

The Editor, Daily News—May I encroach on your space to express appreciation of the commendatory remarks of W. P. Armour, published in your issue of Feb. 4, regarding the efforts of the Department of Mines to promote the prosperity of the mineral industry in this district.

Although these efforts are all in the absorbing day's work, it is nevertheless encouraging, and a spur to increased effort, to receive commendation. In behalf of the Department of Mines, the resident engineer desires to express appreciation of that commendation.

There is no doubt that through the healthy development of the mining industry of the northwestern district (No. 1), of which Prince Rupert is the headquarters, a splendid opportunity for business expansion is and has been pounding at the portals of the city. Gradually it is becoming more apparent that the northwestern district harbors greater potential wealth than perhaps any other area in the province of British Columbia.

It is a glaring fact that the logical distributing centre for the development of this area is the port of Prince Rupert. Looking at the matter with the eye of an engineer, a centre for the distribution of supplies, equipment, machinery, finance and labor at the strategic railroad port of Prince Rupert would be a facility of technical and economic value to the development of these mineral potentialities. The advantages are mutual.

In a technical report, such as that on the Taku River area recently issued by the Department of Mines, it was within the scope of the reporting engineer to suggest relative commercial facilities and opportunities. In this instance such suggestion or hint was perhaps especially essential in view of the peculiar geographical position affording opportunity for provincial exploitation. That the suggestion has been correctly interpreted by the business fraternity of Prince Rupert is gratifying.

MORE OPPORTUNITIES
But opportunities for the commercial expansion of Prince Rupert relative to the mining industry are not confined to the new Taku River section. There are the older areas of Alice Arm, Observatory Inlet, Stewart, Atlin and the Stikine; there is the coastal area and the Queen Charlotte Islands; and there will be in the future the important regions of the Unuk and Whiting Rivers. This is a kingdom of golden commercial opportunity awaiting exploitation by the headquarters city of Prince Rupert. Some small difficulties that for the time being may handicap the immediate and complete embarkation of Prince Rupert business into this arena are doubtless known to the city's industrial sponsors. The removal of these difficulties is a toy for the city's business acumen.

The matter of smelter construction, referred to by Mr. Armour, is perhaps somewhat premature as an immediate undertaking. However, with the exceptional promise and more rapid development of producing mines that is in store for the mining industry of the district, the matter of a smelting facility may be a necessity in the not distant future. For this future development also, as Mr. Armour points out, Prince Rupert holds a strategic key. That the city should take immediate steps to inform those interested that it possesses the essential hydro-electric power, port and rail facilities, contiguous coking coal and flux resources, necessary for such an industrial development is called for. Then, when the stable and continuous ore supply, essential to the financial success of the appreciable investment required for a smelter undertaking is assured, the foundation will have been laid.

North Fishermen Willing to Sacrifice in Fight Against Monopoly

Offer to Use Shorter Nets and Close Certain Areas; Many Conservation Suggestions Made at Meeting

Repudiating in their entirety the proposals of Hon. S. L. Howe to govern the processing of salmon on this coast under provincial government administration and asking that the suggestions approved by the meeting be substituted for further restrictions on fishing which have been threatened by the federal department of fisheries, a mass meeting called here Wednesday night by the Northern B. C. Salmon Fishermen's Association suggested as alternate proposals for conservation of the fishery: First, that the length of gill nets in district No. 2 be reduced from 200 to 175 fathoms; second, that seines be similarly reduced in length; third, that drag seines be abolished altogether; fourth, that 75% of all salmon eggs that were formerly taken from the Skeena to the Fraser River for propagation purposes be again removed but transplanted in creeks of the central interior and Queen Charlotte Islands; fifth, that obstructions, such as concrete blocks, be placed at fishing boundaries in creeks to prevent illegal fishing above the boundaries; sixth, that flagrant breaches of fisheries regulations be in future subject to complete confiscation of boats and gear; seventh, that actual warfare be instituted against hair seals by employing men to shoot and exterminate them; eighth, that similar warfare be declared against sea lions; ninth, that there be single instead of double control of the salmon fisheries, and that that control be in the hands of the federal authorities; and, tenth, that all gillnetting be in future prohibited in that part of the Skeena River known as the "Boneyard." The meeting lasted for four hours. The only ones who voted against the main resolution were two cannery representatives.

