Were Cold in Ontario

TO — A surge of cold weather hit Ontario today, but on the deep freeze show-up of moderate weather.

Ontario was hardest hit by the cold, with temperatures dropping to below zero and chafed up to 30 below today. The weather records were set in 1872.

Readers said they expected a continuation of the cold weather. The weather was expected to be below zero today, and Regina had a low of 42 below yesterday.

Hoping For Peace But Getting Ready For War

Defence Measures Highlighted Although Domestic Matters Billed for Attention

OTTAWA (CP)—The Speech from the Throne, bristling with urgency, said today "further deterioration" of the world picture has created an emergency situation in Canada and increased danger of world war.

Is Drowned Under Ice

VICTORIA — Body of a sixteen-year-old school boy who tried to help save a companion from drowning was found under ice today in Goodacre Lake in Beacon Hill Park here.

Charles O'Sullivan was the one link in a human chain of six boys that tried to drag another skater from the lake after he had fallen through the ice.

The ice broke under the chain and the six plunged into the chilly water.

Another human chain from the other side of the lake pulled all to safety except Sullivan.

The herald of government policy for the new session of Parliament said members will be asked to approve these things:

Early authorization for Canadian participation in General Eisenhower's European command.

Laws giving the cabinet "additional powers to ensure adequate defence preparations to meet the present emergency and to prevent economic dislocation resulting from defence preparations."

Substantially increased defence spending—reported to run to $1,500,000,000 or more.

Establishment of a Department of Defence Production to act as a procurement agency for defence needs of Canada and Atlantic Pact allies.

Appropriate participation in Commonwealth and United Nations efforts to build up Asia.

Amendments to the Citizenship Act "to prevent retention of Canadian citizenship by persons who have renounced their allegiance or shown by their conduct that they are not loyal to Canada."

Navy Helps Land Forces

U.N. Advance Is Kept Up

TOKYO (CP)—The Canadian destroyer Cayuga joined American and British ships in shelling the west coast of Korea today. United Nations ships opened up their big guns on the west coast port of Inchon just before dawn. They helped soften up Communist troop concentrations ahead of the Eighth Army fighting its way north from Suwon.

Allied troops on land, manoeuvring against the rattle of automatic weapons and small arms fire, edged closer today to the main Communist force in western Korea although their advance towards Seoul was reduced to a snail's pace in the face of increasing enemy resistance. The roar of artillery and naval guns added to the bedlam of battle. There were palls of smoke from villages fired by bombs and raked by heavy air attacks by United Nations warplanes.

The Allies' limited offensive, however, was slowed to a crawl by die-hard resistance.

Forward United Nations units advanced laboriously only a few hundred yards on the sixth day of their northward offensive.

"I think we've hit their main defence line," a regimental officer reported.

On the flank, however, gains of up to six miles were recorded but heavy Allied casualties were reported.

The United States battleship Missouri and the heavy naval attack force teamed with carrier-based planes to plaster the Korean east coast town of Kari-song, 25 miles north of Parallel

COLD HITS U.S.
CHICAGO—Midwinter's most severe weather lashed most of the United States today, and there was not much relief in sight. A bitter cold wave crippled the central part of the country. It was warmer near the Arctic Circle than it was in many parts of the mid-continent.

MORE AUSTERITY
LONDON — Prime Minister Attlee warned Britons today that they must return to some of the Second World War economic controls if the new £4,700,000,000 ($14,100,000,000) three-year defence program is to be carried out. It was the foretold of further sacrifices for the British people. Government control of materials may be widened. Production of less essential goods for the home market will be slashed.

REARMAMENT—
LAKE SUCCESS—There was still not vote up to early afternoon on the United States resolution to condemn Communist China as an aggressor nation in Korea although the political committee turned down an adjournment motion of the Soviet bloc which would have delayed the vote for 24 hours.

Aluminum Deal All Canadian

Kitimaat Project Up At Congressional Hearing

WASHINGTON — A Canadian aluminum producer told a congressional committee yesterday that the United States saved $40,000,000 by buying Canadian aluminum during World War II.

N. V. Davis, president of Aluminum Limited of Montreal, said his company sold the United States government 1,364,000,000 pounds of aluminum at an average price of 17.6c per pound.

Davis said that "no representative of our group of companies has negotiated with any one in the United States" concerning the building of a huge aluminum plant in British Columbia.

The project calls for the building of a reduction plant capable of producing 300,000 tons of aluminum ingots a year at Kitimaat. It would be one of the biggest of its kind in the world.

Saved From Asphyxiation

Three men were saved from possible complete asphyxiation yesterday afternoon by quick action of workers at the drydock and of firemen and police officers with inhalators.

The condition of all three men was reported this afternoon as favorable and improving rapidly.

Herbert Chandler, Prince Rupert, had entered a bilge tank of the barge Griffon, which had capsized early Sunday morning, to see if water had leaked into the tank. When he did not come up, Walter Solnik, Vancouver, entered the tank to get his fellow worker out. He also was overcome by the gas. Foreman Kenneth Bosworth of Western Plywood Company then tied a rope around his arm and went into the tank to rescue the other two. He was overcome before he could do much to help. Before he had entered the tank, Bosworth had called to William Rothwell to send for an ambulance.

Pete McLeod, employee at the shipyard, pulled Bosworth out by the rope around his arm and risked his own life to go far enough into the tank to catch the clothing of Solnik with a pike pole. With the aid of A. Auriol, he was able to get the man out.

Arthur Logan then joined the rescuers. Taking a deep breath he went into the tank and placed a rope around Chandler. He had to come up once for air during the operation. Auriol then pulled Chandler from the tank.

The fire department ambulance arrived on the scene promptly with their inhalator and treated the three men and McLeod, who had taken a fair dose of gas while rescuing Solnik, until they were loaded into the ambulance and police car for transportation to hospital.

Two doctors arrived at the drydock as the men were being put into the ambulances and went ahead to the hospital.

Before the arrival of the ambulance the men had been given artificial respiration by William Rothwell and other first aid men of the drydock staff.

In addition to gassing, Chandler had also received injuries to his face, apparently caused by the boot caulk of one of the other men in a convulsion while strangling.

