CRUISE SHIPS COLLIDE IN DENSE FOG

Prince Rupert and Kathleen Collision Off Alaska

Kathleen Holed, May Not Go on; Both Ships Docked

Two main cruise vessels loaded with tourists collided in a pea-soup fog early this morning near Lord's Rock, 50 miles north of Prince Rupert. CNR steamship Prince Rupert and CPR steamship Princess Kathleen met practically head on, say reports reaching here.

No one was injured, but damage to Kathleen is reported as "considerable" by local CPR agent J. T. Notman.

"The Kathleen is not expected to go on," he said. Both ships landed here at 2 p.m., having proceeded from scene of accident at a 5-knot speed.

A gaping hole ripped in the bow of the Kathleen led beneath the waterline, flooding seamen's quarters and other compartments.

Following estimate of extent of damages, it will be decided whether or not Kathleen will enter dry dock here, Mr. Notman said.

The collision occurred between 4:30 and 5 a.m. Prince Rupert left here last night at midnight, bound for Ketchikan. Kathleen was returning to Vancouver, following her cruise trip north.

No severe damage to Prince Rupert had been reported, CNR officials here said. Kathleen, about a 4000-ton ship, carried near 300 passengers, most of them American tourists. Prince Rupert carried a full list, about 195, many of them returning to their homes at Ketchikan.

Neither of the ships will sail tonight, agents say. Capt. O. G. Williams, CPR manager of the B.C. coast, arrived here by plane this afternoon, along with a passenger department representative, to decide what will be done with the heavy tourist list.

BELONGINGS LOST
The big, gaping hole on the port side of the damaged ship stretched from the top railing to below the water line and is some 10 feet across. It ripped open the seamen's quarters, most of whom lost all their possessions.

Sympathetic passengers took up a collection of more than $800 to be divided amongst the unfortunate sailors. Well over half the passengers are tourists from California.

MAYBE ANOTHER SHIP
Mr. and Mrs. Sam Croman, of Circleville, Ohio, thought they saw another ship just after the collision.

"It was very foggy. We heard four sharp shrilling whistles and then came the bump. We looked out of the cabin window and saw the two ships pulling away from each other.

"Then we saw another ship, a freighter, heading straight for the Prince Rupert. It stopped about 50 feet away and disappeared in the fog."

Said Oscar Ulman, of San Diego: "It didn't bother me very much, although others were a bit excited. I am a fatalist, you know. If it comes, it comes."

Mrs. W. J. Walton, of Calgary, thought differently. "I was frightened, of course, but the crew soon had us calmed down. We were standing by the lifeboats with lifebelts on and both ships put on their lights.

"There was really no panic and the crew was very good to us. They brought up our breakfast." She was on her way to wire home to say she was alright.

Thieves Loot Island City Post Office

NANAIMO — Thieves who blew up a post office safe here Tuesday and made off with $28,000 in cash, stamps, money orders and registered mail probably escaped to the mainland in a fishboat, police said yesterday.

Police said at least two men and possibly four are involved. The loss included $14,000 in unemployment insurance stamps and $1500 in cash.

Missing Diplomats Found, Maybe Went on "Bender"

Milner New Controller Of Transport

OTTAWA (CP) — Roy Wilfred Milner, one of the country's foremost grain authorities, today was appointed Canada's first peacetime transport controller in history.

His appointment, announced by Transport Minister Chevrier, is an indication the government has decided to use direct action to force diversion of more Great Lakes shipping from iron ore and coal to grain.

The shipping czar will have power to break contracts and redirect bulk-carrying traffic on waterways and rail lines of the country.

Prince Rupert Hits the Slicks

International publicity of widespread interest is given Prince Rupert in September issue of the Saturday Evening Post. In his article, "Everybody's Gonna Get Rich!" witty William Worden tells of bursting bubbles and enthusiasm alternately in the history of this city.

Although Columbia Cellulose Co. Ltd. pulp mill and the company's No. 1 forest management licence is the main feature, Worden humorously reveals other aspects of Prince Rupert:

"Boomy-happy Prince Rupert is jumping with $30,000,000 worth of excitement over a new boom... the only cynic left in this hard-luck town is a local wooden Indian, who has seen bubbles burst before."

The article is embellished by reproduction of five full-color photographs showing local and pulp mill scenes.

UK Landlords Seek Permission To Boost Rents

LONDON (Reuters) — British landlords and Conservative members of Parliament are campaigning for increased rents from tenants of privately-owned houses.

They are bringing pressure on the government to amend the rent restrictions acts, by which rentals on unfurnished houses and apartments are kept down to 1939 levels.

Landlords want the acts changed to allow them to increase rents by a minimum of six shillings and eightpence in the pound. They want these increases to be exclusive of taxes, which are also soaring.

Permission to increase rents was sought recently in a resolution passed by the National Federation of Property Owners. It was suggested that working-class houses now rented at 13 shillings eightpence per week, exclusive of taxes, should have their rents raised by at least four shillings eightpence a week.

The property owners said they needed the extra rent to enable them to maintain tenanted houses in a proper state of repair, and to prevent existing houses from becoming uninhabitable.

