They will leave for Vancouver this afternoon following a visit to the Terrace woods.

On the way back to Terrace this afternoon, they are stopping at the Terrace Hotel for dinner.

$100,000 in Gems Recovered

MONTREAL (CP)—Discovery of a locker ticket in a chocolate box Tuesday led to the discovery of $100,000 worth of jewels hidden in a 10-cent luggage locker.

Jewels were the property of Mrs. Archie L. Mayo, of Malibu, California, who said they were stolen from her hotel room last Friday. However, the "foreign woman" who was questioned said she found them in a chamomile bag on a chair in the lobby of Mrs. Mayo's hotel.

Mr. Mayo reported the theft to police earlier yesterday and Chief of Detectives Wilfred Bourden said he got a tip on the "foreign woman" who held the secret to the theft.

Police declined to identify the woman.

The highway from Quebec to Montreal was extended and completed in 1736.

Pulp Logs Drive Down The Skeena

Columbia Cellulose Co.—
B.C. Newsmen See Terrace Operations
By G. A. Hunter

TERRACE.—Nine million feet of logs will go down the Kitsumkalum and Skeena rivers by July to feed the new pulp mill of Columbia Cellulose Co. at Watson Island, opening officially next Tuesday.

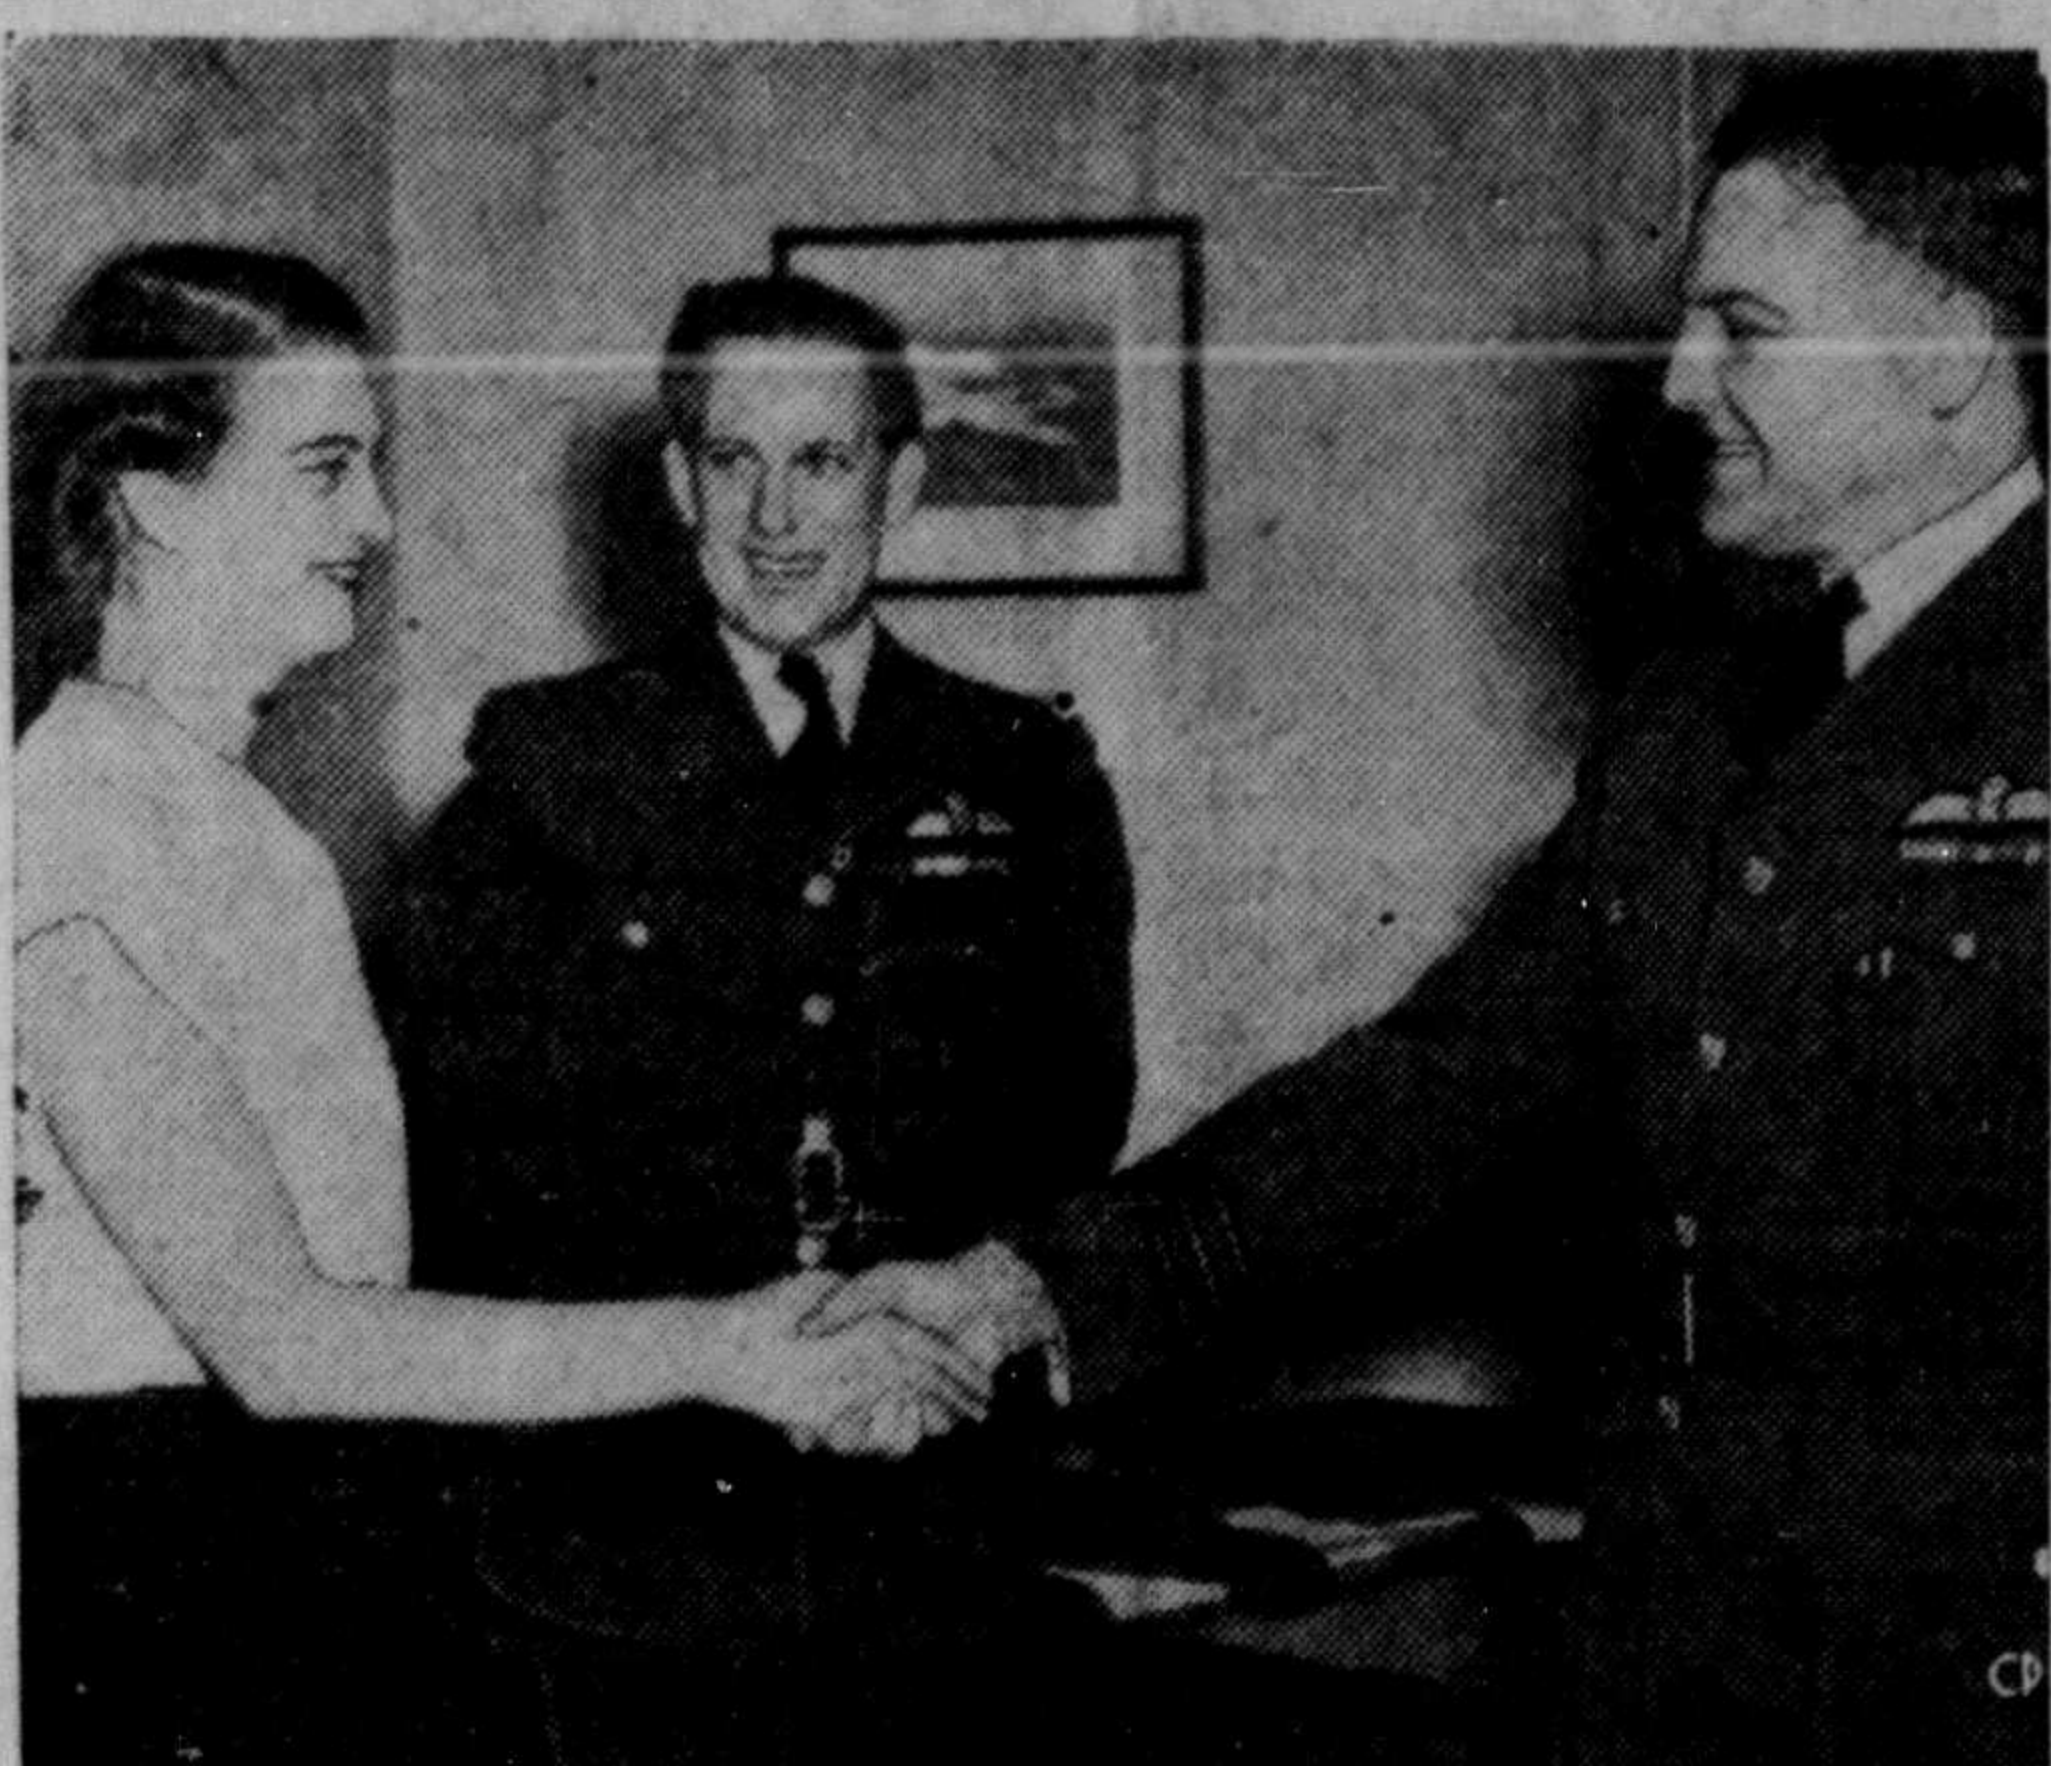

The company's logging operations in the Kitsumkalum valley now producing 25 railway carloads of logs daily were toured yesterday by 18 newspapermen from Vancouver and Victoria, joined by conferees of this district. They saw how road building is being combined with log production by high lead and caterpillars, opening a forest area where 40,000,000 feet of logs will be produced this year.

Half of the production will be trucked to Terrace, then shipped by rail to Watson Island. The rest is being driven down the rivers.

So far operations have been in timber leases up the Kitsumkalum River. Now the company is entering its No. 1 forest management licence area and will start patch logging almost at once. The forest management survey staff of 25 consists largely of university students and graduates, mapping out an area of 1000 square miles of forest in the Kitsumkalum and Naas River valleys expected to keep the Watson Island mill going in perpetuity on a 100-year reforestation basis.

Meanwhile, Columbia Construction Co., which has penetrated a road seven miles up Kitsumkalum River, expects to get in another 16 miles this year and eventually the operations will extend 60 miles to the divide into the Naas River valley.

The newspapermen were guests of Columbia Cellulose Co. overnight in Terrace and arrived in Prince Rupert today to visit the pulp mill.

