Fighting In Korea May Just Cease

Undeclared End May Come in East Conflict

OTTAWA (CP)—Hon. L. B. Pearson, minister of external affairs, said yesterday that there is a possibility fighting in Korea will end with an undeclared cease-fire.

"It looks at the present time as if the situation in Korea may result in what General Ridgeway, the United Nations commander in Korea, has called a military stalemate," Mr. Pearson said.

The minister of external affairs added: "I would prefer to think of it, not so much as a military stalemate, but as a stabilization of military position."

CROSSING 38th PARALLEL

The question of crossing the 38th parallel came up. Angus McInnis, OCF member for Vancouver East, held that the United Nations forces should not cross. Alistair Stewart, Winnipeg North, and Clare Gillis, Cape Breton South, did not share this view.

To Make New A-Bomb Tests

WASHINGTON (CP)—The Air Force said today three types of bombers will be used in atomic tests in the Pacific.

Performance records of the Boeing B-47 is a secret but it is reported to be the fastest A-bomber in the world with a speed of more than 600 miles an hour.

An Air Force spokesman said that, in addition to the B-47, tests will employ older B-29 Superfortresses and the modernized version known as B-50. The spokesman said the Air Force is interested in effect of atomic explosions on all types of planes and possibly fighters would be included in the tests based on Eniwetok Island, in the Marshall group.

VICTORIA—Free market for gold would launch the west coast on the greatest mining boom in its history, Mines Minister R. C. MacDonald told the Legislature yesterday. MacDonald said that the question of control over gold prices should be investigated, adding that other divisions of British Columbia's mining industry were experiencing the most active and prosperous period in history. The gold price in Canada is now fixed at $35 per ounce.

WHY BUTTER HIGH
OTTAWA — The Dominion Bureau of Statistics had a simple explanation today for the high price of butter. There is simply not enough butter to go around.

BURNED TO DEATH
VANCOUVER — Mrs. Elizabeth Miller, aged 81, was burned to death early today as fire destroyed a home in the Dunbar district. Her daughter, Mrs. Mary Diamond, sustained serious burns on hands and arms.

French Premier Is Coming Here

Auriol To Spend $180,000 on Visit to St. Laurent, Truman

PARIS (CP)—President Vincent Auriol sailed last night to spend 11 days and make 30 speeches—none about politics—and preside at 18 official meals in Canada and the United States.

The trip to see Prime Minister L. St. Laurent of Canada and President H. S. Truman of the United States will cost France about $180,000.

The president leaves his country at an awkward moment when strikes of gas, power and transport workers have thrown the capital into a crisis.

Should the trouble result in a downfall of Premier Henri Queuille's week-old cabinet, Auriol must pick Queuille's successor.

The cabinet met for a second time within 10 hours yesterday to discuss the strikes which are making up one of the worst waves of labor unrest since the war.

The cabinet decided to requisition striking public utility and transport workers if necessary. This is from the civilian draft which makes workers subject to fines and imprisonment if they stay off the job.

First Day of Spring, What?

It may have been the first day of spring officially but it did not look like it in Prince Rupert today with a wet morning snowfall which, however, showed every sign of turning to rain.

To top off the day, a gale is forecast but predicted gales have so often passed Prince Rupert up of late that it was supposed this would do the same.

At least, the weather is mild.

Provide for North Roads

Hart Highway finished by September—improvements for Rupert link

VANCOUVER (CP)—Completion of the John Hart Highway, probably by September, is planned by the provincial government, Hon. E. C. Carson, minister of public works announces. He also announces that $14,000,000 to be provided in capital funds for construction and reconstruction of highways and bridges and paving, will enable the public works department to proceed with other highway projects including the northern trans-provincial highway to Prince Rupert.

Mr. Carson states that it is hoped to complete the highway connecting Prince George with Dawson Creek and Mile O of the Alaska Highway in the Peace River country this year. This will provide a 750-mile all-British Columbia Highway between Vancouver and Dawson Creek, he says.

The minister says that $10,700,000 is provided in estimates for maintenance of British Columbia's 22,000 miles of highways.

Lining up Pact Army

PARIS (CP) — In addition to Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery as deputy commander of the Atlantic Pact army, General Dwight Eisenhower has appointed eight other high-ranking officers to his staff.

Chief Marshal Sir Hugh Saunders is air deputy and "if the need becomes apparent," a headquarters spokesman said, a senior naval officer may be named later.

Meanwhile the French cabinet announced that General Alphonse Juin, commander of France's armed forces, has been made available to Eisenhower to serve as ground troops commander in the pact army.

Stronghold of Chunchon Yields Without Struggle

TOKYO (CP)—An American tank force today rumbled into the former Chinese stronghold of Chunchon. It met only flag-waving Korean civilians. Chinese Communists, who made the central Korean road centre their troop-massing point in South Korea, apparently had withdrawn north of the 38th parallel.

Chunchon is 8½ miles south of the Red Korean border.

It was from Chunchon that the Chinese mounted two massive offensives in January and February against Wonju, deep in central Korea.

On the western front, South Korean and American task forces ranging up the historic invasion route of Korea, bumped into bitter Communist resistance north of Seoul.

An American tank patrol on the road to Uijongbu ran into a heavy minefield. "Small arms and mortar fire was so intense it was impossible for men to leave their tanks and remove mines," an operations officer said.

French Strike Is Spreading

PARIS (CP)—A mounting strike wave rolled through France today, threatening to affect almost everyone in the country. The near-general railway walkout appeared most alarming.

