Booze Export Premises To Be Abolished After June 11, Report Says

Most Drastic Action Since Inauguration of Government Control to Be Introduced At Present Legislative Session

VICTORIA, Jan. 29.—All liquor export warehouses in British Columbia will be abolished on June 11 next under legislation to be introduced by the provincial government at the present session of the legislature, Premier S. F. Tolmie announced yesterday afternoon. The action is the most important taken to control the liquor situation in the province since the inauguration of the system of government control in 1921. It was decided upon by the provincial cabinet following the decision of the federal government to cancel customs bonds on these warehouses as at June 11.

Premier Tolmie said: "We believe that a very large quantity which legally could be exported only has been moved from these warehouses into British Columbia and bootlegged."

NOT DOMINION WAREHOUSES

OTTAWA, Jan. 29.—The liquor warehouses to be abolished in British Columbia by the provincial legislature are not the type under control of the Dominion authorities—the warehouses containing liquor of Canadian manufacture on which all Dominion taxes have been paid at the distillery and which are stored in preparation for export.

CANADIENS WON GAME

Defeated Maroons in National Hockey; Other Games Last Night

MONTREAL, Jan. 29.—Penalties weakened the Montreal Maroons at a crucial period in last night's National League hockey game and the Canadiens grabbed their first victory of the season from them.

After sixty-five minutes of even play at New York, the Rangers were given the winning goal against the Americans when Simpson, American defence man, threw his stick to halt Keeling's rush.

On their own ice the Boston Bruins played ragged hockey but easily defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates in the dulllest game of the season.

At Ottawa, Chicago used greater numerical playing strength to advantage to earn a well-earned victory over the Senators.

Last night's scores were: Chicago 2, Ottawa 1. Canadiens 3, Montreal Maroons 2. New York Rangers 4, New York Americans 3 (overtime). Pittsburgh 0, Boston 6.

THOMAS HOPEFUL

Increased Trade With Canada May Relieve British Unemployment Situation

LONDON, Jan. 29.—Facing a barrage of questions directed at his efforts to reduce the volume of unemployment, Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Lord Privy Seal, expressed the hope in Parliament yesterday that there would be a substantial increase in trade between Canada and Great Britain. He also indicated that the Canadian demand for anthracite coal was greater than the British collieries could fill at present and declared that negotiations were taking place concerning the shipment of coal.

The minister further said that he would probably meet representatives of the Canadian Wheat Pool today to discuss regulation of grain imports which had an important effect upon the question of ship cargoes from Britain.

Running considerably late, C. P. R. steamer Princess Mary, Capt. C. C. Saintry, left Juneau at 1 o'clock this morning so will not be here en route to Vancouver and Victoria until tomorrow morning at the earliest.

Rich Deposits in Central Interior Discussed by F. S. Taggart

DEVELOPMENT PLANS

WINNIPEG, Jan. 29.—Coal deposits in Central British Columbia at Telkwa and Copper River, within a couple of hundred miles of Prince Rupert on the Pacific coast, amount to at least 460,000,000 tons, says Frank S. Taggart of London, England, representative of British capitalists, who has passed through on his way to England after a visit to mining properties in the West.

English interests, according to Mr. Taggart, are interested in the development of this region in British Columbia and have already instituted preliminary surveys for a railroad between Telkwa and Vanarsdol. This road would go from one point on the Canadian National Railways to another, cutting through the centre of the rich coal country.

Pending the building of the railroad, collieries at Telkwa are being pushed and an electrical plant is being installed to generate power for the Babine-Duthie mines. It will also supply power to the towns of Telkwa and Smithers. Mr. Taggart adds that undertakings are being considered to secure bunkers and terminal facilities at Vancouver and Prince Rupert.

Provincial Government Urged To Withhold Enforcement of Fishery Rules Until Probed

VANCOUVER, Jan. 29.—A central committee with power to act for all locals of the British Columbia Fishermen's Protective Association, the West Coast Fishermen's Association, the Northern B. C. Salmon Fishermen's Association, the United Fishermen's Co-operative Association, the B. C. Fisheries Co-operative Association, and all Japanese fishermen's organizations have sent the following wire to Premier S. F. Tolmie: "Representing twelve thousand fishermen, we demand that no action be taken to enforce the new fisheries regulations without further investigation."