A Large Meeting

The meeting was quite large, at least one hundred persons being in attendance, and it was also quite representative, although fishermen predominated. Among those present were Mayor C. H. Orme, some of the aldermen and representatives of various business interests of the city. Mike Anderson occupied the chair. The resolutions presented to and adopted by the meeting were drafted by the executive of the Northern B. C. Salmon Fishermen's Association and submitted by the secretary, Charles Lord. Also present were F. D. Mathers and G. M. Ferguson, local officials of the B. C. Packers. Mr. Mathers ably presented the cannery views with regard to new regulations and approved of the proposed provincial regulations but to little avail.

In introducing the resolution set-

ANYOX STAFF IS BEING CUT

Some 175 to 200 Employees Have Been Let Go During Past Week

ANYOX, Feb. 6.—During the past week the Granby Co. has reduced its Anyox payroll by letting go some 175 to 200 employees. It seems the orders were to reduce and every department was affected pro rata. The payroll was already cut close. All Sunday work has been cut for some time. In Anyox it is felt that it is a move to curtail the production of copper, in an effort to keep it at its present level of price.

LEGISLATION IN ONTARIO

Amendments to Be Made to Security
Frauds Prevention Act;
Bounty on Iron Ore

TORONTO, Feb. 6.—Forecast of amendments to the Security Frauds Prevention Act eliminating "certain objectionable features" which were disclosed in the investigation into trading practices of the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange was contained in the speech from the Throne delivered by Lieutenant-Governor W. D. Ross at the opening of the Ontario legislature yesterday.

The payment of a bounty on iron ores mined and smelted in Ontario will be made, it was also announced in the speech.

VICTORIA, Feb. 6.—Twelve returns of documents and reports are asked for in motions filed by T. D. Pattullo, A. M. Manson and other Liberals, including the order-in-council dismissing Norman A. Watt as government agent at Prince Rupert, together with all correspondence relating to the matter.

UNEMPLOYED IN VICTORIA

Marched Into Government Buildings and Named Delegation to Meet Tolmie

VICTORIA, Feb. 6.—Unemployed of Victoria numbering about one hundred marched into the legislative buildings Tuesday night and demanded assistance from the government. Provincial police officers persuaded them to name a delegation of five to interview Premier Tolmie.

The Premier said yesterday that the delegation had been courteous in its representations. "Until I discuss the matter with the mayor of Victoria, I am not in a position to say anything about the unemployment situation here," the Premier stated, adding that the responsibility of caring for the destitute rested primarily with the municipality.

WILL PROPOSE THE ABOLITION OF SUBMARINES

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Complete abolition of the submarine is the proposal that will be made next Tuesday by Great Britain at the Naval Conference. It is understood the proposal will be opposed by France and that other proposals will be made by that country.

Little Hope of Conference Abolishing Undersea Craft But May Restrict Their Use

Great Britain and United States Will Eliminate Them Altogether, but France, Japan and Italy
Are Not Agreeable

LONDON, Feb. 6.—What virtually amounts to a five-power agreement by means of which submarines will not be abolished, although their activities will be restricted, was said in naval conference circles today to have been already achieved. French naval circles declared flatly today that France would not consider the abolition of submarines, but it was said that France intended to propose humanization of submarine warfare.

At the plenary session of the conference next Tuesday it is indicated that Great Britain and United States will state their attitude of favoring abolition of the submarine in warfare. Inasmuch as the proposal is not likely to be carried through because of French, Japanese and Italian opposition, it is believed that the delegates will, at least, devote themselves to evolving methods to make submarine warfare more humane.

An international disarmament conference dealing with land as well as sea forces after the present naval conference is completed was predicted by Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, Prime Minister of Great Britain, yesterday. He pointed out that the problem had been under careful consideration by the League of Nations for some time.

