Job Feller Raising High

Twentieth Game as Victorious Again
YORK (CP)—Bob Feller's 20th game of the season for the Cleveland Indians last night, dumping Washington Senators for their 10th straight defeat, a 6-0 shutout. Feller preserved Cleveland's margin over New York Yankees.

Twenty-Two In a Dozen

In these days when price of eggs is at a peak, getting two for the price of one is "quite a bargain," believes Andy Ronald, who found that 10 eggs of a dozen he purchased had double yolks.
Mr. Ronald, an old-timer here and in the Canadian National Railways service in charge of its parks, says it is the first time he has seen "something like that."
The local store which sold him the eggs is going to get more business from Mr. Ronald, too, for he is going to try again for another such bargain.

Alexander Opens PNE

VANCOUVER—Viscount Alexander arrived from Victoria last evening aboard the yacht Walworth. At the reviewing stand at the post office at ten this morning, he received the salute from the troops in the big P.N.E. parade.
Following luncheon with P.N.E. directors, at 2 p.m. he delivered the opening address at the exhibition. Later, he attended a cricket match and this evening will return to Victoria.

British Cabinet is In Emergency Session

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Attlee called an emergency session of the cabinet today to discuss the grave situation created by the latest developments in the British-Iranian oil dispute. There was no announcement up to tonight of the outcome.

Surprise in Seoul Trial

SEOUL (CP)—A surprise move today by the defence delayed until Saturday the court-martial on Pte. Glen Roland Blank, Winnipeg, on the charge of murder.
Blank, first of the three Canadian soldiers all charged with the same offence, barely had pleaded innocent before his defending officer, Lieut. Col. John A. Hutchins, Montreal, launched a "trial within trial."
Col. Hutchins called prosecuting officer to stand in an effort to determine whether Blank had been properly informed of all legal resources at his disposal at time when summaries of evidence were being taken.
Col. W. Clement Dick, Toronto, president of the court-martial, ordered adjournment till Saturday to enable four officers of Blank's unit, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, to describe means employed to inform Blank and his fellow-defendants of their rights.
Blank's co-defendants are Ptes. Donald Michael Gibson, Ottawa, and Alan Roy Montgomery Davis, Vancouver, also members of the Patricia's. They will be tried separately.

33 Miles of PGE Left

PRINCE GEORGE — Only 33 miles of trackless grade and two yawning bridge-less canyons stand between Prince George and Quesnel along the PGE grade, says Frank Jamieson, vice-president of the Jamieson Construction Company.
Mr. Jamieson said that track now stretches south from this city as far as Woodpecker, a farming community about 35 miles from Prince George.
With two-and-a-half to three months of good to fair construction weather left, the construction man estimated his company could complete their contract to Abou Creek this fall.
Jamieson Construction Company now employ the largest crew they have had since they started work on the rail line two years ago. About 300 men are employed in the firm's warehouses, offices, track crews and concrete crews.
Mr. Jamieson said that his contract on the huge Abou Creek bridge sub-structure is now about 85 per cent complete.
The bridge is second only to the Cottonwood Canyon bridge in size. It is about 1000 feet long and 160 feet high.
Meanwhile, steel work got under way for the Cottonwood Canyon bridge late last week.
At the rate work has progressed this summer, construction men are anticipating that the first train to cover the Prince George-Quesnel route should be able to get up steam by the middle of the 1952 construction season.

Chicago Woman Expecting Six Babies in September

CHICAGO (CP)—The Chicago Herald-American Tuesday said "A Chicago area woman is about to make medical history by giving birth to five or six babies, according to obstetricians."
The newspaper said it had agreed not to give the name of the expectant mother or her physician.
"Top men in the profession honestly disagree on number," the story set forth. "Some, using stethoscopes, have detected heart beats from six babies. All have easily detected heart beats from five babies." The babies are expected to be born late this month or early in September.

Refugee Count Is Now in Rio

RIO DE JANEIRO (CP)—Count Jacques de Bernonville, decorated for gallantry in the First World War, and condemned to death in his absence by a French court for collaboration with the Nazis after the Second World War, arrived here Tuesday from Canada. Reports were that he had been offered a job with a business firm here and has obtained a permanent Brazilian visa.
Canada refused the sabre-scarred count a permanent visa even when he contested a deportation order claiming that his return to France would mean certain death. His claim for asylum has been debated legally since 1947.
It is reported here that De Bernonville will be the guest of the former Imperial House of Braganza, whose influence got him his job.

CNR Freight Setting Record

Freight loading during July along the Red Pass-Prince Rupert line of the CNR set another record with more than 2000 cars moving off the division during the month.
Much of the shipments consisted of lumber and originating in the Fort George Forestry District skirting the railway.
Westbound freight movement is up considerably over last year, a reflection of the activities of Aluminum Company of Canada Ltd., in the Vanderhoof and Burns Lake areas.
Columbia Cellulose logs from Terrace into Prince Rupert was also an important contributing factor.

MacArthur Burns Bid

Not Represented
Administration at Conference
WASHINGTON (CP)—General MacArthur was reported today night to have refused invitation from the United States government to address Japanese Peace Treaty Conference in San Francisco next month.
An official said that General MacArthur was reported to have refused the approval of President Truman to speak to the conferees during the time allotted for representing the Truman administration.
General MacArthur is said to have turned down the bid on the grounds that he would appear representing the Truman administration.
General MacArthur was quoted as saying, however, that he would be glad to address the delegates if by the conference itself, approximately fifty nations are to be represented.

