SNOWDEN DENOUNCES BENNETT PLAN

BRITAIN INTENDS TO RETAIN MANDATE OVER PALESTINE

British Chancellor Reiterates His Opposition Against Tax of Any Kind on Food and Materials

No Doubt Now As to Stand of Labor Government On Canada's Proposals—Conservatives Alone Will Support Preference

MANCHESTER, Eng., Oct. 21.—If there were doubts as to the attitude Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, would take on Empire preference proposals of Premier Bennett of Canada, they were removed last night in a speech here. Snowden denounced protective tariffs and pointed out that Imperial Preference could not be carried out without a tax on foreign food products entering Britain.

FISH ARE NOT GOOD

No Commercial Species in Fisheries of Hudson Bay, It Is Found

OTTAWA, Oct. 21.—There are no commercial fish in Hudson Bay. This is the finding of the Hudson Bay fisheries expedition sent out last July which returned a month ago.

In 22 days of actual fishing operations, using trawls, nets and lines, not a single commercial fish was taken. This dispels visions of the creation of a fish industry there.

ANOTHER ROMAN CITY UNCOVERED NEAR ALGIERS

ALGIERS, Algeria, Oct. 21.—Another Roman city rivaling in importance and in beauty Timagad, the African Pompeii discovered in 1875, is being uncovered in the department of Constantine at Lambese a short distance from Batna.

The ruins cover 133 acres and have a forum which spreads out over 21,500 square feet. The Timagad ruins cover but 99 acres. The Lambese city, founded by veterans of Augustus' third legion who were stationed in the region, contains two triumphal arches well preserved and two large necropolises with ornamental monuments for the dead.

MRS. EXLEY WINNER OF $100 CASH PRIZE

Holding ticket No. 14,033 which was handed out by the LaCasse Bakery, Mrs. J. W. Exley is the winner of the $100 cash prize given in connection with the observance of Prosperity Week. Mrs. Alfred Wilson having taken second prize of $50, there now remains to be claimed only the $25 third prize for which the first number drawn was 31,777.

ence could not be carried out without a tax on foreign food products entering Britain. The question being discussed is how far Snowden will influence the rest of the British cabinet.

"Premier Bennett has put forward his plan pure and simple," the chancellor said. "He will not reduce duties imposed by Canada upon British manufactures and these are already in many instances very high. He will not reduce these duties a single penny. But, if we will put a duty on foreign wheat competing against Canadian wheat, then he will raise the duties against the foreigner three or four points. The policy of our government on this question was clearly stated in the House of Commons last session. We said we would be anxious to do everything practicable to foster and encourage intra-Imperial trade but we would not support any proposal involving the taxation of food and raw materials or a general protectionist policy. That still remains the attitude of the government."

Snowden's speech generally confirmed a growing feeling that the Conservatives will stand alone on an Imperial preference policy among the parties of Great Britain.

LAST HOP OF SEASON

"Punch" Dickens and Lew Parmenter Making Flight Including Stop in Northern B.C.

Hazardous Trip

Machine Equipped With Pontoons Although Inland Lakes Are Beginning to Freeze

McMURRAY, Alta., Oct. 21.—C. I. "Punch" Dickens and his mechanic, Lew Parmenter, pioneer fliers of the north, hopped off from here last week on their last long flight of the season into the vast northern hinterland.

This flight will be a hazardous one insofar as the fliers left McMurray on pontoons at a time when all northern waters are freezing up but they were quite sanguine regarding the ultimate results of the flight, stating that they expected to be back in Edmonton within a few days.

The course of the flight was to be down the Athabasca River, touching at Fort Chipewyan and Fort Fitzgerald, down the Slave River to Fort Resolution, across Great Slave Lake, down the Mackenzie River to Fort Simpson, thence up the Liard River to Fort Nelson, B.C., back again across the border to Peace River and down to Cooking Lake where Walter Gilbert, another famous flier of the Western Canada Airways, awaited the aviator's arrival.

Both pilots were then to ferry their ships to Winnipeg where the machines would undergo a thorough overhauling, at the same time having their pontoons changed to skis preparatory to the continuation of their winter flights in the northland.

Dickens and Gilbert have both, during the summer made epochal flights across the barrens and into the Arctic regions and expect to make a few more during the coming winter. They expect to continue their flying in the north again about the middle of November.