Premier Henri Queuille warned that strikes, all pressing for wage demands, "may develop into a veritable attempt on the life of the country."

Most stoppages were aimed directly at the government, by far France's biggest employer. Unions of all political alignments are taking part, reflecting widespread discontent with rapidly rising prices and the cabinet's hesitancy to raise wages.

Strikes affected railways, gas, electricity, subways and buses in Paris, as well as auto factories and funeral parlors.

Strikers defied a broadcast appeal by Queuille to stay on the job.

Peron Takes Over la Prensa

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (CP)—Followers of President Juan D. Peron last night formally took over control of La Prensa, Argentina's largest independent newspaper, which has been closed 54 days by strikes and boycotts of government-approved unions.

Five Peronista members of a special congressional committee, chosen to intervene in the newspaper's management and investigate its affairs, strode through a crowd of loyal La Prensa employees and into the office of Business Manager Manuel Constenla.

There they signed the articles of possession and received keys to the front door.

THE SCHOOL PICTURE

NEW DELHI, India—
The most difficult picture for a visitor to get in India concerns education.

That is partly because, as in Canada and the U.S.A., responsibility for education rests on the provinces or states, and not in the central authority.

It is also partly because there is such a wide variation from province to province. All are moving toward the goal of compulsory primary education. Some provinces (such as Delhi) have compulsory education in theory already. For, as I myself found from asking direct questions in some villages, the facts do not always accord with the theory. Even in the model Bawana villages only 30 percent of the youngsters attend school. In another settlement, housing 32,000 refugees, I found 100 percent attendance.

BUT IN BROADEST OUTLINE, here is the main fact since the Indians took over their own government in 1947:

The number of scholars has tripled and the total expenditure on education has doubled.

In Bombay Province, for instance, 20 percent of the provincial budget now goes for education, as against 10 percent before the transfer of power. All the provinces have set the figure of 20 percent as their target. At the moment they vary from 10 percent on upwards to the 20.

THE MOST INTERESTING form of adult education is the so-called travelling fair.

I shall be writing more later about this, as I have an invitation to go out to a village and see one operating. But meanwhile, here is the general idea:

They have so-called travelling caravans with four teams in each. In one caravan there is an entertainment troupe. In another there is a reading and writing teaching team. In a third there is a health and cleanliness education outfit. The fourth, I believe, is for education in foods and home-making.

When the "fair" hits a town, they get the whole population interested by putting on a bang-up entertainment show. Then after they have the people all interested they go to work on them with the more serious business.

Best of all, they do not go to a new community in the first place unless they have sufficient trained teachers to leave behind 20 in each district. These teams of 20 stay for several weeks in each place so visited.

TEACHING OF THE THREE R's in this part of the world is a much more difficult job than it is in America because of the shortage of trading material.

What is the use of teaching people to read or write if there is nothing for them to read when they are taught?

That is why the pace of the adult education movement is kept down to the supply of printed material. Right now, experts loaned to India by UNESCO are in process of getting out suitable new text books.

INDIA NEEDS HUNDREDS OF thousands of additional teachers. But the pay is so low that only self-sacrificing people are attracted to the job.

Here in Delhi Province, for instance, the president of the Teachers' Association says that teachers have recently had pay cuts from 110 to 69 rupees per month for headmasters of municipal schools. "It is a matter of great shame," he said, "that many teachers are earning less than 55 rupees a month, while municipal sweepers are paid 75 rupees per month."

There are roughly four rupees to our dollar. Of course, food and rents are cheaper here than in Canada.

FOR ALL THAT IS WRONG with the picture—and that is plenty—the main trend is quite clear. India is taking slow but good steps towards a better education for her people.

Characteristically, she is not proceeding by one set national plan. But rather, here and there, are really bright examples—usually the result of having some really fine people at the centre of things in that particular spot. The idea is that the good example should catch on with other places not so favored in the beginning.

THE LETTERBOX

THE THING STINKS

Editor, Daily News:
What is happening to our natural resources in this give-away policy to encourage big business to come in.

Our provincial government has given to the Aluminum Co. of Canada a huge slice of British Columbia to develop hydro-electric power. Also with this big chunk of British Columbia goes all the mineral rights in that area. One must really look at a map of this big industrial empire to fully realize how much has been lost by the people of the province.

Next to get big concessions is a steel company which wants its name withheld. They would build steel smelters and mills to develop the iron in British Columbia.

The provincial government has sent out notices through the Department of Mines that all iron ore and iron deposits are to be withdrawn and held in reserve. What of the forgotten men—the prospectors, the trail blazers, the pioneers who really discovered the mines of British Columbia, the iron mines, and have been waiting for industry to catch up and take over their iron and other minerals.

I want to tell you, Mr. Editor, the whole thing stinks. There is something rotten in British Columbia.

ray.. Reflects and Reminisces

Prince Rupert has had hundreds of fires, most of them small. The biggest was first. Indeed, it was in advance of the city. A forest covered the townsite and this was cut and burned. The debris smouldered for weeks.

THIS WAS FIRST

The town's first theatre stood in old Knoxville, long before incorporation. Knoxville was in the neighborhood of where the railway station now stands. The theatre, so-called, was a fair sized, lonely looking room with modest screen, a seasoned piano, kitchen chairs and benches. The pianist, Frank Stevens, corpulent and good natured, performed faithfully. If not fitfully. Someone called "fire." It didn't amount to much, and we went home and wrote it up. Next day, after the paper was out, Frank called. He pointed solemnly to the story.