They urged that the present rent restrictions acts should be replaced by one comprehensive act fixing rents at a figure allowing them both maintenance costs and a "reasonable return on investment."

BACKED BY TIMES
Ernest Marples, Conservative M.P. for Wallasey, supported the landlords' campaign in a letter to the Times, quickly followed by letters by other Conservatives and members of the Property Owners' Federation.

The Times gave the landlords its blessing in a lead editorial. "It is clearly anomalous—to use no stronger word—that the rents of most private dwellings should remain fixed at what they were in 1939," the Times said.

The Daily Mail in an editorial said the "grasping landlord" was a stock figure that lingered on "in the mythology of Socialism." "That is partly why rents of privately owned houses are still fixed at 1939 levels, and in half

LONDON (CP) — The Daily Herald reported today the Foreign Office has learned the whereabouts of two missing British diplomats, Donald MacLean and Guy Burgess.

The paper said secret service agents have located the two men after a three-month search of western Europe.

Mrs. Melinda MacLean, wife of one, is vacationing on the French Riviera, and has received a message from her husband, the Herald said.

The paper, which has close government connections, said the Foreign Office probably would make no announcement until next week.

MacLean, 38, left his job in London May 25, a Friday evening. Due for a long week-end, he had three days in which to cover his tracks before his disappearance was discovered. Burgess, 49, was on leave at the time.

Unofficial speculation ranged widely. There were suggestions MacLean and Burgess, mentally unstable, had gone to Russia in belief they could effect a reconciliation between the western powers and the Soviet Union.

Others thought simply the two had gone off on a "bender" and were reluctant to return and face certain scandal.

LONDON (CP) — The Foreign Office denied today that British secret agents have located missing diplomats Guy Burgess and Donald MacLean. William Riddsdale, head of the Foreign Office news department, said reports published in two London newspapers today are "completely without foundation."

THE "EX" IS OPEN—George C. Marshall, U.S. defence secretary, presses the button that officially opens the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto. Gen. What About Some Action?

THE matter of a candidate to attend a school for Civil Defence at Ottawa is one that is not arousing very keen interest in the community. The whole matter of Civil Defence is in a very unsatisfactory condition.

We are assured that the enemy has atom bombs, one of which could wipe out a whole community. On the other hand we are told that the enemy would hardly waste one on a centre such as ours. He would use other less expensive bombs.

We are also lead to believe that radar defences would detect approach of enemy aircraft, though we are told at the same time that the speed of modern airplanes would make the time of warning by radar too short to be effective.

There is certainly lack of direction both at provincial and Dominion government levels.

The provincial government has given a partial lead in the appointment of Civil Defence Co-ordinator Major General C. R. Stein, who visited Prince Rupert and met the local committee. However, there is still need for more leadership at the higher levels. Local individuals are waiting for that lead.

The choice of a candidate from the local defence committee is a matter that calls for serious consideration, as it would mean that such a person would have to be away for three weeks to take in the course at Ottawa. That is a long time for any individual to be away from his employment. Action, one way or the other, should be taken at once. It will have to be, as the closing date naming the individual is September 1. In the Second World War, Prince Rupert had a highly organized and effective Air Raid Precaution organization. With the proper leadership it will do equally well in Civil Defence.

That Slo-Mo-Shun Race

THEY are going to have a big race in our town next week-end.

Two speedboats, both owned by the same enterprising American, are going to try for a new world's record over a salt water course.

I will surely be there, along with scores of thousands of other onlookers. But my motive in going may be just a teeny wee bit different. For, apart from an exciting spectacle, in this race between Slo-Mo-Shun the Fourth and Slo-Mo-Shun the Fifth I see a ray of hope for the human race!

THE HOPE I see is not that another Yank may bust another world's record for speed—salt water, or any other kind of water.

Frankly, I don't give a dam whether they bust it or not—for I figure that just about everything in this planet is going too fast already, and what we need is a lot more folks who know when to put a foot on the brake, instead of just step on the gas.

But the fact that two boats which are out to bust the salt water speed record should call themselves Slo-Mo-Shun—that really is something for the book.

THE GREAT curse of the age in which we live is that the world is being taken for a ride by two powers which we might call Uncle Joe and Uncle Sam. These imagine themselves to be just about as different as any two bodies could be. But are they?

RIGHT NOW THE RUSSIANS (pardon me, I mean Uncle Joe) is in the "best, biggest, and first" in the world stage. If you read the Russian papers, or read what the U.S. papers say in the Russian papers, you find that never a day passes but what old Uncle Joe claims Russia was first to invent just about everything that ever was invented.

Now I ask you—from whom did Uncle Joe borrow that trick if not from Uncle Sam?

In what country do you find most advertising slogans reading best in the world, tallest in the world, and so on?

Even the name "World Series" tells the whole story. For our friends, the Yanks, were playing off those "world championship" ball games long before anybody outside the USA had ever heard about baseball.

The English call their ace international cricket contest "The Ashes."

