Government Agent Was Entitled To Coroner's Fees, Document States

Former Local Official Takes Stand In Own Defence—Gives Clear and Frank Evidence—Was Cognizant of No Misdoing Whatever

Commissions by which Norman A. Watt was appointed coroner on September 30, 1924, and again on November '23 of the same year read that he was "to enjoy the office and execute the duties of coroner together with all rights, fees and privileges belonging to the office," it was brought out here yesterday afternoon at Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald's commission of inquiry into charges that Watt had received and taken wrongfully to his own use fees received from the city of Prince Rupert for services as coroner. The disclosure came from A. M. Manson K.C., counsel for Mr. Watt.

Mr. Watt was still on the stand, being examined by his own counsel, Mr. Manson, when the case was adjourned at 5:30 p.m. until 10:30 this morning.

Handled All Moneys
 Mr. McNeill was still on the stand when the inquiry resumed yesterday afternoon. Sums that Watt may have received for coroner's fees had not been accounted for in his returns to the government, witness declared. All provincial revenue from Prince Rupert was forwarded to Victoria through the government agent, Mr. McLeod, judge of the Small Debts' Court, paid fees he received through the government agent into the treasury.

Mr. McNeill described the revenue oath which had come into use in 1923. Prior to that there had merely been the oath of allegiance and oath of office for civil servants to take. Under the revenue oath, Mr. McNeill testified, the civil servant, on taking office, undertook "not to take or keep either directly or indirectly any fees or perquisites received through the execution of said office" other than his salary. "his oath had been sworn to by Watt, witness said.

Mr. McNeill then proceeded to identify certain circulars he had found in the government agent's office here. One of these had to do with the schedule of coroner's fees while another had to do with the question of witness fees for coroners.

INVESTIGATE SHORT SALE WHEAT U.S.

Premier Bennett Offers Assistance To Chicago Board of Trade In Its Inquiry

CHICAGO, Sept. 23:—Further information is awaited today by the business conduct committee of the Chicago Board of Trade before pressing for an investigation of the hitherto unprecedented charges of an attempted manipulation by a foreign government as a result of the charges that the Soviet Government had been selling wheat short in an effort to depress prices.

In the meantime the North American wheat export business is virtually halted as Russia continued to offer large quantities of wheat abroad ten cents under prices for similar wheat from this continent.

Canada evinced deep concern in the investigation and Premier Bennett offered any assistance his government could give to the United States farm board in its inquiry.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 23:—The Winnipeg grain exchange today sought to trace messages signed by the name of James Stewart, a prominent Winnipeg grain man, that were wired to the principal exchanges on the continent stating that Canadian wheat pools were in a shaky financial position and would be taken over by the provincial governments, according to a statement made today by A. P. White. They were not sent by Mr. Stewart. Denials have already been sent out.

UNABLE TO SHAKE WATT AS WITNESS

Commission to Meet Again in Victoria on October 2

For nearly two hours this morning Norman Watt was on the witness stand and during the whole of that time no new fact of any importance was brought out. He successfully resisted all attempts of counsel to shake him in his statement that he thoroughly believed he was entitled to the coroner's fees, that he had been so instructed when he took office and that it had never occurred to him that there was anything wrong in doing so.

At the conclusion of the taking of evidence and before hearing the argument of counsel, Mr. Justice Macdonald announced that at the conclusion he would adjourn the commission to meet again finally on October 2 at Victoria and that two days notice of any new matter to be brought forward then would be given on either side. This was objected to by A. M. Manson for Mr. Watt but the commissioner insisted.

LOCAL SESSION OF WATT ENQUIRY IS CONCLUDED TODAY

After conclusion of Mr. A. M. Manson's address to His Lordship, the enquiry into the dismissal of Norman A. Watt as government agent here concluded at 1:50 this afternoon as far as the session at Prince Rupert was concerned. The hearing will resume next Thursday morning in Victoria when it is possible further evidence may be produced. Mr. Manson, in his address, contended that Watt had not acted illegally in keeping coroner's fees for his own use. He further argued that Watt had certainly not kept these fees because of motives of dishonesty or through lack of good faith.