More Than Three Hundred Are Caught In Corporation Crash; Claims Amount to Near $300,000

VICTORIA, Oct. 21.—More than three hundred persons, most of them in Victoria, Vancouver and Nanaimo, were officially listed yesterday by F. E. Winslow of the Royal Trust Co. in his capacity as custodian, as creditors of the British Columbia Bond Corporation Ltd. which crashed early this month. Total amounts of claims, as issued yesterday, came to between $275,000 and $300,000. These claims are based on net credits as of October 9 and do not represent the full losses of clients, many of whom have losses of three to four times as much through the depressed prices of stocks during the past few months.

The largest individual creditor of the corporation is the Royal Bank of Canada with a claim of $143,000. The list of client creditors of yesterday does not include any of a considerable number of persons who since April turned their investments from other securities into preferred stock of the British Columbia Bond Corporation at $100 per share. These, it was explained, will get nothing back unless, by some developments, there should be enough to pay off in full all client creditors.

AN AMERICAN VIEW ON TARIFF

(Editorial—Current Saturday Evening Post)

The British are finding that a free-trade policy is a difficult one to maintain in the face of world-wide conditions today. It may be that out of the fury and excitement caused by the protectionist wing of the Conservative Party will come a reversion to a modified form of protection, in place of the traditional policy of the open door. Here in America, however, where our politicians seem to have entered into competition with the builders of skyscrapers, we are beginning to realize that the continual raising of tariff walls tends to create conditions that are far from ideal also.

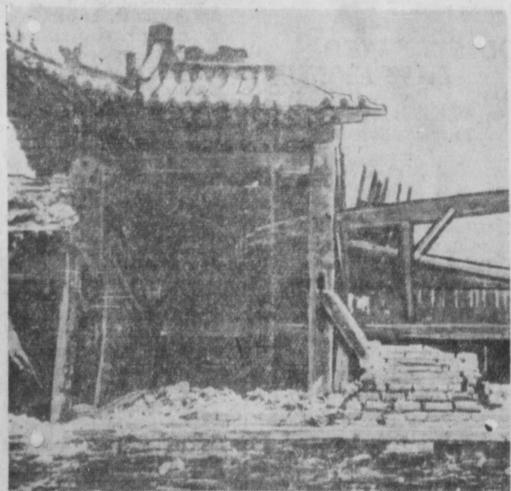

The first effect of the tariff revision which was put over during the last session of Congress has been to stir the Canadian Parliament into retaliatory measures. That the Hawley-Smoot Tariff Bill played its part in the defeat of the Liberal Party in the recent Dominion election goes without saying, and it could be expected that the new government, firm in its adherence to the policy of high protection, would strike back aggressively.

The first schedule of tariff changes put into effect by the Dominion Government on September 17 cannot fail to react unfavorably on our Canadian trade. Canada is our best customer, and the raising of duties on so many of the lines which figure prominently in our trade with that country will inevitably cut into our volume. Nor is there any surety that the new schedule is the last word that we shall hear from Ottawa in this matter. It is within the power of the Canadian Government to put additional changes into effect by order-in-council, an elastic feature of the Canadian constitution which gives them a great advantage in any give-and-take tariff battle.

It may be, also, that out of the conference of Dominion premiers at London will be evolved some more general and substantial form of Imperial preference which will serve to make the Canadian markets still harder to reach with American goods. Although the new schedule was put into effect with all the official amenities which serve to mask its real purpose, we must accept the action of the Canadian Government as a measure of retaliation for the clauses in the Hawley-Smoot Bill which affected the Dominion adversely. Tariff raising is a game at which two can play.

It is unfortunate that the even tenor of our trade relations should suffer this interruption. Trade between the two countries has been so mutually advantageous that it will continue active no matter what obstacles may be erected by the politicians.

We are inclined to believe that even a continued tariff war would fail to cut too seriously into the volume of trade which flows back and forth, logically and inevitably, across the border. That our tariff sparring will serve, however, to create a less cordial feeling and to ruffle sentiment on both sides of the line into acrimonious exchanges is the more serious danger.