FIRST AIRWOMAN—First woman enlisted in the regular RCAF in the current recruiting drive was Gladys Louise Freeman of Long Pond, Manuels, Nfld. She is congratulated by Wing Cmdr. R. F. Formosa is Delinquent

NEW YORK (CP)—Unless Nationalist China makes a substantial payment by January 1 on her United Nations dues, she may lose her General Assembly vote.

Officials records of United Nations finances reveals today that the Formosa regime owes $5,731,192 dating back to the last half of 1949.

White Sox Win Again

NEW YORK (CP)—Veteran right-hander Randy Gumpert turned in his fourth consecutive victory Tuesday as he pitched Chicago White Sox to a 10-2 triumph over Boston Red Sox.

The conquest, the eighteenth in their last 20 games, enabled the White Sox to maintain a 3½ game edge in the American League over runner-up New York Yankees, who crushed Cleveland Indians 9-2 to halt the Indians' nine-game winning streak.

Fulham Beats All-Stars

Anscomb Says—
Coalition To Stand In War

EDMONTON (CP)—Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb of British Columbia said yesterday the Coalition form of government will automatically end in his province when a bill providing for adoption of a single-transferable vote in provincial elections is proclaimed.

Mr. Anscomb, provincial leader of the Progressive Conservative party, said his party will continue to support Coalition until dissolution of the present Legislature, in about three years.

But he said he did not have "the slightest doubt that if Canada is at war, the Coalition would not end."

Tax Boost Sanctioned

OTTAWA (CP)—By a standing vote of 42 to 28, Commons yesterday sanctioned the bitterly-opposed 25 per cent increase in general sales tax.

The vote came as the chamber voted through a slow clause by clause study of the bill implementing budgetary changes in excise taxes. Vote, in effect, confirmed the sales tax boost which by custom, went into actual operation when it was announced in the budget April 11.

Area 3 to Close June 25

Official closing date of halibut fishing area three has been set at midnight, June 25, it was announced today by the International Fisheries Commission.

Total landings in Prince Rupert of Canadian boats fishing Area 2 were 9,003,000 pounds at the close of the area season, May 28. U.S. boats fishing area 2 landed 528,000 pounds.

Area 3 landings to date total 435,000 pounds for Canadian vessels and 1,714,000 pounds for Americans.

Last years' landings here by Canadian vessels were 9,055,000 pounds, but because a "great deal" of camp halibut were forwarded to Vancouver from here, the Commission feels more fish from Area 2 were actually taken this year than in 1950.

LONDON (CP)—Cesar Brion, rugged Argentine heavyweight, spoiled Jack Gardner's bid for major recognition last night when he outpointed the British and European heavyweight champion in a bloody 10-round bout before 50,000 fans in the White City stadium.

4000 POLICE SHORT

LONDON, England — About the first thing that strikes your eye when you get to Britain these days is the sign, "Men Wanted."

More precisely, I should say men and women wanted. Every bus carries a notice informing the public that many conductors' jobs are open — for male and female.

The London Police Force is already 4000 recruits short, to keep its ranks up to quota and permit retirements. The Congregational Church is desperately short of ministers—can't man all its pulpits. So all around the circle.

FROM ONE POINT OF VIEW the above is all to the good. I remember writing editorials for the old Toronto Globe, back in 1928, when we were raising funds for the relief of unemployed Welsh miners.

There is no such distress today—and it is my opinion, for what it is worth—that there never will be again in all British history. For the people will never again tolerate any government which tells them they can only be fully employed in time of war, or in periods of preparation for war.

NEVERTHELESS, BRITAIN IS in a very dangerous position today—and I am not now talking about the danger which faces all mankind — that is, of another war.

Britain is in danger of an economic crisis caused by the fact that you just can't have all the armaments that are now thought to be necessary, and also have an adequate supply of civilian goods.

In the Hitler days in Germany, when the world was being pushed toward World War II, Goering said Germany deliberately chose "guns before butter."

Britain is finding out, the hard way, that she must choose between guns and butter, too. Some people in the U.S.A. and elsewhere make fun at Brits' wasting their time arguing over whether or not the state should go on providing the people with "free wigs and glass eyes" under the health care plan.

The British people do not talk about such issues—at least not so volubly as one might suppose from reading the papers, or the news about the crisis in the cabinet.

But my impression is that they have a solid grasp of the substance of the issues. The free wigs and glass eyes are trivialities, but as symbols of the principles at stake they are big and even vital.

THE BRITISH PEOPLE WILL do their duty and stand by their guns as well as their principles in any world crisis in our time. But on the broader, deeper issue they have long since made up their national mind:

They are for butter before guns.

They are for homes before bombs.

They are for planned reconstruction and not more destruction.