The conference, sitting as a committee of the whole today, agreed provisionally upon general outlines of the French plan for limiting naval tonnage, a conference spokesman announced. The Italians still entered reservations on all points. A sub-committee of two experts and one adviser from each delegation will be named to adjust certain technical differences between the two groups, namely the British and United States on one hand and French and Japanese on the other.

Revolutionary President-Elect Of Mexico Object Yesterday of Assassin's Bullet; Is Wounded

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 6.—Pascual Ortiz Rubio, the new president of Mexico, was wounded in the jaw by a would-be assassin who fired six shots at him a few hours after he had been sworn in as chief executive yesterday. The bullet was extracted and the condition of the president is not serious. Rubio's wife was grazed by a bullet and his little niece, Maria Rosa, was slightly wounded. A bystander was also hit. The assailant was arrested.

In his inaugural address the president-elect pledged the government to five years of hard work for the common people. He termed the workers and peasants as the "hope" of Mexico. Restoration of conservative or even moderate men and systems was impossible, he said, because the country was heart and soul intent upon the radical work of restoring the race to its heritage. He said that his government would be "entirely revolutionary."

Daniel Flores, the man who fired the shots, and seven others have been arrested on suspicion of being implicated in a plot which the government attributes to adherents of Jose Vasconcelos, defeated candidate in the last presidential election.

NOW, WHO HAS BEST WEATHER?

Official Meteorological Figures
Show Prince Rupert's Superiority
Over Vancouver

The Vancouver Province, in a front page story, boasts that the fair southern city had less rain and more sunshine in January this year than in any other January of the preceding 23 years. To give the exact figures, there were 100 hours, yes, and forty-two minutes of bright sunshine in Vancouver last month and only 2.75 inches of rain. But hearken! Prince Rupert had 131.5 hours of bright sunshine in that same month and, what do you know, but 2.39 inches of precipitation. Not only this to Vancouver's shame but Prince Rupert's mean time temperature was 33.7 above, as compared with Vancouver's 28.4, while 12 above was our lowest reading here, as against Vancouver's 10.8 minimum.

If this keeps up, one may well imagine that Prince Rupert's weather will become superior and what will Vancouver say then, poor thing, after all these years of meteorological pomposity? Nor can refuge be sought in saying that the figures are inaccurate. They are, indeed, official—compiled by the Dominion meteorologists here and there.

Organization of Co-operative Halibut Marketing Company in Seattle Completed Yesterday

SEATTLE, Feb. 6.—The United Pacific Fisheries, incorporated and capitalized at $150,000 and composed of nine hundred halibut fishermen representing 206 of the total of 300 vessels operating out of here, was organized yesterday. The new company will make an effort to stabilize fish prices and guarantee a fair profit to fishermen and boat owners. A nation-wide advertising campaign, calling attention to halibut as a food, is being planned. Negotiations are under way to purchase the plant of the Ripley Fish Co. on the Seattle waterfront.

Trustees named for a ten-year period are: Otto K. Strizek, president of the American Exchange Bank; Winter S. Martin, attorney for the fishermen; and Frank Kwappil of the Fishing Vessel Owners' Association.

A branch of the United Pacific Fisheries in Prince Rupert is also planned.

Queen Charlotte Is Behind Peace River Outlet Here

The following letter has been received by Ald. Theo Collart, chairman of the Prince Rupert-Peace River Outlet Association, from Charles Hartie, secretary of the Queen Charlotte City Board of Trade:

Rites for Late G. A. Taylor in St. Andrew's Cathedral Followed by Burial in Masonic Plot

Many friends, particularly old acquaintances from Port Essington, where deceased had lived for a quarter of a century, gathered at 2:30 this afternoon at St. Andrew's Anglican Cathedral to pay their final tributes of respect to the memory of the late G. A. Taylor, whose death occurred last week in Vancouver and whose remains were brought north for burial.

The service at the Cathedral, although largely attended, was a simple one. Rev. Canon W. F. Rushbrook, himself an old friend of the late Mr. Taylor, conducted the service. He spoke of the worth of deceased and expressed sympathy for the bereaved family.