Kenneth Richardson, secretary, states that the regulations would force independent fishermen to abandon their boats and would operate to the detriment of fishermen's co-operative organizations planning to build canneries of their own. The fishermen claim that the regulations would place them at the mercy of the canners.

Peace Outlet Cards Mailed Large Numbers

The Peace River Outlet Committee has had two thousand cards printed showing the Peace River to Prince Rupert map on one side and on the other the following legend:

"A Direct Outlet For the Peace River Country"

"The people of Peace River are demanding an outlet by the most direct route to the Pacific Ocean. The logical route leads to Prince Rupert, 'The Key to the Orient.' A study of the map on reverse side will show why Peace River people are claiming Prince Rupert as the logical outlet for their country."

"Peace River is the finest grain country in the Dominion and is developing very rapidly. It is so important that transportation can no longer be denied it."

"We ask that you use your influence to secure the building of the Peace River Railway through the best part of Northern British Columbia to the nearest and best port—Prince Rupert."

"PRINCE RUPERT-PEACE RIVER OUTLET ASSOCIATION."

"Aid, Theo. Collart, President."

These cards are being mailed away to people who might be in a position to help and should prove valuable advertising for the city.

CANNERY IS DESTROYED

Disastrous Fire Early This Morning at Bella Coola; B. C. Packers' Plant Lost

BELLA COOLA, Jan. 29.—Fire from an unknown cause broke out at 1:30 this morning and completely destroyed the B. C. Fishing & Packing Co.'s cannery. A strong wind fanned the flames.

Edward Wick, watchman, and his wife narrowly escaped death when they were forced to leave their home with everything behind. Mrs. Wick received burns necessitating removal to hospital.

The amount of damage is not definitely known as many private gasboats and nets were stored in the cannery building as well as 70 cannery boats and a great number of nets.

The cannery was built in 1900 by John Clayton.

DAILY EDITION Wednesday, Jan. 29, 1930

THE LEGISLATIVE SESSION

The Legislature is now in session and the policy of the Government has been announced in the usual brief manner through the speech from the throne. According to it, there will be legislation introduced dealing with the licensing of stockbrokers, the licensing of fish canneries, the formation of a liquor commission and a few minor matters. These are not important and outside of the new fisheries law have not much interest for northern B. C. people. What would be interesting to know would be whether the Government has any new policy in regard to the Peace River outlet and the building of a line through the northern section of the province. Also it would be interesting to know if they are taking any steps to head off the move to build the outlet through Alberta instead of British Columbia and to protect the people of the Peace River Block by giving them the shortest and best outlet to the sea by the direct west route.

The other matter that interests northern and central British Columbia is the provision being made for the completion of the highway from Prince Rupert to connect with the Central B. C. highway giving the city of Prince Rupert a means of getting out with their cars and the farmers and others a chance of coming in with their produce.

USING THE WHIP

It smacks too much of Russia, this idea of having to use the whip on rioters in the city of Vancouver. While we have no patience with the agitators who use the fact that a few people are unemployed to stir up trouble and rouse the people to riot, we also look upon the use of the whip on such an occasion as a sign of weakness. If the matter had been turned over to the Dominion authorities they would have handled it differently. A little more individual work and not so much display of force would have been more effective. Also an attempt to find work for the men and see that the leaders take it as well as the rank and file would have helped matters.

Full Speed Ahead Soon

Many people do not realize that the Northern Power Company, a subsidiary of the Power Corporation of Canada, is really constructing a large hydro-electric plant to serve the city of Prince Rupert and adjoining territory. The site for the plant is being prepared and the right-of-way for the high-power lines connecting Big Falls on the Ecstall River with the city is being cleared and that during September next it is expected to turn on the power from the first unit.

What does this mean to Prince Rupert? It means that the largest power corporation of Canada has faith in the future of the city and district and already sees a market for its product.

Under the impetus of the new movement, Prince Rupert will grow. Industries will be developed and all will feel the benefit.

Prince Rupert people must prepare for the change. New buildings will be necessary. If there are no vacant houses in the city today, what will be the condition when people begin to come in?