Sioux Returning From Korea With Envious Record

BOARD HMCS SIOUX.—This Canadian ship, now out of Pearl Harbor enroute to her port of Esquimalt after more than six months of Far East, hung up an enviable record during service with United Nations naval forces in the waters.

Of the other two Canadian ships, Cayuga and Athabaskan, the Sioux took part in the invasion in mid-September and figured in bombardment and mine destruction duties off Korea's west coast. She also participated in the 8th Army's withdrawal from China, and the North Korean port of Pyongyang, in December.

Sioux smallest of the RCN destroyers that left British Columbia port on Jan. 10 days after the outbreak of the Korean war, has accumulated more miles and tonnage than any of the Canadian destroyers, established a fueling-at-sea record for Commonwealth ships, and UN soldiers and sailors a close second to the Cayuga for the distinction of being the UN destroyer with the longest patrol during the Korean war and was close behind the Athabaskan in the "mines destroyed" column.

Probably the individual record of which quiet-spoken Cdr. Paul Taylor and his crew are most proud of is the fueling-at-sea mark. It was a sweet triumph over not only British, Australian and New Zealand warships but also the Cayuga and Athabaskan, who provided the stiffest competition.

REFELLING RECORD

The previous record time had been eight minutes, set by the destroyer HMS Chequers in the Mediterranean when the Duke of Edinburgh was her First Lieutenant. On her first try the Sioux dropped the time to six minutes. The Cayuga knocked a half minute off that—and then the Sioux (Continued on page 6)

British Defence Program

PRIME MINISTER ATTLEE has made an important statement in Parliament and indicates the Labor government is going a long way towards putting Britain on a war basis. Members will have ten days before being called upon to speak their minds about it. The general political approach to the subject is that the Opposition will support the government on defence in so far as they consider its defence plans adequate.

While agreeing with the government that the country's defences must be brought as quickly as possible to full strength, the Opposition is ready to attack the government on the means it chooses for re-equipping defences. It will attack the government for its handling of the coal situation on which so much of the industrial effort of the nation depends. It will try to the last moment to hold up the nationalization of iron and steel. It will make what it can of the failure of the original groundnuts scheme, which was to have produced a vast reserve of vegetable fats from Kenya. And it would watch for any evidence of difficulty in the turnover from a peace economy to one more and more given to the building-up of defensive armaments.

With the balance of the parties as it is at Westminster, there is always a certain amount of speculative talk about what would happen were the government to be defeated one evening. There is, in fact, little expectation just now of that happening. And some Conservatives are so little expectant of seeing it happen that they let themselves be heard supposing that, were they to come to power, they would ask "some men of goodwill outside the party" to take office. By that, some hold them to mean to hint that they would ask the Liberals to join the government. No Socialists would. Meantime all talk of a possible coalition government is being diligently scotched in all parties. That idea is out. And everyone in all parties is at pains to remember that the government is as it has been these past six years—a little milder maybe since the last general election, but still Socialist.

Is Coalition Breaking?

HERBERT ANSCOMB, British Columbia Progressive Conservative leader, may have sparked the coalition break-up which has been smouldering for some time. While making some reservations in deference to the fact that he is the co-leader of the coalition government in this province, Mr. Anscomb, in a CBC speech last night, came pretty close to intimating that the coalition is due to end before so very long. He said that the single transferable vote, if introduced, might mean the break-up of the coalition and he advised party members to be "ready for any emergency." Then he said: "I think it very possible that the suggested change in the election machinery will mean, should it pass, that our party must take its proper place in the lead of the political life of the province."

Mr. Anscomb parried the direct responsibility for breaking up the coalition when he stressed that it was not the desire of his party to break coalition. But, in view of the trend of public thought, he added: "Our party must be ready for any emergency that might develop."

In what may surely be regarded as a sort of Progressive Conservative keynote speech which was certainly an open appeal for a rallying of the "thinking people" to the banner of the Conservative party, Mr. Anscomb, after a forthright anti-Socialist declaration, also suggested that British Columbia's social security had gone "too far—it certainly has gone far enough." He was in his usual candor when he said that "out of the total revenue that the government receives, too great a sum is used to carry on all these social service problems."

The Ice Arena Poll

BE SURE you state your opinions on the question of artificial ice for Prince Rupert on the ballot that is being published in The Daily News.

A large group of responsible people in the city are ready to put a great deal of effort (in fact they have already done so) into a rink project providing the public in Prince Rupert favors such a plan. As a public service to the community, The Daily News invites co-operation in filling in the questionnaire, clipping it and returning it to the office.

The questionnaire will be found on page one of this issue of The Daily News.

VICTORIA REPORT

by J. K. Nesbitt

Lone Females but Not Lonely—New Faces at Legislature

VICTORIA.—Could one lone male feel at ease at a dinner party with 50 females?

The answer quite definitely is "No!"

And yet, where is the lone woman who wouldn't feel at ease with 50 males? Is there one? And if so, where?

Now why is this? The answer is evidently only to be found in a deep knowledge of psychology.

Are men more courteous to the lone outsider among them? Are women more adaptable? Do women like to shine? Do men need the aid and comfort of one of their own sex in order to feel at ease?

These bewildering thoughts come to mind looking over the invitation lists to the State Dinners at Government House February 20 and 27.

There are two women members of the Legislature—Mrs. Nancy Hodges and Mrs. Tilly Rolston. Time was when they went together to the Second State Dinner which is for private M.L.A.s.

But last year Mrs. Hodges was elevated to the Speakership and so she now attends the First State Dinner—until last year a strictly stag affair. Mrs. Rolston attends the Second State Dinner, the lone woman in a crowd of men.

It is reported that neither is embarrassed or shy and that the men appeared delighted in having them.

The wife of the Lieutenant Governor never attends a State Dinner because she holds no official position.

Acting Premier Herb Anscomb doesn't believe much in the gloved hand. He comes right out and says what he thinks. He seldom beats around the bush. For instance, when the Union of B.C. Municipalities the other day asked the cabinet to hold a plebiscite on daylight saving, Mr. Anscomb didn't say perhaps, or maybe, or that the government would take the matter under advisement. He said "NO"—he doesn't favor a referendum, because it's too costly. The only time he'd favor a plebiscite, possibly, would be at the time of a general election. But it would be silly, anyway, Mr. Anscomb insisted, because it's a well-known fact the vast majority of the people of B.C. want daylight saving.