After the service, the cortege, followed by many mourners, proceeded to Fairview Cemetery, where interment was made in the Masonic plot, Canon Rushbrook again officiating at the graveside.

areas should the number of licences go over the limit set by the department.

Regarding the Howe regulations, Mr. Lord stated that the association took the view that the policy of the provincial department was not acceptable as circumscribing the fishermen and handing over a monopoly to the major existing packing concerns.

The association contended that the provincial government, in the proposed Howe regulations, was but failing in line with the demands of the cannery interests, whereas the Dominion government had consistently rejected these advances and followed the only sane and honorable policy, that of the open door, both with regard to fishing and cannery licences.

The best way to limit the number of canneries, H. Hoffman felt, was to pay a fair price for fish. As matters stood at present, the competition which it was sought to remove was the only salvation of the fishermen.

amount to a total of 550 instead of 900.

Mr. Mathers replied that B. A. was the only cannery in the district controlled by the B. C. Packers which could not be put in operation on two weeks' notice.

A Snellman of Port Essington thought that licences should not be granted to canneries which did not operate. It would be a serious thing for the fishermen if the fishing boundary in the Skeena River was moved out to Raspberry Island.

John Murray suggested that the proposed new regulations be withheld for a year and that the two governments get together in the meantime and thresh the whole question out.

Mike Anderson wondered if there might be teamwork between the two governments—the Dominion government proposing its new restrictions in order to club the fishermen into accepting the Howe regulations.

In answer to Mr. Hoffman, Mr. Mathers said that the nets it was proposed to allot each cannery would include independent nets as well as company nets.

On being invited to speak, F. D. Mathers, representing the B. C. Packers, expressed appreciation for the opportunity of addressing the meeting. He congratulated the fishermen on having given study to the question and coming out frankly with alternate proposals.

The Howe proposals had been discussed from all angles and that they were regarded as incompatible with the basic rights as citizens and that, therefore, the meeting rejected each and all of them, asking that the government immediately relinquish all desire to enforce them, was also passed.

The meeting then engaged in brief discussion under the head of "good and welfare." A resolution was passed thanking the mayor and council for allowing use of the chamber for the meeting, which adjourned at 11.15 p.m.

Mr. Mathers Speaks

On being invited to speak, F. D. Mathers, representing the B. C. Packers, expressed appreciation for the opportunity of addressing the meeting. He congratulated the fishermen on having given study to the question and coming out frankly with alternate proposals. He was glad to know that they agreed on the seriousness of the situation. Mr. Mathers presented figures showing the dropping off of the sockeye pack during the last twenty years on the Naas and Skeena Rivers. On the Skeena, the total pack for the five-year period of 1910-14 was 593,000 cases; in the next five years, 551,000 cases; in the next five years, 508,000 cases; and, in 1925-29, 360,000 cases. The Naas River showed a similar decrease from 159,000 cases in 1910-14 to 68,000 cases in 1925-29. This was in spite of greater intensity of fishing through the use of finer nets, more gasboats and improved towing services. The situation was much the same with pinks and other varieties and also in other fishing areas. The result was that the Dominion government was finding it necessary to impose even more drastic regulations in the interests of conservation. Great hardship would be worked should it be found necessary to cut the fishing to three days a week, close off certain areas and move down the fishing boundaries in the Naas and Skeena Rivers as suggested. Mr. Mathers urged that the Howe regulations be tried out for one year at least instead of resorting to the unnecessarily drastic step of cutting the nets to 175 fathoms. It was not fair, he felt, to penalize all the fishermen of this part of the coast in such a manner.

Mr. Lord replied that the proposed reduction in the length of the nets would at least place all on an equitable basis. It would give the opportunity to all to sell their fish and there would be no limitation of the processing.

Defunct Canneries

Robert Hanna thought that, if the canneries were sincere in the matter of conservation, they would not be holding licences for defunct canneries in this district such as the two in Prince Rupert Harbor, Oceanic, Dominion, B. A. Cunningham's Alexander and Standard some of which never operated in years. If licences were allotted to the ten canneries actually operating in the Skeena, they would

WHY A STOCK EXCHANGE?

