SUCCESSFUL MEETING OF LIBERALS

Clear Cut Statement of Policy From Olof Hanson Well Received

J. W. deB. Farris K.C. Principal Speaker at Enthusiastic and Large Rally Last Night—T. D. Pattullo Also in Fighting Trim

Last night's public meeting at the Moose Hall in the interests of Olof Hanson, Liberal candidate for Skeena in the forthcoming federal election, was one of the most largely attended and successful of the present political campaign. The chief speaker was J. W. deB. Farris K.C. of Vancouver who made a vigorous defence in fact and record of the achievements of the King government and exposed much of the sham on which the Conservatives based their plea for office, paying particular attention to certain statements that had been made by Hon. H. H. Stevens of Vancouver in a speech here two weeks ago. T. D. Pattullo, provincial Liberal leader and M.L.A. for Prince Rupert, also gave a brief but able address with particular reference to local issues. Perhaps, the outstanding feature of the meeting was the speech of Olof Hanson who gave a clear-cut declaration of policy on some of the more important issues. Mr. Hanson was accorded an enthusiastic ovation by the large audience. Dr. W. T. Kergin occupied the chair.

Mr. Hanson, who was the first speaker, laid no claims to being either a public speaker or a politician. He told how he had come as an immigrant from a foreign land and settled "under a flag which stands for equality, freedom and justice." He thought he had proven himself to be at least an average business man. This country had resources which must be commercialized in order that labor might be employed and new peoples brought in. As time went on, he was coming to realize more and more the responsibilities involved in having become a candidate for public office. Living here as long as he had, he had had occasion to study the natural resources of the country and to become identified in a more or less small way with the development of the lumber, fishing, mining and canning industries. He believed he had employed as much labor as almost any individual in the district.

He had engaged, like many of the people here, in pioneering work. For the full development of the industries, bigger interests were needed.

Business Administration

Mr. Hanson expressed the opinion that a business administration was desirable in carrying on the business of Canada. The Mackenzie King government had shown itself to be businesslike in serving notice upon the railways that, if they did not take action within a specified time in regard to the Peace River outlet, it (the government) would take a hand itself. The Canadian National Railways had also been handled in a businesslike manner by the government which had been big enough to put at its head a man who, within the space of a few years, had converted deficits into a paying proposition, saving the country greatly in taxation.

Regarding the fisheries, Mr. Hanson pledged that he would countenance no regulations which would hamper the people engaged in that industry. As for fish traps there would be none as far as he was concerned as long as they were not wanted by the men gaining their living from fishing. "Should such a thing happen," Mr. Hanson declared without reservation, "and I should be your representative at Ottawa, I would resign and let them hold another election."

Speaking of old age pensions, which today 46,000 people in Canada were taking advantage of, Mr. Hanson took the view that these were not in the nature of charity but were the just due of those receiving them. The present system, however, could be improved upon he thought. Personally, he was in favor of reducing the age at which the pensions became payable from 70 to 65 years.

As for immigration, Mr. Hanson declared that he was opposed to further people being brought into Canada, no matter from what country they came, until all the people already here were profitably employed. He believed that, until such a time came, the government should prevent the transportation companies from bringing immigrants in. It would be a difficult matter to regulate but, by carefully watching, he believed it could be done. As a general principle, Mr. Hanson was in favor of homebuilders rather than those merely in search of work for immigrants.

Labor Questionnaire

Pointing out that the Big Four labor organization had endorsed the King government for re-election because of the work it had done on behalf of labor, Mr. Hanson proceeded to answer a questionnaire from the Trades & Labor Council. As for the proposal that the Dominion government should enact legislation to provide unemployment insurance, Mr. Hanson thought that the better way to handle this situation would be in the regulation of immigration. He was absolutely in favor of immi-

NEW PARKS POLICY FOR THIS PROVINCE

Cahan Shows Up Bennett's Bitterly Anti-British Attitude and Greedy Tariff Policy

Plan Is To Transfer Some of Larger Areas To Dominion Control

New Resort on West Coast of Vancouver Island Is Contemplated—Mount Robson and Strathcona Involved in Present Negotiations

VICTORIA, July 22:—A new parks policy for British Columbia, including, if possible, transfer of several of the larger provincial parks to federal control and the creation of a new park on the West Coast of Vancouver Island will be framed as soon as the federal election is over, it was learned yesterday. While no final decision has been reached, it is expected that Mount Robson Park and Strathcona Park will be the two areas covered by transfer negotiations which may also include Garibaldi Park.