So—daylight saving will start once more the last week-end in April and finish at the end of September.

There will be a lot of new faces sitting among the elect of British Columbia when the House opens February 20. The new Lieutenant Governor, of course, Hon. Clarence Wallace, will get the most attention. There will be a new ex-Lieutenant Governor, Hon. Charles Banks, sitting with the other two ex-Lieutenant Governors, Hon. Eric Hamber and Hon. W. C. Woodward. There will be a new United States consul-general for British Columbia, Hon. Robert Smyth, and a new Pacific Coast naval commander-in-chief, Rear Admiral Wallace B. Creery. There will be a new Justice of the Supreme Court—Hon. J. V. Clynne, and a new cabinet minister, Hon. Douglas Turnbull of Health and Welfare; a new mayor of Vancouver, His Worship Fred Hume; a new Anglican Bishop of New Westminster, Rt. Rev. Godfrey P. Gower.

RAY... Reflects and Reminisces

It may turn out, said Rev. F. J. Springett in Toronto recently, that the Stone of Scone was never stolen by Scots but may now be on its way to Palestine. Springett is Dominion Commissioner of the British-Israel World Federation. He declares a new king is to be crowned after a great conflict now near and an ancient prophecy will be fulfilled.

If the Stone is what he suggests it is—the throne of the Lord over Israel—then the final destination of the Stone is Jerusalem. Bible open before him, Mr. Springett quoted reference after reference, asserting the Stone had an authentic history of 2,500 years. Struggle was coming and, when it was over, Jerusalem would be the capital of the new world order.

The iron rings on the Stone had been worn thin when it was carried on the shoulders of the people of Israel wandering in the wilderness. The rock was sacred to the people of Israel. It was cracked, and from the crack had flowed the water when Moses struck it with his staff in the desert. The present state of Israel cannot last because the state must be a kingdom.

It does not take so much to change a comfortable, miserable sort of hotel into a hostelry people find themselves pleased to patronize, Ontario proprietors, at a recent convention, were told that good coffee and warm beds can make all the difference in the world. To American tourists, in particular, lightly colored warm water, instead of honest to God coffee, spoils the day. And to wake up about two in the morning, feeling chilled and stiff because of a skimpy mattress and poor blankets is another unhappy way to advertise Canada.

Correspondents in Korea, and the expression "hordes" have rated company. For months in nearly every despatch somewhere, there was always a "horde," whether a fact or not. Censorship watched out for it and now, latest from the front appears to be more reliable if less picturesque. Communist armies may be good-sized but are not to be described as a rabble.

Daily Health Hint

If health is to be maintained and protected, periodic medical and dental examinations are most necessary. If you have been neglecting this important maintenance factor, call your doctor and dentist at once.

Then there was that timid young man who asked the girl if he could kiss her hand and she said he could although it would be quite out of place.

BREAK OF COALITION—

Anscomb Gives Hint— Says Too Much Spent On Social Services

VICTORIA.—Hon. Herbert Anscomb, minister of finance and leader of the Progressive Conservative party in British Columbia, made a speech last night and hinted broadly at the possibility of a break of the coalition government of which, with Premier B. I. Johnson, he is the co-leader. He called upon the "thinking" people of the province to join with the Progressive Conservative party.

Mr. Anscomb suggested that there would be a change made in the election machinery at the forthcoming session of the Legislature and mentioned the possibility of the adoption of "the single transferable vote" method of electing representatives.

The Conservative leader thought it very possible that such a change in the election machinery would mean that the Progressive Conservative party must take its place in the lead of the political life of the province.

SHOULD BE READY

"I want to make it quite clear," said Mr. Anscomb, "that I am not intimating in any way that it is the desire of the Conservative party to break Coalition, because I am not saying anything of the kind. What I am saying is that, in view of the trend of public thought at the present time, our party must progress, be vigorous, alive, and ready for any emergency that might develop. It is quite true that even if the Coalition government actually passes the single transferable vote legislation, it may not become effective for some time. I am saying that because nobody knows what situation may develop during the next few years before the next general election. If the nation should be at war, then there would be no suggestion, I am sure, on the part of anybody that the coalition should be disbanded, for the simple reason that it was formed in the first place to take care of just such an emergency. But we must be prepared for that time in the future when our party will stand alone and for that reason I am asking all the thinking people within the sound of my voice to become active in the associations we have throughout British Columbia so that they may take part themselves in the formation of our policies which must be acceptable to the public generally when the time comes for us to place them before the electorate."

The Conservative party does not, by any means, try to disregard or eliminate the great humanitarian problems that come with advancing society, declared the minister, but it must be definitely understood that the Conservative party does not stand for Socialism in any form. "Maybe," he said, "I can express it better by saying that the Conservative party stands for adequate social security for the people generally but it does not stand for Socialism as it is known from a political viewpoint. As a matter of actual fact, I am not too sure that the social security program that we now have in effect has not gone too far. It certainly has gone far enough and I am certain that the time is here when we must give more thought to the taxpayer's pocket before we advance any further in that regard."

"Out of the total revenue that the government receives too great a sum is used to carry on all these social service problems. It is out of proportion to the amount that the government spends on the development of the natural resources of British Columbia—and it is not able to spend sufficient on these resources because of the tremendous cost of social services. Unless basic industries are developed in a more rapid way than the social costs increase, then finally we will come to the end of the road and there will not be sufficient revenue to take care of these social costs."