MARKETS are older than civilization. From the dawn of history markets have served to facilitate exchange of cattle, money and merchandise. Through the ages a babel of shouting voices resounded in Babylon, Peking, Nischni Novgorod, Calcutta, Carthage, Rome, Berlin, Paris, London, New York.

Organization of joint stock companies more than 150 years ago as a means of raising capital for business enterprises created a necessity for a market for stocks. The first exchange was organized in London in 1773. It steadily evolved through cumbersome methods to an efficient system. This experience stands behind trading systems now practiced in exchanges like London, New York, Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver.

Every method is practiced to insure fairness to investors and prevent unethical manipulation of prices. The system of trading is recognized as fair and equitable throughout the world. The Vancouver Exchange operates under a Charter passed and approved by the Provincial Parliament on April 25, 1907.

A market place for the buying and selling of stocks, the Vancouver Stock Exchange is essential to commerce. If foreign capital is to flow freely in developing Western Canadian resources, the prestige of this institution must be maintained. The Exchange brings buyer and seller in contact with each other, sets a recognized current price for listed stocks and is a barometer of the success of individual enterprises.

An Exchange is a disinterested party in transactions between selling and buying interests of the public. Fluctuations take their course in accordance with buying and selling orders. When the public gives buying support to certain stocks, prices rise. When support is withdrawn, prices fall. Predictions as to possible values is a matter the client alone can decide for himself.

And as a piece of business machinery, the Stock Exchange attracts capital to mining, undertakings or industrial enterprises which otherwise might never come into being. An Exchange is a Public Institution performing an age-old service of great value to Western Canada.

This advertisement is published by Members of the Vancouver Stock Exchange in order to disseminate information concerning the functions of a Stock Exchange and the Business of Buying and Selling Securities.

Navigators Take
Exams Here Today

As a result of navigation classes which have been held here during the past few months by Capt. J. R. Elfert, harbor master and port warden, eight candidates for tugboat masters' papers presented themselves to Capt. Lionel H. Lindsay, examiner of masters and mates, for examination today.

Captain Lindsay expects to complete the examination today, in which case he will sail by the Prince Rupert tonight on his return to Vancouver.

MODERN "BOTTLE BABIES" ARE CERTAINLY LUCKY!

Scientists of every land have been seeking and experimenting to find a milk for "bottle babies" that would give these precious future citizens as good a start in the world as falls to the lot of their cousins who begin life on mother's milk.
They have tried every kind of milk, in every modification, endeavouring to find the closest possible match for the perfect digestibility of mother's milk. And now, at last, they say they have found a wonderful match—even the frailest premature babies thrive upon it.

Two Secrets of Perfect Digestibility
This remarkable milk is unsweetened evaporated milk, which, as you doubtless know, is simply pure whole milk with part of the natural water removed, and nothing added. It is sealed in airtight cans and sterilized so nothing can affect its purity.
Two things happen to this milk which, scientists say, explain the fact that it is so much easier to digest than cow's milk in any other form. First, there is the heat of sterilization, which alters the casein so that very fine soft curds are formed, almost identical with those formed by mother's milk, while ordinary milk forms tough, solid curds, very indigestible.
The second beneficial change in unsweetened evaporated milk comes from the process called "homogenization". This process breaks up each fat globule into a thousand infinitely tiny ones, as fine as those in mother's milk. This also helps the baby's delicate stomach to digest its food more perfectly.

Contains Needed Vitamins
Unsweetened evaporated milk is fully equal, from every nutritional standpoint, to the best bottled milk. It contains all the vitamins that any milk is depended on to supply. Even breast-fed babies nowadays are given orange juice and cod-liver oil—the only supplements needed with evaporated milk.
This milk is a splendid source of the minerals necessary to the building of sturdy bones and strong regular teeth. Safety is another advantage. Sterilization destroys all bacteria, and the baby simply can't acquire any of those milk-borne infections that upset so many bottle-fed babies.
Naturally, it is advisable to use the best evaporated milk that can be had. The most widely known brand is Carnation, the milk from "contented cows". The care with which this milk is guarded at every step, from dairy farm to final sealing and sterilizing, is a guaranty to the mother that her baby will have the purest and best of milk.
The Carnation Baby-Feeding Chart contains valuable information on this interesting subject. Please write for it, but remember that only your own physician should prescribe a formula for your baby.
I should also like to send a copy of my cook book, "My Hundred Favorite Recipes". Both publications are free, and you may obtain them by writing to Carnation Co., Limited, 134 Abbott Street, Vancouver, B.C.