They are reluctantly "going along" in the world wrestling match, for Russian truculence has literally compelled them to do so, much against their own wishes. But they will not do so for one moment longer than is absolutely necessary.

THE MAIN DIFFERENCE that I see in all Western Europe as compared with 1949, when I saw it before, is that there is much more general prosperity and much less poverty.

The Marshall Plan has worked. The vast outpouring of American money HAS raised the standard of living in many countries west of the Iron Curtain.

But now the danger is that the self-same process will begin to operate in reverse.

It is one thing for the United States to plunge into a vast armament and mobilization program and to attempt at the same time to maintain high standards of living. The North American productive machine has never yet been worked to its full wartime capacity—and what the experts call its "potential" provides vast room for expansion.

That is not true of Europe—and especially it is not true of this Britain — this "tight little isle." A real increase in the armament production, or rebuilding of big armies, can only be at the expense of the living standards of the people.

These are far below those of North America already. Any marked lowering of those already standards would have consequences that nobody can predict.

The Marshall Plan gave Europe, and Britain, the economic lift that Europe desperately needed in order to get back on her feet. But the Martial Plan of war preparation compelled by Russian truculence is a horse of a different color.

IN SHADOW OF MT. RAINIER
 Seattle's population is 467,900, according to last week's statement. Some change from the days of 1838, when ivy-covered cottages stood where business blocks now tower, when the land around Lakes Union and Washington was being cleared for fuel, and plenty of folks had enforced leisure.

WANTED WORST WAY!
 Prince Rupert has long suffered from not being included within the international load line boundary, but there is now sound reason to look for the matter being settled once and for all. Business on a vast scale is setting in northward. Alcan is certain to inquire about the exclusion of a seaport like Prince Rupert. Too many interests are pending to have anything remain unanswered or neglected.

Twelve more ships will be built for the Canadian Navy. The yards are in the Maritimes, Quebec and British Columbia. The cost will be sixty millions, and it may be safely assumed that Canada expects each man will do his duty.

We picked up a piece of money, on the street yesterday and another one this morning. Each was small. Everyone knows gold is where you find it, but the trouble is, copper is far too common. The other isn't.

OF COURSE IT'S GRAND
 This is merely another typical summer day in Prince Rupert. It's a duplicate of how it looked and felt yesterday, and many a day previous to that. Yet, there will be the customary exclamations, faces wreathed in smiles and inquiries. But there's nothing to be surprised about. This is just up north in early summer.

They Deserve It

IT IS INDEED an appropriate move of the exhibition committee of the Civic Centre Association to feature as one of their main attractions a native arts and crafts display.

In their attempt to establish a Northern British Columbia exposition of industry and natural resources they deserve both credit and support. Such an event will have far-reaching ramifications in the publicity Prince Rupert and surrounding area will derive.

As our native population in Prince Rupert and surrounding villages comprise a formidable part of the district's economy, it is their due that they receive this recognition, albeit sadly lacking at times.

And the native people, with a cultural background rich and ornate, can show us much of an edifying nature if we give them that opportunity.

True, much of their artistry has been put aside and in some instances almost lost, but is this not perhaps for the reason that their culture has not been appreciated? All races have their own intrinsic fundamentals on which their development and progress is based. It is only with a serious appreciation of these fundamentals that we can hope to understand people of other races, and only through such a will to understand can we live in equanimity and peace.

If we then invite our first pioneers of this fast-developing North to tell us their story by means of their arts and crafts, let us show a real appreciation, not only from a sense of curiosity but with a sense of understanding.

Weaving Club Forced to Disband

Dwindling Interest in Melfort Organization

MELFORT, Sask. (CP)—Melfort Weaving Club, noted in the west for its handiwork, is being disbanded after eight years of operation. Dwindling membership was cited.

The Melfort group won innumerable prizes across the country and was responsible for bringing 64 similar clubs into operation in Saskatchewan.

The group's first venture—the weaving of five yards of brown material—was selected to be displayed in Montreal. In 1946 articles were sent to the Canadian handcrafts display in Vancouver.

Eighteen women made up the first membership and between them they collected enough money to buy a loom. This was loaned to each member for a month at a time.

She plans to forego temporarily her activities for abolition of the death penalty and concentrate on the world brotherhood drive.

ELECTRIC COOKING IS THRIFTY...

With food prices the way they are, you want the fullest possible value for every dollar you pay butcher and grocer. That's why electric cooking is especially thrifty these days.

Heat from surface units is applied directly to the food and less water is required, conserving valuable elements.

In baking and roasting, stored heat does most of the cooking. Meat shrinkage is much reduced—which makes your food dollar go further.

For economy of food and labour, cook electrically. See your electrical dealer or come in to look over the latest models.