The Daily News is alive to the situation and is laying its plans. Others must do the same if they are to keep pace with the new Prince Rupert.

NO ICE IN SKEENA
 Port Essington, Jan. 28, 1930
 Editor, Daily News:—

In the "Waterfront Whiffs" of the Daily News of 25th inst. there is an article concerning ice conditions on the Skeena River and its tributary the Ecstall River which is most misleading and which might cause great worry to those who might have friends working in this vicinity, as a matter of fact the "Billmor" has not been stuck fast in the ice about three miles from Port Essington but she got all the way up the Ecstall to the entrance of Falls River and delivered the men and cargo which she had on board and is surrounded with ice there.

We at Port Essington have not at any time been unable to get out as the ferry was making daily trips and always on time, regardless of the stage of the tide. Conditions have been much worse as far as ice is concerned in other years because we have not had real cold at any time this winter. I am asking you to print this in order to relieve the minds of those who may be worrying and also to contradict the vapourings of some "Checcaco" who might be better engaged in some other occupation.

JAMES A. BROWN.

Port Essington Jan. 28, 1930
 Editor, Daily News:—

The items which have been published in your paper lately regarding ice conditions in the Skeena River are very misleading. These articles were probably the cause of the ss. Venture not calling at Port Essington the last week-end. Although this vessel has called regular under far worse conditions than existed last week. At high tide the river was absolutely free of ice. Regarding the ferry service between Port Essington and Haysport this service has been maintained daily and has met all trains on schedule.

The ice conditions at the mouth of the Skeena are greatly exaggerated in your articles. An item published regarding the ss. Chilwack refusing to load logs for New Westminster, owing to the ice conditions in the Fraser River. The same day this boat was in the Skeena and loaded salmon at Haysport Cannery. In reference to the Power Corporation launch, Billmor, I wish to state that this launch is frozen in about fifteen miles up the Ecstall River within a mile of Falls Creek where the river is shallow.

But as far as the Skeena is navigable to steamships the conditions mentioned in your paper do not exist.

J. M. SMITH.

SUPERIORITY?

Editor, Daily News:—
 Re: Your Editorial, "Sign of Inferiority."

I would like to know what "Signs of Inferiority" are? I know that no one would try to stop me feeding my family rice three times a day, but I do not think the baker, butcher and grocer, would think me superior for doing so.

I do not get around town possibly as much as a reporter, but can see a large number of Prince Rupert's citizens buying goods from our Chinese storekeepers, such as bread and groceries that the Chinaman does not use himself; but I never see a Chinese coming out of a local store that is not run by one of themselves.

Take the turnover of one local Chinese store, and I doubt if 20% of his turnover is Chinese business, but wherever possible, he makes his purchases through a Chinese wholesaler.

We, as a nation, are supposed to be advancing. Could we advance by putting ourselves to the standards of Chinese living (or existence)?

Wrestling Match Broadcast Heard From Chicago

Radio fans who got Chicago last night heard part of the wrestling match between Strangler Lewis and George McLeod, but there was a fade-out before the end and it was impossible to tell who won.

In the second round McLeod threw Lewis out of the ring through the ropes amid the tremendous cheering and howls of the huge concourse of fans and he failed to come back, that round going to McLeod. Apparently the match was very exciting and the broadcast of the parts that could be heard was very interesting.

INSTALLMENT XXVI

"He'll take a lot of catching, he will," said the superintendent easily.

His failure in that respect did not appear to rankle with him. George Lomax did not look particularly well pleased. He detected levity of any kind.

"I've got everything taped out pretty clearly," went on the detective.

He took up two objects from the table.

"Here we've got the two bullets. The largest is a .455, fired from Mr. Thesiger's Colt automatic.

Grazed the window sash and I found it embedded in the trunk of that cedar tree. This little fellow was fired from the Mauser .25. After passing through Mr. Thesiger's arm, it embedded itself in his armchair here. As for the pistol itself—"

Man Wore Gloves

"Well?" said Sir Oswald eagerly.

"Any fingerprints?"

Battle shook his head.

"The man who handled it wore gloves," he said slowly.