INSTALMENT XXXI

"What a — liar you are," said Socks without emotion.

"A liar? I? And the jewels brought over by airplane with my best friend as pilot. This is secret history I'm telling you, Socks. Will you ask Jimmy Theaiger there if you don't believe me. Not that I'd be putting any trust in what he'd say."

Is it true," said Socks, "that George Lomax came down without his false teeth? That's what I want to know."

A Subscription

"There were two revolvers," said Lady Cootie. "Nasty things. I saw them myself. It's a wonder this poor boy wasn't killed."

"Oh, I was born to be hanged," said Jimmy.

"I hear that there was a Russian Countess there of subtle beauty," said Socks. "And that she vamped Bill."

"Some of the things she said about Budapest were too dreadful," said Lady Cootie. "I shall never forget them. Oswald, we must send a subscription."

Sir Oswald grunted. "I'll make a note of it, Lady Cootie," said Rupert Bateman.

"Thank you, Mr. Bateman. I feel one ought to do something as a thank offering. I can't imagine how Sir Oswald escaped being shot—letting alone die of pneumonia."

"Don't be foolish, Maria," said Sir Oswald.

"I've always had a horror of cat burglars," said Lady Cootie.

"Think of having the luck to meet one face to face! How thrilling!" murmured Socks.

"Don't you believe it," said Jimmy. "It's damned painful." And he patted his right arm gingerly. "How is the poor arm?" inquired Lady Cootie.

"Oh, pretty well all right now. But it's been the most confounding nuisance having to do everything with the left hand. I'm no good whatever with it."

"Every child should be brought up to be ambidextrous," said Sir Oswald.

"Oh!" said Socks, somewhat out of her depth. "Is that like seals?" "Not amphibious," said Mr. Bateman. "Ambidextrous means using either hand equally well."

"Oh!" said Socks, looking at Sir Oswald with respect. "Can you?"

"Certainly; I can write with either hand."

"But not with both at once?" "That would not be practical," said Sir Oswald shortly.

"No," said Socks thoughtfully. "I suppose that would be a bit too subtle."

"It would be a grand thing now in a Government department," observed Mr. O'Rourke, "if one could keep the right hand from knowing what the left hand was doing."

"Can you use both hands?" "No, indeed. I'm the most right-handed person that ever was."

"But you deal cards with your left hand," said the observant Bateman. "I noticed that the other night."

"Oh, but that's different entirely," said Mr. O'Rourke easily.

After Midnight
A gong with a somber note pealed out and every one went upstairs to dress for dinner.

After dinner Sir Oswald and Lady Cootie, Mr. Bateman and Mr. O'Rourke played bridge and Jimmy passed a flirtatious evening with Socks. The last words Jimmy heard as he retreated up the staircase that night were Sir Oswald saying to his wife:

"You'll never make a bridge player, Maria."

And her reply: "I know, dear. So you always say. You owe Mr. O'Rourke another pound Oswald. That's right."

It was some two hours later that Jimmy went noiselessly (or so he hoped) down the stairs. He made one brief visit to the dining room and then found his way to Sir Oswald's study. There, after listening intently for a minute or two, he set to work. Most of the drawers of the desk were locked, but a curiously shaped bit of wire in Jimmy's hand soon saw to that. One by one the drawers yielded to his manipulations.

Drawer by drawer he sorted through methodically, being careful to replace everything in the same order. Once or twice he stopped to listen, fancying he heard some distant sound. But he remained undisturbed.

