such pensions; when the universal old age pensions comes into effect Jan. 1, the first year cost will be $325,000,000.

Red Wings Break Mark For Road Puck Wins

CHICAGO (CP)—Detroit Red Wings defeated Chicago Black Hawks 6 to 4 Thursday night and thereby tied an 11-year record for road competition.

The victory before 5386 fans was their fifteenth straight game without defeat away from home, an achievement that tied the Boston Bruins' mark set during a 1940-41 season.

The Wings, who have not lost a game on the road since the start of the season, racked up their tenth victory against five ties.

Detroit won only after considerable resistance from the Hawks whose Bill Mosenko scored twice to bring his lifetime National League scoring total to 157 goals.

Mosenko's first period score tied an early Detroit lead and three times thereafter the Hawks were within one of a tie but just could not manage it.

Royalty's Busy Year

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON—The affection felt by the British people for members of the royal family came strongly to the surface in 1951 when a threat of tragedy touched Buckingham Palace.

The announcement in September that the King was to be operated on for a serious but undisclosed lung ailment provoked a heart-felt emotion. Before and after the operation Sept. 23, crowds of ordinary people, some of them hardly knowing why they were there, waited quietly outside the palace.

Surgeons removed all or part of the King's lung. After tense days of waiting, it was announced the danger period was over. Some weeks later the King's recovery was described in court circles as a "miracle."

The illness shadowed a year of intense activity and high prestige for the royal family. For Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, the crowning event was the six-week tour of Canada, which drew cheering crowds and had the incidental effect of arousing a greater British interest in Canada than any single event in recent years.

In a speech Nov. 19, two days after her return from Canada, the Princess said in a speech at London's Guildhall:

"I would like them (Canadians) to know that they have placed in our hearts a love of their country and its people which will never grow cold, and which will always draw us back again to their shores."

It seems reasonable to suppose that Elizabeth came back from far-off Canada a slightly changed person, conscious for the first time of the vast distances and genuine feelings of a country she one day will rule as queen.

HOME FOR CHRISTMAS

During 1951 the Princess saw more of her sailor-husband, Prince Philip, than she had since their marriage in 1947. She started the year with him at Malton, before he gave up command of the frigate Magpie, and at year's end the couple spent their first Christmas at home with Prince Charles, 3, and Princess Anne, 16 months.

Philip came home from Malta for the opening of the Festival of Britain May 4 and has been on indefinite leave since July 21.

All members of the royal family attended the opening ceremonies of the festival, the King hailing it as a "symbol of Britain's abiding courage and vitality."

In the same month, the King and Queen welcomed King Frederik and Queen Ingrid of Denmark on a state visit. But the King was confined to the palace with a lung inflammation in June when King Haakon of Norway made history by arriving in the Thames River in the 1,600-ton royal barge Norge. King Haakon was greeted by the Queen and Princess Margaret at Westminster Bridge.

On a more personal level, 1951 saw the blossoming of a slimmer, more style-conscious Princess Elizabeth, ready to give her younger sister Margaret a run for her money in the fashion-plate stakes. Buckingham Palace made known that Elizabeth had gone on a diet and gossips whispered that husband Philip had had a hand in influencing her choice of clothes.

Margaret was less in the limelight than usual. She celebrated

DECORATIONS FOR CHRISTMAS

—Among a lot of ideas for Christmas decorating are tips for the table.

To repeat the bright colors of tree ornaments, festive bowls of fruit are recommended. Pomegranates, for instance, were well known in the Holy Land long before Christ. Red apples should be polished until they fairly glow. Bright red Emperor grapes and glossy bits of holly contribute more color.

For the dinner table or buffet is suggested a big platter of persimmons, pomegranates "for sentiment," black Ribler grapes, oranges, apples and bananas. A cluster of deep green candles and a base of pine completes the picture.

Finally, for the festive dessert, "Ambrosia." Ingredients: six oranges, three bananas, three tablespoons lemon juice, one-half cup honey, one-half cup grated fresh or shredded coconut, Marachino cherries.

Cut oranges into sections, slice bananas and toss together. Mix honey and lemon juice and pour over fruit. Sprinkle with coconut and garnish with cherries. Serve well chilled.

FARTYING

—Home economists say that Christmas parties plan themselves. Simple refreshments are always best to serve, particularly ones that can be prepared ahead of time.

Party spread can be made early, and in quantities large enough to last for several parties.

Combine various types of cheese, meat, fish or poultry with pickles, olives and spices. These can be placed in bowls and everyone allowed to serve himself. Instead of a bowl, a grapefruit or orange shell makes an excellent container for the filling.

Spread suggestions: cream cheese, finely minced garlic, salt and pepper and Worcestershire sauce; or cream cheese, mayonnaise and chipped dried beef; again, cream cheese, ground, steamed prunes, figs or apricot and chopped nuts.

Finely minced ham or chicken, chopped olives or gherkins and her 21st birthday at Balmoral Castle Aug. 18, made the rounds of theatres and night clubs less frequently and had so many different escorts that columnists scenting a romance had to scatter their shots. In November she visited Paris and once kept Supreme Commander General Eisenhower waiting when her chauffeur took the wrong turn.

nuts also make a fine spread. Liverwurst, chopped pickles and mayonnaise make another tasty sandwich.

THRIFT LOBBY

—The Canadian Association of Consumers has urged the federal government to ban the practice of resale price maintenance, and has called on all consumers to add their individual voices to the campaign.

In a special bulletin to all its members the CAC asks them to write their members of parliament asking them "to protect the interest of the buying public in these times of high prices by voting to outlaw the present price fixing practice of resale price maintenance," the system whereby manufacturers fix the retail price of their goods.