"A pity," said Sir Oswald.

"A man who knew his business would wear gloves. Am I right in thinking, Sir Oswald, that you found this pistol just about 20 yards from the bottom of the steps leading up to the terrace?"

Sir Oswald stepped to the window.

"Yes, almost exactly. I should say."

"I don't want to find fault but it would have been wiser on your part, sir, to leave it exactly as you found it."

"I am sorry," said Sir Oswald, stiffly.

"Oh, it doesn't matter. I've been able to reconstruct things. There were your footprints, you see, leading up from the bottom of the garden, and a place where you had obviously stopped and stooped down, and a kind of dent in the grass which was highly suggestive. By the way, what was your theory of the pistol being there?"

"I presumed that it had been dropped by the man in his flight."

Battle shook his head.

"Not dropped, Sir Oswald. There are two points against that. To begin with, there is only one set of footprints crossing the lawn just there—your own."

"I see," said Sir Oswald thoughtfully.

"Can you be sure of that, Battle?" put in George.

"Quite sure, sir. There is one other set of tracks crossing the lawn, Miss Wade's but they are a good deal farther to the left."

He paused, and then went on: "And there's the dent in the ground. The pistol must have struck the ground with some force. It all points to its having been thrown."

"Well, why not?" said Sir Oswald. "Say the man fled down the path to the left. He'd leave no footprints on the path and he'd hurl the pistol away from him into the middle of the lawn, eh, George?"

George agreed by a nod of the head.

"It's true that he'd leave no footprints on the path," said Battle, "but from the shape of the dent and the way the turf was cut, I don't think the pistol was thrown from that direction. I think it was thrown from the terrace here."

"Very likely," said Sir Oswald. "Does it matter, Superintendent?"

"Ah, yes, Battle," broke in Lomax. "Is it—er—strictly relevant?"

"Perhaps not, Mr. Lomax. But we like to get things just so, you know. I wonder now if one of you gentlemen would take this pistol and throw it. Will you, Sir Oswald? That's very kind. Stand just here in the window. Now fling it into the middle of the lawn."

Same Kind of Mark

Sir Oswald complied, sending the pistol flying through the air with a powerful sweep of his arm. Jimmy Thesiger drew near with breathless interest. The superintendent lumbered off after it like a well-trained retriever. He re-appeared with a beaming face.

"That's it, sir. Just the same kind of mark. Although, by the way, you sent it a good ten yards farther. But then, you're a very powerful built man, aren't you, Sir Oswald? Excuse me, I thought I heard some one at the door."

The superintendent's ears must have been very much sharper than any one else's. Nobody else had heard a sound, but Battle was proved right, for Lady Coote stood outside, a medicine glass in her hand.

"Your medicine, Oswald," she said, advancing into the room.

"You forgot it after breakfast."

"I'm very busy, Maria," said Sir Oswald. "I don't want my medicine."

"You would never take it if it weren't for me," said his wife serenely, advancing upon him. "You are just like a naughty little boy. Drink it up now."

And meekly, obediently, the great steel magnate drank it up!

Lady Coote smiled sadly and sweetly at every one.

"Am I interrupting you? Are you very busy? Oh, look at those revolvers. Nasty, noisy, murderous things. To think Oswald, that you might have been shot by the burglar last night."

"You must have been alarmed when you found he was missing, Lady Coote," said Battle.

"I didn't think of it at first," confessed Lady Coote. "This poor boy here"—she indicated Jimmy—"being shot—and everything so dreadful, but so exciting. It wasn't till Mr. Bateman asked me where Sir Oswald was that I remembered he'd gone out half an hour before for a stroll."

"Sleepless, eh, Sir Oswald?" asked Battle.

"I am usually an excellent sleeper," said Sir Oswald. "But I must confess that last night I felt unusually restless. I thought the night air would do me good."

"You came out through the window, I suppose?"

Was it his fancy, or did Sir Oswald hesitate for a moment before replying?

"Yes."

"In your pumps, too," said Lady Coote, "instead of putting thick shoes on. What would you do without me to look after you?"

She shook her head sadly.

"I think, Maria—if you don't mind leaving us—we have still a lot to discuss."

"I know dear, I'm just going."

