NUMBERING HOUSES

Those merchants and others who have deliveries to make in Prince Rupert complain of the lack of numbers on the houses. They say that when a new delivery boy commences he finds it very difficult to locate his customers. Boys who deliver papers also find themselves puzzled and the customers are sometimes disappointed, simply because there are no numbers on the houses.

It has been pointed out to us that the cost of metal numbers is only five cents each so anyone can afford to secure them.

DEPARTMENT OF TRADE AND COMMERCE OTTAWA, CANADA

December 6th, 1930.

To Canadian Citizens, Everywhere in Canada.

Suppose Everybody Rocked the Boat!

One of my friends, who has what he considers a refined taste in cheese and is particularly partial to imported brands, tells me that he thinks I am overstepping the bounds of good taste in keeping this "Produced in Canada" agitation up so long, and elaborating it from so many angles. In effect he says to me: "So long as the importation of cheese is lawful, whose business but my own is it if I gratify my liking for imported cheese? I pay what the law demands in the way of customs duties. Then why lecture me for doing what I have a perfect right to do?"

Whose business but his own? I am going to try to show him, in this my public answer to him, that it's everybody's business!

As an easy and effective way of doing so, an old lesson from school days comes aptly to mind. In proving his theorems, you all remember how often Euclid used to employ the "reductio ad absurdum" methodassuming the opposite of what he wanted to prove, and then showing how absurd were the deductions it involved. So let us try the same thing on this business of importing cheese, remembering always, of course, that any one of a hundred other products would serve equally well as an illustration.

First we must admit that if it's all right for some Canadians to restrict their purchases of cheese to imported cheese, it's all right for every Canadian to do the same thing. Now if not one single Canadian were to purchase Canadian-made cheese, most of the Canadian cheese factories would have no alternative but to close up, for there isn't nearly enough export trade in cheese to keep them all going.

Next, we must concede that if there is no question about the propriety of those people, who prefer imported cheese, buying imported cheese, we must likewise concede that there can be no question about the propriety of these people who prefer imported biscuits, jams, hats, shoes, motor cars or what not, buying such articles. And as before, if there can be no objection to some Canadians buying such articles, there can be no objection if every Canadian should decide to pass up every Canadian manufacturer, and buy only articles that had been made by some foreign manufacturer, employing foreign labour and using foreign materials. Result-Every Canadian factory of every kind whatsoever (excepting only those manufacturing wholly or mainly for export) closed up, hundreds of thousands of wage-earners left stranded, tradesmen deprived of the great majority of their cash customers, landlords clamouring for rents and professional men clamouring for fees that could not be collected, empty houses, empty stores, tax sales, people moving away-all for the simple reason that nobody had any income because nobody was producing anything.

Nobody, that is to say, except the Canadian farmer. But why should we assume that he would still be producing? If Canadians unanimously chose to buy imported manufactured articles in preference to domestic manufactured articles, why should they not also choose with equal propriety to buy imported farm products in preference to domestic farm products? Many Canadians already do it regularly in the case of early fruits and vegetables. So if it's all right for some of them to do it part of the time, why isn't it all right for all of them to do it all of the time?

