THE WEATHER

Synopsis
The weather picture over British Columbia is very much as it was 24 hours ago. There is an active low pressure area off the California coast and a weakening over northern Alberta. The area off California still appears to be too far south to have very much effect on B. C. weather. Only variable high cloud is to be expected over southern sections. The low area over Alberta is moving slowly eastward and the cloud over the eastern interior is continuing to decrease. Precipitation was confined to the Peace River district where rain mixed with snow fell through the night.
Another weak disturbance, now entering the western Gulf of Alaska, is expected to move southward to the low off California and to cause only a little high cloud along the coast.
Temperatures are expected to show further rises in most areas tomorrow as the sunny skies persist.
Forecast
North Coast Region—Cloudy clearing this afternoon. Variable high cloudiness tonight. Sunny tomorrow. Little change in temperature. Winds light. Lows tonight and highs tomorrow at Port Hardy and Prince Rupert, 35 and 60; Sandspit 35 and 55.

HAVE YOU TRIED 99 LATELY?

With speakers emphasizing the value of this expanding annual cultural event, the fourth annual Prince Rupert and District Music and Drama Festival was officially opened last night before a large audience which stayed until almost the midnight hour to hear a diverting and interesting evening of vocal and dramatic presentations. The Festival is continuing morning, afternoon and evening through to Friday with sessions at Civic Centre, Capitol Theatre and First United Church.
C. W. Graham, inspector of schools, opening the Festival, expressed his appreciation of the privilege. He complimented the chairman, committee members, organizations and contestants who were working together for the success of the Festival. He felt that the committee had made an excellent choice in their adjudicators—Burton Kurth for music, and Mrs. Phoebe Smith, for the drama. He said that this festival was local, though it was happy to welcome those from out of town. Its purpose was two-fold.
First, to encourage contestants in their art and to provide public performances for the expression of this art.
Second, to provide the opportunity for young people to have expert adjudication from adjudicators who give help and build up the spirit of the contestants.
Mrs. Earl Becker, president of the Association and announcer for the evening's program, asked for constructive criticism. The Association, though young, had taught a lot, but there was much more to learn. She explained

Bomb Site is Rustic Garden

LONDON (CP)—A rustic garden, costing £40,000 (about $120,000) is being built on a bomb site in the shadows of historic St. Paul's Cathedral as a permanent retreat for city workers. The project represents London Corporation's contribution to the Festival of Britain.

The garden will have a magnificent lawn of Cumberland turf, a pond, twin fountains and will contain some of the most elaborate stone work of its type in London. The work which began last December is expected to be completed before official opening of the festival next month.

Already in position around the edges of the site are 50 lime trees which will provide a protective screen 10 feet high between the garden and the street traffic. Around the lawns will be three lines of flower beds.

Laying the paving stones around the sunken garden will pose a tricky task for masons assigned to the job. Two experts from the Yorkshire quarry from which the stone comes were sent to London to study plans calling for 192 stones, all different in size and contour. The experts returned to the quarry to supervise the cutting.

April Was Fair Month

It was a fair April in Prince Rupert this year from the weather standpoint. Rainfall was less than the same month last year while sunshine was up.

Precipitation this year to date is just about a stand-off with the corresponding period last year, the total for the first four months of 1951 being 25.54 inches compared with 25.4 inches in the corresponding period of 1950.

Sunshine this year to date has aggregated 268.9 hours as against 320 hours in the first four months of 1950.

The weather summary for this April is as follows:

Total precipitation, 4.95 inches on sixteen days (7.74 inches in April 1950.)

Sunshine—117.3 hours on nineteen days (83 hours April 1950.)

Maximum temperature, 59.7 on April 14.

Minimum temperature, 29.5 on April 16.

Mean temperature, 42.4.

Maximum barometer reading at sea level, 30.68 on April 9.

Minimum barometer reading, 29.19 on April 27.

Maximum wind velocity, southeast, 36 miles per hour, April 2.

Eskimo Chief Harbor Pilot

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—Eskimo John Eli has been official pilot at one of the world's most northerly harbors for more than 30 years. And he's the official interpreter too.

He has been in Fort Churchill hospital most of the winter undergoing treatment. There, he finds the central heating a pleasant contrast to the igloo he lives in at Coral Harbor, on Southampton Island at the top end of Hudson Bay.

Southampton Island is 500 miles northeast of this Hudson Bay port.