"That yours?"
We nodded. Said Frank, "What dy'e think we're running? I never said it was the Alhambra or His Majesty's. Or perhaps you thought it was an even grander playhouse. Tell us." He stroked nearer, and broke into a resounding laugh. A good sort was Frank.

HARBOR VIEW

There were fires on the harbor, as well as in town. A blaze started aboard a steamer near CNR dock one day during World War I. There was little chance to save anything. Guarded from contact, she was towed well out toward the opposite shores. And it was there the fire burned itself out.

Early one morning a three-storey apartment block called the Clapp Building at Second Avenue and McBride Street got well away and the flames were not extinguished although there was no lack of effort. Across the avenue stood the new and handsome Civic Centre. It was still being praised. Would it also burn? Some thought so and risked turning sick from anxiety. Long red streamers burst from the flaming apartment house and all but licked the opposite walls.

BECOMING MODERN

Prince Rupert's first hose wagon was known as the Red Devil. It was indeed of crimson hue and to drive it at speed over partly made streets demanded an uncanny skill. Memory seems to suggest the name was given by one Norman McIntosh, a newspaper reporter who served on both the News and the Empire at different times. The Devil was not without its tragic moments. Rounding a bend near Hays Creek bridge, it went over the edge of the avenue once, killing a man.

Destruction of lumber mills at Seal Cove, fires in stores, on waterfront, in lodging houses and at homes, continued through the years. Flames razed the first club (later the Moose Hall) on its tall rock on Second Avenue. Tourists always found there the colorful touch.

EVERYBODY WORKED

A fire department, of sorts, existed long before incorporation. Under primitive conditions, nothing any better was possible. There was organization and buckets, a healthy-sized brook and a triangle whose clanging alarm sent everyone racing to do his or her bit. But then, response to a blaze was a general community effort.

EVER EFFICIENT

Yes, there were plenty of outbreaks that but for the consistent ability of Prince Rupert's fireman from the beginning to the present, could have been truthfully termed conflagrations. Sometimes, in the waging of war against flames, someone would be missed when it was all over. This was true of the midnight blaze that saw the end of the three-floor Hotel Central at First Avenue and Seventh Street.

Dragging Fails To Bring Body

QUEEN CHARLOTTE CITY (Special to Daily News)—Dragging operations, under the direction of Constable Glen Gordon, RCMP, to recover the body of Gonzague Louis Gendron, missing since last Wednesday and believed drowned, were discontinued yesterday with no results. Comrades of the youth are continuing a search along the beaches but little hope of finding him alive is now being entertained.

Why Not Here?

WITH Canada's naval shipbuilding program being sharply boosted as part of the growing defence effort and yards in Canada other than those at present probably being allocated work, Prince Rupert may well expect that some of the new jobs may be assigned to the nigh-idle but very capable yard here.

It is not necessary to repeat again—for we have said it so often—the splendid accomplishments of the yard here in the emergencies of two wars when the exigencies of the situation made it essential for the authorities—unwilling or unfriendly as they might have been—to put the plant to use.

It is to be hoped that we will not be given any excuses and subterfuges as to why other shipbuilding monopolies should gobble up this additional work.

It's too bad that it needs a war to put the useful resources and facilities of this part of the country to work but, be that as it may, we should be able to reasonably expect now that the yard will again be put back in use.

Doctors Are Needed

WE BRITISH COLUMBIANS are fond of pointing grandly to our northern wilderness and saying what opportunities are awaiting there for our young men and women.

There may be wealth and opportunity in the northern hinterland but there is some pretty rough sledding, too, so rough that the majority prefer to hunt for a job in a city and leave the wealth and opportunity to somebody else.

One of the great drawbacks of our frontier was pointed out in the Legislature the other day by young Frank Calder, the CCF member from Atlin, one of our most rugged, sparsely-settled ridings.

He urged greater efforts to provide medical and dental care for the men and women who are doing the B.C. pioneering. Mr. Calder favors air ambulances and flying doctors, dentists and nurses to cover his scattered constituency.

There are at least two good reasons why something should be done to provide the remote areas with more medical and dental care. There is the reason of common humanity. Men and women who are pushing back the bush, developing the province and its resources shouldn't be shut off from the things city people take for granted.

And there is the reason that the sooner good medical and dental services are available in our wild and woolly places the sooner men and women will be ready to spend their lives and bring up their families and develop new wealth in those places.—Vancouver Province.

Unusual? Yes, in a degree, though in essence a career that can be duplicated in the ranks of thousands of Canada's leading business and professional men. In lesser degree it can be duplicated in hundreds of thousands of instances.

Will it here? Because it illustrates one fact important to every young man, and father and mother of a young man, in education. This is our opportunity system. It is still open to every man to climb as far as he wants to go, if he has the ability and the ambition and the will to do it.

There is room at the top, in our system of free enterprise. There is not a single large corporation in Canada that is not scanning the ranks of its younger men every day looking for the men with the drive and ambition and ability to cope with its problems. ### Annual Audit Is Approved

The auditor's report last night was approved and accepted by the Prince Rupert Hospital Association at their annual meeting. In qualifying statements, Auditors Rorie & Laird said "there had not been a minute detailed examination of patients' accounts receivable." Dr. L. M. Greene explained that, because of extensive changes in bookkeeping required by British Columbia Hospital Insurance, so much time had been spent on detail work that there hadn't been enough time "or money to cover extra work of the auditors" to make minute examinations. "We have no quarrel with the auditors and believe they did the best job that could have been done under the circumstances," said Dr. Greene.

Auditors Rorie & Laird were reappointed as next year's auditors. However, F. E. Anfield, speaking from the membership, asked incoming board to consider having auditors make a bid on future audits.