Dumping of Grain and Timber By Russia Causes Flurry On Markets of World, Especially Great Britain

LONDON, Sept. 23:—While sales of Russian wheat have been attracting attention in the United States and complaints of Soviet dumping of their product has been voiced at Geneva, a great outcry has developed in interested quarters here against alleged dumping of Russian grain, timber and other commodities in this country.

The Soviet Government, it is stated, has chartered a phenomenal number of steamers, mostly British, for Black Sea grain and Archangel timber trades. Fifty ships were chartered at Cardiff alone and the total tonnage is said to be nearly 600,000.

The grain market here is in a state of nervous uncertainty.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE

Today Premier Bennett is leaving for the Imperial Conference in London to represent Canada with a new policy and a new personnel. Premier Scullin will also be a new premier who has never before visited England.

The conference will deal with the outstanding question of inter-imperial trade and while it is likely to be intensely interesting and rather spectacular it seems doubtful whether much will be done of a permanent nature. Great Britain is almost a free trade country while all the Dominions are protectionist.

There seems to be a trend in Britain also toward protection and it is likely that the present conference will help to influence that country in the same direction. When all countries of the world have their tariff walls so high that it is with difficulty they are scaled, then all may turn their attention to pulling them down or to arranging for reciprocity within groups such as the countries of the British Empire.

Mr. Bennett, as has been said, will go with a new policy. He will represent this country with dignity and with a good majority in Parliament at home will be in a position to speak with authority. That is better than having a government composed of several groups and the heads of the government not knowing whether Parliament will carry out the policy he puts forward. Prior to the election there seemed a danger that this might have been the situation.

ELECTION IN BRITAIN

Exchanges from Great Britain all seem to look for an early election in that country. Conservatives are rallying their forces, although somewhat divided over the question of protection and free trade. However, it seems likely that the protectionist group will eventually get control of the party.

The fate of Parliament still lies with the Liberals in the House and they have generally supported the Labor Government and kept them from defeat. Possibly there may be brought about a new alignment for the next election with protectionists on one side and free traders on the other.

While Labor has so far supported free trade, it has brought forward in place of protection, a policy of bulk purchases of staple commodities which is something of a socialistic step but with a tendency toward protection.

Today there are two million unemployed in Britain, a million more than there was at the time of the election of the Labor Government. The cost of keeping these people is tremendous and it is very difficult to say what will be the opinion of the electors in regard to it. Should an election come soon, the government will have the handicap of fighting a hard time election, much the same condition that defeated Mackenzie King in Canada.

GOVERNMENT AGENT WAS ENTITLED TO CORONER'S FEES, DOCUMENT STATES.

stables. The letter in regard to the police officers' witness fees pointed out that three officers had received witness fees but had been ordered to remit same. This was dated July, 1924. A circular of May 1922 pointed out that it was in contravention of the Civil Service Act for any salaried employee to receive and keep any fees arising out of his duties other than his salary. Another circular of September, 1925 gave instructions that payrolls should be more fully endorsed with regard to absence from duty. Another circular of March, 1926 had to do with coroner's expenses.

Generally speaking, the witness knew of no member of the civil service who was receiving and keeping fees arising out of his position over and above his salary except under special terms of appointment or by order-in-council. He did not know whether or not the coroner at Cumberland was receiving and keeping coroner's fees.

Since the Watt incident, Mr. Manson asked Mr. McNeill in cross-examination, had any demand been made of any coroner to account for his fees? Mr. McNeill replied that, as far as he knew, no such demand had been made of any one.

Reading from reports of the various auditors, Mr. McNeill told the inquiry that in 1925 the books of the local government agency had been "found to be very neatly and correctly kept." In 1927, "the records were in very good order and the books correct and well kept." In 1928, the books had been found correct and, on the whole, in very good order." Two or three months after Mr. Watt's dismissal in 1929, the auditor had reported: "The revenue was correctly accounted for and the books were found to be in good order."

Mr. McNeill agreed that the auditors had made no complaint or comment on Mr. Watt's failure to turn in coroner's fees.