New Communication Department In Federal Government Mooted By Premier In Ottawa Address

OTTAWA, July 22:—If the present government is returned to power, Canada may have a minister and department of communications. This was intimated here last night by Premier King. He was discussing a reduction in the activities of the Department of the Interior and certain apprehension among some members of the civil service that their positions might be imperilled by this reduction. There need be little fear of this, the Premier said. Developments of radio and aviation suggested the need of a Department of Communication and this, in itself, would probably open an opportunity.

The Premier addressed the largest and most enthusiastic audience so far in his campaign. The big Armouries were filled to the doors and at least three thousand people were unable to gain admittance.

Once again the Premier stressed the importance of developing trade within the Empire. He criticized the Conservative leader on the ground that Mr. Bennett had been trying to evade the issue of British trade development. On the same grounds, he had words of criticism for Premier Ferguson of Ontario. The Conservative leaders, the Premier asserted, might well have supported the government's effort to promote inter-Empire trade. The campaign could then have been fought on other issues.

VICTORIA, July 22:—Warm and dry weather throughout the province and 65 fires which were started by lightning last week have created a serious fire hazard in British Columbia with 270 fires reported during the week ending Saturday last.

Nominations For Federal Fight Completed In Dominion Monday; 545 Candidates Are Offering

OTTAWA, July 22:—Nominations were completed yesterday for the approaching federal election, the other seventy ridings having had their nominations last week. But two candidates have been elected by acclamation, these being Robert Gardiner of the United Farmers of Alberta in Acadia, Alta., and Henri Bourassa, Independent in Labelle, Que. There are 545 candidates offering or 20 more than in the election of 1926 but 37 less than in 1925. The Liberals have 23 more candidates than in the last election but are still nine short of the Conservatives. Women one Farmer Labor, one Prohibitionist, one Labor and one Communist candidates or a total of 32 for 14 seats.

Kootenay West and Vancouver South will have three-cornered contests and Burrard has four candidates. All other seats will have straight Liberal vs. Conservative fights except Comox-Alberni where A. W. Neill, Independent, opposes Thomas Graham, Conservative.

These Strange Guns of Peace

explode wheat and rice

Giving Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice the rich nourishment of hot cooked cereals

FLAVORY! Crunchy! Meltingly good to eat. That's Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice Grains... "grains shot from guns!"

Choice, plump grains of wheat and rice are actually sealed in shining bronze guns. Then the guns are revolved in fiery ovens to develop all the natural rich grain flavor. When the guns are fired, 125 million explosions occur in every grain. This breaks open every one of the millions of tiny food cells. The grains become as completely digestible as though they had been cooked for hours. That's why Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice are rated "virtually as nourishing as hot cooked cereals."

And these dainty nuggets of nourishment have all the rich flavor of new nut-meats. All the buttery crispness of fresh toast. You never tasted grain foods in a more enticing form. Serve with fruit and cream for breakfast. As an easily digestible luncheon dish for children. Crisp in butter to make a delicious new kind of popcorn. RAIN HELPS SOME CROPS

In Some Parts of Prairies, However, Heat Has Done Much Damage

WINNIPEG, July 22.—Wheat in Western grain growing areas is headed out and stands of straw are uneven, while crop growth in numerous districts is very spotty. Hot weather, with damaging winds, have been experienced and hail, which cut swaths in narrow strips, is reported from points throughout Saskatchewan and in some parts of Manitoba, according to the weekly report of the Canadian National Railways.

In Manitoba the weather has been warm and heavy rains followed the intense heat, with the result that crop growth has been phenomenal. Wheat and all coarse grains are now practically headed out and, along the Hartney subdivision, barley cutting will commence about the end of the month. Haying is rapidly nearing completion and much sweet clover along the Neepawa subdivision is being harvested. Along the Rossburn, Wakoha subdivisions, fall rye crops are first class and some of the fields are beginning to turn and cutting should commence next week. The Swan River Valley still has excellent prospects and the general rains received in the province there is every likelihood that the head will fill normally and the berry harvested will be plump.