NOT SO long ago I was shown a mountain in the USA where the local patriots were determined not to be outdone by the claim of some other burg to have the "highest peak in the country." They piled an extra twelve feet of rock on top of their own peak—and thus for the moment at least were able to look down at their rival.

That's why I wonder whether or not the names Slo-Mo-Shun, could be just a straw which shows that Uncle Sam is growing up.

Maybe in the next stage of history we shall get a happy medium between the old American (and new Russian) habit of exaggerated claims, and the English preference for understatement.

Not long ago I read this bit about two Englishmen, looking at a really gorgeous, glorious sunset—the kind which inspires painters and composers to create great masterpieces.

First Englishman: "Not so dusty, what?"

Second Englishman: "No need to get so damned poetic about it, old man."

No, we wouldn't want the sons of Uncle Sam to go to the English extreme. But I for one take the name "Slo-Mo-Shun" as a welcome change.

Why The Tehran Talks Broke Down

By W. N. EWER

The breakdown of the Tehran negotiations is deplorable. The consequences may be more than deplorable. But, looking back, it seems to have been inevitable, because the Persian government appears, from the beginning, not to have faced the realities of the situation.

There were—granting the principle of nationalization—three distinct problems which had to be solved in co-operation. First, the problem of how to run the oil industry as a nationalized industry. Second, how to market the products of the nationalized industry. Third, how to compensate the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company equitably for properties which it would be transferring to the Persian State.

The first of the three was fundamental. Unless the industry could be run efficiently, there would be no products to market. And unless there were products to be marketed and a revenue from their marketing, the question of what share should go to the Persian government, what to the Anglo-Iranian Company, what to the company by way of compensation, were less than academic.

That is why at the end, in a last effort to reach an agreement, Mr. Stokes dropped his eight point proposal, which had covered the whole field, and produced one single proposal, dealing only with the organization of the industry. If that had been accepted, the rest could perhaps have been negotiated. But without it there would be no industry to negotiate about.

For the essence of the whole question is simply this. The Persians cannot run the industry without the co-operation of the present British staff. Equally, the British staff cannot run the industry without the co-operation of the Persian staff and the Persian authorities.

But the co-operation of the British staff is essential. They cannot be replaced either by Persians or by men of any other nationality. There are no other skilled technicians who are available to do the job. That may be, from the Persian point of view, a regrettable fact. But it is none the less a fact. It is the key fact in the whole situation.

Therefore, the first essential in any arrangement must be that it should be one which the existing staff would be prepared to accept. And they had made it very clear that they would only be prepared to go on working under some system which would not only guarantee them reasonable salaries and conditions of work and living, but would be efficient. They could hardly be expected to do anything else. They are men proud of the organization which they have created and built up.

It was in order to ensure the co-operation of the technical and managing staff that the first British proposal was put forward. It was one for an operating organization which would be, as it were, autonomous within the framework and under the general control of the Persian nationalized industry.

That was rejected by the Persian government. Mr. Stokes tried again. He went to the very limits of possibility. He proposed that there should be no separate organization but that running of the industry should be in the hands of the directors of the new National Iranian Oil Company, provided that the immediate management should remain for the present in the hands of a competent British manager. It is, let me insist, not a question of nationality but of competence and of efficiency. The staff—and they are quite literally indispensable—will not work under a management which they do not regard and respect as competent and efficient.

That has, at the end, been the only issue. It has nothing to do with profits or discounts or compensation. It has been simply whether the Persian government would agree to some form of management, within the framework of nationalization, under which the present technical and administrative staff would agree to work.

There would have been no point or purpose in Mr. Stokes or the U.K. government agreeing to anything else. For nothing else would be workable. All talk of "national rights," of capitalist exploitation and the rest of it is simply irrelevant. The whole problem has boiled down to the quite simple human one of how to devise a method of running a nationalized industry which the only people capable of running that industry are prepared to accept and under which they are prepared to work. If that could be devised, there are certainly other problems to solve. But unless it can be devised the other

The fringe of the railway reserve at the foot of Sixth Street is a danger point, as a boy discovered Tuesday. As it was, he suffered sufficient injuries to keep him in hospital. It's a long, jagged drop down to the level of the railway yard. In fact it's all a risky neighborhood. No human being has died there yet, although a useful animal went over the edge once, without ever coming back. We miss milk and beef.

Among teachers returning to the city after the summer vacation are Miss Mills, principal of Border Street School, and the Misses May and Lillian Jones.

Two other members, Miss Jessie Rothwell and Miss Caroline Mitchell, were on the same trip but continued on to China. They will return shortly.

More than 700 entries have been received from the Fall Fair which opens next week.
Preliminary figures for the 1931 census place Prince Rupert's population at 6326 compared with the 1921 figures of 6393. The figures are not quite complete and the final figures may offset the present drop of 67 from the figures 10 years previously.

THE EXPERTS Say...

Salad work — among other things — resulted in several new fruit and vegetable concoctions being placed before the public eye.

The Quebec fisheries department seized on the "Week" to distribute a recipe highlighting its favorite product; a canned food plant in Hamilton, Ont., was moved to offer recipes for some of its own output.