President C. G. Ham said in the past $350 had been the charge for the audit but thought that, in view of more detailed breakdown required by BCHIS, the charge in future would be more.

Fine Session of Borden St. PT Norwegian Men Staged Party

Highlights of the regular monthly meeting of the Borden Street School Parent-Teacher Association last evening were a Junior Red Cross meeting as conducted by Grade Six and two films entitled "Why Doesn't Tommy Eat?" and "Who Will Teach Your Child?"

A considerable amount of business was transacted first with reports of different committees. A report from the safety committee proved of interest as did the reference to resolutions to be considered at the annual meeting of the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation to be held in Victoria during Easter week. Mrs. Greissel, as secretary, read the correspondence.

The demonstration of a regular meeting of the Junior Red Cross as conducted by Grade Six pupils made a favorable impression on the audience. Bobby Mitchell was a capable chairman and Linda Strachan an efficient secretary. Committee reports were given by Per Halvorsen, Ronnie Nordine, Jean Anderson and Margaret Strachan. The applause that greeted the children at the conclusion of their session was a spontaneous and sincere tribute to the youngsters. The chairman made a complimentary reference to the success of the Red Cross campaign in their drive for funds in the city. Incidentally in reply to a question, the treasurer, Margaret Strachan, stated that the school had contributed $25.40 to the Kinsman Club Polio Appeal. Mr. Cheeseman's class with $10 was the leading division.

Refreshments were served under the convenership of Mrs. G. G. Withers and, during this social period, many favorable comments were made with reference to the two films for the showing of which Mrs. Evans operated the projector. Altogether the meeting was one of the best attended and most enjoyable held. Mrs. Logan was program convener. Miss Larson was pianist and the audience joined heartily in community singing of "The More We Get Together" and "Alouette."

Three divisions were tied for having the greatest number of parents present, and the pennant will be jointly held by them till the next meeting.

Teachers in Session Here

The Northern district council of the British Columbia Teachers' Federation is meeting in the Civic Centre today.

Attending are John G. Moe, vice-principal of Ocean Falls High School and geographical representative, who is chairman of the meeting; J. A. Robinson, Ocean Falls; H. F. Noakes and D. G. Hamilton, Terrace; Mrs. G. Singer, Massett; G. F. Freeman and F. R. Wright, Prince Rupert.

This council meets here three times a year to discuss matters affecting teachers and the profession locally and reports to the central executive of the Federation.

On the agenda of the meeting are professional ethics, relations with School Boards, P-TA's and the public, salaries, pensions and superannuation, education generally. Resolutions before the BCTF annual general meeting next week in Vancouver will be discussed.

Sensational End To Basketball Play-off

Co-ops Nose Out Brownwoods With Overtime Finish

Was Heartbreaking Denouement for Shoe Men—
High Is Junior Winner

Co-op is the winner of the senior basketball championship in a sensational finish. They won it in the most exciting game ever to be played on a local basketball court, coming through with a 55 to 54 overtime victory over the luckless Brownwoods when Joe Davis sank a free throw after a foul by Ray Spring just 15 seconds before the final overtime bell to break a 54-all tie.

A big crowd was held spell-bound during the entire game as Brownwoods fought from behind to tie up the score at 46-all and to then move ahead at 50 to 46. At this stage of the game it looked as though Brownwoods were going to win the title as Co-op in quick succession lost their two top scoring threats, the Scherk brothers, on personal fouls. However the Co-ops were not losing a title that has been theirs for three years without a fight and they were soon back on top at 54 to 51, only to have Brownwoods again fight gamely to a 54-all tie with six seconds left to play.

It was then that Brownwoods had a championship in their grasp as Beynon fouled Ray Spring, who had only to sink the foul shot to win for his team. It was a tense moment and, Ray who is one of the keenest marksmen in the league and high scorer for the season, missed the most important shot of his basketball career, with the ball falling short of the hoop, and the Co-op getting a chance to pull victory out of the bag in overtime.

WORTHY OF WIN

Co-ops were worthy of the win. They have demonstrated this all season. However, Brownwoods and their coach Alex Bill are to be congratulated on the showing they made in the play-offs. It was just plain bad luck that cost them the championship. Playing with only five regulars, and one substitute from the intermediate division, they have provided the best basketball of the season. Their team has been unfortunate to lose Sunberg with a broken ankle, Lavigne who took a job out of town and Hartwig who returned to college at the New Year. That they were able to extend Co-ops, with 9 regulars on the bench, to first a game each, tie in the play-off and then an overtime tie in the final is to their credit. Last night they were sparked by Art Olson who played heads-up ball to lead in the scoring with 19 points. Bill McChesney, up from High Golds, was in for 8 points and he gets full credit for Brownwoods aggressive offensive. Pierce starred as he kept up a terrific speed all evening to intercept play after play.

Possibly the winners are neglected by lauding Brownwoods near-victory. However, the crowd is always for the underdog and that goes here also. Certainly Co-op played championship ball and the driving force of Joe Davis as he led the team to victory should not be overlooked. Nor should the 17 points scored by Syd Scherk, or the bang-up game played by Herb Morgan under the basket, or the smart strategy of Coach Angus MacPhee. All these factors contributed to another title for Co-op and the best play-off game ever seen in this town.

To Referee Johnny Comadina and Umpire Bill Davidson goes full credit for keeping a tough contest under control. Their refereeing was a big factor in making it an interesting game for the spectators. They handed out 25 fouls on the winners and 18 on the losers in a hectic contest.