Mr. Eli first saw a white man when a United States whaler put into Coral Harbor when he was six. Later he joined a whaler crew and learned the English that has stood him in good stead as an interpreter throughout his adult life.

When not serving as pilot or interpreter, he hunts white fox and norwral, the latter for its tusks. On his hunting trips over the polar ice he uses 12 dogs, hitched in a line.

MASS ATTACK

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—Local officials wondering how to get rid of the thousands of starlings which frequent both sides of the Niagara River heard with interest of experiments in Buffalo. There it was planned to asphyxiate thousands roosting in an old boiler house by carrying carbon monoxide from big trucks in hoses.

Change Trimming On Spring Suits

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—For many British women, the steady rise in prices means no new suits this spring.

This, however, does not dismay the fashion-conscious. Close study of up-to-date couture styles and fashion hints shows that last year's "tapered" look is not far removed from this year's "drain-pipe" styles.

In fact, clever fingers, pretty buttons and contrast materials soon give an up-to-the-minute look to any of last year's straight-skirted suits and dresses.

Spring styles recently displayed in both London and Paris show many innovations that are easily copied. These are often individual to the designer concerned and are as distinctive as a signature.

Take for instance four button-tabs folding backwards from a long V neckline and threaded with a fringed scarf-tie. This design is by Charles Creed. Two oblique "tongue" tabs buttoned across the front of a dress and threaded by a long scarf attachment that flies freely from the belt downward show the touch of Jacques Faith.

Foster Russell uses squared button-tabs to nip in the waist of a classic suit. Dior gives button-tail breast pockets to a plain little bolero, while Jacques Faith uses a similar line to gather the bodice and hip fullness of a strapless evening gown.

Hardy Amies decorates a tweed suit with neat tab epaulettes at the sleeve top and Creed slashes a wide raglan sleeve, turns it back in a deep cuff and decorates the sleeve—not the cuff—with one outside button. This gives a new length to the sleeve. It is neither full length nor three-quarters, but roughly seven-eighths.

One of the easiest renovations is the waistcoat look. This gives a clean freshness to dark suits and is easily achieved by a yard of white pique and a little patience.

Take any dark classic suit, turn back the jacket flaps and outline with white, elongate the lapels where possible and edge with white, add a white waistcoat-blouse or insert and you have the Paquin look. Smartness is heightened by attractive buttons, cunningly-placed at jacket waist and on the flaps and waistcoat.

Many London women are already adding white to black and navy suits. Combined with a dark hat decorated in white, white gloves, dark shoes and handbag, this promises to be the most popular choice of the season.

For dark dresses there are many chic little adornments that give both individuality and femininity. To a plain black dress with scooped-out neckline a small vestee of tiny Parma violets lends charm to the neckline. If accessories are also in black, a Parisian look is given by a wide hat dressed in Parma violets combined with violet-colored gloves and severely-plain black bag and shoes.

Timber Scaling Booming in This District—Up From 1950

Timber scaling in Prince Rupert forestry district for the present year to date is running more than 50 per cent higher than for the first four months of 1950. The scale up to April 30 had reached 72,170,139 board feet compared with 46,381,137 board feet in the corresponding period of 1950.

The scale of forest products—poles and piling—is also running heavily ahead of last year—609,073 to 396,793 lineal feet for the four-month periods this year and last.

The log scale this April aggregated 35,386,720 board feet compared with 32,297,570 board feet in April 1950.

The log scale per species this April and last was as follows:

	April '51	April '50
	Bd. ft.	Bd. ft.
Fir	3,719
Cedar	4,552,666	447,489
Spruce	19,290,089	12,532,793
Hemlock	7,423,180	2,687,593
Balsam	1,013,160	673,474
Jackpine	2,623,098	2,306,581
Misc.	389,528

Totals 35,386,720 18,647,930

FOREST PRODUCTS

The pole and piling count for this April was 123,432 lineal feet compared with 93,825 lineal feet in April 1950. Cedar, with 99,384, was the largely predominant variety.

The jackpine tie count this April was 11,901 pieces compared with 9147 in April 1950.

The cordwood count this April was 69 cords compared with 224 in April 1950.

Hangman's Tree Sinister Scene

LILLOOET (CP)—Gaunt and sinister, a hangman's tree stands on a bluff overlooking this Fraser Valley town.

Just who was hanged there, and when, seems to be unknown but six unmarked graves at the foot of the twisted pine are a grim reminder of what may have been early Caribou justice, carried out when the town was a roaring mining camp.

