Imperial Legislation Sought In Order to Validate Return of Western Natural Resources

OTTAWA, April 29:—The federal government is anxious to bring before the British Parliament at as early a date as possible the question of the return of natural resources to the western provinces. It is maintained that this is one of the reasons why the government decided to get legislation sanctioning agreements with Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia through the House of Commons before deciding to bring down the budget. The British government will be asked to amend certain Imperial statutes in order to validate the return of the resources.

BOSTOCK IS DEAD

Speaker of Canadian Senate Expires at His Home at Monte Creek Last Night

BRIEF ILLNESS

Came to British Columbia in 1893 and Had Brilliant Political Career

KAMLOOPS, April 29:—Hon. Senator Hewitt Bostock, speaker of the Canadian Senate, died at his home at Monte Creek near here last night, uraemia being the cause of death. He had been unconscious for some hours, having grown gradually worse since his arrival home on Saturday from Ottawa when he had to be assisted from the train. Mrs. Bostock, his two sons and three daughters were with him at the end.

The late Hon. Hewitt Bostock was born on May 31, 1864 at The Hermitage, Walton Heath, Surrey, England, the son of Samuel Bostock, a member of the London Stock Exchange, and his wife, Marion Bostock, only daughter of W. T. Liff, M.D. He entered Trinity College, Cambridge, in 1882, graduating with distinction in the Mathematical Tripos in 1885. He was called to the Bar at Lincoln's Inn in 1888, but never practised.

The late Senator was elected to the House of Commons and summoned to the Senate in 1904. He became Liberal leader of the Senate in 1914 and, upon formation of the King cabinet in 1921, became minister of public works for a few months. Later he was appointed Speaker of the Senate.

Star Witness For Crown in Royal Bank Robbery Identifies Companion of William Siegmund

VANCOUVER, April 29:—A friend's farewell to a man who had just been committed for trial cost Ralph Humphries his freedom in a dramatic moment in police court here yesterday. After William Siegmund had been committed for trial on a charge of holding up and robbing a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada here of $2300 on December 24, Humphries, who was a spectator in the courtroom, walked over to the barristers' table and placed his arm around the accused's shoulder. I. R. A. C. Jones, star witness for the crown, turned as he was about to leave the room and glanced at Humphries. "Why, that's the other hold-up man!" Jones exclaimed. Detectives immediately placed Humphries under arrest on a charge of robbery with violence.

SILENCE ON RAILWAY PROSPECTS

There seems to be almost absolute silence in regard to the prospects for the development of the Peace River country by a railway westward. This is not well. It is about time we were hearing something, especially in view of the prospect of a federal election this year.

If the Mackenzie King Government does not give some pretty good intimation that there is going to be a definite move to provide railway communication with the Peace, it cannot expect much support from the coast constituencies. They are vitally interested in the project and they will support any party that favors it and gives some intimation that it will be carried out soon.

This is a time particularly when the railway from the Peace River to the coast should be constructed because Canada needs the work to keep her people employed during the off season. A railway to the coast would mean a great deal of employment and would relieve the situation at a time when there is considerable slackness. This should be taken into consideration and should be an important factor in causing the government to proceed with the work.

It will be a great thing for Prince Rupert to have a railway hotel here. It will be a great thing to have a federal building, but it will be a much greater thing to have an outlet from the Peace River to this port.

The farmers of the Peace need a railway outlet to give them an opportunity to compete on equal terms with the rest of the wheat growers of the country.

The country between the Peace and Prince Rupert needs opening up by a railway.

Prince Rupert needs the railway to enable her to be of service to the rest of the country.

These are three great reasons why the railway should be built. The fourth is that the country needs the employment for the workers who during the coming winter will have a hard time unless something is done to provide for them. That makes four cogent reasons why the Peace to Prince Rupert railway should be built at once.

INDIA'S REAL TROUBLE

Recently Gandhi spoke to an excited India and promised self-rule or independence within eight days if the Indian people would do exactly as he said, says the Toronto Globe. Such remarks read more like the unscrupulous ravings of the most palpable demagogue than the words of one whom the press services persist in calling "Mahatma," or "saint."