The last drawer was looked through. Jimmy now knew—or could have known had he been paying attention—many interesting details relating to steel; but he had found nothing of what he wanted—a reference to Herr Eberhard's invention or anything that could give him a clue to the identity of the mysterious No. 7.

He had, perhaps, hardly hoped that he would. It was an offence and he had taken it—but he had not expected much result—

FAINT, DIZZY SPELLS Had To Sleep Propped Up In Bed

Mrs. Norman Bishop, Salisbury, N.B., writes:—"I was troubled with faint and dizzy spells and when I would lie down I would suffer terribly with smothering spells. except by sheer luck.

He tested the drawers to make sure that he had unlocked them securely. He knew Rupert Bateman's powers of minute observation and glanced round the room to make sure that he had left no incriminating trace of his presence.

"That's that," he muttered to himself softly. "Nothing there. Well, perhaps I'll have better luck tomorrow morning—if the girls only play up."

He came out of the study, closing the door behind him and locking it. For a moment he thought he heard a sound quite near him but decided he had been mistaken. He felt his way noiselessly along the great hall. Just enough light came from the high vaulted windows to enable him to pick his way without stumbling into anything.

Again he heard a soft sound—he heard it quite certainly this time and without the possibility of making a mistake. He was not alone in the hall. Some one else was there, moving as stealthily as he was. His heart beat suddenly very fast.

With a sudden spring he jumped to the electric switch and turned on the lights. The sudden glare made him blink—but he saw plainly enough. Not four feet away stood Rupert Bateman.

COMMITTEE OF CHURCH

To Investigate Relations Between Church and State in Great Britain.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—The Church Assembly, by an overwhelmingly majority yesterday adopted a motion to investigate relations between the church and state in England. The vote was 382 to 105.

The motion declares this fundamental principle that the church should have the right to formulate its faith in dogma and arrange the expression of that faith in its form of worship.

Free Education For Children of Former Soldiers

VICTORIA, Feb. 6.—The government plans to assist education of ex-soldiers' dependent children provide for the expenditure of $12,000 this year and for educational care of from 75 to 100 students. Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, minister of education, explained in the legislature when the bill was considered in committee. He told the house that the scheme was purely selective. It was not the intention to give scholarships to every child of every soldier but merely to choose a limited number, basing the selection upon the academic promise of the child.

A Valuable Buying Guide

BEFORE you order dinner at a restaurant, you consult the bill-of-fare. Before you take a long trip by motor-car, you pore over road maps. Before you start out on a shopping trip, you should consult the advertisements in this paper. For the same reasons!

The advertising columns are a buying guide to you in the purchase of everything you need—including amusements! A guide that saves your time and conserves your energy; that saves useless steps and guards against false ones; that puts the s-t-r-e-t-c-h in family budgets.

The advertisements in this paper are so interesting, it is difficult to see how anyone could overlook them . . . fail to profit by them. Just check with yourself and be sure that you are reading the advertisements regularly—the big ones and the little ones. It is time well spent . . . always.

For example, read the grocery store "ads" this week.

Avoid time-wasting, money-wasting, detours on the road to Merchandise value. Read the advertising "road maps."

Debate On Law Enforcement in Connection With Share Trading
Feature Coming Session

TORONTO, Feb. 6.—With an imposing Conservative majority as a result of the provincial general elections Oct. 30 last, the first session of the eighteenth Ontario legislature opened yesterday. Into the remodelled chamber at Queen's Park Premier G. H. Ferguson leads a contingent of 91 members, against a total opposition of 21.

Considerable legislation has been planned and with the prospects of a working majority of 70 in a house of 112, the Ferguson government has gone quietly ahead preparing its 1930 legislative program.

But a disturbing element has arisen and promises to upset the serenity of the present session. It has come on the heels of the stock market crash and has grown in intensity as arrests have followed charges of irregular operations of stock brokerage houses. The situation has become Dominion-wide and in several instances official provincial cognizance has been taken. Investigations have been set in motion and are proceeding.