JUVENILE

Two games were played in the Juvenile semi-finals. In the afternoon Annunciation School made it two straight over Booth 4 by a 23-15 score. They now move into the finals against the winner of Booth 1 and Booth 3, who tied it up at a game apiece in the evening Juvenile game which was won by Booth 3 with a 22 to 18 score.

Morrison was top man for Booth 3, scoring 10 points. Mah for Booth 1 scored 9 points.

In the afternoon game Fitzgerald was top man for Annunciation as he took full advantage of his extra height to score 15 points. Amstutz was top-scorer for the losers with 7 points. Booth 1 held a lead in both the first and second periods, but Annunciation came back strong to tie it up in the third and to move out ahead in the final quarter. Annunciation, were never behind in their game with Booth 4, although were given a score when the 4's held them scoreless in the third quarter.

JUNIOR

High Juniors are winners of both the league and play-offs as they came through with another close win over Rupert, Hotel by a 34 to 31 score. It was another of the many close games played by these two teams during the season. The final winner was always in doubt as the lead changed hands 14 times during the game. High School led 8 to 6 at the end of the first quarter, Rupert Hotel went ahead at the half 15 to 14, with the score all tied at the three quarter mark at 26 to 26. High School pulled ahead 33 to 26 in the final quarter but Rupert Hotel pressed hard to make it 31 to 34 at the bell.

High School played a smart zone that contributed toward their win. Considering the closeness of the score, and the championship at stake, the game was very cleanly played and kept well under control at all times by referees Gurvich and Teng, with just seven personals called on Rupert Hotel and 6 on High School. The good sportsmanship demonstrated throughout the series was again in evidence as Rupert Hotel players rushed to the High Juniors' bench at the final whistle to congratulate the winners.

Blackwood on Bridge

By Easley Blackwood

Talk about handling the trump suit! Wait until you see what Mr. Muzzy did with his hand. He had messed up the previous deal, going down two doubled when he should have made his contract.

Mr. Champion had issued his usual full measure of criticism and Mr. Muzzy was pretty badly rattled.

In a desperate effort to get back those lost points he put today's hand in six spades for which there was apparently no play at all.

Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:
South West North East

3 S Pass 4 D Pass

Mr. Abel led the queen of hearts and Mr. Muzzy won with the ace. He laid down the ace of diamonds in the faint hope the king would drop. When it didn't he could see he was down one at best. Well, anyway they couldn't keep him from going over to dummy with the ten of spades and taking the club finesse.

This he proceeded to do, leading the trey of spades toward the board. Mr. Abel played the four. At this point Mr. Muzzy was looking at one of the kibitzers, still arguing about the last hand. He reached for the 10 of spades and grabbed the eight-spot instead.

When his attention returned to the game he was stunned to see only the duce, trey, four and eight of spades in the middle of the table. Where was the ten, which he had intended to play? Ah, there it was in the dummy still unplayed. Mr. Muzzy's next remark practically broke up the game. "Whose eight?" he said.

When Mr. Champion found his voice again he explained that the eight had come from dummy. So Mr. Muzzy now played dummy's queen of diamonds which held, while the trey of hearts was discarded from the closed hand.

Next came the jack of diamonds, covered by Mr. Dale's king and trumped by Mr. Muzzy with the six of spades. The seven of spades was led to dummy's ten, clearing the trumps and there were plenty of good diamonds to take care of the rest of Mr. Muzzy's losers. A grand slam.

What a play that eight of spades was. It meant the difference between down two-and one extra trick.

"Muzzy," said Mr. Champion severely, "when Mr. Dale covered the queen of diamonds with his king you should have trumped with a high spade. It was your only play."

"Would I have made more?" said Mr. Muzzy with sly and unanswerable logic.

Better Doukhobors Than No One at All on Q.C. Islands

By W. N. GIEGERICH

Doukhobors should be altogether unobjectionable as settlers on Graham Island's east coast north of Tlell River's mouth. This stretch of coast, 45 miles of it, is uninhabited except for one old man and his son and along this coastline is some of the most productive soils in the province—hundreds of square miles of it.

It is unattractive to individual settlers because of its inaccessibility except via beach and about 18 miles of it the unscalable cliffs make it impossible for one to get off the beach and high tides make travel along the beach at any time approaching high tide a very dangerous undertaking.

The best of the soil is "muck" which, for the information of those not acquainted with it, is just rotted peat and peat is normally topped with moss and often is a product of moss.

The peaty areas, usually called muskegs, are themselves reclaimable but the work is slow. They must be thoroughly drained and then three or four successive deep plowings will usually reduce them to a condition to produce magnificent crops of those plants adapted to a muck soil but the first breaking is disheartening to the uninitiated. Potatoes will at least produce the seed for next year's planting and usually a small supply for food. Potatoes probably are best adapted to this sort of soil for two or three successive crops that continually improve until a really excellent yield is reached. This can be accomplished without fertilizer though certain of the chemicals do hasten decay and help production. Those soils already somewhat rotted—the original mucks—will produce very good crops immediately after drainage is the acid tolerant plants are grown. Liming is recommended but is not imperative in this climate if properly adapted crops are planted.

Some areas along the coast have clay loam topsoils but these areas are very apt to be heavily timbered although this is not necessarily so. Some of them have been flooded by obstructions in the natural drainage and tree growth killed or retarded. Draining is essential in such areas too.

BLUE DANUBE

One particular section known as the "Blue Danube" contains approximately a square mile that was flooded nine months of the year due to the blocking up of the north branch of the Oeanda River. It is a flat bottom area and evidently had some huge trees over its whole. The trees were killed and mostly rotted away when the first settler filed on a pre-emption there in 1910 or thereabouts. Jimmy White saw possibilities there although he had to use his row-boat to get out on it much of the time. The wild cattle ranged it during the season when it was free of water and it carried a nice cover of grass during that period.