Gandhi knows full well, of course, that no responsible authority in the world would give India self-rule in eight days if it could, and could not if it would. Even if the British Labor Government should suddenly lose its senses, and decide to grant India full and immediate Dominion status, the period of preparation for the change would run into months and years.

We in Canada have some knowledge of the difficulties of nation-building when behind the scenes there is always the spectre of "two nations warring within a single state." Yet the two branches of the Canadian people are drawn from nations of close racial relationship and similar history and outlook. If Canadian problems are sometimes acute, how much more so must they be in India, when there are half a dozen absolutely distinct religions; when there are dozens of different tongues; when the great mass of the people are not only illiterate, but steeped in paralyzing traditions and positively vicious customs?

The caste question alone would make anything approaching complete Dominion status impossible. The people of the autonomous portions of the British Empire have not been accorded Home Rule for any other reason than that, in the main, they are all equally fit for Home Rule.

In India there are millions of "untouchables"—men and women and children condemned by a hideous religious system to lives of degradation and destitution. For Britain to march out and leave Indians to themselves would be, among other things, to condemn these millions to the most cruel sort of oppression.

The Simon report is expected this month. Some indication of how far responsible British opinion is now able to go in the way of meeting the natural nationalist aspirations of educated Indians will then be made known. Meanwhile it is necessary to remember that problems of government in India are inevitably interwoven with problems of a religious system which creates or perpetuates difficulties almost insuperable.

THE WHOLE PACIFIC COAST IS SWITCHING TO THIS NEW HIGH COMPRESSION OIL THAT GIVES 200 EXTRA MILES OF LUBRICATION

SUPER quality at a fair price is making MOTORITE the most widely used motor oil in this community.

MOTORITE is, first of all, super oily or extra slippery. Thus it minimizes friction and guarantees smoother operation.

Next, it has the ability to cling tightly to metal. This enables it to form a perfect seal between piston and cylinder wall to resist the intense pressure developed by gas explosions above. Maximum power is the result.

And MOTORITE is equally efficient at all working temperatures. As the engine warms and the metal parts expand MOTORITE automatically adjusts its viscosity in just the proper ratio to assure 100% perfect lubrication.

A fourth advantage is its great capacity for giving up and carrying away heat. This feature assures cool bearings and is noticed particularly when traveling long distances at sustained high speeds.

No Hard Carbon

The small amount of carbon deposited by MOTORITE is soft and fluffy, much unlike the hard, gritty carbon, common to many oils.

And finally MOTORITE is strictly non-acid—no possibility of corroding the metal of your motor.

These six advantages guarantee you longer service from your oil. Now, with MOTORITE you can drain at 200 miles farther than you have been in the habit of doing.

Don't miss this extra 200 miles. Specify MOTORITE on your next refill.

THIRD AVE. SIDEWALK

After more than one effort, Ald. H. F. Pullen was successful last night in having the city council decide to put up another local improvement initiative bylaw to provide for the construction of a new sidewalk on the south side of Third Avenue from the Dybhave & Hanson corner to McBride Street. The walk now proposed will be along the line of a new scheme of City Engineer F. N. Good to use a cross-roted lumber framework with an asphalt surface. This, the city engineer estimates, will cost approximately $165 per 25-foot lot of $15 per year as against $45 or $50 which it would have been necessary for the property owners abutting to pay annually had a concrete sidewalk been built.

Ald. Pullen, in bringing the matter up again, felt that here, in the main business section, would be a good place to try out the new scheme of the city engineer's. Last year, it was true the property owners had opposed the costly bylaw to provide for a concrete sidewalk on the grounds that it would practically confiscate their property. He believed, however, that no objection would be made if the bylaw were submitted on the basis of the city engineer's new scheme. As it was, the old plank walk was in a deplorable condition and, indeed, a disgrace which affected the whole city. It was nonsense, Ald. Pullen said, to treat the ratepayers like youngsters because they had opposed the bylaw last year. No member of the council had a right to do that.