Lady Coote withdrew carrying the empty medicine glass as though it were a goblet out of which she had just administered a death potion.

"Well, Battle," said George Lomax, "it all seems clear enough. Yes, perfectly clear. The man fires a shot, disabling Mr. Thesiger, flings away the weapon, runs along the terrace and down the gravel path."

"Where he ought to have been caught by my men," put in Battle.

"Your men, if I may say so, Battle, seem to have been singularly remiss. They didn't see Miss Wade come in. If they could miss her coming in, they could easily miss the thief going out."

A Champion Runner

Superintendent Battle opened his mouth to speak, then seemed to think better of it. Jimmy Thesiger looked at him curiously. He would have given a lot to know just what was in Superintendent Battle's mind.

"Must have been a champion runner," was all the Scotland Yard man contented himself with saying.

"How do you mean, Battle?"

"Just what I say, Mr. Lomax. I was round the corner of the terrace myself not 50 seconds after the shot was fired. And for a man to run all that distance toward me and get round the corner of the path before I appeared round the side of the house—well, as I say, he must have been a champion runner."

"I am at a loss to understand you, Battle. You have some idea of your own which I have not yet—er—grasped. You say the man did not go across the lawn and now you hint—What exactly do you hint? That the man did not go down the path? Then in your opinion—er—where did he go?"

For answer Superintendent Battle jerked an eloquent thumb upward.

"Eh?" said George.

The superintendent jerked harder than ever. George raised his head and looked at the ceiling.

WHY SUFFER FROM YOUR LIVER?

Why be handicapped with unsightly

They also act as a mild laxative,

CROWDS AT BIG SALE

New Chief for Canadian National S. S. On Coast

Many Get Bargains at Denny Allen
Event This Morning

The Denny Allen store, where a clearance half-price sale is being held, was crowded this morning and the goods went off rapidly. A number of clerks were kept busy all the time and John Bulger, who is conducting the sale, was unable to return to his jewellery store owing to the pressure of the many customers who had to be served.
Customers were well pleased with the bargains they secured and as the word is being passed around even larger numbers are expected this afternoon.

The sale will continue daily until the stock is all sold. There are yet large numbers of ridiculously cheap articles all marked down to such an extent that they are almost a gift. (Advt.)

VANCOUVER, Jan. 29.—Commander A. H. M. Nicholls of London, England, arrived in the city today to assume the duty of marine superintendent, Canadian National Railways, with headquarters at Vancouver. He takes over the position formerly occupied by Capt.
W. Wright, who has been appointed to a similar position in Sydney, Australia. Captain Wright sails for Sydney on the Aorangi on February 8.

This is Commander Nicholls' second visit to Vancouver and the Pacific coast but the two visits are far apart. As a young sailor he arrived in Vancouver in 1898 as a member of the crew of the sailing ship Clan Galbraith. He sailed from Greenwich along with a cargo of cement for San Diego. Later they made their way up the coast to Victoria, where they received orders to put in to the port of Vancouver. "Thirty years is a long time to look back," said Commander Nicholls on his arrival in Vancouver. "However, I well remember our boat being tied up at the old Hastings mill. There was very little development in the harbor in those days, and, as I recall it, there was an Indian reservation just across the harbor close to what is now North Vancouver. In a way the development is not entirely new, as I have kept in fairly close touch with the port expansion by government and news reports.
Neither am I surprised at its existence have such a sound and brilliant future as has the port of Vancouver. Before leaving the Old Country I was in close touch with the construction of the new steamships which will be placed in Canadian National coastal service this summer. They are the last word in construction, and I am sure the travelling public will be completely satisfied, as they supply every imaginable comfort."

Commander Nicholls, who has served many years in the North Atlantic and Baltic, and who has a distinguished record in the service of his country during the war, will take over his duties in Vancouver at once.

A permanent garrison is to be maintained in Mexico City which will embrace 10,000 men of all arms.

SAY! I DIDN'T GET MY PAPER TO-DAY!
MATTER?

"HELLO! Circulation Department? Why didn't we get our paper today? Can't you see to it that I get my paper every day?----Well----all right----but it certainly upsets things when you miss us---even if it is only once."