The Walsh brothers bought the Mexican Tom place on Tlell River about 1911 and decided they could profitably range cattle up there, so they took over the pre-emptions of two others who had failed. Meanwhile, Jimmy White had reopened a shallow watercourse that carried a little flow of water directly to the beach and had a flood season stream about 12 feet wide flowing. Jimmy outlined a plan for further drainage and Jake Walsh secured an old boom augur and 10 boxes of powder and, by blowing out a clay dyke between the Blue Danube and the beach by easy stages and letting the flow of water sluice it to the sea, Jimmy was able to deepen and widen his ditch to the point where it not only carried the whole flow of the North Fork but diverted the flow of the North Fork of the Oeanda out through it and lowered the level of both to a point where the river's bank contained the full flow of water. That ditch is today the "mouth of the Oeanda River." Possibly by this time tree growth has invaded the whole area once more.

In 1918, Jimmy was the only resident on the Blue Danube and already the unoccupied portions were being taken over by alder thickets but Jimmy kept pulling the seedlings from his quarter and kept it clear. Jimmy has now been dead a good many years and others may or may not have fought back the forest but the soil, which was splendid, still remains.

Other minor attempts at reclamation by individuals demonstrated possibilities inherent in the soils at various places along the coast north of the "White Cliffs" where the land is accessible from the beach. At least portions of this work has reverted to forest when the excess of water was removed and then land then neglected. Of course, forest growth can stand a higher water table than cultivated vegetation.

A colony, even if not equipped with modern ditching machines, will still have an advantage over an individual in this work of reclamation. That is where the Doukhobors' acknowledged will to work would come in.

As far as their being barred from the islands by the defense department, that is foolish on the face of it. Regardless of their possible sympathies, it would be far better to have the Douks in there than have no one at all. Enemy forces could land in their thousands and hide in the woods in this flat and uninhabited area and never be discovered and, if they were, they could be easier driven out if roads and habitations were available to a defending force. As it is now, once an enemy established himself in the bush, defenders could only thrust at them from the beach. Some places along the coast piles of windfalls would offer ensconced enemy hiding and shelter superior to any man-made road-blocks.

It possibly would be better if religious zealots of any sort were not the colonists here but no other have yet become interested in settling on Graham Island either as individuals or as colonists since the first influx "way back in the times when Prince Rupert was expected to be a port of great importance in the trade we were going to have with Asiatic peoples! Coaling stations on the islands were to be one of the developments anticipated then.

The writer did try to interest the Dutch in the Graham Island muck and peat lands particularly since the Dutch do have considerable areas of exactly similar basic soils—of course, long since developed—but no one else was interested in pushing these lands for their consideration and he hadn't the influence to secure the active interest of the Dutch embassy at Ottawa.

Other possible colonists do not appear to have the means or the desire to undertake a development that may require both hard work and some investment.

WHO DISROBES, ANYWAY?

The Doukhobors, averse to using force in any way, persist in trying to shock us by disrobing. It can't be done. The "human form divine" is no longer the thing unseen as it was back in the days when the Quakers are supposed to have stripped in the streets of Boston as a protest against conditions imposed upon them by the puritanical natives of that city, many of them recently escapees from persecutions in Europe.

Today the Quakers are most respectable and respected. Pictures I have seen would indicate they wear an uncomfortable amount of clothing at some seasons anyway. May be the Doukhobors came here they'd try draping themselves in lots of petticoats! Most of us have seen the modern bathing beaches and there nothing much is left to the imagination. Anyway, Graham Islanders are probably mostly willing to accept the Sons of Freedom with open minds and friendly treatment. The two settlers on the east coast of Graham Island north of the Tlell are willing to.

In fact, almost any sort of neighbors would be welcomed. Representation has been made to the defense department suggesting that need for residents along this east coast for its whole 75 miles as a supply source and as an aid to defense in any emergency if ever an attack is made upon this coast of British Columbia. We'd be an outpost of inestimable importance then.

Gardening

EQUIPMENT

In comparison with most other hobbies or recreations, equipment for gardening does not present much of a problem. Minimum requirements will be a rake, a spade, some sort of tool for cultivating, and possibly a cheap duster or sprayer. For the lawn, of course, a mower of some kind will be necessary.

From those minimum requirements one can go as far as pursue and inclination will dictate. Much will depend upon the size of the lot. For the average city layout not a great deal more will be necessary under any circumstances.

CULTIVATION

A few years ago much was heard about shallow cultivation. Some enthusiasts even advised against deep plowing or spading. In certain dry areas and on a big scale that may be advisable, but for the average garden the simplest way of preparing the soil for spring is to plow or spade. That can be done first thing in the spring or in late fall. This buries grass, sod, weeds and fresh manure, all of which will break down into humus and other plant food. Then plowing or spading will also kill a good many weed seeds and wintering insects and disease germs.

After this only light cultivation will be required. Most gardeners try to get over all flower gardens and vegetable gardens once a week during the early part of the season, that is up to about mid-July. In addition to killing weeds, this lets in air, prevents baking and conserves moisture.

PLANT EARLY

Shrubby, vines, roses, trees and other nursery stock should be planted as early as possible. This is especially true where the climate is dry and extra watering is difficult. The main thing is to make sure that the roots of the new stock are kept moist in transit and planting. All these things should be planted in a good-sized hole, the roots spread out loosely, then covered with fine, rich soil, pressed down firmly to exclude all air. If at all possible water liberally for a week or two.