Dutch Emissary Sees Why B.C. is Popular

Holland is too small to accommodate its increasing population and today is looking more and more to immigration to less populated countries of the world. And Canada ranks first in preference for the migrants, 75 per cent of whom are agriculturists, says Dr. B. W. Haveman, government commissioner for immigration.

In Prince Rupert for a few days during a six-week "integration tour" and three weeks ago direct from the ministry of social affairs, The Hague, Holland, Dr. Haveman can see why his people prefer Canada.

Of the 35,000 immigrants, this year, 14,000 are coming to Canada, 12,000 to Australia, 3300 to U.S., 3000 to New Zealand, and 2000 to Union of South Africa.

"We are impressed with the wide open spaces," said Dr. Haveman, at breakfast in Hotel Prince Rupert this morning.

"There is so much room here, and it is a beautiful country."

But perhaps the greatest factor which calls more immigrants to this country, believes the emissary, is the "similarity in our outlook on life."

"The Dutch live differently, but we have different material circumstances. But it seems to me we think and look at life in much the same way you Canadians do, and that is why Dutch immigration to Canada has been so successful."

Dr. Haveman says, too, that he has been greatly impressed with the reception the Canadian government has dealt with the Dutch immigrants, and the interest which has been shown by the Canadian National Railways.

Travelling with Dr. Haveman is J. P. Martin, district superintendent of the CNR colonization and agricultural department.

The labor market in Holland today is "pretty well flooded," according to the immigration officer. Holland has a population of 11,000,000 and is the size of Vancouver Island, the only main difference being that most of Dutch acreage is wholly usable.

"You would have the same density in population in Canada as we have in Holland if you put the entire world's population (Continued on page 4)

Big 'Quake In Hawaii

Treasured Water Supplies Lost on Eve of Drought Season

HONOLULU (CP)—The heaviest earthquake ever recorded on volcanic island of Hawaii cost Kona Coast district most of its treasured water stores, with two months of normal drought ahead. The property damage was officially estimated at between $750,000 and $1,000,000, but the water loss is considered the most critical.

The quake jarred the largest of the Hawaiian Islands early yesterday and wrecked or damaged more than 200 wooden water storage tanks on cattle ranches. An after-shock bumped Kona Coast last night. Police said that it was weak and no further damage was reported. The shock rattled dishes and windows in Honolulu.

Families along the 30-mile stretch of Kona Coast, on west slope of Mauna Loa volcano, use tanks for storing drinking and household water.

Grim Hoax After Crash

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Queen Charlotte Air Lines seaplane that has been missing on Vancouver Island with seven men aboard has been the subject of a grim prank.

A rum bottle with a note in it supposedly from survivors of the crash was found floating in Burrard Inlet on Sunday.

Police state that it is very evident that the whole matter is a complete hoax as the position given in note is about 300 or 400 miles northeast of the Hawaiian mountains somewhere in the Pacific Ocean.

BC Fires Worst Yet

VANCOUVER (CP)—Forest fires are on the offensive again today in British Columbia, ripping through woodlands sapped of moisture by the summer-long drought.

B.C. became a giant smudgepot, with commercial air line pilots spotting smoke at 14,000 feet while flying over the Rocky Mountains.

Vancouver Island and interior Nelson forest district are the main battlefronts as many areas in United States and Canadian northwest began their 101st day without appreciable rainfall.

Thirty-two separate fires are burning in the Nelson district and one of them, along Yakk River, has chewed over 8000 acres.

A force of 1600 men has been enlisted in the interior where the fire hazard has been described as the worst since 1922.

Bad Faith Alleged

UN Blames Communists With Ambush in Kaesong

TOKYO (CP)—The United Nations Command today accused Communists of making Kaesong, site of the deadlocked Korean armistice talks, the "universal symbol for bad faith."

The United Nations Command information bulletin also blamed the Reds for the ambush of Chinese patrol on Sunday within Kaesong neutral zone. A Chinese patrol leader was killed and a Red soldier wounded in the shooting.

The information bulletin said that the United Nations-Communist agreement "provide the Communists with enough firepower to keep order in (neutral) zone."

"Part of function includes disbanding of any civilian elements within area."

United Nations Command contends that the ambush was carried out by armed civilian bands.

To Fly to Ketchikan

QCA Gets Licence To Operate North of Here

OTTAWA (CP)—The Air Transport Board announced today that it has approved a licence for the Queen Charlotte Airlines Ltd. to operate a commercial air service between Prince Rupert and Ketchikan, Alaska.

The licence calls for non-scheduled service to carry passengers and goods between Prince Rupert, in northern British Columbia, and Ketchikan, about 100 miles northwest in the Alaskan Panhandle. The company told the board that the chief means of transportation linking the two points now is a once-weekly boat service.

Ellis Air Lines of Ketchikan recently secured a licence to operate from Ketchikan to Prince Rupert.

Miss M. A. Way returned to the city at the first of the week from a two weeks' holiday visit at Masset.

What About Our Parks?

ONE of the problems that faces the citizens of Prince Rupert is the provision of suitable parks. The importance of the park situation is recognized by the election of a parks board. What the ordinary citizens is concerned about is what is the Parks Board doing about the parks?