The hills around Lillooet once were covered with bush, but when the miners came they cut it all down for firewood and building material except the lone pine. The tree has become a tourist attraction, but only in daylight. Not many take the lonely trail past the grim relic in the dark.

VALUE OF MUSIC

The changes in the program through the last minute withdrawal of the Terrace Civic Centre Drama Club's play.
In its place were two boys'
choirs who opened up the program.

The Grade 12 Boys' Choir of the Annunciation School, under their conductor, Father O. P.
Mohan, O.M.I., was a pleasure to listen to and watch. Their happy faces as they sang the test piece
"Jim, the Carter Lad," showed their own enthusiasm for the song. In contrast, their singing of "Ave Verum" was one of serious devotion.

The 26-boy choir of the Borden Street School, under their conductor J. S. Wilson was equally appreciated as these boys too, evidently enjoyed what they were singing. Their own choice was "Killarney."

These two choirs were highly praised by Mr. Kurth who gave winning points to the boys of the Annunciation School. Their total for the both pieces was 170 while the Borden School choir was close with a total of 167 points.

The St. Andrew's Cathedral
Junior Choir, under Peter Lien, drew high praise from Mr. Kurth for blending of their young voices in the singing of the test piece "Prayer of Thanksgiving" and their own selection "O Rest in the Lord." They were given 84 marks for each piece.

FIGHTING BUZZARDS

CLYRO, Radnorshire, Wales (CP)—Two buzzards locked in mid-air combat plunged down a new war. Thousands of homes on to the neck of a horse ridden are infested with Italian, woodby John Morgan and one bird eating beetles and it is estimated embedded a talon in his hand. That already the invasion has cost £300,000 ($900,000).

Cereals and Fruits with Milk Rich Enough to Whip

• Let your family enjoy cereals, fruits and puddings more,
"creamed" with Carnation Evaporated Milk. Undiluted Carnation is rich enough to whip. So "poured on" familiar foods, it makes them taste better than ever before.

Why Carnation is So Good, So Many Ways

Carnation is good, whole, cows' milk, evaporated to double richness in all milk's food values.
Homogenized and heat refined, for creamysmoothness and rich flavor. The vitamin D is increased, to help children build normal, healthy bones and teeth.

Use it like cream. Undiluted Carnation is wonderful on cereals and fruits... in coffee... in cream recipes... for whipping.

For cooking or drinking. Restore the water by mixing half Carnation, half water, to equal good whole milk.

Incidents of Death Night Recounted in Assize Trial

Crown Presents Evidence in Ryan Case

Thirteen witnesses were called and hours of testimony heard in three sessions of Supreme Court assizes yesterday and today under trial of Harold Ryan, 31, Simpson, settled to go into second day today.

Ryan is charged with the murder of Lorraine Tait, December 1950, at Port Simpson.

The 12-man jury, empaneled at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, has been ordered by Mr. Justice A. Macfarlane to be kept completely uncommunicado.

Spectators crowded the public gallery as they strained to hear the low-voiced testimony of crown witnesses who, after the other, told a story of the circumstances surrounding the death of Miss Tait the night before last Christmas.

The accused, stocky and well-dressed, sat in the prisoner's box unmoved except for an occasional smile as he heard the evidence given against him, at times faltering and scarcely audible.

Crown Prosecutor Gilbert Brown addressed the court, concluding the Crown would prove to Lorraine Tait, Ryan's common-law wife, came to her death on the night of December 1950, at Port Simpson, on Ryan's fishing boat, Westery.

Brown produced evidence which showed Miss Tait died as a result of a "very severe cut" to the back of her head; that there was a fight in the cabin of the boat Westery; that upon investigation police had found the boat a coke bottle which had blood stains on it; that imbedded in the congealed blood was a fingerprint of the accused, a few hairs, that of the deceased.

WITNESS

First witness called by the Crown was Wilfred Knott, 22, fisherman of Port Simpson. Knott said he had known Lorraine Tait since he "was a kid." Mr. Hog asked Knott to repeat in detail how he had met and deceased and the accused in Prince Rupert on the afternoon of December 23, 1950.

Knott said he was looking for a boat to go back to Port Simpson. He met Miss Tait and Ryan at Ryan's boat, Westery. They were in Prince Rupert between 3 and 4 p.m., he said.

"Did you bring any liquor on the boat?" asked the prosecutor.