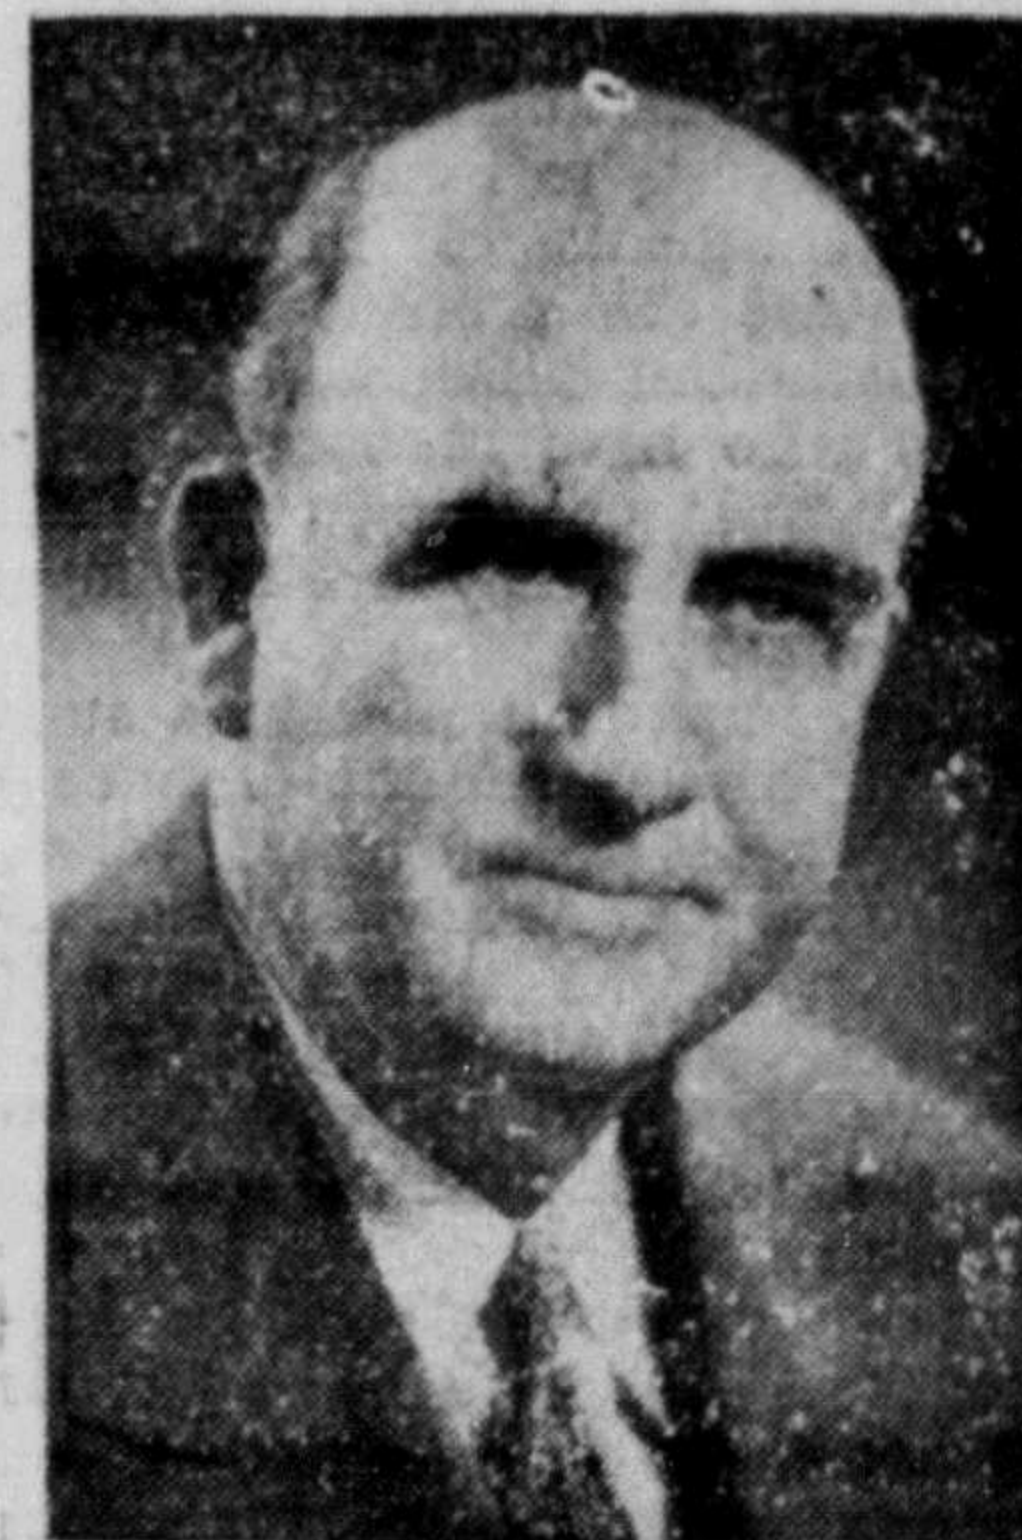

"You have heard of the enormous development planned by the Aluminum Company in central British Columbia. We realize, naturally, that this will be a great thing for the province but, at the same time, it will take a large sum of money to take care of all the people who will be required to live in that area. All that, of course, is capital development, which means the money has to be borrowed from someone in the first place before the work can be undertaken and I would like to remind you here that unless our credit is good nobody will lend us their money. Nobody has to lend their money to the government at a low rate of interest when they can either go into business themselves or lend other businesses money at a much greater rate of return than they get on government securities. So you see how necessary it is that the financial structure of the government is sound in every way in order to inspire the confidence of the money people to make possible the future development of our province. That has been one of my duties, as minister of finance, to see that our credit is maintained so that we may be in a position to borrow the required millions in order that we may keep pace with the great development that free enterprise is willing to establish in our part of the world.

"No doubt these new industries will bring many more people to our province, and when one considers that the population of this province in 1942 was around 800,000 and today is almost 1 1/2 million—an increase of 42 per cent in that short period of time—one feels assured that we may look ahead to a very bright future indeed."

Mrs. Jones was stopping at a hotel and wanted to plug in her new radio. She called the desk clerk and asked, "Have you AC or DC current here?"