Ald. Rudderham felt that, if the city engineer already had the definite estimates of the cost, the council might have the initiative bylaw prepared at once. After further discussion, it was decided to again put up the bylaw.

MRS. STUART IS HONORED

Friends Gathered at her Home Last Night and Made Beautiful Presentation of China

A very enjoyable evening was spent last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Stuart, Second Avenue, Westview, when about twenty of their friends gathered in a surprise visit to mark the twentieth anniversary of their wedding. On behalf of the guests assembled, Mrs. T. McClymont, with a neat little speech, presented Mrs. Stuart with a lovely gift of China. Mr. Stuart responded suitably.

The evening was spent delightfully in card playing, singing and dancing and delicious refreshments were served with Mrs. McLean, deaconess, and Mrs. A. C. Clark pouring and Mrs. Jack Watson and Mrs. John Bremner serving.

Those present were Mrs. J. C.

Brady, Mrs. T. McClymont, Mrs. McLean, Mrs. James Clark, Mrs. Jack Watson, Mrs. H. M. Foote, Mrs. James Simpson, Mrs. W. W. C. O'Neill, Mrs. W. L. Sandison, Mrs. W. D. Moxley, Mrs. A. C. Clark, Mrs. R. Cameron, Mrs. John Bremner, Mrs. D. McLeod, Mrs. R. J. D. Smith and Miss Daisy Sharpe.

Objects to Road Being Built Over Lot in Section 5

Ald. Collart inquired at last night's council meeting upon whose authority a roadway had been placed over a lot on Thompson Street instead of following the street as the plans called for. It was a matter which should be remedied. He understood that a street could not be built over lots unless a special order-in-council was granted. Nobody seemed to know much about the matter, the chairman of the board of works, Ald. W. B. Brown, being absent, but Ald. Rudderham believed that this particular lot mentioned by Ald. Collart was one which had been bought by the city so that a sewer might be constructed through it and the road had also been built on it. It was not a lot which the city was offering for sale.

Even this, Ald. Collart thought was no justification for the changing of the road route.

A letter from Joan McHugh, resident engineer of the fisheries department in regard to the building of approaches to the new fisheries experimental station at the foot of McBride Street which is now nearing completion was read at last night's meeting of the city council and referred to the Board of Works for report. Ald. Collart did not see how approaches could be built from McBride Street since it would be over private ground.

"Then I would suggest that you give us a ferry," responded Ald. Linzey, always facetious.

STOP CONSTIPATION AT THE START

You May Pay If You Don't

When you realize that about 90% of all sickness begins with constipation, you won't want to take chances. If you have the symptoms—bad breath, coated tongue, always tired—put a stop to them now!