With this development creeping into the political field, the Ferguson government in Ontario finds itself the target of a small but militant Liberal minority. With charges of laxity in law enforcement leveled against the Conservative government by W. E. N. Sinclair, there is every indication that the repercussion from the stock market will be subjected to a generous airing on the floor of the legislative assembly.

Speaking from a public platform in Waterloo, Ont., Mr. Sinclair charged Hon. W. F. Price, attorney-general, with failure to make use of the powers vested in him. He spoke of conditions in the brokerage field and losses suffered by the public through the machinations of unscrupulous operators, citing an instance of one unnamed Toronto house which he charged had "bucketed" nearly 70 per cent of its clients' orders. The Liberal leader called for a royal commission to investigate affairs in this province, and, failing that, the resignation of the attorney-general.

Three hours before Mr. Sinclair's speech in Waterloo, the attorney-general's department caused the arrest of a Toronto broker on a charge of conspiracy to defraud. Colonel Price would not at that time say whether further arrests were contemplated, but announced his department would conduct a thorough investigation, at the same time declaring there was no necessity for a royal commission.

Of considerable importance in the expected legislative program of Premier Ferguson is his policy of continued development for Northern Ontario. The extension of the government-owned Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway northerly to Moose Factory, on James Bay, is planned. Development of the lignite fields in the north is also receiving attention. Legislation pertaining to rural schools and hydro may also be found in the government's program. There is speculation in regard to possible changes in provincial taxation.

So far as the Liquor Control Act is concerned, no major change is anticipated. The mandate of the voters in the last election is considered definite. Within the month preceding the opening of the session the premier informed a labor deputation he was not in favor of the suggestion that legislation permitting sale of beer by the glass be introduced.

Parties in Legislature

The government's numerical strength in the new legislature is a formidable one. Against the 91 Conservatives there are the opposition groups of 15 Liberals, four Progressives, and one Labor and one United Farmer. Included in the 91 Conservatives is one Independent Conservative, while three Liberal-Progressives are included in the Liberal ranks. H. C. Nixon, M.L.A. for Brant, will lead the Progressive group in place of J. G. Lethbridge, who lost his seat for Middlesex West in the general election.

In the October elections the Conservatives increased their membership from 75 to 91. The Liberals dropped from 20 to 12, the Progressives from 11 to 4, and the United Farmers from 3 to 1. There were three vacancies at the time of dissolution of the last house. Forty-two new faces will make their appearance in the 1930 session. Thirty-three of them are Conservatives, eight Liberals and one Labor. Fifty-

Moose Officers Were Installed

Gillis Royer and Joe Slaggard Officiated at Ceremonies Last Night

Installation of officers of the local Moose Lodge took place last night after the regular meeting with members and friends in attendance. Past Dictator Gillis Royer was installing officer and Post Dictator Joe Slaggard acted as supreme sergeant-at-arms.

The list of officers for 1930 is as follows:

Junior past dictator—E. M. Simpson.
Dictator—D. C. Schubert.
Vice dictator—W. B. McCallum.
Prelate—Joe Hatchford.
Sergeant-at-arms—Oscar Sather.
Assistant sergeant-at-arms—R. Long.
Outer guard—George Brochu Jr.
Inner guard—Walter Howarth.
Secretary—Percy Cameron.
Treasurer—Ted Rovik.
Orator—Dr. R. E. Eyoilsson.
Musician—W. Beaumont.
Bugler—Fred Hardy.
Electrician—A. Ohnesorg.
Trustees—J. L. Blain, J. M. Morrison, Sam Haudenschield.

Following the installation supper was served and dancing was enjoyed until 1:30.

The Premier orchestra supplied snappy music and Mrs. P. J. Ryan was caterer.

There was a fairly good crowd on hand.

eight of the old members of the Conservative ranks return, seven Liberals, four Progressives and one U. F. O.

Former members will find that their chamber itself has been changed since the last session. Reconstruction has been going on with an outstanding feature the rearrangement in seating accommodation. Instead of the rectangular layout the new seats sweep out in a great circle from a point near the speaker's chair. The arrangement, with other changes, is expected to improve the acoustic properties of the house.

T. A. Kidd, member for Kingston, will be speaker in the new legislature.