Parks have various uses in any city and all cities recognize how very important it is that park space should be made available and usable. In Prince Rupert we have various types of parks. In picturesque McClymont Park there is available the splendid swimming pool and much playground equipment. The use that is made of these is sufficient proof of their value. Alder Park, with its valuable totem poles as well as its playground equipment, is a real asset to the city.

Parks for playing games are also needed. Acropolis Hill is used for football and baseball. It is not very accessible and there is no doubt that the long climb is often a deterrent to the would-be spectator. The impossibility of making a suitable surface is also a serious drawback. Then there is Algoma Park. There are some who maintain that it is on this park that the best chance of having a good playing surface lies. It is centrally situated and could be easily drained.

Gyro Park is being used for softball but its small size is a drawback.

While we noted that the chairman and the members of the Parks Board had difficulty in arranging a suitable time for their meeting we feel that that is a trifling matter. Whose ego is being ignored is unimportant. But suitable playing space is an essential and the Parks Board have not much to show for their year's activities. And already the evenings are drawing in. The fence round the Roosevelt Memorial is a commendable effort. But there is need for a definite parks program and an active, aggressive board that will devote its energies to providing parks—not arguments.

What To Do For Tourists?

THE value of the tourist trade to British Columbia is being increasingly recognized and developed. With what objectives is the industry being developed? The complaint is often made that the tourist is being exploited. It is true to some extent. Does this allegation hold true in Prince Rupert?

On a recent trip by boat from Vancouver a leader of a group of tourists complained about the long stay-over in Prince Rupert. He didn't know what there was to do all day long . . . and he had been here before. A fellow passenger edged in on the conversation. He wanted to know what he expected from such a city. Did he expect the entertainment to be found in large cities? The characteristic features of the city were pointed out, things that he would not find in other cities. Quite a number of his party talked of great numbers of miles they had driven on other trips. They seemed to think that that was the standard by which a holiday could be judged. What standard is ours?

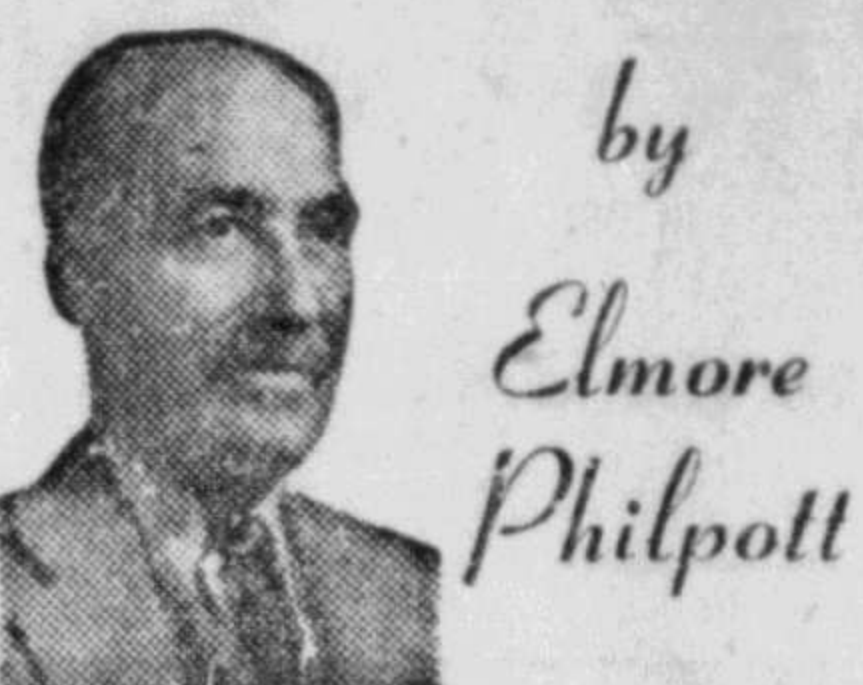

Now there are two points to be considered. What is the tourist entitled to expect from a visit to Prince Rupert, and the other is what preparations do the citizens, business men and others make to entertain the traveller? There would seem to be much that could be done to make the visitors feel that we do not want tourists only for how much money we can get out of them. A visit to the museum, the attention given visitors by large industrial plants, are worthwhile contributions towards making our visitors feel welcome, and will give them the urge to tell others that in addition to the wonderful scenery enjoyed along the "inside passage," there is a warm and thoughtful welcome extended to all. But we have to cultivate this attitude, and we should go out of our way to sell our city to our visitors. Perhaps a booth at the wharf would be helpful. Much can be planned for next year and a start should be made in time.

As I See It

Prairie Art Buds

NEAR SASKATOON. — I particularly wanted to meet Bill Perehudoff, the up and coming young Canadian painter of Doukhobor origin. I had seen some of his work and it impressed me as having great power.

Bill drove in from the family farm. Dark and slim, he looks just like a keen young business man—though perhaps a bit more thoughtful.

We drove around to the International Packing Plant where Bill got his start as an artist. It was just before the Hitler war, at the tail end of the great depression. Work was slack in the plant for a brief period and Bill was laid off. But, the wise and kindly Mendels, who own the plant, encouraged the young artist to try his hand at painting two large murals.

Bill took on the job—more or less feeling like the kid who is taught to swim by being tossed in water over his head. Anyway it worked. The murals are good, and Bill's later work gets better and better.