Finally, the Dominion Department of Agriculture's consumer section looked over a few angles on salad-making and came up with some timely tips.

Stuffed tomatoes head the agriculture department's recommendations.

Such a variety of fillings may be used "that it would be easy to serve a different stuffed tomato salad for each day of the week," say the home economists.

For example: A filling of diced celery, diced cucumber, sliced radishes and chopped green onions, combined with a little whipped cream, vinegar and seasoning (to taste) — for Monday.

A cottage cheese filling mixed with diced celery, chopped parsley, and salad dressing — for Tuesday.

Diced chicken, diced hard-boiled eggs and celery and chopped pickle moistened with salad dressing — for Wednesday.

Cooked leftover macaroni, spaghetti with diced celery and well-seasoned tomato pulp — for Thursday.

Cole slaw — for Friday.

Devilled eggs, on a bed of salad dressing spread on tomato petals — for Saturday.

FISH SALADS HEALTHY

The fisheries department of Quebec suggests the following salad as "a health-builder for the children" and "a treat for the grown-ups."

Ingredients: Two cups flaked cooked fish (cod, halibut and so on); two cups diced potatoes; one cup celery, chopped; one carrot, grated; one onion, minced; two pickles (chopped).

Rub a salad bowl with a clove of garlic. Mix one teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon pepper, two tablespoons vinegar, until

Argentina Holds School Congress

ARGENTINA TO HOLD BUENOS AIRES.—A group of Argentinian teachers recently met under the auspices of the Free College of High Studies in this South American capital, to study rural education and the methods recommended by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (Unesco), for the training of children and youths in this country's different economic and geographical areas.

As a result of the meeting, it was decided to set up a documentation centre and a small publication which will supply information on educational schemes, and to call a teachers' congress to formulate concrete principles for Argentina's rural education.

It is dissolved. Add six tablespoons of oil.

Salad will be well seasoned if turned carefully with a spoon and a fork.

Dress salad on crispy lettuce; sprinkle with grated carrot and chopped parsley. This salad can also be decorated with quarters of hard-boiled eggs and tomatoes.

SALADS WITH CANNED FOODS

Here's what you can do in the salad way with a 20-ounce can of sliced beets and some seasoning:

Ingredients: One 20-ounce can sliced beets; one tablespoon of sugar; one tablespoon minced onion; one teaspoon salt; dash of pepper; two tablespoons salad oil; one-quarter cup vinegar; six lettuce cups; one-half cup cottage cheese.

Drain beet; reserve one-half cup liquor. Combine with sugar, onion, salt, pepper, oil, vinegar and beet liquor. Cover. Marinate overnight in refrigerator. Arrange in lettuce cups. Top each serving with a mound of cottage cheese. Serve with French dressing. Six servings.

Expert Goes To Mexico ILO Outlines Transfer of Europeans

MEXICO CITY.—The lessons learned by New Zealand in running a "trouble-shooting service" for scientists and industry are now being put to use in Mexico under the technical assistance program of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

The founder of the New Zealand government's service, David Cairns, a 36-year-old scientist, is here on a one-year assignment to set up what is officially called the "bibliographical service" of a scientific and technical centre Mexico is now establishing with Unesco's co-operation. Eventually the centre's service will spread beyond Mexico and be made available to countries throughout Latin America.

Mr. Cairns, who was secretary of the New Zealand National Commission for Unesco, founded his own government's scientific information service in 1944. By 1948, the service was handling 200 requests a month from New Zealand scientists and industrialists. "My job in Mexico," he said recently, "will be to break down scientific information into a usable form both for professional scientists and, even more important, for industry and agriculture."

Under the terms of the Unesco Technical Assistance Agreement, Unesco is sending four experts for a period of two or three years to help in the organization of the centre and to train local personnel. During the first year Unesco is supplying $15,000 worth of equipment. Four fellowships will be awarded to Mexicans who will visit European centres to gain experience. The Mexican government will supply the building.

emigration countries are expected to be present.

Meanwhile, in an address to the UN Economic and Social Council meeting here, David A. Morse, ILO's director-general, said that ILO is ready to accept the responsibility of a long-range migration program. "We see migration as an important contribution to world economic development and social progress, he said. "Migration is not just a question of transporting people from one country to another. Migration activities have to be closely co-ordinated with employment organization and with employment services."

Mr. Morse said that the present situation urgently requires that one international agency take the lead in developing plans for action in the migration field and in bringing to bear on their practical execution the knowledge and experience of other agencies, each in its special field.

problems cannot even be sensibly discussed.

And it is on this issue that the breakdown has come. The U.K. government has put forward "first one suggestion, then another. Both have been rejected. The Persian government has put forward no proposal of any kind which even begins to take account of this fundamental human question—or how to persuade the only people who can in fact run their nationalized industry to run it.

It is not an issue between the Persian government and the U.K. government. It is not an issue between "nationalization" leagues.

and "imperialism." It is an issue between a would-be employer—the National Iranian Oil Company—and the staff which they say they wish, and which they certainly need, to employ.