Would Keep Homes Here

Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce will ask city council to do everything in its power to hold within the city of Prince Rupert a co-operative house building project which is being organized by fifty permanent Columbia Cellulose workers, rather than permit it to go to a new townsite which is being put on the market at Port Edward June 14.

T. Norton Youngs told the Chamber that the city had offered the group a building area near the Ridley Home but this was not considered suitable.

Every effort should be made by the city to find property for the group, Mr. Youngs felt. The Chamber, by resolution, agreed and will so inform the city council.

Princess Boosts Evening Styles

By MURIEL HARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Princess Elizabeth, the Royal sister least interested in fashion-setting, nevertheless has given a definite boost to the much-discussed Chignon.

This up-to-date method of adding interest to short-hair styles for evening wear was chosen by the princess for formal occasions during her recent visit to Malta.

"The princess wore a 'figure eight' Chignon on the back of her head," said Peter Isaia, a London wig maker. "The hair must be 24 inches long to make the full curves of the figure eight and the cost of this type of Chignon varies between nine and 12 guineas."

Although the princess has not worn a Chignon since her return to London, wig makers report: "there has been nothing like this demand since the single days of 20 years ago."

Since she attained her majority, Princess Elizabeth has worn the same hair-style. Only the length differs.

Her coming-of-age pictures show hair parted on the right and swept back in soft curls lying low on the nape. Side curls framed the face, covering the ears. Today her hair is shorter and brushed back to expose the ears, otherwise the style remains.

Booklet for Child Teaches Democracy

TORONTO (CP)—A chatty booklet aimed at catching the eye of youngsters in the first grade is the latest educational effort of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

Main objective of this little book, "The House Next Door," is to tell kiddies—in language they can understand—a bit about Communism. The order wants them to realize the advantages of living in a democratic country.

There's another angle to this booklet, still in mimeographed form, which the order would like to see used in Canadian schools. It's written in story fashion, starting off when Jerry and Judy rush into the kitchen to tell their mother a new family is moving next door.

The new neighbors turn out to be a family of new Canadians. The way in which Jerry and Judy quickly make friends with Jarmila and Janis Kovac is another lesson in good citizenship. Jerry and Judy aren't troubled by the unusual names and strange accents of their new friends but accept them as a matter of course.

The five chapters tell about grandfather Kovac who likes to mend toys. And there's a bit of business with a puppet-show. All in all it's a sprightly children's story.

UC Mission Presents Exercises

Closing exercises of First United Church Mission Band, Explorer Groups and C.G.I.T., were held in the hall Thursday afternoon in the presence of parents and friends.

A short program was presented by the groups. The Mission Band sang their song, recited their purpose and sang a delightful little Japanese song, "The Acorn Song." Their closing number was the "Plum Blossom Dance," in which they joined with the Explorer groups.

Louise Freeman told the story of C.G.I.T. Louise Wood explained the "Time Line" and the Japanese Picture Map, both of which were part of the C.G.I.T. Mission Study of the church in Japan.

The highlight of the program was the affiliation of the First United Explorers and C.G.I.T. and the Conrad Explorers with the Woman's Missionary Society. Taking part in the candlelight ceremony were:

Patsy Dean, Marjorie Way, Louise Wood, Peggy Ann Dominato and Miss A. M. Stewart for the groups and Mrs. K. Faught for the W.M.S. A gift of money was made by each group to the W.M.S. for mission work.

The Doll Festival recitation was presented by Patsy Dean, Barbara Strachan and Irene Bellamy.

Service projects of the groups include a parcel of clothing for high school girls to be sent to Japan by the C.G.I.T. and a parcel of school supplies, picture papers and scrapbooks depicting Canadian living by the Explorers.

Just before tea was served all those present saw slides on the life of teen-age girls in Japan today.

Group leaders were Miss A. M. Stewart, Mrs. L. G. Sieber, Mrs. R. L. Morris and Mrs. G. Freeman.

RANK DICTATES CHOICE

Apparent reluctance to introduce changes in royal hair-styles is explained by necessity of rank. Tradition dictates that the Royal Family be easily recognizable in all portraits released for public distribution. The reason, authorities explain, is that in many outposts of empire royal pictures are cherished for many years before new sets are acquired.

The same factors govern choice of clothes. Royal fashion never changes too suddenly. New styles must be adopted slowly, giving a smooth flow to radical changes of line.

Since her marriage Princess Elizabeth has attained a quiet maturity and individual elegance completely her own.

A sudden preference for darker shades of green, blue, mulberry and red are believed to be her husband's influence. Dark colors suit her pale-rose complexion and light brown hair far better than the pastel shades worn in her teens.

For evening wear the princess favors her mother's love of crinolines and long-haired furs. Since her marriage, however, she is often seen in the beautiful mink coat given her as a wedding present by the Canadian government.