"Yes, I brought three bottles of rye whiskey and three bottles of wine on board," witness answered. There were only three of them on the boat—Knott, Miss Tait and Ryan—and they had done considerable drinking, he said.

"When we left the harbor we began drinking from Ryan's bottle. It was half full. It was rye. We finished it."

"Then I opened a bottle of wine and we finished it."

Mr. Hog produced a photograph of Port Simpson harbor and showed it to Knott. He asked Knott to mark with a "Y" where the Westery had tied up.

MORE DRINKING
After the boat had docked (between 8 and 9 p.m.), Knott said there had been more drinking. Then Alfred Wesley came aboard, he said, and everybody had another two drinks.

Knott said Lorraine took off her sweater and gave it to Wesley. Then Wesley left.

"Did Lorraine try to stop him?" asked Mr. Hog.

"No," Knott said Lorraine had only a brassiere "on top." Otherwise she was clad in slacks.

The Eileen S, another fishboat, then tied up alongside the Westery, said the witness, after which he went home. The Eileen S belonged to Bob Sankey.

"Did you return to the boat after that?" prosecutor asked.

He hadn't returned, witness said, until 4 a.m., when the police got him. Lorraine, he said, had looked happy, normal. He had noticed nothing unusual about her face or skin on her arms.

CROSS-EXAMINATION
Defence counsel T. W. Brown, in cross-examination, asked Knott: "Did you kiss Lorraine that afternoon?"

"No."

"Did you give any trouble to Ryan or Lorraine that day?"

"No."

"Did you get any money from Lorraine?"

"No."

Mr. Brown produced one full bottle of rye whiskey and two empty bottles. He showed Knott the full bottle and asked if it was his, or had been his. Witness denied ownership, also said empty bottles had not been his. None of his rye had been drunk on the boat. The rye whiskey belonged to Ryan; only the wine which was drunk was his.

Knott admitted in cross-examination he had asked Ryan to stop near an oil dock in Prince Rupert, before heading out, to pick up from the Eileen S, tied up there, a suitcase and six bottles of liquor.

LIED TWICE
The defence switched to another subject.

"Where were you when the body was pulled out?"

Knott answered he was at home drinking. To questions of Mr. Brown, Knott admitted he had lied twice when police had questioned him following death of Miss Tait.

Gordon Calderwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Calderwood, arrived in the city on the Prince Rupert yesterday from Vancouver where he has been attending the University of British Columbia and will spend the summer here.

Tonight's train, due from the East at 11:15 daylight time, is reported two hours and forty minutes late, owing to delayed connections at Red Pass. This would bring the train in at 11:55 a.m. but there is possibility that it might be later.

Burns Lake Is Booming

BURNS LAKE —Aluminum Company of Canada is continuing to move heavy equipment into Northern British Columbia for road and tunnel building in the start of its $550,000,000 power and aluminum plant project.

The activity is bringing an unprecedented volume of business to this village, 316 miles east of Prince Rupert.

A road contractor marched up to the desk of Burns Lake's only hotel a few days ago and reserved seven double rooms for four years. That was only a typical incident.

The service will be daily except Sunday.

Under ideal weather conditions, Russ Baker, general manager of Central B. C. Following luncheon, the members of the welcoming committee were taken on brief flights as far as the Kitimat area.

With Captain Baker at the controls, other crew members were Harry Taylor of Prince George, co-pilot, and Frank Coukter, superintendent of the northern division of Central B. C. Airways.

Not Prince Rupert!

CENTRAL British Columbia Airways is to be congratulated on the inauguration of its new line between Prince George and Terrace which was marked by a successful guest flight yesterday, of which is recorded elsewhere in the Daily News. Prince Rupert will join with other communities of the central interior district in wishing the best to President Russ Baker and his company in the operation of a service. It will be a service to that part of the country, marking as it does the growing development of transportation services in the area which is going ahead by leaps and bounds every day. If the experience of other air services which have been established in this part of the country, such as those of Canadian Pacific Airlines and the Charlotte Air Lines out of Prince Rupert, is accepted as any indication, the traffic will soon be such volume that the company will be having problems in coping with its size. Finding of the necessary aircraft and facilities are already serious-impeding air travel in and out of Prince Rupert. In connection with the new service of Central Airways, Prince Rupert, of course, has one big problem—that is that lack of landing field facilities in this city renders it impossible for the field to be extended to the coast here. It goes without saying that it would be done had we had a field. But we may have some justification in looking again more hopefully to the possibility of the Rupert getting this air field. Representations made only a few days ago on the floor of the House of Commons at Ottawa when E. T. Appleton, MP for Skeena, told of the shame of a city of the size and exceptionally strategic importance of Prince Rupert still being without the facilities for modern commercial air service. The assurance of the minister of transport, Mr. Applewhite had spoken, that the case for an air field would be reviewed was encouraging.