In Saskatchewan, hot weather, with drying winds, was experienced. Along the Bienfat, Avonia, Gravelbourg, Central Butte, River Hurst subdivision grain is suffering from lack of moisture, and if a paying crop is to be harvested, more rain is required immediately. Disappointing conditions exist between Melville and Waterous and, from Waterous west to Biggar, very little improvement is noted. Along the Yorkton, Rhein subdivisions crops, however, are excellent. Wheat is headed out and rye is beginning to ripen and, with continuous good weather, the crop should be above average. Along the Dogland, Unity subdivision, the period commenced with heavy rains followed by very hot weather which culminated in hail and in district along the same subdivisions a beneficial rain has improved crops which were not devastated and already estimates of 75% of an average yield are being made. Prince Albert subdivision still reports crop conditions excellent and, while hail struck Cudworth, St. Brieux and Canword, the loss will not materially decrease the general outrun of the district. All grains are far ahead of last year.

General rains through Central Alberta during last week have worked a marked improvement in crops although there will be great variations in yields. Three Hills, Stettler subdivision still needs more moisture. They are more fortunate than many districts in the southern part of the province, as recent drought has materially cut the prospective yield to lower than average. Along the Vegreville, Camrose Black Foot subdivision, weather has been very favorable and what crops that were slow and backwards have responded to the ideal weather conditions and estimates are that wheat will yield a little better than 20 bushels per acre.

North of Edmonton to Athabasca and in the Peace River country sunny days have dominated, interspersed with light showers. Wheat stands are averaging about 25 to 30 inches and heads are filling well.

The price of finished cattle is strong, about 50 cents per hundred, but the stock prices have reacted to slightly lower level. The hog market holds steady and the active demand for native lambs has strengthened the price paid for this class of stock.

Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways and his party, who have been making the trip to Skagway on the steamer Prince Henry, will be back here from Alaska tomorrow morning and will proceed East on a special train which will leave about 10 a.m.

MISSING 60 YEARS

This is the Sixtieth Anniversary of Sailing From Halifax of Ill-fated City of Boston

HALIFAX, July 22—Sixty years has passed since the ss. City of Boston left this port for England with passengers, mails and cargo. The ship was never heard from again, and to this day the story of how she was lost remains a secret of the sea. In all probability the hurricane arising a few days after the steamer sailed, accounted for her disappearance, but how long she fought, the vicinity of her surrender and other details of the drama have never been told. The absence of any wreckage following an exhaustive search made the mystery more perplexing. Two possible clues to the tragedy were reported, but the authenticity of these could not be verified.

It was at noon on Friday, January 28, 1870 ("a bad day to go to sea," as one veteran phrased it), that the City of Boston sailed down Halifax harbor en route to Queenstown. In addition to a number from New York, 41 cabin and ten steerage passengers embarked at Halifax. The list included many leading business men of Halifax who were going to the Old Country to make their annual purchase of spring and summer goods.

Reports from the troopship Orontes, which survived the storms encountered by the City of Boston, gave a good idea of the latter ship's experiences. The Orontes, carrying the 16th Regiment, left here on January 27, one day before the City of Boston's departure. On January 30, the Orontes ran into a northeast gale, which steadily became worse, ending in a hurricane lasting five hours on the night of February 5. All the regimental horses on the ship were killed during the gale, and the ship was saved only by changing the position of the men. One writer later pointed out that the "dead" cargo of the City of Boston could not be shifted if the steamer developed a list, and that she had not been built properly, as there were spaces of six feet between the deck houses and bulwarks, which would hold a great deal of water. When laid to, the ship would take in water on one side, and then more on the other, before she could recover, "drowning herself."

Intimation of Trouble

The first intimation that all was not well with the City of Boston was published as follows under the head of "Disasters" in the British Colonist of Halifax, Feb. 16, 1870: "At last accounts the mail steamer City of Boston had not arrived in England. A cable telegram from Mr. Inman, dated Liverpool, February 15, says 'I have no fears for the City of Boston. She cannot get on with these strong east winds. The New York mail boat, due last Friday, not yet reported.'"

Some re-assurance was given on February 19 by a passenger who had come to Halifax on the last trip of the City of Boston from New York. The steamer's fan had broken on her voyage to New York and a new one had been installed there. On the trip to Halifax he thought he had heard this work loose. The fan was lost en route to England, he believed, and the ship was making a slow passage under sail against head winds. As late as March 10 the City of Boston was still believed to be making slow progress due to engine trouble, but on April 8, according to the British Colonist, the case was acknowledged to be "all but hopeless."