Good nursery stock is soft and pliable and well supplied with good live buds. The latter, however, should not be far advanced. The nearer a plant gets to leaving out the more difficult the transplanting.

Miss Pat Tumilson Is Beautiful Bride at Terrace

TERRACE—St. Matthew's Church was the setting of a pretty wedding Tuesday when Patricia Elizabeth Tumilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Tumilson of Terrace, became the bride of Ronald Oscar Paulsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Paulsen, also of Terrace, at an afternoon double-ring ceremony during which the spring sunshine flooded the church after a morning of mist and rain. Venerable Archdeacon E. D. Hodson was the officiating clergyman and the nuptial music was played by Miss Lorna Melvin at the organ.

The dark-haired bride was a picture of beauty as she walked slowly up the aisle on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. She wore an exquisite bridal gown, en train, of white chantilly lace over white satin, princess styled, with shaped, lily-pointed sleeves, stand-up collar and self buttons. From a small Dutch cap of matching lace cascaded the gathered folds of her three-quarter-length veil. She wore a three-strand necklace of pearls and she carried the groom's gift, a white leather Bible on the top of which was a white Easter lily.

Maid-of-honor was Miss Flora Melvin. She wore a full-skirted, cap-sleeved, white net dress over peach taffeta; white picture, halo hat, and carried a small trailing wrist bouquet of daffodils and tulips.

Similarly dressed, but in yellow taffeta, was the bride's sister Ann who, as bridesmaid, led the bridal procession.

Groomsman was Gerald Toop and Roy Clifford was the usher. A quiet reception was held at the Eby Road home of the bride's parents where the bride's mother, charmingly attired in grey figured nylon, grey accessories and corsage of tulips and daffodils, received the guests. With her was the groom's mother who was very attractive in grey figured jersey, matching accessories and corsage of tulips and daffodils.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Archdeacon Hodson and fittingly responded to by the groom.

A toast to the bride's mother was given by W. Toop.

A two-tiered wedding cake was cut by the bride, assisted by the groom.

Photos were taken by Cyril Eaton at the church and at home.

The happy couple left on the evening train for Prince Rupert and, after a short honeymoon, they will return to reside temporarily on Greig Avenue. The groom is assistant forest ranger and expects to be transferred from Terrace shortly. The bride, who formerly lived in Prince Rupert, was on the staff of the Co-operative Store.

Skeena Electoral district be put back to October 1st and extended two weeks later than has been the case. The opening season is at present September 15th. Also, it is asked that the season for willow grouse be opened later and extended further in the Skeena Electoral district.

The executive has chosen the second Monday in the month for the meeting night and it will also call public meeting.

St. Pat's Day At Terrace

TERRACE—The patron saint of Ireland was commemorated on St. Patrick's Day by the Catholic Womens' League with a tea and sale in the Oddfellows Hall followed by a card party and entertainment in the evening.

The weather was mild although the roads were treacherous and there was a fair turnout at both affairs.

Green and white streamers and shamrocks decorated the white covered stalls and tables and the hall. The Irish motif was also seen in the caps and aprons of serviteurs which were made to resemble green shamrocks.

Trade was fairly brisk and the stalls were soon emptied of their wares.

General convener was Mrs. H. Doll, C.W.L. president. At the fancy work stall were: Mrs. H. Cote and Mrs. J. Normandeau. Homecooking: Mrs. G. West, Mrs. Pinchback. Raffle: Mrs. Murray Warner, Mrs. S. Obzera. In the kitchen were: Mrs. A. Hobenshield, Mrs. F. Tetreault, Mrs. Bissonnette, Mrs. Renaud. The decorating of the hall was carried on by Miss Helen Samograd and June and Joyce Hobenshield helped with the tables.

Miss Samograd, Miss Moreau, Miss M. Tetreault, Vicki Hipp and Miss D. Collins were serviteurs. Mrs. G. Hipp was cashier. A baby set and dog were raffled and were won by Miss Collins and Mrs. Levesque respectively.

CARD PARTY

Ladies' first prize winner at cards was Mrs. Mr. Dubeau and consolation, Miss Rose-Marie Tetreault. Mens' First was won by Ed. Van and consolation by Joe Schultze.

Those entertaining in the evening were: Annette Normandeau, Florence Normandeau and Florence Johnston dancing an Irish jig, in costume and Arm-and-Bissonnette with vocal solos. Mrs. Bissonnette played the piano and also gave vocal solos. "When Irish Eyes were Smiling" was sung by the whole gathering and a pleasant evening broke up just before midnight.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown designed of lace, tulle and satin, lace forming the bodice with its lily-point sleeves, satin strapless under-bodice. A full gathered skirt of floor length, with yards of billowing tulle as an over-skirt, blended into a full two-yard train. Her wrist-length tulle veil was held by a cluster of orange blossoms over each temple. The bridal bouquet held tropical leaves, lily-of-the-valley and freesia.

Mrs. E. Bradley, sister of the bride, was one of the maids-of-honor, wearing a gown of cerise moire with net stole and picture hat of delicate lilac.

Mrs. Earl Bussinger, sister-in-law of the bride, was the second matron-of-honor, wearing rose pink net, with net stole and picture hat of aqua blue.

The maids-of-honor carried bouquets of pink hyacinth, blue iris, purple heather and maiden-hair fern, in colonial style.

Early Chicks Profitable

Throughout Central British Columbia there is little doubt of greater profit to the poultryman who buys chicks early enough to get high egg production during October, November, December and January, states W. T. Burns, of the Experimental Station at Smithers.