THE YOUNG artist went down to Colorado latterly and studied under a top notch Mexican painter. I was told that when he returned some of his work showed a strong Mexican influence—but I saw none of this myself.

I did see a few of Bill's paintings downtown in Saskatoon. They clearly show the distinct periods in the development of the young artist. His earliest work shows razor-edges on the outlines of shapes and figures. His latest is the very opposite—he paints the human form, streamlined and almost edgeless-looking. In all his work there is marked individuality.

SASKATOON has long deserved its growing fame as a budding centre of painting in Canada. They tell me the mainspring of this growth was Ernst Lindner, who was born in Austria, and more or less compelled the Saskatoon educational authorities to let him teach painting in night school classes. This was in the darkest years of the great depression.

Most noted of Lindner's pupils is Robert Newton Hurley, whose paintings of prairie elevators have long since become internationally famous. In those tragic years Hurley lacked money even to buy paint and paper—and at times even used beet juice for color.

Now there is a rapidly growing circle of really good artists. Beginners' painting is "busting out all over" partly because, besides those mentioned above, the Normal School has a dynamic art teacher in the person of Nonie Mulcaster. She sends out teachers to every nook and corner of this province with at least a touch of her own fiery enthusiasm.

THE ARRIVAL here of the Mendels, with a fine art collection brought from Hungary, has also given great impetus, to all this. Not only have they encouraged young artists, like Bill Perehudoff. But their own fine collection is open at all times for study by the young painters.

They are impulsive, kindly folks. Mrs. Mendel took me to lunch, then down to see the pictures at the framers. When I admired a fine portrait of my hostess, by a noted Parisian painter, Gyey Csato. On the spot, the moment, Grandpa Mendel gave me another fine picture of the same artist—a small, beautifully executed still.

AS WE drove back out into the country Bill Perehudoff made one remark which I would like

"Would Nancy like to see a movie with me on your television set?"

RATS

Of Other Days and Circumstances

(M. E. ANDERER)

Episode No. 1

Mention of the prevalence of rats at the city dump and in the city calls to mind experience with rats in other places and under different circumstances. Three experiences in particular stand out. Of course they took place years ago, actually in the days of the First World War when the horde of rats made the lives of soldiers even more miserable as if the mud and slush were not bad enough. But there was a humorous angle to the three experiences referred to.

The first was in the trenches near Fleurbaix. Here the trenches had to be built up, as owing to the nature of the country, it was not possible to dig down. The front line, which had been taken over from the French troops, consisted of a long sandbagged parapet, with recesses where the different sentry groups kept steady watch. Times were uneasy and the amateur soldiers in their first assignment in the trenches were perhaps more jittery than later on. In any case the report of a rifle being fired aroused apprehensions and, as corporal on duty, I immediately investigated. At the first sentry post the soldiers said they had not fired but that the sound had come from their left. A short tramp through the mud-filled trenches took me to the next post to pass on. Just as the Pyramids had been left as a monument to the builders of ancient Egypt, so he believes the tube shaped concrete wheat elevators may stand for all time as Canada's most characteristic contribution to building.

I had never really thought of how beautiful they are until Bill remarked on their chaste and stripped-for-action beauty in simplicity.

Reflects and Reminisces

Premier St. Laurent is back in Ottawa after a tour that took him as far as Alberta. He felt the pulse of the west. Speaking in Battleford, the Prime Minister suggested, in a reference to the stormy spring of '85, that choice of "uprising" might have been more suitable as well as accurate had the word "rebellion" not been recognized. The First Minister's remarks have gone the rounds and given quite a measure of support. Press comment continues to be published. Take the Calgary Herald for example.

BEFORE THE EYE-OPENER

It was a two by four sentry when the Metis and the tribesmen started following the war path. Originally established by a couple of young fellows, it had a stirring commencement. The boys from Ontario made their way westward on the partly completed CPR.

"Knew them both," Alfred Carter, grizzled trail blazer who died in Prince Rupert a year or so ago, used to say. He liked to live the early west over again, and was one of Prince Rupert's most consistent boosters. Could he behold the present boom he would say: "What did I tell you?" Mr. Carter was in Calgary in '85 and kept a daily record of events for many years.

"But there's no use saying we were not scared," he solemnly reflected. "We were. Blackfeet were well armed, well mounted, and any number of them. However, they didn't go out and it was the influence of Chief Crowfoot and Father Lacombe, and nothing else, we had to thank."

EXTRA! EXTRA!

About a quarter of the editorial page of the 20-page Calgary Herald, published a few days ago, is devoted to a reproduction of what it printed one day in the early spring of 1885. It carried no headline. It hardly needed one. It looked as if hurriedly thrown together to yell the news with minimum of delay. Radio and telephones were unknown. And what a story! In heavy type appeared the single word "MASSACRE." And underneath, a few grim lines telling of blood spilled at Frog Lake—not so far away—but spilled with deliberation and not in the blazing heat of passion. A little further down, the disturbing line: "Perhaps Battleford next."

AUCTIONEER
Phone Green 810 and Red 127

The second column gives a list of less than a dozen names of the Frog Lake victims. One is that of Quinn, Indian agent. Another, rather indistinct, looks as if it might be Gowanlock. A young clerk named Cameron was one of the few survivors of Frog Lake. In after life, he wrote an authoritative and deeply interesting book on his experiences. The story does not reflect resentment or fear. He lived a full life, dying not more than some months ago in Saskatchewan.