"Even if it is only once"---and that expresses in a nutshell the unique place which daily newspapers occupy in the everyday life of the 2,112,605 Canadian families who read them. They demand their paper regularly every publishing day of the year---and they get it. Very rarely is a paper missed---so efficient is daily newspaper distribution.

To these families---and they occupy most of the homes of Canada---there is no substitute for their favourite daily newspaper.

In its pages each day is unfolded the ever-changing panorama of happenings that grips their interest.

It tells of the world's joys---and oft-times its sorrows.

It announces the arrival of the life just born---and the passing of old and esteemed citizens.

It records what takes place in church, in home, in business, in society, in sport and in politics. From nearby suburbs to the ends of the earth it gleans all that is new. Nothing else can even begin to take its place.

And this is why daily newspaper advertising pays so well. Daily newspapers enjoy an intensity of reader interest that applies to no other medium. They are part and parcel of the daily life of practically everyone in Canada --- irrespective of income or social standing.

And just as they excel every other medium in the service they render their readers, so, without doubt, do they produce greater results for the advertiser in return for the money expended.

Man in the Moon

It's much quicker and easier to marry a widow than to build a fortune yourself.

This is no time of year for putting the furnace on a diet.

It's great to be fat. Just see how much more of the body has a good time when it laughs.

A local man when asked what he was doing replied nonchalantly: "Nothing. I have a government job."

Jake says this peace propaganda is all rot. A man might as well be shot as taxed to death.

Love without money is like food without salt.

A fool woman is one who believes all a fool man says when he is foolishly in love.

A Liberal is a man who thinks his party is right even if they cannot even find him a job. A Conservative is a man who does not believe in anything particular and refuses to change his opinion.

An ounce of good sense is worth a ton of learning.

Show me the man who pays his bills and I will easily point to a man who is happy and contented. I refer to the person who gets the cash.

The legislative mills are grinding at Victoria. What we all hope is that there will be a little grist for the Prince Rupert district.

The mills of the Gods grind slowly. But surely they turn out grist. But the talkiest mill at Victoria. Gives only a slap on the wrist.

What Prince Rupert is waiting for is that highway policy announcement.

Let us have faith in our government.

Until they have proven untrue. If they don't come through this time, sir.

Their foolishness they'll rue.

SMELTERS' BIG OUTPUT

Amounted To Over $32,000,000 During Year Just Past

A preliminary estimate of the value of the output of the plants of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. of Canada for the year 1929 has been placed at over $32,000,000. This is an increase of over $25,500,000 from the value of this company's output in 1921, which amounted to $6,836,420, although nearly three millions less than 1928's record production.

Lead leads the list both as to quantity and value with an estimated production of 309,000,000 lbs. valued at $15,315,000. A new record for production was established in 1928 and at the beginning of 1929 the indications were that this would again be surpassed, but due to an easing up in production, 1929's total was nearly 19,000,000 lbs. less than the preceding year.

The output of zinc was up, although the value of the output, due to a decline in the price of this metal was less. One hundred and eighty four million, three hundred and ninety thousand pounds were produced at a value of $10,141,450.

Copper Fell Off
The noticeable decline in copper production was due to the withdrawal of the Granby output, which resulted in a closing down of the copper smelter and refinery. Negotiations recently completed, however, has resulted in a routing of the Granby concentrates to the company's smelter again. The gold output also fell off in consequence of the withdrawal of the copper supply, the gold values being contained in the copper ores.

Cadmium, marketed in quantity for the first time in 1928, produced three-quarters of a million pounds of metal worth $1 a pound, and bismuth for the first time took its place in the Trail list of commercial metals, over $300,000 worth being produced.

The market position of lead was improved somewhat and the metal gained around £2 on the per ton price of around £21 in 1928.

Zinc, on the other hand, continued its decline of recent years, but at a lessened rate, having lost less than £1 from the 1928 average of £25-odd.

Silver more than lost in 1929 the appreciation of 1928.

Production of other metals in order of value were: silver, copper, cadmium, bismuth and gold.