Mr. Stokes has, in a sense, been acting as mediator between the prospective employer and the prospective staff. The prospective employer has refused the perfectly reasonable terms upon which the prospective staff are prepared to work. And that being so, there is no point in discussing other matters.

But what the employer intends to do with an oil industry which has no staff capable of running it is now a question for the Doctor Mousadek and his colleagues.

Housing Comes to Pr. Rupert

City Approves 50-Unit Housing Project Here

If there are 50 families in Prince Rupert who are willing to pay between $60 and $70 a month rent for two and three-bedroom modern homes, a rental housing scheme here will go ahead.

After two years of continued effort by the city, council at a special sitting last night approved "in principle" a concrete offer by Central Housing & Mortgage Corporation and the provincial government which can give long sought for housing to this city.

But there are two "contingent factors":

The federal government wants assurance that there will be a continued demand here for 50 homes—size of the proposed project—at an approximate $60-a-month rental level.

And construction costs must be low enough so such a project can be entertained.

That $60 rent is based on eight per cent of capital investment, the return which CH & MC considers necessary for an "economically sound" rental housing project, T. B. Pickersgill, regional supervisor, told council.

Mr. Pickersgill and J. E. Brown, provincial housing representative, flew in from Vancouver yesterday to make the new offer to the city.

"If the houses cost, say, $9000 a unit to build here, then the rent expected would be $720 a year, or $60 a month. That's how we have estimated the rental requirements," Mr. Pickersgill said.

The whole council was sure there would be "no trouble" in getting tenants for the 50 homes.

"I'm sure there will be 100 tenants willing to rent at that figure," said Acting Mayor Harold Whalen.

Mr. Pickersgill, however, asked City Clerk R. W. Long to make a check and "sound out the people" for a definite statement of assurance.

"We'll have that for you," said Mr. Long, "and by tomorrow."

TERMS OF OFFER

Terms of the new offer, as presented by Mr. Brown and accepted by the council, are as follows:

1. The municipality must share in the capital investment of the housing project to extent of 7 1/2 per cent. This will be done by the city providing land and installing services, such as sewers, roads, street-lighting and water services.

2. Provincial government bears 17 1/2 per cent of the cost of housing; Central Housing & Mortgage Corporation, 75 per cent.

Today, a CH & MC engineer arrives by plane to pass on the building sites and types of construction, building lots will be approved in a joint meeting of the authorities and a housing committee appointed last night.

Then tenders will be called for, "and they will be advertised far and wide," promised Mr. Pickersgill, adding that the lowest bid would likely be successful—"if it's reasonable."

As soon as a contract has been let for the project, a "housing authority" will be appointed here to administer maintenance, collection of rents and screening of applicants, Mr. Brown said. The body would be appointed subject to approval of the senior government and the lieutenant-governor.

FURTHER DETAILS

City also agreed that any losses or profits of the project would be shared on a 12 1/2 per cent basis. Provincial government shares in 12 1/2 per cent, and the federal body, in 75 per cent.

Lands for the project will be put up by the city at the assessed value as part of the 7 1/2 per cent share of the municipality. To complete its obligation, city agreed to install all necessary services. All taxes, however, will be paid to the city, and from the rentals, the municipality will recover the cost of lands.

Services, such as installation of new roads, sewers, which are 100 per cent local improvement charges, will be recovered from local improvement taxes the city will levy.

General revenue services costs such as water installations, street lighting, will be recouped from assessed property taxes.

TYPES OF HOMES

Mr. Pickersgill assured council the homes would be constructed to "minimum or better" standards required under the National Housing Act.

There will be a variety of designs, he said. Depending on the physical features, some homes will have basements, others won't, he said, but would likely contain a storey-and-a-half feature.

All will be supplied with efficient heating units, he said.

About 30 units will be of the two-bedroom type; and the balance, three-bedroom.

Mr. Pickersgill also assured council that the cost of the project, when bids are submitted, will be truly discussed with the city.

Both Mr. Brown and Mr. Pickersgill shared the city council's pleasure that housing in Prince Rupert was finally taking on a "definite form."

Safety Plan Would Shame Bad Drivers

WEST BRITAIN, England, (CP)—A national road safety campaign, which would make it a disgrace to become involved in a traffic accident, has been proposed by West Bromwich city council.

A scheme to be known as "Operation Road", has already been drawn up by the West Bromwich traffic department. Town council and road safety organizations throughout the United Kingdom have been asked to endorse it.

The King has been suggested that the King be asked to broadcast a message stressing the importance to the nation of the proposed operation which would be an anti-military plan. Leading members of the movement are being asked to give their support to the plan.

The Royal Society for the Prevention of Accidents has commended the scheme. It has suggested, however, that the campaign should be organized on a purely regional basis to avoid adding further strain on police forces, already burdened by heavy Festival year responsibilities.

However, the West Bromwich council considers the plan should go forward on a national basis or be scrapped.

Seaman Turns To Hobby And Stays Ashore

WANNIPEG, (CP)—Knut Holmgren, for many years a seaman in the Swedish Merchant Navy, has been a carpenter since coming to Canada three months ago but he would like to devote all his time to wood carving.