Live After Car Plunge

Four persons miraculously escaped serious injury or death when a car in which they were driving overturned and plummeted 150 feet down an embankment on the side of the Skeena Highway near Terrace Sunday afternoon.

Occupants of the car were Leif Sandhals, driver; Glenn Carlson, Yvonne Kildal and Margaret Giske. They left Prince Rupert in a 1948 half-ton panel of Pioneer Laundry Ltd. and were discovered about half an hour after the accident by P. K. Deane, manager of Pioneer Laundry, who drove behind them in his own car. They had managed to climb back on to highway.

Mr. Deane rushed the badly-shaken quartet to Terrace Outpost Hospital where they were treated for bruises.

"How they ever survived the crash I don't know," said Mr. Deane. "The truck must have turned over half-a-dozen times over the rocks before it stopped rolling."

All four are at home, nursing a few bruises but otherwise in good condition.

Mr. Deane believes, after examining the car, that the front spring shackle had snapped, causing the car to swerve off the highway. The vehicle was "badly wrecked," according to Mr. Deane.

Miss Giske said she "wasn't feeling too bad."

"But I think that was the luckiest day of my life. I don't see how we were saved."

From two to five tons of agricultural limestone may be used per acre on clay soil to give it a granular structure. This makes the soil easier to work, and allows air to penetrate more readily. As much organic material as possible should also be used.

Two time-honored practices now considered outmoded are the sowing of sweet peas and the planting of asparagus roots in trenches. Sweet peas planted two inches deep have proved to yield as well as those planted six inches down; while they have less trouble with fungus diseases. The fashion for green asparagus, cut above the ground, disposes of any need to plant asparagus roots six inches deep.

SPORT SHOTS

Now that the 1954 Empire Games have been officially awarded to Vancouver and planning is under way, winter sports enthusiasts in Australia and New Zealand are again asking about the prospects of Canada organizing an empire winter games tournament, on the lines of the Olympic winter games. Enthusiasts in the southern dominions have long felt that initiative in inaugurating such a meeting must come from Canada, as the sports included in the winter olympics are stronger and more highly organized in Canada than in any other Commonwealth country. It is felt that as Canada is to be host for the summer empire games in 1954, the preceding winter would be in propitious time to launch empire winter games.

Skiing is the most strongly organized of the winter olympics sports in Australia and New Zealand and the ski organizations of the two countries have already established inter-dominion team contests on a firm basis. The controlling body in New Zealand even made a bid to have skiing included in the main empire games in 1950. On that occasion New Zealand as the host country had the right to nominate two additional sports outside the standard program. This effort failed and since then ski enthusiasts have turned increasingly to the idea of a separate empire winter games, perhaps using the biennial inter-dominion skiing contests as a basis from which to work.

Mr. New, the kibitzer, was puzzled about Mr. Masters' play of this hand. He had never seen this type of trump management before. He wanted to know why Mr. Masters decided to play the cards as he did.

"Well, it's called a dummy reversal," said Mr. Masters. "It's the same as if I laid my own hand on the table, then walked around and picked up the dummy hand and used it as the closed hand—but of course you do all of this in your mind. You just visualize it that way."

"I see that," continued Mr. New. "But tell me how you knew this dummy reversal thing had to be used on this hand."

"It didn't have to be," replied Mr. Masters with a smile. "I was just playing 'with the odds.' Look, count the winners. If I lead out the opponents' trumps as soon as I get the lead, then I win five spade tricks, right? And I win three diamond tricks—that's eight. And I win the ace of clubs—that's nine. All right—where is the tenth trick coming from—out of my pocket?"

"Look at all the suits and try to find the tenth trick," he went on. "Nothing doing in the red suits, that's for sure. If the opponents' clubs break 3-3, that will give it to me. But the odds are against such a division."

Native Craft Display To Feature Exhibits

Planning of this year's Industrial and Natural Resources Exhibition has led to a proposal that may result in the revival of the native craft of carving totems and totemic lore.

T. Norton Youngs, chairman of the exhibition committee, has extended an invitation to all native chief councillors in Northern British Columbia to enter the Native Arts and Crafts display.

After consultation with F. E. Anfield, Indian agent, Mr. Youngs said he realized it was too late now for the villages to make any major preparation for entering the display. The exhibition opens June 29.

But for the coming year, Mr. Norton said, it was his indication with the help of councillors and Mr. Anfield to interest all northern villages to carve and enter a new totem, based on some authentic legend. Entries would be on a competitive basis and would be judged by authoritative persons.

Prizes would be awarded to the best judged, and for the village submitting the best display of all Indian arts and crafts a special trophy would be awarded.