Future of Bear River District

Government Engineer Thinks Marmot River Area Will Produce Bulk of High-Grade Ore

The future of the Bear River area can be considered under two headings: (1) future of deposits under development; and, (2), future from the point of view of undiscovered deposits, says a report of Dr. George Hanson of the Federal Geological Survey.

The future of the known deposits pertains to the extraction of the present ore-bodies and to the proving of greater tonnages. From the known properties it would seem that the Marmot River part of the area, though considerably smaller than the Bear River part, will produce the bulk of the high-grade ore. The lower grade deposits, however, seem more promising in the Bear River part. As for undiscovered mineral deposits, little can be said, except that both parts of the area warrant thorough prospecting.

It is impossible to tell what places are most favorable for prospecting as the origin of the ores is not fully understood. The known deposits, however, provide some information that may assist in the discovery of other deposits.

LAST LONE WINTER OF NORTH PORT

Churchill, Almost Deserted Once More, Will Awaken in Spring to Influx of Workers

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 29:—Churchill is in the chill midst of its last lone winter. Except for some 30 men—and a single woman—every resident at the government-owned bay port has moved out to the south. The last scheduled Muskeg Limited puffed down to The Pas in early December and now the mail is "mushed in" twice a month by dog team from Gilliam at Mile 327.

Ice-locked, the 250-year-old harbor is deserted until next spring.

A skeleton force at Churchill is retained by the Hudson Bay Railway, which completed the first laying of steel to the harbor 511 miles northeast of The Pas last March, and by the Department of Railways and Canals. But all railway construction and dock labor is at an end for several months. Three men remain at the government radio post, and one at the telegraph office; the Hudson's Bay Company telegraph post continues its work; and Rev. H. A. Gibson and his wife reside at the Anglican Mission.

Otherwise the settlement at the mouth of the Churchill River, where 1500 men toiled last summer, is abandoned to the chill winds lashing down from the sea.

In all probability, however, the bay port of the west will never know another so lifeless stretch between autumn and spring. It is certain that the opening of the settlement to the public, planned for next spring, will mark the beginning of a record of at least partially permanent residence at Churchill. Undoubtedly, ingress to the end of the Hudson Bay Railway steel will be closely scanned by the Dominion government; but a new town will begin to take form when the way is opened to prospective settlers.

The fact that harbor construction work is not expected to reach completion until some time in 1931 will not prevent a hurried surge of new citizens to Churchill. As yet, under government ruling, three banking establishments alone have marked the arrival of commerce; numerous applications, however, for permission to set up establishments which might flourish on the trade of hundreds of residents busy at the harbor, have been received.

Divers considerations, no doubt, have influenced the government in the decision to supervise closely the settlement's early civic development. Housing accommodation at present is sufficient only for those busied at railway and harbor work; and, under existing conditions, water supply and sewage problems yield to but temporary solution. When Churchill assumes the status of a town, it is expected that these difficulties will have been solved.

Gardens Non-Existent
Moreover, new citizens of Churchill must remember that backyard gardens are non-existent on the barren land about the bay harbor. Fish may run plenty in the river; foxes and other game may roam the frozen muskeg stretches; but staple vegetables must be imported into Churchill. Radishes, lettuce and potatoes actually were grown at the port last summer, and they looked good; but they had imbibed no taste from the barren soil. A flower-lower planted hardy pansies and the stems pushed two and one-half inches above ground; but there they stopped, without a bloom.

As a harbor, nevertheless, Churchill has not been slighted by nature. Before it empties into the bay, Churchill River swells in the shape of an oval bottle with its neck to the sea—a ready-made port. Besides, projecting headland and an island shelter the opening so that storms have little effect on the inner harbor, enclosed as it is by rocky cliffs which rise in some cases to a height of 70 feet.

Along one side of the Churchill River runs the Hudson Bay Railway, reaching almost to the tip of a narrow point projecting out into the bay. It is at the base of this point, formed of rugged rock ridged by the years, that the townsite no doubt will be located; and it is on this side of the river that the government is constructing its harbor works.

Six miles in length, the harbor at Churchill varies in width according to the tide. Its low tide breadth runs from one mile to two; at high tide, the haven is about three miles across at its broadest. Low water width of the harbor entrance is almost one-third of a mile, of which 750 feet has been