His latest project, which he will do in spare time, is a five-foot model in Canada wood of a 19th century sailing ship used for carrying wheat from Australia and now a training ship for Sweden's navy.

Asked why he left the sea Holmgren said: "I have had enough travelling. Canada's climate is similar to that of Sweden. And then there's Mrs. Holmgren's decision. I don't want a man who is always at sea. We've spent only 13 of 20 years of married life together."

Time Now To Think About Pickling all those luscious summer fruits and vegetables. But before you begin, I'd like to tell you how to be truly thrifty when you're buying your pickling vinegar. Buy HEINZ WHITE VINEGAR in the big gallon jug instead of smaller containers and save 25c on every cupful of pickling vinegar! Heinz Vinegar is the very best buy for full-bodied flavour and uniform strength, too. And no wonder—for Heinz White Vinegar is packed by the firm who made pickles famous... you know it's good because it's Heinz! Another pickling help is that grand FREE RECIPE BOOKLET "Pickling Success". If the gallon jug you buy doesn't have it attached—simply write me for it—Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal, P.Q.

"Summertime... And The Living Isn't Easy!" Pardon me if I make free with the Gospel song, but with prices getting so high and mighty, things just aren't easy any more—even in summertime. Right about now is when I really appreciate the advantages of Personal Planning—the BANK OF MONTREAL way of making today's dollar go almost as far as the old-fashioned kind. Way back in January when my budget was showing signs of going into a tail-spin, I began Personal Planning. Now I'm better off financially than I've been for years—even if my income didn't shoot up with the regularity. There's money in my bank account... and I'm adding to it regularly. Why not try Personal Planning yours-elf? I'm delighted with the results once you get down to it. Just ask for your free copy of the booklet "PERSONAL PLANNING" at your neighborhood B of M branch.

Danish Volunteers Build New School for Greece

The Greek village of Agnadero had no school. As in many other places its schoolhouse was destroyed during the war. Today, thanks to the contributions of Danish school children and of a team of Danish workers, a new schoolhouse is beginning to rise in the war ravaged Greek town.

The initiative was taken by the Danish Society for Reconstruction in War-Ravaged Countries and the Danish National Commission for Unesco. Members of the Danish voluntary team cut stone and mix batches of mortar for the brand-new school which is expected to open some time this summer.

BOSAHAN, England (CP)—Two pedigreed Ayrshire cows were electrocuted here when a short-circuit developed in their electric milking machine. Eighteen others in the herd struggled in pain until the current was switched off.

LONDON (CP)—Three-year-old Barry Jones was dared by a playmate to stick his head through an iron railing. Two hours later the screaming Barry was finally freed by policemen with a hacksaw.

OFF-THE-RACK SAO PAULO, Brazil (CP)—Brazilian males noted for their well-tailored appearance are being put into read-made suits for the first time. Ready-mades had previously been limited to working clothes.

Blackwood on Bridge

By Easley Blackwood

Mr. Muzzy yelled with disappointment when the dummy went down in this hand. "We've missed a grand slam, partner," he announced sadly. Mr. Masters felt that he would be perfectly satisfied to miss the grand slam bonus. He only hoped Mr. Muzzy could somehow manage to make six.

Miss Brash opened the king of clubs, hoping her partner would be void in the suit. Mr. Muzzy won with the ace and gave the hand a little study. Then he laid down the ace of hearts and followed with the king of hearts.

Miss Brash ruffed this last trick and led a trump. At this point Mr. Muzzy had three losing hearts left in his hand and only two trumps on the board. There was no getting away from it. He had to lose another heart for down one.

"Nice grand slam, Muzzy," said Mr. Champion, grinning happily. Mr. Muzzy glared. "What lousy luck," he muttered. "Six hearts out and five of them in one hand."

"Of course, after you got the king of clubs opening," Mr. Champion pointed out, "you could have made your bid easily."

"He's right, Muzzy," said Mr. Masters. "What you had to do was to safety-play the hearts."

After winning with the ace of hearts, Mr. Muzzy should have led a small heart—not the king. It would make no difference which opponent won the second heart lead. Whoever it was would lead back trump, which is the best defense.

But Mr. Muzzy would have only two losing hearts instead of three and he would have two trumps on the board to take care of them. The point is that the king of hearts must not be played until the very end of the hand, after trumps have been extracted.

Note particularly that in order to make sure of winning 12 tricks Mr. Muzzy had to give up all chance of winning 13. There's a lesson in that somewhere.

This safety play pops up in all sorts of guises. The main principle involved is this: If the enemy cannot be prevented from ruffing, try to arrange your play so that they will ruff your deuces and treys—not your aces and kings.

Sports in Our Community

Reading through the sports items of events in Prince Rupert 20 years ago, one is faced with the question: "Was there more organized sport then than there is now?" If so, why has it been falling? Our population is larger. At that time there were baseball, football, swimming, track and field, lacrosse and tennis. Now there is baseball, football and a limited amount of football.

There is no tennis, though there are plans for this court.

The swimming club is defunct and the Salters are not extensively used.

There are, of course, very active and successful basketball leagues with boys of ages from 10 up playing and being coached. Why the falling in other games?