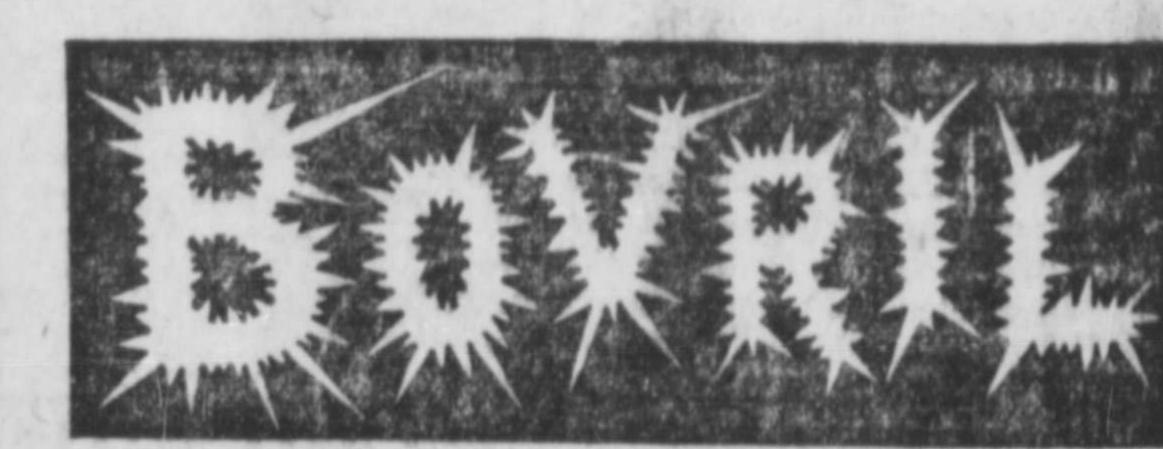

Of course by the time we got round to the point where nobody in Canada was producing anything, due to the fact that no Canadian was willing to buy a made-in-Canada product, none of us would have the wherewithal to buy the next meal. "Which is absurd," as our friend Euclid would say. Hence we are forced to the conclusion that our original assumption was incorrect. That being so, my friend should seriously consider trying to curb his appetite for imported cheese, and endeavour to satisfy it with Canadian cheese.

So to those who think that perhaps I am going a bit too far with this agitation, all I feel called upon to say is that I would rather be held guilty of overstepping the bounds of good taste in order to help my country keep within the bounds of common sense, than be given credit for keeping within the bounds of good taste when it meant letting the common sense side of the question go hang!

Very sincerely yours,

Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Daughter Is Stronger Now

"My daughter Catherine is fifteen years old. She was very irregular, often sick at her stomach and had to stay in bed two or three days at a time. One of your booklets was sent to us by mail so I got her a bottle of Vegetable Compound. Catherine has been taking it regularly and she is gaining in weight and every way. Charles MacKay, who promoted the Ferguson group of claims in the Ingenika River country and who was very well known throughout Northern British Columbia, died recently at his home in Victoria. The late Mr. MacKay was one of the pioneer miners of the Kootenay district and took a keen interest in labor organizations.

Officials of B. C. Silver report ex- the term and it does not mean that tremely favorable progress at the property recently. Cables were sent to the head offices of Selukwe Gold Mining & Finance Company in London, stating that on No. 6 level a raise was put up 550 feet from No. 2 shaft. Average values were $37 a ton over a width of five and a half feet. A test hole showed the ore to have an additional width of six feet. Operations have been resumed in this section. Some months ago drift No. 636 had been driven 982 feet and the ore zone had been exposed for a definite length of 120 feet, with values averaging $22 across a width of 10 feet. The ore located was stated to be the continuation of the Premier 4H stope. It was a feature of this section of the property that, as in the case of the Premier, the ore found was high in gold values. Indications pointed to the existence of a substantial ore body which it was believed would connect with the famous Premier 4H stope, 100 feet above, and that this ore was likely to be found to continue downwards to a depth considerably lower than that yet worked by the B. C. Silver. In March of this year further drilling disclosed the downward continuation of the ore zone 100 feet below No. 6 level, but the zone, although well silicified and highly mineralized, did not show commercial values. Operations, it would appear from the cable, have now recommenced and further news will be awaited with interest,

Miss Ragnhild Dorothea Swanson of Vancouver Becomes Bride of G. N. McTavish

A lovely wedding was solemnized on Wednesday evening of last week in Vancouver when Ragnhild of the bride's parents, 1226 West Twelfth; shaggy pale and deep pink chrysanthemums being arranged about the reception rooms for the occasion, while two standing baskets of fern banked with pastel tinted blossoms formed the background for the ceremony. The bride, who was given in marhighway construction in this disriage by her father, made a charming picture in her wedding gown of orchid lace, an imported model of exquisite simplicity, which was fashioned on long lines, with fitted bodice, and ankle-length skirt composed of three circular flounces. that point where it is planned the Over this she wore a matching jachighway shall eventually come out quette, and her corsage bouquet was on Talisman roses and lily of the valley. Both the bride and groom were unattended, and the wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Mrs. E. T. Swanson.

Mrs. Swanson, mother of the bride, chose a smart gown of mauve-figured flat crepe, while her corsage bouquet was of roses and lily of the valley, and Mrs. Mc-Tavish, mother of the groom, wore black georgette and cream lace, her corsage bouquet being of similar flowers. Centring the bride's table was a three-tier wedding cake embedded in pink tulle, while pink roses and lily of the valley were also used, arranged in silver vases. Glowing tapers in matching color shed a soft glow over the Italian cut-work cloth.

Mr. and Mrs. McTavish later left for a honeymoon in California and Mexico, the bride donning a smart tailleur of green flat crepe designed with circular skirt and bolero efrect over ochre crepe, for travelling. With this she wore matching shoes and a soft close-fitting hat turned off the face, and a dark brown muskrat coat. After a month Mr. and Mrs. McTavish will reside at the Devonshire Hotel in Vancouver before leaving to take up residence at Selwyn Inlet, Queen Charlotte