SIXTY-SIX

And so much for the veteran Herald's feat in flashing a glimpse of the west as it looked in '85, before the luxury-loving folk of today with their alleged woes, insecurity and endless shortages. Sixty-six years ago! Then, no wheat empire, fabulous enough to delay delivery, because of its immensity. Then, no oil pipe line laid across the very soil where Riel was fought. Then, no towering business blocks. Then, no breakfast in Vancouver with luncheon in Winnipeg.

Then, just the unpeopled plains and a startled country.

Miss Cynthia Norton Becomes Bride of Vancouver Man At Terrace
TERRACE.—In a beautiful evening ceremony in St. Matthew's Anglican Church last Friday evening, Cynthia Norton, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Norton of Terrace, became the bride of Mr. Clive Black of Vancouver.
Venerable Archdeacon Hodson was the officiating clergyman.
Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a white embroidered moire taffeta gown fashioned with a full skirt in train, long sleeves and nylon net yoke. Her long bridal veil was held in place with an orange blossom coronet and she carried a bouquet of dark pink roses.
Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Delcia Dubeau, who wore a floor length gown of champagne sheer chiffon, form-fitting with tiny buttons down the back. Her matching-length veil matching in color.
Little Gail Dubeau, niece of the bride, was adorable in a pale blue organdy long dress with blue satin sash and pale blue floral halo. She carried a basket of mixed flowers.
Groomsman was Richard Dubeau. Alan Dubeau played the nuptial music.
Ushers were Parker Mills and Cy Eden.
Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where the bride's mother received the guests. Her gown was of grey nylon blended lace with pink accessories and her corsage was of pink carnations.
The toast to the bride was proposed by B. R. Dods and suitably responded to by the groom. There were numerous telegrams and cables. Beautiful gifts were displayed.
Following a honeymoon at Lakelse Lake and at Prince Rupert the young couple will return to reside in Terrace.
The groom is identified with McLennan & McFeely and the bride was the district's choice for PNE competition honors at Prince Rupert's beauty contest two years ago. She was then on a visit here from England but remained and has been on the local telephone staff.

Teachers' Housing

Most of Vacancies on Staffs Are Now Filled
Most of the vacancies on the teaching staff of Prince Rupert School District have been filled but the appointment of a physical education instructor for girls at the High School is still pending.
One of the problems facing the school board in obtaining teachers is the question of housing. Married couples, some with children, are loath to come until housing accommodation is assured.
Citizens have been advised of this shortage through the press and with the time for the re-opening of schools drawing near the problem will become more acute.
Work is progressing on the new schools and minor repairs are being completed at Seal Cove and Borden Street so that the material aspects are well in hand. But the problem of housing still remains.
J. R. Harrison, veteran Winnipeg printer, arrived in the city on last night's train to join the typographical staff of the Daily News. He expects to be joined later by his wife.

Concentrator At Atlin Mine

Development results this season to date at Atlin-Ruffner Mines Ltd. in the Atlin district have led directors to give serious consideration to installing a concentrator next year to recover gold, silver, lead and zinc, says an official report.
With this a strong possibility, the company has secured a licence from the B.C. government to develop electric power at a site about six miles from the mine. The site will afford sufficient power to operate a 100-ton concentrator.
The official view is that it will require more than three years' intensive work to investigate the property fully.
John McDonough, general manager, says shipments of high-grade ore will start early in September and a regular shipping basis of 400 tons monthly is planned by start of 1952.
Further stripping of the new 4A high-grade ore shoot, according to latest word from the mine, has increased its exposed length to 220 feet, with the west end still showing strong. There has been no perceptible change in the average grade previously reported which is over $100 per ton gross in gold, silver, lead and zinc over an average width of 2.1 feet.
A start has been made to attack this shoot from underground through an adit 150 feet wide. This tunnel has advanced between 80 and 90 feet into the hillside and high-grade is beginning to show in the roof. Another two weeks' advancement should bring the face well into the downward extension of the ore. The surface contour indicates backs ranging from 70 to 150 feet. Therefore with the ore on surface running over 22 per cent in combined metals, this development could prove a substantial tonnage of very profitable grade ore quickly.
Shipping ore is being broken by the relatively cheap open-pit method on surface, and the 2D and 2X tunnels are being reconditioned in preparation for drawing shipping ore during the coming months.

twenty years ago In Prince Rupert

August 22, 1931
Halibut landings in Prince Rupert were 4,553 pounds from two American boats at 5c and 2c and 5,500 pounds from one Canadian boat Cape Swain at 6c and 3c.
Effective September 2, the train service between Prince Rupert and Jasper will revert from six to three trains a week in each direction.
Eight men will start at Frank Dackrell's Bulkley Valley coal mine at Telkwa where prospects for a busy season are very good.
An automobile owned by N. L. Freeman was wrecked on the Skeena River Highway when it went over an embankment about a mile beyond the city limits. Fortunately no one was injured.