This, says Mr. Burns, clearly points to the need for obtaining baby chicks in March, one month earlier than present practice in the area, so that pullets may be well grown and in production before cold weather.

Mr. Burns emphasizes also the following points for consideration in flock management — if well grown and in production before cold weather pullets will lay well throughout the winter; pullets not in production before cold weather develop slowly; poorly developed birds, if brought into production early will lack stamina for a long laying period and are likely to moult in mid-winter.

The acceptance of the practice on a wider scale, Mr. Burns feels, would not only compensate for the higher brooding costs incurred in March but would also go far in correcting the present situation, where large spring surpluses and winter shortages are the general rule.

Interest in Area Mining

Boost in Uranium Price Should Encourage Production, Says Smelters Official

Heads of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. at Trail are enthusiastic about mining prospects in the central and northern British Columbia area, says Neely Moore, superintendent of exploration for the company with headquarters in Prince Rupert, who returned to the city at the end of the week.

Mr. Moore spent a week at Trail following a trip to Toronto where he attended conventions of the Prospectors and Development Association and the Geological Association of Canada.

Speaking of the $125 per pound increase in the price of uranium which was announced by the government while he was in the east, Mr. Moore expressed the opinion that this should stimulate both mining and prospecting for this key defence metal. Present prices of uranium are ranging from $4 to $5 per pound, according to grade. Most of Canada's uranium is now produced in the Lake Athabaska area.

While making his trip east by air, Mr. Neely ran into the recent prairie snowstorms. He was delayed for a day at Vancouver on the way east and for a day at Winnipeg on the way west.

Mr. Moore will be the speaker at the luncheon of the Gyro Club next week when he will tell something about his trip east and on mining in this area.

The church, decorated with fresh spring flowers, resounded with organ music played by Dr. F. H. Prouse of Smithers. During the signing of the register, "Because" was beautifully sung by Miss Shirley Pritchard of Calgary.

The groomsmen were Hugh Shirley, twin brother of the groom. The ushers were Nell Brodie, brother of the bride, and Kenneth Shirley, brother of the groom.

A reception was held at the Telkwa Hotel, with J. Pritchard proposing the toast to the bride.

The bride's mother was attractively gowned in smoky purple with a delicate rose pink hat. The groom's mother wore powder blue with a wine hat trimmed with an ostrich feather.

The bride chose a tailored suit of beige-brown with emerald green accessories, for her going-away costume.

Mr. and Mrs. Shirley motored to Vancouver, where they will make their home.

Spain Would Assist West

Ready to Send Troops In Return for US Weapons

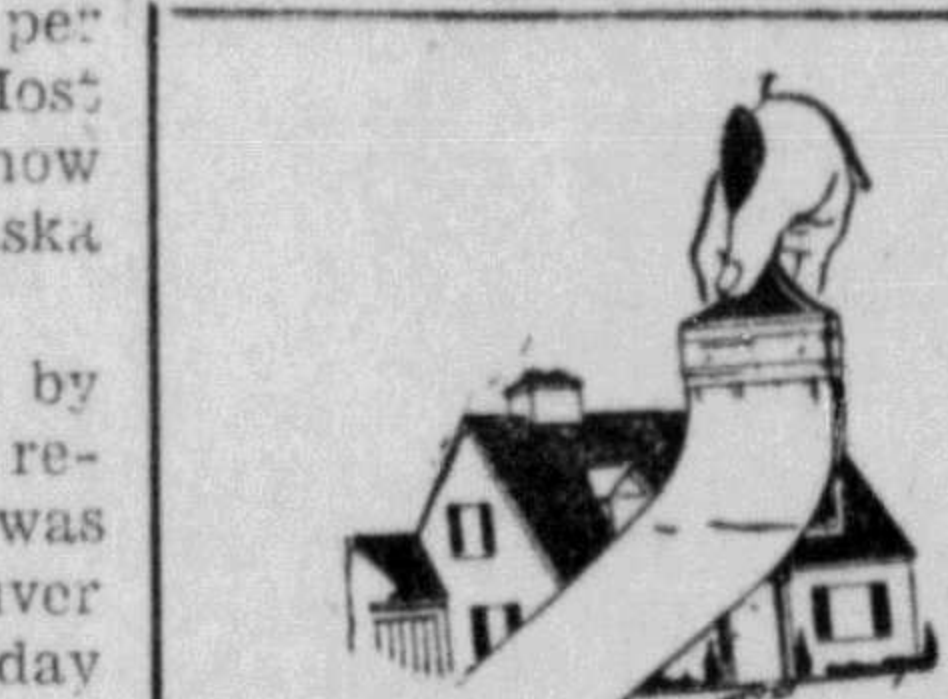

WASHINGTON, D.C. (CP)—Spain is reported to have told the United States that it will dispatch troops to the defence of western Europe if desired—provided United States weapons are sent to her forces.

Responsible officials said Monday that this assurance has been given by the Spanish Foreign Office to American Ambassador Stanton Griffis who sounded out the Franco government on his arrival in Madrid earlier this month.

These officials said that the Spanish Foreign Office made these points to Griffis:
1. Under present conditions Spain could not move any Spanish troops beyond the Pyrenees Mountains to help defend western Europe. Spain's army is reported to be badly in need of modern weapons and parts.

2. If the United States sent military supplies to Spain, Spain would be willing to contribute to western Europe defence even by moving troops beyond the Pyrenees if desired.

The Pyrenees mark the border between Spain and France.