HOW CITY WAS LOST

Observer Describes Hurricane in Santo Domingo—Residents Pray as Houses Smashed Like Cardboard

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Oct. 21.—Some details of the horror and ruin created by the recent hurricane in the city of Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, are contained in an air mail letter received here from E. Moreland Robinson, a member of the Bank of Nova Scotia staff in Santo Domingo. The letter, written under date of Thursday, September 4, said in part:

"The city is ruined. The pictures I sent of our house were just taken in time. Two walls still stand in the bathroom. The rest of the house just 'ain't.' Our clothes and furniture are scattered to the four winds and here I sit in the office—bare-footed, in a pair of pants and a shirt. Yesterday noon we had warnings, but we thought it was a case of wolf! wolf! At 1 o'clock it was a high wind that uprooted trees and the like. At 1:30 Hump, (Humphrey), Johnny and I decided to come downtown and sit it out. We got about three blocks from home and it began to look serious, so we started back. Then the storm broke. Whew! We sought shelter on the veranda of the nearest concrete house and were invited in. Our host was the editor of our biggest newspaper. As soon as we left the veranda it blew in.

"Then the other parts of the building started to go. From the main house we sought refuge in the kitchen—reinforced and topped by a low water tank. As we entered we heard a crash and saw that all the other walls of the house had fallen. We barricaded the two doors, and three men held each other, while the frightened wife, youngsters, grandmother and servants screamed and called on God to deliver them. Then the window blew in and we barricaded that. Next the back veranda fell and a four-foot square block of concrete smashed one of the doors, but remained there, blocking the entrance.

"After about an hour of this hell, the sun came out and we sallied forth to find not a single house in Gascue had escaped. It was the most desolate looking scene you could imagine. Everyone homeless, and in most houses people were tearing at the debris looking for their dead.

"We delivered our 'host' and family into the care of a friend who had a hurricane cellar and looked around to see how our other friends had fared. The manager's house, 'The Mansion' had lost only one side of the roof and all were safe. Hump and I started for home to see how we had fared. I found our family picture floating in two feet of water and rescued it along with some clothes, and put all in my trunk. Then the storm came back.

"We sought the bathroom where the neighbors and their servants had gathered and crouched down. Gee, what a blow! All the walls started to fall one by one and the air was full of telephone poles, trees and galvanized iron. Hump ventured into the draft and was carried by the wind 100 yards away where he fell behind a horizontal telephone pole. He lay in a foot of water dodging everything for two hours while I tried to pacify the negroes in the bathroom. The walls were bulging and leaning with every gust of wind and I surely thought I'd eaten my last meal.

Negroes Frantic

"The negroes were all frantic—praying to God and to me to save them so I didn't have a chance to show how scared I was. When the storm slowed up a bit we waded and swam over to where the rest of the colony (bank) had gathered and I found them in a concrete kitchen—all windows blown in and two feet of water on the floor but otherwise intact while the rest of the house had fallen. We were about 20 there including two babies. Nothing to eat or drink and one table in the middle of the room. We spent the night there after boarding up the windows. We slept on our feet. Luckily we salvaged some coal from a ruined house across the street and had a little fire part of the night. It was the longest night I'd ever lived through. Then we started out at dawn. It was raining hard and there was nothing in sight but boards, tin, cement, iron, clothes, furniture and such like—no houses.

"We went to our own house and found things as we had left them, the bathroom alone standing. We salvaged a few knick-knacks and a can of tobacco—wet but worth a lot to us. We then came down town—what a sight! Everyone with gaping wounds with maybe a shirt tied around them, and a steady parade in the centre of the street of dead being carried on beds, doors, anything. Everyone screaming and crying. Militia picking the dead from the ruins and everyone scurrying to find food.

"I got a bit sick with the smell—battered smell, I guess can classify it. In the suburbs the houses are completely demolished. Absolutely nothing left. In the city some of the older houses and churches stood, the walls, I mean—most of the roofs are gone—and are filled with hurt and dying people. Our office here escaped fairly well and we are living here now. Trying to get along until a relief ship arrives with food and clothing. They burned 280 bodies near here last night. Couldn't bury them and those that are being buried are being piled in eight and 10 to a grave. I think the dead will total at least 1,000.

"Friday.—The steamboat (mail) escaped to Porto Rico and a couple of relief men arrived last night by plane. They say we are the only city hit. A warship with nurses and doctors is on its way and will arrive maybe tonight.