Tom Spencer Passes Away

Death Removes Pioneer Local Railway Conductor
One of the few remaining links with the old Grand Trunk Pacific Railways days on the Prince Rupert line, Talmadge McNair (Tom) Spencer, veteran local railway conductor, passed away at 11 o'clock this morning in the Prince Rupert General Hospital.
Having reached the retirement age during World War II, he was, however, called back to duty for construction work during those busy days on this line and worked for a couple of years. For the last year he had been invalided at his home at 401 Fourth Avenue East. Death came as a merciful release to a long period of suffering.
Born in Huntington, Quebec, 74 years ago, Mr. Spencer started railroading in New York and was among a number of operating men who came over to the Grand Trunk Pacific before the transcontinental line to Prince Rupert was completed. His regular run was between Prince Rupert and Smithers and he was equally well known and esteemed at both points as well as further along the line.
He came to Prince Rupert in 1911. Previous to this he served as a railroad man in New York State, being then a conductor. It was as a brakeman that he was first employed by the Grand Trunk Pacific following his arrival at Prince Rupert, running between this city and Prince George. Later he became a conductor.
Surviving members of the family are the wife, Grace, in Prince Rupert; daughter Alice (Mrs. Neil Macdonald); Prince Rupert; grandson John; a sister Mrs. Catherine Hatt of Glendale, California, and a number of nieces and nephews in California and New York State.
Mr. Spencer belonged to the Masonic Order, being a member of What Cheer Lodge No. 689 in Norwood, New York.

Convicted of Co-op Robbery

In police court today Melville Johnston was convicted of theft of guns and ammunition from Kalen Co-op Hardware store with sentence reserved until tomorrow.
Johnston pleaded not guilty but crown evidence indicated he had been in possession of the loot and had been trying to conceal it by tying a rope to the rifles and lowering them into the water from his boat.
Police arrested Johnston a few hours after the robbery was reported August 6.
He elected trial by magistrate. Also in court today, Landrias Frank, pleading guilty to charge of theft under $25 was fined $50 and costs, or thirty days.
William Duncan also was fined $50 and costs or thirty days for "joy riding."

Blood Gifts Disappointing

Response To Clinic Here So Far Weak
Although most people have good reasons why they are donating their pint of blood to the Red Cross Clinic, currently set up in Prince Rupert, "there are not enough of them," says T. Norton Youngs, local Red Cross secretary.
In two days, Prince Rupert volunteers have numbered 300, "which is really a low percentage considering the population," Mr. Youngs says he feels this city should "at least beat Terrace" who already have 230 signed-on-the-dotted line volunteers.
Charge Nurse Miss Thirza Robinson, who has been with the mobile blood clinic for a year, said the recent clinic held at Kamloops "really paid off." Of a population of 13,000, 3,000 Kamloops citizens responded.
"Eliminate those over 65 and those under 18 and you have a very high percentage of volunteers," One man, she said, who was just 65, was giving his sixty-fifth blood donation.
Tuesday afternoon, local aid was provided by members of the Catholic Women's League, the United Church Women's Auxiliary, and the Anglican St. Andrew's Cathedral Women's Club.
Coffee was made by Mrs. A. L. Holtby.
Receptionists were Mesdames B. Parsons, E. Telseth, R. Brett, and Ruby Pollock.
Serving soft drinks were Mrs. J. P. MacDonald and Mrs. Andrew Thompson.
In the kitchen were Mesdames F. S. Madeley, P. J. Knutson, E. Faure, Sadie Dolphin, D. Mulron, and C. Balagno.
Nurses were Mrs. O. L. Murray, Mrs. R. Collart, Mrs. Norman McKay and Mrs. F. E. Anfield, all registered nurses.
Evening helpers were members of the Lutheran, Sonja and Orange Ladies' Clubs.
Coffee was made by Mrs. W. Rothwell.
Receptionists were Mesdames R. S. Traquair, H. Holland, George Gowan, C. Berg, L. Wicks.
Serving soft drinks were Mrs. L. Olson, Mrs. J. Pedersen.
In the kitchen were Mesdames H. Petersen, J. Hill, A. Jensen, R. Giske, F. Anderson, E. Thomson, H. Hamilton, E. Auriol.
Nurses were Mrs. O. L. Murray, Mrs. Maurice Brydges, Mrs. Earl Gordon and Mrs. Allan Miller, all registered nurses.
The clinic is open tonight.

Alex McRae Laid at Rest

VANCOUVER—The late Alexander McRae of Prince Rupert was laid to rest in a Vancouver Masonic cemetery this afternoon. Many old friends joined with members of the Masonic order to pay their final duties of respect to the pioneer north coast business man who passed away last Thursday in Prince Rupert.
Rev. W. D. Grant Hollingworth, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church here and formerly of First Presbyterian Church at Prince Rupert, officiated at a service in the T. Edwards Co. chapel on Granville at Tenth.
Melrose Lodge A.F. & A.M. conducted the Masonic committal service. Members of the order acted as pallbearers.

Housewife Writes Songs, Poetry

CLIFFORD, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Elvira Keeso, a housewife in this town near Owen Sound, has written two songs in collaboration with a Hollywood song publisher and believes they may soon be on the market all over the continent.

Mrs. Keeso, who has been writing poetry and her own music for years, wrote music and lyrics for a children's play at a nearby church a few months ago. A former Hollywood song writer who attended a performance was so impressed with Mrs. Keeso's work that she worked with Mrs. Keeso on two of the songs and passed them on to a recording firm.