Pacific Pact

THE FACT that the United States, Australia and New Zealand are to negotiate a security pact in the U.K. will take no part has given rise to a lot of comment and speculation. It has been noted in more than one quarter that this significant drawing away on the part of Australia and New Zealand from the Commonwealth and from their connections towards a new association in which they would be linked rather with the U.S.A. with the U.K. But that does not necessarily must appear a little strange to some people. It is possible and compatible with the existence of the Commonwealth that two of its members should sign a treaty of alliance with a state outside the Commonwealth, by themselves and without other members. But there is nothing strange, or even new, in the U.K. and Canada—the two North Atlantic Commonwealth states — have signed the Atlantic Treaty. It seems just as natural that specific Commonwealth states should sign a treaty which applies to their own area. That seems exceedingly illogical. But the first thing to be realized about the Commonwealth is that although it is completely illogical, it has, none the less, a very real existence. The U.S.A. Government appreciates the position perfectly well and the Atlantic Treaty Association, like the informal conversations which have taken place already, has started on the assumption that links between the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand are so strong and complete that their existence and their persistence can be taken as a matter of course.

State Houses Sell Rapidly

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent
WELLINGTON, N.Z. (P)—Since it announced late last year that state rental houses could be bought by tenants, the New Zealand government has sold homes valued at $3,000,000. It is continuing to sell them at the rate of 60 a week.
Apart from the original announcement, no direct approach has been made to tenants and no advertising campaign has been undertaken. Houses are being sold as fast as the staff can handle valuations, preparation of titles and transfers.
The government is thus implementing its housing policy on "Own Your Own," and at the same time disposing of a liability which was costing the taxpayers about $700,000 a year.

Under the former Labor regime a large number of government-built houses were rented at low rates to the public. The government became easily the biggest landlord in the country, with whole suburbs of state houses to rent in some towns. Well designed, built and equipped, the detached houses are built to hundreds of different plans to avoid uniformity.

The Labor regime refused to sell houses to tenants, however, so that although the rentals were low, occupants could never acquire a private interest in them. At the same time rentals were fixed at a rate which would not pay interest on capital cost.

NO COMPULSION
When Prime Minister Holland introduced the selling plan last year there were about 34,000 state houses built throughout the country. There is no compulsion to buy. Houses are sold to occupants only and if a tenant does not wish to buy he is guaranteed undisturbed occupation on a rental basis.

Houses are sold at current replacement values payable over a period of years with interest at three per cent so long as the buyer occupies the house himself. Houses can be bought outright for cash if desired. A reduction of 10 per cent is made in the form of a suspensory loan which is written off after the purchaser has owned and occupied the house for seven years. Under a mortgage insurance scheme for which a small premium is charged, any balance owing on the house is automatically written off if the breadwinner dies under the age of 60.

The result of these arrangements is that in many cases weekly payments by home buyers are very little more than they were paying as tenants.
The government is continuing to build many state houses for the duration of the existing acute housing shortage, but it hopes gradually to reduce construction.

NEW AIRPORT RADAR
LONDON (P)—New radar equipment is to be used at British airports for directing aircraft moving on the ground during fog. Known as the air surface movement indicator, it will enable airfield traffic controllers to operate in the poorest visibility.

As I See It

STRAY BITS ON ROME

Rome, Italy — It is a little more than a week since I reached Rome, but that time has made all the difference in the weather. The warm April sun has now chased the chill away.

Lord Boyd Orr (a rugged old Scots Presbyterian) has played hockey from the conference on world government for a special audience with the Pope himself. My wife and the only other Canadian lady here are being shown the sights of Rome by a nun of the (mostly American) Catholic Order of the Holy Family of the Nazareth. Down below my hotel room, in the warm afternoon, the sidewalk cafes are thronged with customers.

It seems like a good time to clean up my desk of odd-ends, and my stray Rome memos.