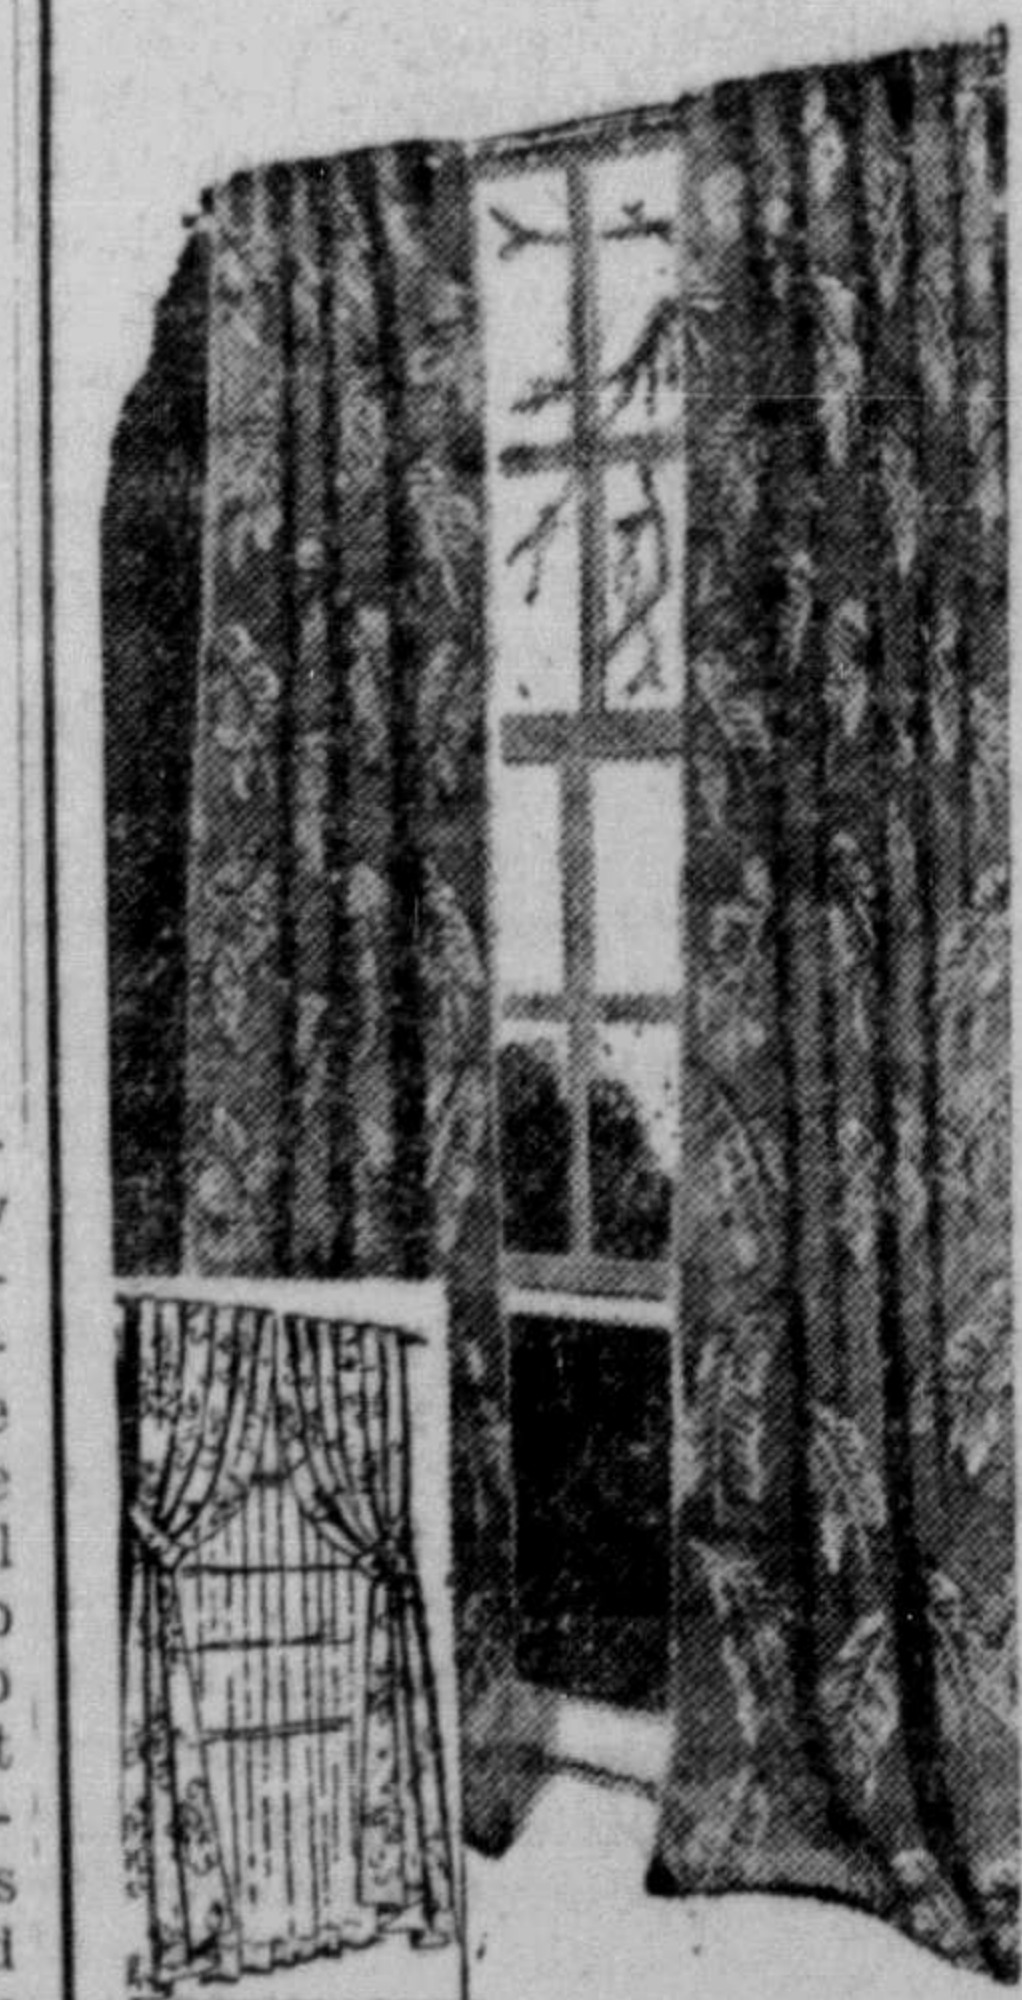

"One moment, madam," said the clerk. In a moment he replied, "I'm sorry, madam. Neither are registered."

Back Stage at the Civic Center
(A column on Prince Rupert Little Theatre)

There will be tears and laughter at the Civic Centre this Friday night when the Prince Rupert Little Theatre presents three one-act plays.