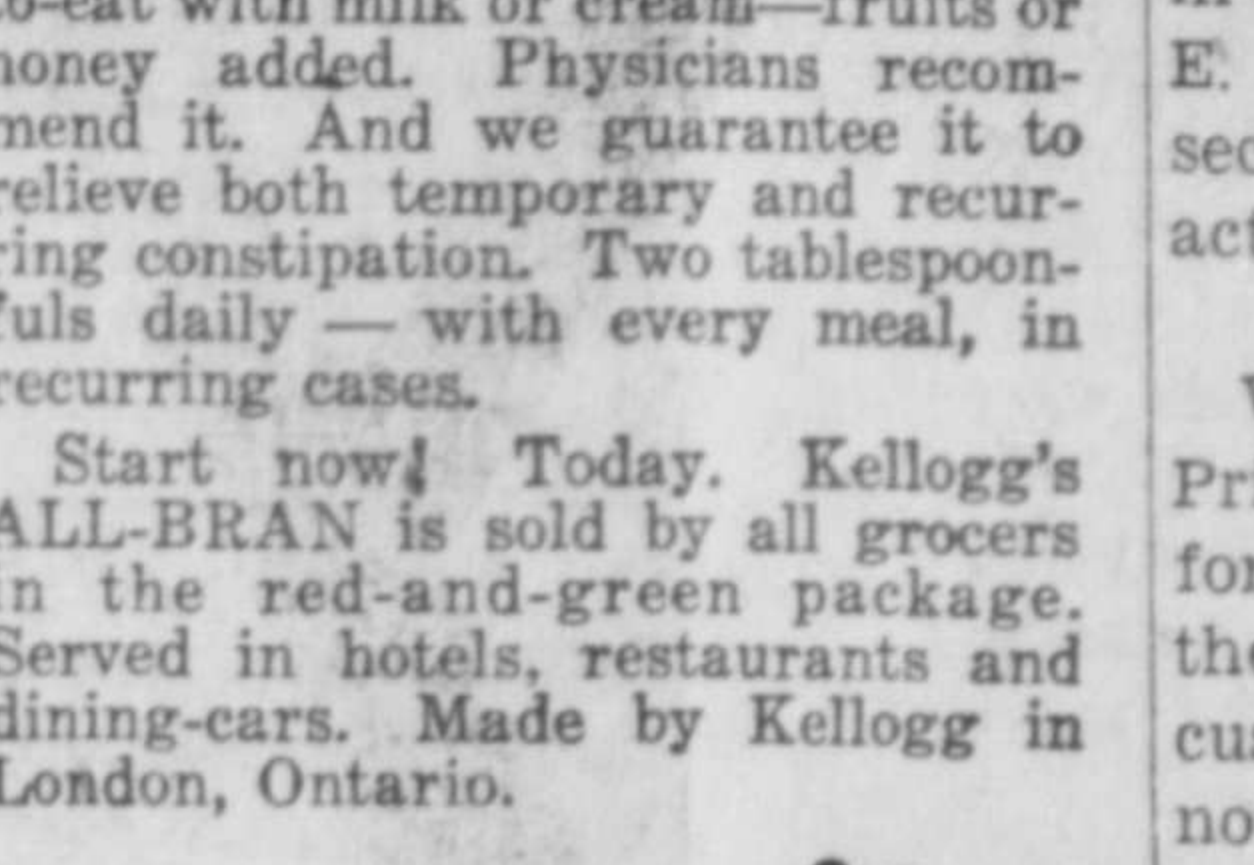

But do it the natural way. Not with pills and drugs, which give but temporary relief and must be taken in increasing doses. Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—an appetizing deliciously flavored cereal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN sweeps the system clean of wastes and impurities. Its action is natural; the roughage carries with it the poisons which clog your system.

In addition, ALL-BRAN is rich in iron. Scientific research shows that nearly all this iron goes into the blood, making it give the rich glow of healthy color.

You'll like ALL-BRAN. Ready-to-eat with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Physicians recommend it. And we guarantee it to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. Two tablespoons daily—with every meal, in recurring cases.

Start now! Today, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers in the red-and-green package. Served in hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

This information was sought from Vernon as a result of a discussion relating to peddlers here recently. It had been said that the licence fee at Vernon was $300 but this statement has been found to have been incorrect.

The matter was referred to the Parks Board for recommendation.

125 million food cells exploded

That's what makes Puffed Grains crisp... delicious... virtually as nourishing as hot cooked cereals

YOU may have wondered why Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice are so light and crunchy... so meltingly good to eat.

Here's the secret. They are made by an utterly different process from all other ready-to-eat cereals. Grains of wheat and rice are sealed in bronze guns. The guns are revolved in fiery ovens. In this terrific heat the natural grain moisture in each tiny food cell expands into steam.

When the guns are fired, 125 million explosions occur in each grain. Every tiny food cell is completely broken up. (Just as it would be from long hours of cooking.) Hence every particle of food is completely digestible. This is why Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice are rated as virtually as nourishing as hot cooked cereals.

When these grains come forth in showers from the guns, they've been puffed to 8 times normal size. They're crisp, fragile, crunchy... deliciously good to eat. They taste like sweet new nutmeats. Like fresh buttered popcorn. You'll say you never before dreamed that wheat and rice could be so meltingly good to eat.