ONE SAY'S "COPS' armbands."
It means, Elmore, remember to write a bit about the Roman police. Some wear armbands reading ENGLISH, FRANÇAISE, DEUTSCH. These mean that this particular police officer speaks the language named.

The policemen are very obliging here. I came out of our convention the other night fairly late. I wondered how the dickens I would get home to our hotel. I shouted to one of the several policemen at the door: "Where do I go to get a taxi—where do I get a taxi?" He said something to me in Italian and dashed off. In a minute he was back on a bike telling me to wait there. In about five minutes he was back escorting a taxi. He refused a tip.

I DON'T KNOW ABOUT THE old saying, "when in Rome do as the Romans do." They are the worst jay-walkers here I ever saw.

Also, the thousands of visitors who throng the sacred sites here have anything but completely holy ways. At St. Paul's Church for instance, the guides show you the spots in the fine stone pillars where visitors have stolen thousands of the little bits of the

For Eczema — Skin Troubles

Make up your mind today that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well. Go to any good drug store and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil—it lasts many days because it is highly concentrated.

The very first application will give you relief—the itching of Eczema is quickly stopped—eruptions dry up and scale off in a very few days. The same is true of Itching Toes and Feet, Barber's Itch, Salt Rheum and other skin troubles.

Remember that Moone's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful, penetrating Antiseptic Oil that does not stain or leave a greasy residue. Complete satisfaction or money back.

Come to think of it, anybody who would actually steal a souvenir from a church must be a pretty queer duck. I hasten to add that people from all the world and, of course, of ALL religious connections, visit these shrines.

MY IMPRESSION is that Communism has visibly faded in Italy since my wife and I were here before, just two years ago.

Right now, the Italian convention of the Communist Party is going on here and placards about it are on thousands of walls. But the advertising looks artificial. Two years ago, you could hardly find a wall in Italy that did not have hand-chalked Communist slogans, mostly against the Atlantic Pact.

ITALY IS VISIBLY more prosperous—or perhaps I should say less visibly impoverished—than it was two years ago.

Of course, all things are relative. By our standards, millions here live in appalling conditions. But, as measured by conditions in India, these people are well off.

ALMOST EVERY Italian that I meet seems to understand English to some extent. Also, just about every educated Italian speaks French. This morning for instance, I heard Madame Mottessori, the world-famous child educationist, in one of the finest speeches I have ever heard. Like all other Italian speakers at this conference, she spoke in French. The Scandinavians and Dutch also speak in English, as do all the Africans and Indians. That means that English pretty well dominates this meeting. One reason is that we English-speaking people just won't learn other people's languages. We make them learn ours!

THE ITALIANS must surely be the best-natured people anywhere. Also, it seems to me, the Italian was about the last race in the world which could have adopted Fascism—and made it stick.

Here is a story, and a true one, told to me by Erskine Henty, Ottawa artist, who began to paint in prison. It dates from his years as RCMP prisoner of war, first in Italy and finally in Germany. He told it to illustrate the different characteristics in the two peoples.

One night at the British war prisoner cage an Italian sentry sang a song from a well-known opera. The prisoners applauded. Soon all the sentries and officials OUTSIDE the prisoners' cage were singing songs—competing eagerly to see who could win the most applause from inside the barred wire.

Finds Canadians Not Art-Minded

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Danish sculptor here thinks artists should come to Vancouver if they hold to the grand tradition that starvation and cold garrets are essential to artistic progress. Jorgen Christjansen, a sculptor, silversmith and metal-worker, has had a two-year struggle to make his art pay in Canada. He arrived here in 1949 in the hope this new land would offer an outlet for his wares—exquisitely fashioned copper work, sculptured busts of children and fine creations in silver.

But apparently it didn't. "Canadians, for some inexplicable reason, do not appear to have any great appreciation for art," he said. "I tried teaching. As many as 32 would apply for classes; when they learned the course was not a three-lesson business, their interest would immediately disappear."

A flyer in the First World War, when he lost an eye, and an army officer in the Second World War, Christjansen went into the underground when Denmark was occupied. The Gestapo caught him in 1944 and he was imprisoned in a concentration camp, where he did some 350 portraits of fellow-prisoners.

In post-war Denmark there was little demand for his work, so he tried Canada.

It was disappointing—last summer he worked as cook in a hospital here.

He is fearful that unless there is a revival in Canadian art tastes, he will have to revert to his old role once more.

"If you hear of a good cook's job open, let me know," he said.