This will be the new year production before the three-act play to be cast later. Everything from a ghostly hand protruding out of the dark, to a make-believe motor car ride, will guarantee the audience something new in staging.

First on the bill will be "Happy Journey" directed by Elizabeth Holmes. There is no stage set but the audience sees a lovable family opening windows and driving along a highway in pantomime. As narrator Elizabeth Holmes sets unity to the theme.

Running through the play is the character of "Ma" played by Thalia Moore. "Ma" prepares her family of fifteen-year-old Caroline, played by Margaret Doiron, and thirteen-year-old Arthur, acted by Robert Jensen, for a holiday trip. They go by car to visit "Ma's" oldest daughter, Beulah, played by Francis Murphy.

Easy-going "Pa," played by Ernest Milgram, has a steady influence on his family as he quietly controls the car.

The "Jewelled Hand," directed by R. C. Edwards, has thrills and chills. A young girl, played by Elizabeth Holmes, is sought in marriage by two suitors, Harold Skalemerud and Reg. Lavigne. She decides in favor of Harold and he gives her an odd ring as an engagement present. It develops that this ring, or one resembling it, had been taken from the hand of her mother, after she had been cruelly murdered years ago. A recent murder of the same nature has brought the facts vividly before the girl once again. Both murders have remained a mystery to the police. She shows the ring to her mother's twin sister, played by Eileen McClintock. The aunt immediately becomes suspicious of Skalemerud. The aunt devises a clever ruse in an effort to unravel the mystery, and she succeeds.

Other characters in the play are a friend of the girl, played by Marie Lavigne; a police officer, played by John Currie, and a maid, acted by Margaret Doiron.

Last on the program is a Russian comedy on the age-old problem of "A Marriage Proposal." A very human playwright, Anton Tchekoff, brings the three characters, the daughter, played by Marilyn Roos; Lomov, the 30-year-old suitor, played by Gordon Sharun, and the father, Ernest Milgram, into real life problems. And the problem, humorously portrayed by the Tchekoff touch, is to overcome the trifling thoughts of every day life.

This play, directed by Michael Holman, is a farcical comedy, full of Russian spirit. Gay Russian costumes help to set the mood of these universal characters.

HOUSEKEEPING

FOUND USEFUL IN MANY WAYS

If there is an enticing odor coming from something cooking in the kitchen, more often than not, an onion is involved. Home economists report that this flavorsome vegetable is in good supply at the present time, and are reminding housewives that they should take advantage of this and serve onions often these days. Onions were a food standard by even in ancient times, so we do well not to forget them. History tells us that early Roman generals fed their soldiers onions to give them courage and endurance and, according to another story, onions were sacred in medieval times.

The yellow, globe type of onion is the most common winter onion sold in our shops today. It has a yellow skin and is smooth and round. When buying onions be sure that they are firm and dry. They should not be sprouted nor have root growth and, of course, should be free of any damage caused by insects or by frost. Just a word or two about storing onions for, once you have gone to the trouble and expense of buying onions, it is a shame not to store them properly. Storage space for onions should be cool, dry and well ventilated. If you do not have such storage buy them in small quantities because warmth or dampness will cause them to sprout and spoil.

Homemakers find that onions are useful both as a vegetable and as a seasoning. To make even more use of the onion why not start a meal with onion soup made with a meat broth—French Onion Soup, for example—or with Cream of Onion Soup made by simply adding 1 cup finely grated raw onion to about six cups of thin cream sauce and simmering about 20 minutes or until onion is tender. To give other kinds of cream soup added flavor without spoiling their smooth texture slices of onion may be left in the soup while it is cooking, then removed before the soup is served.

Onions may be used to the limit of your imagination in salads. Most people would consider any vegetable salad very flat without a bit of onion in it. Some like a salad of very thin onion slices which have been allowed to stand in a little vinegar, sugar, salt and pepper. If you want to remove some of the strong onion flavor beforehand soak the slices for a while in salt and water. These marinated onion slices may be served with other salads or as a relish with meat or fish.

To enhance the flavor and color of an otherwise rather bland fish or meat dish a tomato-onion gavy is suggested. This is made the same way as regular meat gravy except that tomato juice is used instead of water and a thinly sliced onion is added. To cook the onion the gravy needs to be simmered for about ten minutes.

Boiled onions are the basis of many a good dish. The onions are first cooked until tender in a small amount of boiling water and then served with cheese sauce, mustard sauce or cream sauce. Boiled onions are also good when served in a cream sauce on toast with chopped cooked bacon, or when glazed with a little honey.

For a dish that is worth the extra time that it takes to make it, try baked stuffed onions. First of all you parboil the onions, for about twenty minutes, allowing one large onion for each person. Then scoop out the centres and fill the onion cases with a bread stuffing, a meat or fish filling, or a combination of bread crumbs and cheese. Of course, to all these fillings the chopped onion scooped out of the centres should be added so that none of the valuable flavor is wasted. The onions are then baked in a moderately hot oven (375°F.) for about thirty minutes or until tender.

Everyone is sure to like baked stuffed onions, and will probably want to have them over and over again for lunch or supper, especially if they are served with a cheese or tomato sauce.

Yummy! Chelsea Bun Loaf
A treat you can make easily with new fast DRY Yeast

Now you have Fleischmann's Fast Dry Yeast, forget about the oldtime hazards of yeast baking! Always at hand—always full-strength and fast rising! Keep a month's supply in your cupboard! Make this delicious Chelsea Bun Loaf—cut in slices for buttering, or separate the buns.

CHELSEA BUN LOAF

Make 3 pans of buns from this one recipe—dough will keep in refrigerator for a week.