"Mr. Anfield is most enthusiastic about this proposal and has agreed to act with us on a committee to draw up conditions and prize lists," said Mr. Youngs.

"I think it could bring about a complete revival of that intricate and almost lost art of totem-pole carving," the exhibition chairman stressed. "It would give the natives a good deal of publicity and would offer a unique and tremendous attraction to our exhibition."

Meanwhile, plans are being finalized for the "Queen of the North" contest, in which three entries will be sponsored by local organizations. The contest will be a popularity race, winning being the one who sells the most tickets. It is expected names of entries and their sponsors will be announced this week.

Another highlight of the exhibition will be a bathing-beauty contest, in which Mr. Youngs assures, will be at least 10 entries. There is to be a feature contest during each of the seven days the event will be staged in the Civic Centre building, grounds and the Navy drill hall, First Avenue, between the two buildings, will be closed off for a block west of McBride Street and will contain the midway and outside stage.

FISHING RIG—Bing Crosby enjoyed his fishing in Vancouver's Howe Sound and outer English Bay, although his catch was small. He arrived in Vancouver in his fishing togs and was given the cold shoulder by hotel officials until a bell boy recognized the crooner. (CP PHOTO)

American Cars To New Zealand

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z., (CP)—New Zealand this year is importing its first substantial shipment of cars from North America since the dollar shortage began. Cars to the value of more than $4,000,000 will be brought in in 1951.

Details have not been announced, but it is said the bulk of the cars will be imported for assembly in the dominion, while two makes of cheaper cars will come in ready for sale.

No licences have been granted to import other than the cheaper types, as it is desired that the maximum number of vehicles be obtained for the allocation of dollar funds available.

Large numbers of applications were made to the government by private firms and individuals to import cars under the allocation, but these have been declined in favor of importing through firms normally handling the makes of cars concerned.

Since the war almost all cars imported into New Zealand have been from Britain, but many users require vehicles of a heavier type than the normal English car. Taxi-drivers, travellers and farmers are among those most urgently in need of American-type cars.

To enable equitable distribution, the New Zealand Board of Trade is working out a basis of allocation. A condition of granting import licences has been that no arrangements should be made for distribution until advice has been given on conditions governing the persons to whom they should be made available.

Licences have been issued for the full dollar sum available except for a small reserve.

Recalls Regina As Dusty Colony

REGINA (CP)—Robert Sinton, one of the builders of Saskatchewan, has celebrated his 97th birthday.

Lt.-Gov. J. M. Uhrich, Mayor Garnet Menzies of Regina and many other fellow citizens called to pay their respects to the pioneer who came to Regina in 1882 and saw the community grow from a dusty railway construction camp to a city of 70,000.

At 97, Mr. Sinton rises every morning at 6:15 and keeps busy until 10 p.m.

"Come around the back and see my garden," he urges his visitors. "It's all in new. I dug it myself."

In addition to gardening, he walks six miles each day—two miles after each meal.

His only physical disability is partial deafness. He still reads without glasses.

"He never has an ache or pain," says Lillias Bowie, his housekeeper. "He looks after the furnace all winter and removes the storm windows himself. Why, he even drove his own car until a year ago."

Mr. Sinton complains: "They won't give me a driver's licence now. Said I was too old. Maybe they were right."

Mr. Sinton came west in 1878, farming for four years near Brandon, Man., which was then the frontier of settlement.

He moved west to Regina, homesteaded south of the town and combined the occupations of farmer and contractor. Later he made a name for himself as a breeder of purebred cattle.

Better And Safer Roads

Are Sought Up Skeena River By Chamber of Commerce

Conditioning of the portion of the Skeena River Highway between Telegraph Point and Tye, particularly with a view to remedying the breaking off of the bank into the Skeena River, will be asked of the Department of Public Works by the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce.

Another tragic accident on the highway motivated the Chamber to also seek the setting up of a highway patrol on the highway, especially at the week-end, with a view to keeping speed within bounds.

"The speed at which some are driving on the highway is a shame and a menace not only to themselves but to reasonable drivers," said Don Ritchie.

Hugo Kraupner, chairman of the highway committee, reported on safety signs, danger signs which were being installed on various parts of the road including the approaches to narrow Galloway Rapids bridge.

As far as general road improvements were concerned, Mr. Kraupner said the minister was now concentrating on the preparation of the road between Prince Rupert and Port Edward for blacktopping.

Concession to Civic Centre

Amusement tax concession which the Prince Rupert Civic Centre formerly enjoyed and which was ordered removed has been restored, J. D. McRae, MLA for Prince Rupert, informed the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce Monday night. T. Norton Youngs told the Chamber that, as a result of the concession, Civic Centre had benefited much more extensively than it would otherwise have done from the proceeds of the recent "Tex" Norton hypnotic show.