"We slept in the office last night—four of us. Martial law was proclaimed. Anyone going on the street after 6 o'clock did so at his own risk. The shouting of the guards on this corner and frequent challenging by them kept us awake all night. You know newspapers do keep the cold out. The houses of all Europeans and foreigners are demolished and all are living in all sorts of places—garages, offices and churches. The new English church—almost completed—fell, burying quite a few negroes. We haven't the slightest idea how many. Everything is like that. The only bodies recovered have been those exposed in the ruins.

"We're surely glad to be alive today. The sun is out and people are trying to dry their clothes. The conversation is—the family; then comes the number hurt and thanks to God for the number saved."

The last ruse of summer is trying to make October feel like July.

Man in the Moon

Jake says that English people should not give their children alphabet crackers. They mess up the floor so when they drop their h's.

"So you are really in society now."

"No, not exactly," replied the lady. "My husband still pays his bills."

"Bridget, do you know anything concerning my wife's whereabouts?"

"Yes sir, I put them in the wash."

One Sunday morning a member of a church that could not boast of a new organ met a friend who belonged to a church that had just purchased one.

"I hear you've got a new organ," he said. "Now all you need is a monkey—"

"And all you need is an organ," his friend answered with a smile.

Jake says he has no objection to voting at the civic election but he'll be darned if he's going up to the city hall to swear.

Policeman—Miss, you were doing sixty miles an hour.
She—Oh, isn't that splendid. I only learned to drive yesterday.

Jake says he'd heard about this Rushin coal in Canada but what of it. They're rushin' everything in Canada.

"Is your husband much of a provider, Malindy?"

"He ain't nothing else, ma'am. He's gwine to get some new furniture, providin' he gets the money; he's gwine to get the money, providin' he goes to work; he's gwine to work, providin' the job suits him. I never see such a providin' man in all mah days."

HAVE YOU TRIED A CLASSIFIED?

More and more people are turning to the classified columns of the Daily News to find what they want. Used cars, furniture for sale, lost and found, houses to rent or for sale, positions wanted. All sorts of things are advertised there. If you do not read the classified page, get the habit now. Try it today.

FEEL MEAN?

Don't be helpless when you suddenly get a headache. Reach in your pocket for immediate relief. If you haven't any Aspirin with you, get some at the first drugstore you come to. Take a tablet or two and be rid of the pain. Take promptly. Nothing is gained by waiting to see if the pain will leave of its own accord. It may grow worse! Why postpone relief? There are many times when Aspirin tablets will "save the day." They will always ease a throbbing head. Quiet a grumbling tooth. Relieve nagging pains of neuralgia or neuritis. Or check a sudden cold. Even rheumatism has lost its terrors for those who have learned to depend on these tablets. Gargle with Aspirin tablets at the first suspicion of sore throat, and reduce the infection. Look for Aspirin on the box—and the word Genuine in red. Genuine Aspirin tablets do not depress the heart.

Utter Fatigue

When the Nerves play out

It is common to be tired after the day's work but you rest and sleep and are ready with new energy and vigor for another day's effort. But when the night's sleep fails to rest you and you get up feeling tired and worn-out and face with dread the new day, it is time to take stock of your health. Either as the result of the excessive expenditure of nervous energy or because of worry or wasting disease your nervous system is becoming bankrupt. It is high time to get the building up process established by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

TIGHT GAME WAS PLAYED

Smith's Team Wins High School Softball By Margin of One Point

Smith's team won the third and deciding game of the High School Softball League play-off series on Monday afternoon by the narrow margin of one run. The score, ten to nine, was indicative of the play. Smith won the first game of the series by the same margin, the score being eight to seven. Stinech forced the series into three games by winning the second, six to five. Yesterday's victory gave Smith's nine the championship of the school and of a league in which 50 boys participated.

First to bat, the Smithites found Pitcher Moxley easy to hit and the field easy to penetrate. Due to a hard ball Moxley got very poor backing. Kanaya, always a sure hitter and dangerous on bases, was first to bat and first to score. He was followed over the plate by Dominato. McRae got to third but, over anxious to score, was caught and run down between third and home. Obata chalked up another run before they had to take the field. Anderson was the only one to score for Stinech in this inning. In the second inning Kanaya again got to third but Stinech's fielders were used to the ball and held him there while they retired the side. The Smith team likewise allowed no runs in the second. Ross got to third and Moxley to second.