A contestant on a quiz show in St. Paul mentioned that the population of her home town had remained the same for a number of years. "Every time a baby is born, someone leaves town," she explained. — The Reader's Digest.

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—The new council met here in a renovated council chamber, complete with plush leather seats, panelled walls, tiled floors and new desks. Satin drapes shroud the windows and the city crest is inset in the floor.

Prince Rupert to Be Filter Centre in New RCAF Observer Set-up

OTTAWA.—The Ground Observer Corps, which is taking as its motto "The Eyes and Ears of the RCAF," is beginning to take shape, it was announced today by Air Force headquarters.

Organizational progress has been made since planned formation of the corps was announced last March and it is expected that a call for civilian volunteers will be made early in 1952.

Detachments of regular force RCAF personnel have been formed at Halifax, Montreal, North Bay, Ont., and Vancouver. Other detachments are being formed at St. Johns, Newfoundland; Winnipeg, Saskatoon and Edmonton. These detachments will be responsible for organization and activation of the corps in their respective areas and for integration into the over-all national system.

Also being established across Canada, from Newfoundland to British Columbia, are filter centres, into which the thousands of civilian observers will submit their reports on aircraft sighted or heard.

Air Force officials are not yet ready for recruiting civilian observers or filter centre plotters at this time but will welcome applications when the filter centres are set up during the coming year. An announcement will be made when applications can be accepted.

Main purpose of the Ground Observer Corps is to supplement the RCAF's early warning radar chain by reporting aircraft seen or heard. Organization and control of the corps is the responsibility of the RCAF's Air Defence Command, which also controls the early-warning system.

ADC is working closely with the other armed forces, the RCAF Association, the Air Cadet League and with civil defence officials in organizing the corps.

When the corps becomes operational in 1952, about 150,000 civilians will be needed to fill the positions. Men, women and youths from all walks of life will generally be given to personnel not normally qualified for regular military service in wartime.

Forms, pamphlets and manuals are being published and will be distributed to all prospective members of the corps, with full information about the organization and the role of individual members.

Training exercises, involving RCAF planes, will be held to provide practical experience and test the organization.

In addition to supplementing the RCAF's early-warning radar system, it is expected that the corps will be of value in reporting friendly aircraft in distress.

Heading it up in B.C. will be Squadron Leader Cecil Hoseason, a Vancouver man, who was educated at Lord Roberts, Vancouver High and Vancouver Tech. Veteran pilot of the last war, he was awarded the Air Force Cross for leadership and enthusiasm of the highest order. He has already made many trips around B.C. and is gradually getting the nucleus of a fine organization.

Hoseason says that filter centres have been decided upon at Prince Rupert, Nelson, Kamloops and in Vancouver.

He stresses that recruiting will not start until early in the New Year when he has an organization ready to accept volunteers and train them without delay.

Newsprint for New Zealand

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent.

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—Plans to launch a newsprint industry in New Zealand which will be producing large supplies by the middle of 1954 have been submitted to the government by one New Zealand and two United States companies. The industry would be able to supply all the Dominion's newsprint needs and provide large quantities of newsprint, pulp and timber for export to South Pacific countries.

The proposal has been made in response to an invitation from the government to private industry to submit plans for the utilization of the huge state forest in the centre of the north island. This is the largest man-made forest in the world. The government had proposed that a town be built at Murupara, in the forest zone, for establishment of the industry.

The plan submitted by the three firms, however, provides for the industry to be centred at the existing town of Te Puke, which lies nearer the east coast and nearer the port which is to be built at Mt. Manganui for handling the plant's products.

The three firms are Fletcher Construction Company, biggest construction organization in New Zealand; Merritt, Chapman and Scott Corporation, which has built many pulp and paper mills in America, and the Raymond Concrete Pile Company, of the United States. They propose forming a company to develop and exploit the forest in association with the government, which will supply the timber, build a railway, and take part in port and other development work.

Joe Slaggard In Hospital

The Christmas season brings a colour in hospital for Joe Slaggard, colorful pioneer of the Yukon and Prince Rupert and known to thousands of tourists as the "yodelling taxi driver." Joe, who had to give up taxi driving recently on account of a fall on the slippery sidewalk on Second Avenue near Third Street Tuesday. He injured his knee which continued to swell and give such pain that it was necessary to remove him to hospital in the ambulance this morning.

SHIPS AND WATERFRONT

Frank Waterhouse freighter Island King, Capt. Ray Perry, having called at Kitimat, Kemano Bay and Watson Island on the way north, was in port Wednesday night. After discharging 60 tons of general cargo here, the vessel proceeded to Butedale to load with fish meal after which she will go on to Alert Bay to take on herring oil for Vancouver.

CPR freighter Yukon Princess, Capt. A. F. Campbell, heading north on a scheduled voyage to Alaska is due in port tonight or tomorrow, ahead of time owing to calls at Kitimat and Kemano Bay having been omitted. From here the Yukon Princess will go to Stewart to unload 60,000 feet of lumber which she took on at Telegraph Cove. Then she will continue to various southeastern Alaskan ports as far as Skagway.

Frank Waterhouse tanker Argus, Capt. Albert Gough, is at Kemano Bay today from Vancouver and tomorrow morning will arrive at Port Edward. In the afternoon she is due in Prince Rupert with stove and diesel oil for local tanks. Southbound, the Argus will load a full cargo of herring oil between the Port Edward and Butedale reduction plants.

Last year Canadians spent $11,200,000,000 on goods and services, more than three times as much as in 1939.