Don't neglect to give your family this more delicious... more richly nourishing cereal. Order Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice from your grocer today.

Of Interest to Gardeners

Combining Vegetables and Flowers

The combination vegetable and flower garden is becoming an innovation of increasing popularity. The most practical application of it is on small places where garden space is limited. The garden space is used for the earliest vegetables which are replaced when they are used by flowers. The method is to plant alternate rows of vegetables and flowering annuals. Many of the annuals desired cannot be sown as early as the vegetables, the zinnia being a case in point.

Sow a row of zinnias between the rows of radishes and lettuce. The zinnias should not be sown until two weeks after the seeds of the earliest vegetable crop go in. By the time the vegetables have been pulled the zinnias will be getting into their stride and by midsummer they will have filled the space where the radishes and lettuce grew.

Rows of gladiolus bulbs may be planted in the same manner. It is a simple matter to alternate rows of annuals and vegetables so that the vegetable garden of spring automatically transforms itself into the flower garden of midsummer merely by pulling the vegetables to use as they mature. Verbenas, petunias, poppies, California poppies, in fact all of the common annuals, may be grown in this way, the vegetable garden becoming a cutting garden to furnish bouquets for the house.

Another and even more practical method is to start seeds of the annuals in boxes and they can then be transplanted into position as the vegetables are removed. Another combination system is that of using the rows of vegetables as a temporary border for the flower garden, their removal making way for later planted bulbs or flowering plants.

Such a combination garden needs careful planning in order to provide room to cultivate the vegetables and annuals in their early stages of growth. A row of zinnias should have at least six inches on either side for the smaller growing vegetables such as radishes and onion sets or spinach.

An Outdoor living Room For the Garden Hobbyist

Gardening is a hobby to many people. For them an outdoor living room devoted to growing Irises, Peonies or some favorite flower is a constant delight.

Too often the garden hobbyist lays out his flower beds with an eye to their usefulness but not their beauty or arrangement; design is sacrificed for convenience in culture.

Now this need not be the case. A garden type of outdoor living room can be so planned that the hobbyist will still have plenty of bed space in which to grow his flowers, which in turn, would contribute to the beauty and color of the outdoor room. The sketch illustrates just such a plan. A small square space, such as is available on most any lot, may be enclosed by hedge and shrub plantings. An entrance may be planned on one or two sides. On the opposite side from the entrance place a seat or some feature of interest. Then plan a continuous border of flowers around the four sides, leaving the centre open for circulation. In this manner you create an outdoor living room which gives the garden hobbyist a wonderful opportunity to display his flowers well and a place where the whole family can gather in outdoor enjoyment.

Where the space is large enough to permit the use of more flower beds parallel to the borders, these may be added, but in planning the outdoor room it is desirable to have broad paths in the centre and plenty of room for a group of people to get around easily. In other words, avoid that "cluttered up" appearance so frequently felt in gardens where the beds are too large and too numerous.

HINTS FOR GARDENERS

If one cannot afford a spacious park to provide a view from all the windows, the next best thing is a foliage screen. It is surprising what one can do in the way of developing a view where lawns and flower gardens lead up to rose-covered trellises. Too often the average garden is spoiled by high board fence, garage or chicken house which no matter how bright the display of flowers seems to loom up from every angle. Where the gardener is the owner of the property permanent screens for these unlovely objects can be provided by the use of Boston Ivy, Virginia Creeper, Dutchman's Pipe, Clematis, Panchulata, climbing roses and similar perennial vines. Some of these are self-supporting like the Boston Ivy and one species of Virginia Creeper. Others require wire or trellis work. Where a brick or stone wall is to be covered and roses are used it is well to place the trellis work about half a foot in front of the wall. This will give the roses more air circulation, allow spraying all round and the reflected heat of the wall will not fade the bloom prematurely.