Tells of Scotland

James Nicoll Speaker at GYRO Club Yesterday

Post-war Scotland was interestingly described by James Nicoll who spoke to the Prince Rupert Gyro Club yesterday following his return from a trip to the Old Country. He told of how the resolute people continued to take the rations, slim as they are, without complaint. He described the new spirit of neighborly friendliness and solicitude which had been developed under the stress and tribulations of war and had now become a part of the national attitude—at least one good thing which had come out of the war.

Mr. Nicoll spent five weeks in Scotland. He noted the thoroughness of farming there with every bit of soil put to use—a contrast to Canada.

Roads were hard surfaced throughout the country and well kept. There was "terrific" traffic but the courtesy and care displayed by drivers was something remarkable.

While the meat ration was slim and hard to get, school children at least got one good hot meal per day at a reasonable price of 10c to 12c. Workers in the decentralized industries also got their well-balanced hot meal per day.

Mr. Nicoll told of visits to Edinburgh Castle, impressive hallowed ground, and Linlithgow Castle with its colorful history of gatherings of kings and dukes in its now ruined halls.

Loch Lomond, Loch Katrine and Gairloch were all visited.

Mr. Nicoll also attended a Scottish Cup semi-final football game in Edinburgh and told of the remarkable patrol of the vast crowds where people fainted and fought.

But, Mr. Nicoll, while finding it pleasant to have revisited his homeland, acknowledged the inspiring experience of crossing Canada by air and appreciating its advantages, vastness and beauty.

Mr. Nicoll was introduced by Gyro President Don Forward and George Murray expressed thanks on behalf of the club.

Wilfrid Graham, inspector of schools, and Fred Adames, personnel officer of Columbia Cellulose, were welcomed as new Gyro members.

Guests, in addition to the speaker, were Hon. Harry Bowman of Victoria, R. M. Winslow of Vancouver; J. D. McRae, M.L.A. C. A. Berner and Ald. G. D. Frizzell.

DEFENCELESS

On a bright and breezy afternoon during the second war Prince Rupert heard what sounded like Japs bent on mischief. If a raid, it seemed far away. Yet, here was something drawing closer every moment. A defenceless city was scared.

The siren rose and fell. It would swell in volume and perhaps be faint. People paused in busy streets. Said someone, mauling at a newspaperman's elbow!

"Panic? Forget it. Who ever heard of a Tokyo bomber tackling B.C. a few hours after lunch!"

Automobiles were speeding up! A woman, with baby carriage packed with groceries instead of family raced along the sidewalk. No baby carriage ever moved faster. Soldiers, who had been enjoying a snack, slipped from cates to look for the nearest car.

Yes, it was true the city was defenceless but this was just another jitterless incident. There was no actual reason for that frightened look. Something had gone wrong with the siren—or with the fellow operating it.

It's awkward to arrive in Prince Rupert anywhere between midnight and daybreak—or any other hours, and be unable to find a room. etc., it's been known to occur. And as for returning sleepily from hotel counter to passenger car or automobile seat and in that way steal a few hours of sorely needed rest, is just another commonplace.

BEST BE CAREFUL

Old timers are not saying much but nevertheless they take a few precautions. It's been profoundly peaceful so long that the sharp clatter of a compressor across the street may be dangerous. We cannot afford to risk nervous prostration.

REST OF FAMILY COULD PAY TRIBUTE TO MOTHER'S DAY

Mother's Day is just around the corner. Canadian Mothers, kind, generous and loving, are the backbone of this country and our praises of them can never be too great.

While this article is about Mother's Day it is primarily directed to the other members of the family who should be most interested in this day of recognition. Before Sunday, May 13, each member of the family should sit back and consider for a while, how capable mother really is. Do the children realize that mother must be an economist to manage the financial matters of home making? Does father realize what a competent chef she is? Does Brother John realize that she is a good hostess and that she has numerous other capabilities which help her to run the home so competently? After thinking about these things everyone must marvel at what a wonderful person mother is.

This year, on May 13 each member of the family could cooperate to make it a Mother's Day which will show the deep gratitude and love they have for their mother. Father, Brother John and Sister Sue, all rolled into one can be mother for a day. The family can bustle around doing the cooking, the cleaning and the dish washing while mother sits back relaxing and enjoying her family.

Father or Brother John could be the vegetable chef on May 13. Home economists have an easy but tasty recipe for green beans and onions with cream sauce.