Scald ¾ c. milk, ¼ c. granulated sugar, 1½ tsp. salt and ¼ c. shortening; cool to lukewarm. Meanwhile, measure into a large bowl ½ c. lukewarm water, 1 tsp. granulated sugar; stir until sugar is dissolved. Sprinkle with 1 envelope Fleischmann's Royal Fast Rising Dry Yeast. Let stand 10 mins., THEN stir well. Add cooled milk mixture and stir in 1 well-beaten egg. Stir in 2 c. once-sifted bread flour; beat until smooth. Work in 2½ c. once-sifted bread flour. Knead on lightly-floured board until smooth and elastic. Cut off 20 of dough, knead into a smooth ball, place in greased bowl, grease top of dough, cover and store in refrigerator until wanted. Shape remaining ½ of dough into a smooth ball, place in greased bowl and grease top. Cover and set in warm place, free from draught. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Cream ½ lbs. butter or margarine and blend in ½ c. brown sugar (lightly pressed-down), 1½ tsp. ground cinnamon and 3 tbs. corn syrup; spread about ⅓ of this mixture in bottom of a greased loaf pan (4½" x 8½") and sprinkle with pecan halves. Punch down square; loosen dough. Spread with remaining sugar mixture and sprinkle with ½ c. raisins. Loosely roll up like a jelly roll. Cut roll into 6 slices. Place in prepared pan. Grease tops. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in moderate oven, 350°, 25-30 mins. Let stand in pan for 5 mins. before turning out.

FLEISCHMANN'S ROYAL FAST RISING DRY YEAST

Future Citizens Receive Prizes

Final culmination to Future Citizens' Day came yesterday afternoon at a student assembly held in the Civic Centre Auditorium when Jaycee President Geoff Hill presented prizes to those students who had turned in the best essays of their activities during the day.

Each student had been asked to submit an essay on their impressions of Future Citizens' Day and most of them did so since over eighty essays were received. These were judged by the Junior Chamber committee.

In judging, grammar and general essay construction were not the prime considerations. The main thing that the committee was looking for was whether or not the students had grasped the prime purpose behind the program; this being the opportunity presented to the students to associate with the civic and business leaders of the community and accept the responsibilities which will be theirs in years to come.

It had been originally planned to award just one prize for the best report turned in. This, however, proved impossible since the committee came to an impasse in considering the two finalists. The problem was solved by awarding a gift to each.

Louella MacDonald, who held the position of draughtsman in the Forestry Department office, received a pin donated by John Bulger Ltd., jewellers, and Victor Brain, alderman for the day, was presented with a cardigan from Watts & Nickerson.

In considering the very excellent report turned in by Iona Hardy who, in her capacity as "City Clerk" had to conduct a council election at the school, receive applications for the various positions available, and generally assist the Jaycee committee to integrate the day's activities, the committee felt that it would be unfair to the other students if this report was judged along with the others. However, this report was so well prepared that the committee decided to make a special award. This award consisted of a compact donated by Wallace's Pharmacy.

In concluding his presentation, Geoff Hill informed the students that the Junior Chamber of Commerce was very pleased with the way in which the students had participated in Future Citizens' Day this year and that they looked forward to an even more successful program next fall.

You can usually tell by looking at a girl what kind of a past she is going to have.

IN SPHERE OF SPORTS

Prince Rupert Has Win Over Wrangell

Bo-Me-Hi Rainmakers won the first game of their twin series with the Wrangell High School Wolves last night by a 46 to 37 score. Precision passing and superior speed paid off with a well-earned win for the locals who got going in the second quarter and outpaced Wrangell for the balance of the game.

Blackaby and Letourneau played outstanding ball for the winners as they worked the sphere into the scoring zone on smart passing and fine ball-handling.

McChesney was high scorer for the game with a big 19 points, but he had a tendency to take too many shots, when other teammates were in better position to shoot.

Spring, the floor captain for the locals, didn't show as well as usual, the rest of the team not being accustomed to him in regular league play and failing to take advantage of his precision shooting.

Neither team controlled the backboard rebounds and there was many a tussle under the basket with Referees Comadina and Cleone calling 17 personal fouls on the visitors and 24 on the locals as they scrambled for the free balls.

Both teams were off in their foul shooting, Wrangell getting just 13 of 30 and the Rainmakers 8 for 18.

Wrangell looked good in the first quarter as they came out on top 10 to 9 and demonstrated some good pattern plays. They were not able, however, to keep up with the faster Rupert team although they slowed them up considerably in the third quarter.

For the visitors floor captain Ritchie played a good game but could only find the hoop once. He left the floor in the final period on five personals as did teammate Brably and Rainmakers McChesney and Ratchford.

Maxsand was top scorer for the Wolves with 12, followed by Gunderson with 10, and Shartz with 9.

The series finishes tonight with the Wrangell team 9 points down in the two-game total point series. However, they are familiar with the local floor now and should give the locals a tough run.

PRELIMINARY
Rupert Hotel came up to with in a single game of High School in the Junior League as they won by a 23 to 12 score over the third place Cooks. High Juniors now have 3 wins and 1 loss while the hotel boys are breathing hotly down their necks with a like number of wins, but two losses.

Rupert Hotel outclassed Cooks in the first half which they won 17 to 5 but Cooks came back strong in the third and fourth quarters to hold the winners down to 6 points while outscoring them with 9.

McKay was high man for the game and the winning team as he scored 10 points.

Cook's had some good opportunities but failed to get the ball away often enough, choosing to dribble when a pass would have brought them into shooting position.

It was a good game to watch and Referees Davidson and Tong called just 10 fouls on the winners and 6 on the losers in a very clean contest.

Gardening....

COLD FRAME WILL DOUBLE OUTPUT OF SMALL GARDEN

In every month of the year there is important service a cold frame can render to a garden. In spring it is a nursery for young plants; under its protective cover vegetables and flowers can start weeks earlier than could be sown outdoors; and in late autumn and winter it can be used to protect frost-tender plants from the cold. It is usually made 3 by 6 feet, or some multiple of this, for the reason that standard hot-bed frames are of these dimensions. A standard sash may be used for both hot-beds and cold frames, which are alike except the cold frame is unheated. A cold frame (or a hot-bed) may be any size you wish, but old windows, or frames covered with one of the modern glass substitutes.

These glass substitutes are worth considering. They do not break, and the breakage of glass in windy localities is sometimes considerable. They are much lighter than glass, a merit which women appreciate. They do not let in as much light as glass, but for growing seedlings they let in enough.

Says Most Men Are Courteous

TORONTO (C)—Whatever the critics say, most men are polite to women, according to a Toronto girl whose job brings her into contact with thousands of men every day.