"There was more sport when he were young," critics say. Here are a few reasons why.

At that time there were no radios, and only picture show; there was no highway out of town, and we suspect that is one of the reasons, so many of the young people drive cars and get away when at all possible.

There are a lot of young people who have boats and spend their time on them. A visitor to the Club nearly always finds a number overhauling, adjusting and repainting their boats. There is a lively and wholesome interest there.

Generally it is when boys are quite young that they learn the rudiments of games and get their interest in them aroused. This interest increases as they acquire proficiency. That time is when they are at school.

Now how do our schools measure up to the challenge of teaching the young generation? Generally, they are greatly handicapped by lack of playing space. The weather at times also draws back, but ask some of the veterans who were in Scotland and they'll tell you that they were in wind and rain just as bad as we have here.

There is no doubt that lack of playing space is a drawback. Modern school plans call for ample playing space. Then there is the need for instruction and here again the Department of Education provides provision for and encourages the teaching of games. It would seem that something more could be done in the schools.

The Gyro swimming pool in McClymont Park is already doing a big job in teaching the beginning fundamentals of swimming and life saving and this is an activity that will pay big dividends in the years to come.

But all in all, the question of the encouragement of sport is a community effort. Sport for its own sake is what we want. Over-emphasis on professional sport has often paid off in undesirable dividends in some centres of America. We are not to be faced with that danger here. But we must do with more participants in the games, and this depends on the youngsters and their parents.

Sports-minded community will develop worthwhile citizens.

Battery Edges Can. Legion

In the first game of the Manson Cup football competition, Heavy Battery eked out a 2-1 win over the Canadian Legion last evening.

All goals were scored in the first half with Alex Gomez opening the score for the Battery. Phillips equalized for the Legion and then from a corner kick Georgeson put the Battery in the lead which they held for the remainder of the game. A Canadian Legion claim for a penalty kick was refused when linesmen confirmed Battery's contention that the ball had been out of play before Dunbar handled it.

Yankees Tie Indians

NEW YORK — New York Yankees surged into first place with Cleveland Indians in American League Wednesday night by shelling St. Louis Browns 10-2 after Indians were shut out in afternoon affair by Philadelphia Athletics 3-0.

With Gus Zernal providing the offensive power and southpaw Alex Kellner pitching shut-out ball, Philadelphia Athletics rocked Cleveland Indians today 3-0, and trimmed their American League lead to a half-game. Zernal punched his 29th homer with one aboard in the fourth inning at Cleveland to put the A's in front.

Things were unchanged at top of National League as front running Brooklyn Dodgers and second-place New York Giants both won to leave Bums ahead by six games.

Brooklyn bats rattled sixteen hits off Cincinnati pitching, including two homers by Gil Hodges, as Dodgers walloped the Reds at Ebbets Field, 13-1.

Jim Hearn tossed a neat three-hitter at the Polo Grounds to beat Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1.

Hodges, with his 35th and 36th round-trippers, set a new all-time Dodge record for home runs. Babe Herman hit 35 in 1930.

At Detroit, Boston Red Sox scored twice in ninth inning on three hits and a walk to down Tigers 7-5. Ted Williams hit his 27th home run, a single, walked twice and was a demon afield with four fine running catches.

An error in the thirteenth inning at Chicago by second baseman Nelson Fox permitted Mickey Vernon to score winning tally as Washington Senators edged White Sox 2-1.

Dave Cole, Boston Braves' rookie righthander, tossed three-hitter at Boston to beat Chicago Cubs, 4-1, and register his first major league victory.

St. Louis Cardinals shoved across a run without a hit in ninth inning at Philadelphia to defeat Phillies 3-2.

Bill Johnson walked, stole second, advanced to third on Del Wilber's wild throw and scored on a fly ball.

Kid Gavilan Holds Title

NEW YORK — Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan retained his title by thinnest of margins last night as he gained a split 15-round decision over Billy Graham, New York, before 8,137 fans in Madison Square Garden. A storm of boos greeted the verdict.

Gavilan weighed 145 1/4 pounds and Graham 145.
The kid from Cuba, making his first defense of his crown since he won it on May 18, won by a single point—or as close as any decision can be made in this state.
Referee Mark Conn's decision was in favor of 24-year-old Gavilan after two judges had split.

PCL Strikes At Major League Draft
SAN FRANCISCO (CP)—Directors of Pacific Coast League voted unanimously today to withdraw from organized baseball unless the major league draft is eliminated.

This drastic action followed a day-long emergency meeting at which resignation of Paul I. Fagan, owner of San Francisco Baseball Club, as league director, was officially accepted.

ST. LOUIS — New York Yankees today purchased Johnny Sain from Boston Braves for an estimated $50,000 and player after 32-year-old righthander had been passed up by every National League club for $10,000 waiver price.

To make room for Sain the Yankees handed veteran pitcher Jack Kramer his unconditional release. Sain will probably be used in relief by Yankees.