But even the person who expects to move next year can provide lovely backgrounds by using annuals such as Dolichos, Labiab or Hyacinth Bean, Scarlet Runner Beans, Sweet Peas, Morning Glory, Wild Hops or similar very rapid growing things. These plants, some of which will run twenty feet in a single season, are all fully described in the seed catalogues. For a standing screen, such as is necessary between two gardens, shrubbery and evergreens can be used in the permanent affairs while the renter can choose Mexican Sunflowers, Cosmos, African Marigolds, arkspurs, Castor Oil Plants, Four o'Clocks, Dahlias or Hollyhocks. This will give him a screen of from two and a-half to seven feet depending upon which flowers are used.

At the meeting of the city council last night, on suggestion of Alderman Macdonald, it was decided to hold regular monthly meetings of the joint committees of the city council in order that the aldermen may familiarize themselves with the workings of the committees of which they are not members and keep in touch with all the city activities.

Clean-Up Week Set Early May

City to Start Good Work By Improving Conditions on Own Premises

On recommendation of the board of works, the city council last night set the week of May 5-10 inclusive as annual clean-up week.

Ald. Linzey suggested that the part of town to the rear Canadian Laundry be specially looked into.

Ald. Pullen suggested that the city might clean up its own property on Fraser Street.

Ald. Pillsbury replied that the board of works was fully aware of the condition of its own premises on Fraser Street and intended starting off by cleaning up there.

SUNSET THOUGHTS

FROM ACROPOLIS HILL.

NEIL LANG

H. G. Wells' Mr. Polly is the classic example of the man who loved sunsets. He should have lived in Prince Rupert, I think for nowhere else is the gracious pageant of sunset more beautifully staged than here.

View the spectacle from the summit of Acropolis Hill to enjoy a soul ravishing experience that will live in memory as long as life lasts. When depressed or worried, when the world is too much with us, conjure in memory a Prince Rupert sunset and you will find balm for your perplexed mind and troubled spirit. Again you will hear the sweet voice of Nature whisper, "Peace, peace," as when you first viewed the glorious sunset from this place.

Come with me to Acropolis Hill and share this ineffable beauty. At our feet lies the pleasant town bathed in a refulgent glow. The still waters are incarnadined with the last crimson rays. The little islands to the west and the larger bulk of the Tsimpsian Peninsula are blackly silhouetted against a background of crimson and gold. Every single tree almost, displays its own individuality against that glowing curtain. All the west and overhead is a blaze of glory which momentarily displays every changing shade, sweeping through burnished gold, brilliant orange and softest violet. So limpid and soft it is, so gentle, so ethereal, the whole western horizon seems to float in a bewitching glow of liquid color.

Slowly, regally, majestically, the god of day drops from our sight trailing his robes of glory as he passes from our view. The scene grows in grandeur until it baffles mortal description. Only in awed silence can we stand and gaze feeling our evanescent human littleness and the immensity and everlastingness of the things of God. Only a sea bird, the epitome of grace, wheels its way into the very heart of that blaze of glory in the west and a homeward bound trolling vessel passes, the soft chug, chug of the motor seeming not to break the holy stillness but rather to intensify it.

The sun is now hidden from our view and the purplish twilight shadows gather but still the pageant lasts, still the sea and the sky present to us colors that the artist's palette can never know. It is almost too much beauty for us. It induces a strange feeling, not of melancholy, but very akin to it. The sunset speaks to our souls but they are inarticulate to reply, too cramped in this prison house of the flesh.

One would fain linger in this charmed spot. The world with its frets and jars—its little discontents, its petty strivings seems very far away. One would always wish to live on a hill-top thus where views of the rising and setting sun over placid waters would fill the soul and the mind with a holy tranquility. But such cannot be. Not always can we live amid the quiet and serenity of the mountain tops. Our place is down there in the valley, down there in the arena of the busy haunts of men where, day by day deeds of selfishness are performed and words of kindness are spoken, en, hard fights fought and won and hearts are purified in the fire of human effort and struggle.

Oh, surely we shall not too unwillingly go down from the hill-top, but rather with the memory of this gracious sunset to cheer and inspire us go about our daily round and common task feeling that it has been good for us to have been here and observed the beauty of the setting sun.
Such, then are our thoughts as we stand awed into silence, while Royal the pageant closes.