In fact, handsome, brown-eyed Isabelle Bonelli sometimes wishes that the average man were a little less courteous when meeting strange females.

As supervisor of nine girl elevator operators in the 17-story Bank of Commerce, it's Isabelle's responsibility to transport about 8,000 persons up and down every working day.

Although the four passenger elevators travel at 700 feet a minute, Isabelle during her 11 years on the job has found that polite men interfere considerably with a smooth flow of passengers.

Gentlemen waste both time and space, she explains, by waiting for women to leave an elevator first and by taking off their hats in the elevator. The ensuing delays mean angry buzzing by waiting passengers and jangled nerves for the operators.

But Isabelle doesn't really want men to act brusquely when they enter her elevators. Although gentlemen are a nuisance, she's not really angry at them.

To prove it, she passes on this tip to men who want an expert rating on their appearance: "Watch the girl operator's toes; if they curl up when you approach, you rate as quite a hunk of man. And if they curl up and she bends over and pushes them down, you're terrific."

Parents Barred From "Toyland"

LONDON (C)—A toyland paradise exclusively for children will be part of an ideal home exhibition in March. Parents will be barred.

Staffed by six state-registered nurses and 70 trained assistants, "Playland" will be the most sumptuous public nursery of its kind in Britain, covering an area equal to three tennis courts and capable of taking 5,000 children weekly.

Attractions include a modern milk bar, movie theatres showing cartoons and a racing track equipped with midget automobiles, jeeps, scooters and tri-cycles. There will also be an enclosure for swings, merry-go-rounds, slides and sandpit.

The matron, Mrs. Beatrice Fletcher, expects only one kind of trouble—a sit-down strike when guests are asked to leave.

Idea of the playland is to give parents a chance to park the kiddies while the grown-ups take in the rest of the show.

PILGRIMS' POSSESSIONS—The numbered envelopes on the table contain personal belongings found on the bodies of 58 persons who died in the crash of the "Canadian Pilgrim" in the French Alps Nov. 13. In Quebec superior court, the envelopes were examined with the assistance of Paul DesRochers, left, president of a committee on behalf of the crash victims, and prothonotary Robert Cote. To obtain the objects, relatives must identify them and prove inheritance rights. (CP PHOTO)

Smile 'n Chuckle

Customer: "You remember that cheese you sold me yesterday?"

Grocer: "Yes, ma'am."

Customer: "Did you tell me it was imported or departed from Switzerland?"

A chap visiting in the city dropped by a bank to seek his old friend, Brown, whom he hadn't seen for several years. But he was not there. So the visitor asked one of the senior officers about his missing friend.

"He has been one of your tried and trusted employees for years," he commented.

The banker nodded. "He was trusted all right. And if we catch him he'll be tried too."

One of the fellows from a certain brew-house was building an addition to his house was using some lumber which contained many knot holes.

A nearsighted friend came by and asked, "Say, what are all those holes?"

"Why, they're knot holes."

"I'll be darned. Sure look like holes to me."

Youth, at late hour on front porch: "Oh, darling, how can I leave you?"

Girl's father, wearily, putting his head out of window: "Walk take bus or call a cab and charge it to me."

Of course you know about that Shriner who met an acquaintance and remarked, apologetically, "I can't recall your name but your fez is certainly familiar."

Canoes are like some small boys. If you don't paddle 'em, they won't behave.

A cheap way to make anti-loose, they say, is to put her freezy by an open window.

A judge was on a hunting trip and, stopping at a store in a small town, fell into conversation with the proprietor. "Looks like a peaceful place here," he remarked. "I don't suppose you have any criminal lawyers."

The merchant reflected: "Well we think we got one, but we haven't been able to prove anything on him yet."

English is a funny language, all right. Some politicians, for example, take a stand when they run—in hopes they'll win in a walk.

Judge: "Have you ever been up before me?"

Defendant: "I don't know, Your Honor. What time do you usually get up?"

Haughty violinist, to host at party: "And the violin I will use is more than 50 years old."

Host: "Sh-h-h! Don't say anything and nobody will know the difference."

ed up at 18 years and three months, do two years in the regular army, navy or air force, then 3½ years in the Territorial—equivalent of Canada's reserve army.

Britain introduced peacetime conscription in June, 1939—a week refresher sessions, between 18 and 55 are liable for service.

When normal peacetime conscription resumed in 1949, the draftee—called at 18-faced 18 months in the regular forces and four years with the Territorials. The rearranged 5½-year figure dates from last October.

Britain's armed forces then stacked up: Army—375,200; Navy—134,900; Air Force—193,000.

RESERVE ARMY CUT.

The Netherlands—Holland had a reserve army of 250,000 men in 1939 but it now stands at a slim 75,000. Under the present set-up, Holland keeps about 15,000 men moving through the training mill each year but next October she plans to call up 30,000.

Dutchmen must register when they're 18 but they don't start their 12-month service until they're 20. Only part of each available class is called because as Dutch government sources point out, there's no point in calling up draftees if there's a shortage of training personnel and equipment.

Canada has helped the Netherlands out in the equipment shortage with a gift of $50,000,000 worth of arms—enough to equip an infantry division.

Portugal—Portugal has been calling up conscripts at 20 for 18 months' service since Britain's great "Iron Duke" Wellington was battling Napoleon's men in the peninsula with British and Portuguese troops.

After completing his 18 months, the Portuguese becomes a reservist until he's 48. Thus, a Portuguese general mobilization can put at least 750,000 men at the disposal of the authorities with another million on hand.

Good Year At St. Peters

Reports of the year's activities which were read at the annual congregational meeting of St. Peter's Anglican Church held in the church on Monday evening by members of the various committees, proved very satisfactory.

Financial report was presented by D. F. Baldwin, Sunday School and Bible Class by W. B. Skinner, Senior Women's Auxiliary by Mrs. H. Tattersall, Evening Branch of the Women's Auxiliary by Mrs. M. Hauser and Envelope Secretary by Mrs. J. Prince.

As a successor had not been appointed to take the place of Archdeacon E. Hodson who left in July for the parish of St. Matthew's Church in Terrace, the usual Rector's report was not submitted.

Miss Jean Smith, secretary of St. Peter's for the past six years, tendered her resignation due to the fact she is leaving the parish shortly.