Sailors Need Cheery News

ABOARD HMCS CAYUGA AT SEA—News from home. That is one of the greatest morale builders the ship's company of the Canadian destroyer now serving in the Far East. At the top of the list, of course, comes mail. For those at sea, it sometimes may be difficult to imagine the air of eagerness in a ship when she gets word there is mail for her on the tanker or ammunition ship coming up the Korean coast to replenish her supplies; or when the ship is headed back for one of the United Nations naval bases in Japan and everyone is sure there will be a letter waiting.

It is an emotion which can only come from men who are cut off from home by several thousand miles of ocean and performing a variety of tasks. Sometimes exciting, often routine and trying in its demands for exactness; and its lack of relief from boredom.

Mail brings happiness, or most of it does, for there are exceptions. Chaplain Bruce Peglar, Protestant chaplain with the destroyers out here, has a few observations to make on this.

"Wives, above all, should try to write a letter emphasizing the cheery aspects of home life," he says, "and eliminate as far as possible the worries, cares and personal complaints that eat the heart out of a man who is trying to do his job."

Some of the problems presented to him as chaplain he finds caused by mournful letters. A cry letter from home is the greatest morale booster in the Korean theatre," says Chaplain Peglar.

Perhaps second in importance, the magazines and other reading matter which arrive aboard the ships. Chaplain Richard Ward, Roman Catholic chaplain to the Canadian seaver here, offers his thanks to the organizations in particular of their assistance. To both the "Service Officers' Wives, HMCS Chippewa, Winnipeg, and the Ottawa branch of the Canadian Legion he expresses the appreciation which is felt in the ships for reading material which has been sent.

Early this year, the Winnipeg reserve officers' wives asked what would be most appreciated and the answer was "mostly magazines." Since then, they have been sending a constant supply. The Ottawa Legion branch has been sending current copies of various magazines since early last fall.

"These two are much appreciated, since everyone's spare time is mainly spent in reading," says Father Ward. "It is amazing the amount of reading material that can be consumed."

"The magazines are handed from person to person until they become dog-eared. Beyond mail and movies, these magazines are among the biggest morale factors out here."

NAVAL HISTORY and tradition has a new significance for cadets who took training cruises from Canada to the United Kingdom this summer because they saw first hand the historic 100-metre base of the Royal Navy. In the photo at left, cadets proceed on board Nelson's famous flagship, HMS Victory, to see the cramped spaces in which England's heroes lived, fought and died. At the right, they are shown a model of one of the old muzzle loading cannon which formed the Victory's main armament.

It's a Treat

Goldfish Love Cornmeal Mush

MARTINSVILLE, Indiana (AP)—That far-away look in the eyes of your pet goldfish may be a yearning for corn-meal mush from Indiana.

The Grassyfork Fisheries here claim to be the goldfish capital of the world, and some 400,000-500,000 flashy fish have slithered out into the world from the 675 ponds on the firm's seven farms.

Long ago the firm found that price specimens, the big ones used for breeding, thrived on mush. It has a vat large enough to heat up 7,000 pounds at a time.

Grassyfork's development is something like a soap opera. Eugene Shireman's marshy farm hadn't seemed good for much of anything except mosquitoes, until in 1899 an enterprising soap salesman from Indianapolis decided a bowl of goldfish might be an enticing premium to boost his sales.

The soap company was out of business by the time Grassyfork got into production, but other soap companies fell in with the female's is smooth. The breeders average about three years old, but Wood remembers some that have lived to the ripe old age of 16 years. Most of them don't live past five years. They're usually 14 to 22 inches long.

That's far too large for the usual household goldfish but don't worry about your pet bursting his bowl.

"They stay small when they're kept in confined places," Wood said. "We keep the market fish crowded in ponds to keep them small. They can grow as long as eight inches in one season in an uncrowded pond."

Mush helps the breeders grow big and husky—the "small fry" being grown for the market get no such delicacies. The culled-out breeders are sold for ornamental fish ponds.

The common orange-colored goldfish usually sell in stores and shops at a nickel or a dime each. The Chinese Moors, Fantails and Shubunkins bring fancier prices like 25 to 50 cents.

Tanks Show a Few Tricks, Including 31 ft. Jump

TONS OF STEEL went hurtling through the air when a Cromwell tank jumped 31 ft. during a demonstration by Britain's Royal Armored Corps. The show of British fighting vehicles took place about the time when Britain's Prime Minister, Clement Attlee, announced that peace or war in Korea would make no difference to Britain's $13 billion defense program over the next three years.

Screen News And Reviews

"The Gunfighter" has hit the target at the Capitol Theatre. Happily received by reviewers and average moviegoers alike, the western drama tells of the last hours in the hard life of a gunfighter who wants to go straight but finds his reputation catching up with him.

Henry Westcott, Millard Mitchell and Jean Parker head Peck's supporting cast, which further includes Karl Malden, Skip Homeier, Anthony Ross, Verna Felton, Ellen Corby and Richard Jaeckel. The Nunnally Johnson production was directed by Henry King, who also guided Peck and Mitchell in the successful "Twelve O'Clock High" earlier this year. William Bowers wrote the screenplay from a story by Bowers and Andre de Togh.