Now they've been recorded and Mrs. Keeso has been asked to prepare others. The two are "My Make Believe World" and "On the Board Walk." The former is a love song, telling the story of a lonely young man's dreams, but the second is a lively Easter piece.

Loneliest Island Has Fish Boom

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (CP) — One of the world's loneliest islands—Tristan da Cunha south of Cape Town—is being transformed into bustling centre of commercial development by the lowly crawfish.

A modern cannery on Tristan will soon be in full production, largely financed by the British Colonial Development Corporation. Within the first year the cannery expects to export 10,000 cases of canned crawfish and 30,000 cases of frozen crawfish tails.

Islanders for many years seldom saw a ship. Now one regularly makes runs to and from South Africa and another is scheduled to join it before the end of the crawfish season.

The Development Corporation also exploits the fact that the island is free of virus disease. As a sideline it is producing a strain of seed potatoes which will carry a "virus-free" guarantee.

Canadian Picture Given to Britain

TORONTO (CP) — A recent painting by the Canadian artist David B. Milne has been presented to the Young Women's Christian Association of Britain.

The gift of Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, the work has been presented through the Canadian Y.W.C.A. and will be auctioned in London to aid funds for the work of the British Y.W.C.A.

The painting depicts a typical small farming town in Ontario, where Mr. Milne does much of his work in the countryside near Toronto.

Blackwood on Bridge

By Easley Blackwood

Mr. Dale toyed with the idea of bidding five spades for a sacrifice but fortunately he decided against it. First, because he was afraid the bid would be down more points than the opponents' game was worth.

Second, because Mr. Meek had unhesitatingly bid up to the five level, which meant it was about an even bet the opponents could make six diamonds.

The king of spades was Mr. Champion's opening lead against the five diamond contract. Now you have a sure diamond loser. And, unless you are lucky, you also have a loser in both hearts and clubs. If the clubs break 3-3 you could throw a losing heart on dummy's fourth club. In this case the right discard from dummy at trick one would be a small heart.

On the other hand, if the hearts break 3-3 you could throw a little club on dummy's fourth heart. Then if the club king were on your left you would be in for 11 tricks.

What card would you play from dummy, then? Mr. Masters solved this problem neatly. He retained a four-card length in both clubs and hearts. In other words he played a trump from dummy on the opening trick.

Next he led a diamond and Mr. Champion was in with the ace. A spade return here would enable Mr. Masters to ruff in dummy while discarding a heart from his own hand. A heart lead would also present Mr. Masters with a trick he could not otherwise get.

So Mr. Champion came out with the 10 of clubs. Mr. Masters ducked in dummy and Mr. Abel won with the king. But that was the defenders' last trick. Mr. Masters was able to discard his losing heart on dummy's long club.

here," revealed the scientist-lawyer Dutchman, "and those are statistics," he added.

And of the entire Dutch population, 3,000,000 people are employed and 60,000 unemployed. Dr. Haveman says immigration from Holland into Canada is "reasonably easy. Sufficient restrictions are the medical and security tests.

Very little Dutch immigration has passed into the west coast region. Most of the new settlers have taken up property or employment in Ontario, then in Alberta.

"I think Alberta and British Columbia are my favorite provinces from the short period I have been here," said Dr. Haveman, but added that because he had only been in Canada three weeks and had met friendlier people in the West, he might be a little partial.

As for the weather, he had been disappointed—pleasantly so—nearly everywhere he has been.

"In Calgary, they told me it would be very hot. When I got there it was nice and cool. In Vancouver, I was told, they had weather like we have in Holland—cloudy and rainy—but it was very nice and warm.

SUNSHINE, NOT RAIN

"Then, at Ocean Falls and Prince Rupert, I was told I would find the wettest place on earth. And what did I find? Lovely sunshine."

Dr. Haveman is a graduate of a Dutch technological university, a chemical engineer, and also a doctor of law.

"But I'm practising neither profession now. I'm just a civil servant."

He left by plane today for Vancouver enroute to Winnipeg, Toronto, Ottawa and Washington, D.C., before returning to Ottawa.

"If nothing else, I have at least found out enough about Canada now that I want to come back again—and for a little longer period."

Little Crime Among Women

MONTREAL (CP) — There is a surprisingly low crime rate among Montreal women and girls, says Police Director J. Albert Langlois.

Women are occasionally picked up for various types of offences from driving without a licence to theft with violence, but in the recorded cases most frequent charges are shoplifting, vagrancy, disturbance of the peace and gambling and prostitution.

The police head said women are good drivers, but many are arrested for driving without a permit. Few women are charged with more serious traffic offences, such as dangerous driving or leaving the scene of an accident.

Pitchers Nick Chenoski and W. Lambie hooked up in a pitching duel, each allowing only five hits, but errors gave the game to the Native Sons who defeated the Elks 4-3. Eddie Smith's double in the seventh inning brought in the winning run.

Fred Stephens of the Elks leads the local batters in the baseball league with a percentage of .368. Arseneau with .341 is second and J. Comadina with .333 is third.

The Prince Rupert Football Association has chosen players to represent the city in the series against Anyox, the first two matches to take place in the smelter town. J. S. Wilson will be manager and spare. Players will be Johnstone, Smith; R. B. Skinner, H. Douglas; P. Edgcombe, E. Webster, T. Haddon; Alex. Walters, H. Dickens, A. Dickens, M. Colussi, N. Chenoski.