Stinech replaced Moxley as pitcher but was no better at holding down the other team. The third inning saw five runs cross the plate for Smith. The scorers were Obata, Bill Tobey, Morrison (Roy), Smith and Kanaya. At bat, the Stinech team turned around and did to Dominato just what the Smithites had been doing to their pitchers. And the Smith fielders were found as badly wanting in handling sizzling drives of that hard ball. Hale, Anderson, Hanson, Stinech, Ross, Moxley and Bremner all raced across the plate before the rally could be stopped. The score was now eight all.

In the fourth inning Stinech was pitching splendidly to retire the side in one-two-three order. But Dominato was equally on the job and duplicated the feat.

Smith led off the final inning by pinch-hitting Kanaya. Kanaya was equal to the task and scored again followed by Dominato. McRae got to third but was held there while the next three were put out by a combination of good pitching by Stinech and air-tight backing by his infield. At bat the Stinech team got only one run made by the captain himself. Ross got to third. Hanson made sure of his title of "Foul-Ball King" during this inning. Morrison pitched for Smith in this inning and made a very good job of it.

The play-off series has been so keenly contested that it really needed three games to decide which was the better team. Their narrow margin of superiority is indicated by the fact that the Smithites were only one run ahead on the total score of the whole play-off, the totals being 23 and 22 respectively. Smith: Kanaya, Dominato, McRae, Obata, B. Tobey, R. Morrison, C. Smith, ePachy, Catcher, McRae. Stinech: Hale, Anderson, Cameron, Hanson, Stinech, O'Brien, Ross, Moxley, Bremner, Johnstone, Catcher, Bremner. Scorekeeper, D. Rice. Umpire, Mr. Gilliland.

Miss Marion Carstairs, the motor boat racer interviewed on her return to England from the United States said: "I have come home intending to attempt to create a new world's record for motor-boats. I shall make the attempt on Lake Windermere in April next. I do not think there is any more danger from driftwood on Windermere than anywhere else. In fact at Detroit we raced with great banks of timber floating about."

Mexicans Throng To Shrine of Patron St. Francois Xavier

MAGDALENA, Sonora, Mexico, Oct. 21—A quiet village of 300 is Magdalena 354 days of the year, but from October 1 to 10 it is the shrine of St. Francois Xavier, patron saint of Yaqui and Papago Indians, and the Mexican peons. In celebrating St. Xavier's birthday, the village was thronged by more than 15,000 Indian and peon pilgrims, who came, as they and their ancestors have each year for more than two centuries, to pay homage at the mission dedicated in 1691 by Father King to Saint Xavier.

They climaxed the 11-day period of celebration and worship by filling by the wooden image of reclining St. Xavier, which is dressed in ecclesiastical garments tattered with age.

Rhode Island Vets Decorated With Verdun Medals

PROVIDENCE R.I., Oct. 21—A great throng of spectators cheered as 140 Rhode Island veterans who fought at Verdun during the world war were decorated at a local armory with the French government's Verdun medals. Presentation of the medals was made by Rev. Jean Baptiste Pflieger, S. J., one of France's most distinguished war heroes who himself holds 26 citations for service in the world struggle. A special citation and an expression of appreciation of the French people accompanied each medal.

SAFETY'S TEN COMMANDMENTS

- First: Thou shalt have no other thoughts but thy work.
- Second: Thou shalt take no unnecessary risks, nor try to show off, nor play practical jokes, for by this carelessness thou mayst do injury which will have effect unto the third and fourth generations to follow.
- Third: Thou shalt not swear nor lose thy temper when things do not go just right.
- Fourth: Remember thou art not the only one on the job and that lives of others are just as important as thine own.
- Fifth: Honor thy job and thyself that thy days may be long in employment.
- Sixth: Thou shalt not clean machinery when it is in motion.
- Seventh: Thou shalt not watch thy neighbor's work, but attend to thine own.
- Eighth: Thou shalt not let the sleeves of thy shirt hang loose, nor the flaps of thy coat to be unbuttoned, as they may get caught in machinery and thereby do great bodily harm.
- Ninth: Thou shalt not throw matches nor greasy waste on the floor, nor scatter oil around the bearings, as a dirty worker is a clumsy worker and a clumsy worker is a menace to his fellow workers.
- Tenth: Thou shalt not interfere with the switches, nor the dynamos, nor the belts, nor the cables, nor the engines, nor anything else thou art told is dangerous.