Soon after anxiety was first felt for the ship, a pathetic incident was furnished in a false despatch: "City of Boston arrived Cork. All well." Church and fire bells began ringing all over Halifax, men and women joyfully shook hands, and the entire city was jubilant. Then it was learned that the ship had not arrived and the message was a canard.

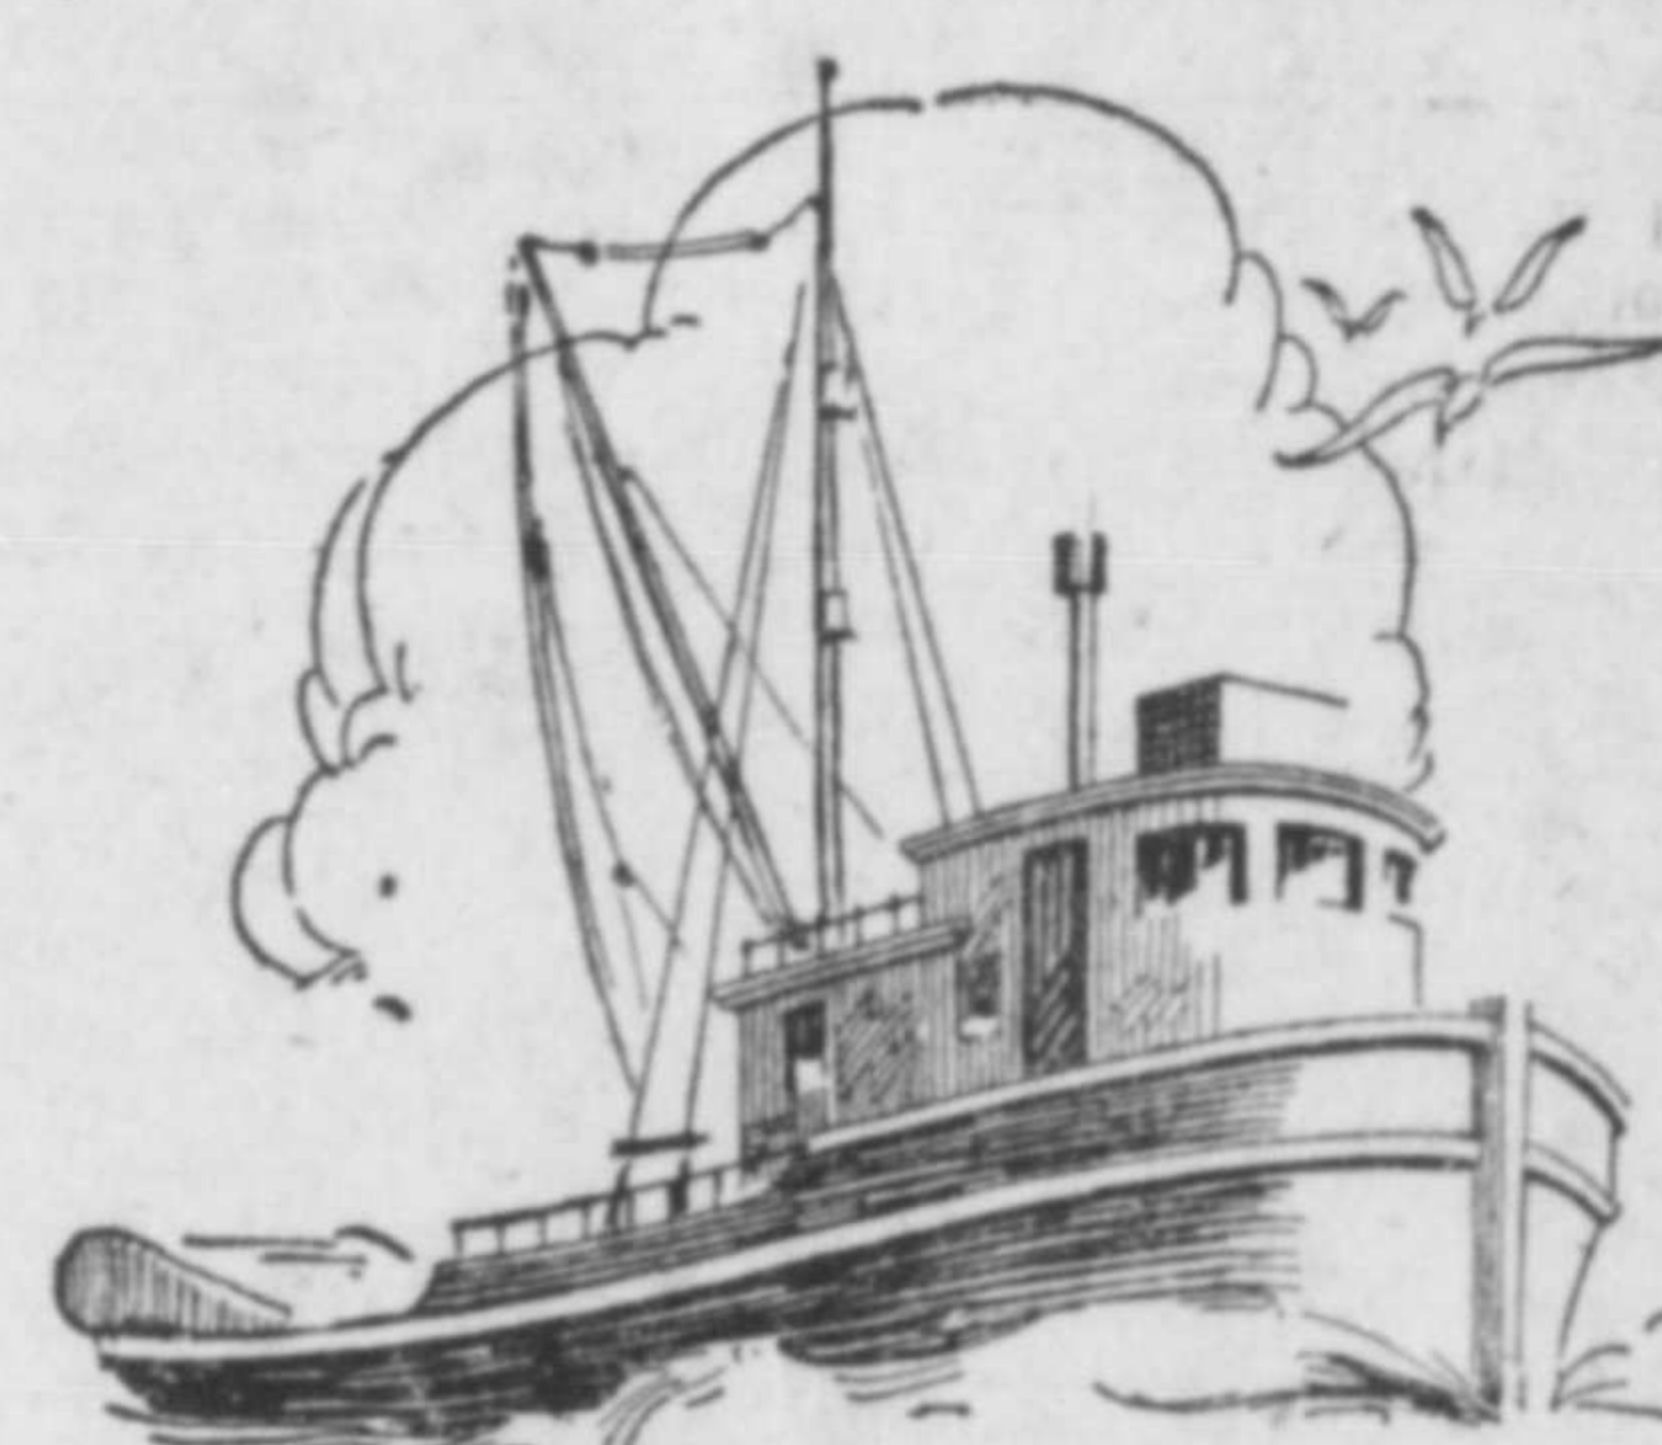

A snapshot from Tokio shows a parade of young misses of Nippon wearing the latest in Japanese early summer styles.

The steamer City of Durham zig-zagged the course between Cork and Halifax, and the City of Antwerp performed a similar service between Halifax and Cork, but no sign of the missing ship or any wreckage could be found.

On February 11, 1870, a board bearing a message that the City of Boston was sinking, was found in Cornwall. On the night of January 31, south of Sable Island, the master of the schooner Charles Tupper saw rockets shoot up three times from a steamer which shifted her position to all points of the compass. This steamer never was identified. The weather at the time was "terrific." These two reports were all that was ever offered to shed light on the mystery of the fate of the City of Boston.