Mr. and Mrs. George Murray returned to the city last night after a month's motor holiday trip which took in Jasper, Edmonton, Calgary, Lake Louise, Cranbrook, Trail and Rossland and then across the line into Spokane. They also made a stop at Kamloops and at Tranquille visited Robert Cameron of this city who is doing well at the sanitarium there.

BATTER UP

By LARRY STANWOOD

With baseball in Prince Rupert straining towards its climatic finish, cups, trophies, prizes and such like are being discussed as well and right now, a search is under way for the Orme Trophy to be awarded this year's league winners, Abel & Odowes.

Commissioner Bill Gordon has asked for publication of an "information wanted" plea here. So, if anyone knows of the whereabouts of the Orme Trophy, a telephone call to the Daily News would be greatly appreciated.

And talking about trophies, Bud Barrie tells us he has enjoyed the ball games so much this season that he wishes to present the trophy to the play-off winners and also will supply each member of the winning team with a fine jacket!

Thursday's final game in the semi-final playoffs is creating a regular cycle of speculation among fans and team members alike. Last Sunday's game which ended on an error after a 14-inning stretch showed that the teams are getting very even in both hitting and fielding power, and it's practically a cinch that the last game will be played the full nine innings, unless darkness intervenes. And this final game is also likely to be the stiffest competition yet waged this season between league teams.

Manager Cornwell, of Gordon & Anderson, says he will start Bill Robinson on the mound, with Ciccone, Matthews and Kristman on the bench. He is slightly worried that Doug Shier won't be able to make the game on account of work for Doug fills a big hole in his No. 6 position.

Herb Morgan, now managing Commercial, has only 10 men to fall back on—if they're all there, and has a choice of two pitchers—either John Rosedale or Ray Zaccarelli, with one of them starting and the other one likely playing a fielding position.

Whichever team takes Thursday's bout will meet Abel & Odowes next Sunday in the first best of five series, which may—if the teams can be talked into it—be played off three games a week.

Last week we had a list of famous quotes by some of baseball's greats. Following is a list of certain terms common only to baseball and mention of which will likely put you in the good books of all baseball fans. And if you're a newcomer to a ball game, use these terms to root or boo the teams as you desire and immediately you will be recognized as a veteran baseball fan—perhaps even a former participant of the sport.

For example, never call a baseball a baseball, but use "apple," "pill," "horsehide," and "onion" as commonly as you would in the kitchen and you're in. Remember, in baseball, a spade is never called a spade, as you perhaps well know by now.

Here are other favorite terms: A Baltimore chop, for instance, is a topped ball which bounces near the plate and goes high into the air, usually just over the pitcher's head.

BENCH WARMER: Player who rarely gets into the game.

BLEEDER: A lucky single on a bad bounce or an erratic roller. Also called a SCRATCH HIT.

BOOT: Miss of a ground ball.

TEXAS LEAGUER: Hit over the infielder's head but not far enough to be caught by the outfielder.

DARK-HORSE WINNER—Harold Gunter, 19, of Saint John is chaired after winning the Governor-General's Gold Medal at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association meet at South March, Ont. The almost unknown youth defeated three veteran marksmen in a four-way shoot-off for the medal. (CP PHOTO)

SQUEEZE PLAY: Runner breaks from third base with the pitch and batter bunts the ball so the runner can score safely.

HIT AND RUN: A play in which the runner breaks with the pitch causing either second baseman or shortstop to leave normal playing position to take the catcher's throw at second base, followed by the batter driving the ball through the "hole" left by the infielder.

JOCKEY: A player who "rides" the opposition team with jeers and taunts.

DISH: The home plate.

SACK—Base. Also Hassock, Cushion, Bag.

HOT CORNER: Third base.

KEYSTONE: Second base.

Scottish Girl Forest Expert

EDINBURGH (CP)—Sheila Davies, 22, has one of the most unusual jobs for women in Scotland. She is "nursemaid" to the baby trees planted by the Forestry Commission at Strathgryne in Perthshire, and her task is to look after the neat plots of tiny fir and larch trees.

Miss Davies decided some years ago that town life was not for her, and she gave up a job in a Glasgow office to join the Forestry Commission to study trees and seed planting.

After a term as an observer in one of the tall fire towers in a stretch of forest covering 10,000 acres, of which nearly half now has been planted. The part she likes best is planting young trees on the hillsides, which is done during the winter.

Cleveland's farm boy pitcher from Iowa, 17-year-old Bob Feller, started his first major league baseball game 15 years ago. He struck out 15 St. Louis Browns, missing the American League record by one and Dizzy Dean's major league mark by two.

George Wright "Grand old man of baseball," died at Boston 14 years ago. Captain of the first professional ball club—the Cincinnati Red Stockings of 1869—his death removed one of the originals of the era of arbor-like spikes, bare-hand catching and handlebar moustaches.

Army Wants Big Ground

OTTAWA—Political headaches are in prospect in the Maritime Provinces where the army is looking for a vast year-round training area which will be about half the size of Prince Edward Island.

The aim is to pick a location more than four times the size of the army's biggest camp now, if a suitable ground can be found. Likely areas in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia have already been inspected. The ideal territory sought by the army would be roughly 502 miles long by 50 wide. This would give room to train bigades in the use of all their arms, and could even be used for divisions.

Great civility has been stirred and political pressure is expected.