Mr. Manson inquired if he was correct in believing that Prince Rupert was the only place of its size in the province where the government agent was called upon to carry out the duties of coroner.

"It looks like neglect in distributing the patronage properly," remarked His Lordship facetiously. "That is very seldom overlooked."

It was at this point that Mr. Manson introduced the matter of the statutory commission for coroners. Mr. McNeill stated that he had never seen this form. Had he been familiar with its contents, he most certainly would have referred to the attorney general's department for a ruling. The printed form of commission was examined by His Lordship.

The matter of calling Mr. Watt as a witness then came up. Finally, it was agreed that Mr. Watt might be called after the government evidence had been completed. Mr. Manson declined to have Mr. Watt go on the stand until after all government witnesses had been heard. "Then we will know what we have to reply to," he explained.

Walter Gale

Walter Gale, sub-inspector of provincial police, Victoria, and former court registrar and coroner here, was the next witness. He stated that he had received fees as coroner here and kept same, understanding that he was entitled to do so. Before he (Mr. Gale) had left Prince Rupert, a government auditor, A. S. Tyrer, had informed him that he would be the last coroner to retain inquest fees in Prince Rupert as there was to be a change in the procedure. It was some time after this that witness had instructed Mr. Watt in his duties as coroner. Having the knowledge he had, he could hardly conceive having told Mr. Watt that he was entitled to retain coroner's fees.

It might have been a year prior to his leaving Prince Rupert that he had had the conversation with Mr. Tyrer regarding coroner's fees. Mr. Gale admitted under cross-examination by Mr. Manson. Up to the time he had left Prince Rupert, there had been no change in the matter of retaining coroner's fees, Mr. Gale stated. Mr. Gale could not recall a conversation with Mr. Watt in the course of which he had informed him that the coroner might retain the fees. Witness said that Col. McMullin had advised him that he had retained the fees and that he (witness) might continue to do so. This practice was known all over the office. No secret was made of it. Conducting inquests often meant that routine office work got behind and it might be necessary to go back to the office nights to clean it up. The work of a coroner was very tedious and undesirable. No demand had ever been made of witness to return coroner's fees which he had retained. Witness had received his commission as coroner in November, 1922 and had left Prince Rupert in November, 1924.

Mr. McNeill, recalled to the stand, testified that no auditor had ever been authorized to state that a change in procedure as to disposal of coroner's fees was impending.

City Treasurer D. J. Matheson went back in the stand. He tendered as exhibits checks that had been paid to Col. McMullin and Mr. Gale for coroner's services. Correspondence between Mr. Matheson and Oscar Bass, deputy attorney general, last October in regard to coroner's fees was ruled inadmissible, being irrelevant.

Mr. Watt On Stand

Mr. Watt, on taking the stand, identified certain papers and correspondence with respect to his appointment as government agent, coroner and collector. He gave the details as to when inquests were held. He told of other fees of various kinds that he had collected and turned over to the government. It had always been his belief that he was entitled to retain the coroner's fees. He told of a conversation with Mr. Gale in which the latter had told him that he was entitled to keep these fees. "I am absolutely immovable on that statement," declared Mr. Watt.

Mr. Watt then gave particulars as to his income. In 1925 he had made an income tax return of $3,200 including $2,100 salary $500 for official administrator's fees and $600 in lieu of free rent. The coroner's fees were not part of his regular salary and it had never dawned upon him to include them in his income tax return.

Sometimes he had placed these coroner's fees in his bank account and sometimes had cashed them for incidental expenditure. Mr. Watt said in reply to a question by His Lordship.

He had received roughly $35 a year for coroner's fees. Mr. Watt said in reply to a question by his own counsel, Mr. Manson. He had received $500 each year as official administrator. Each year he had made an allowance in his income tax return for free rent. He gave further particulars as to the conversation with Mr. Gale in respect to coroner's fees.

This opens every tiny food cell. It makes Puffed Grains as completely digestible as though they had been cooked for hours. Hence they become virtually as nourishing as hot cooked cereals.

And how crisp ... crunchy ... delectably good to eat Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice are. They melt in your mouth. They give just the splendid grain nourishment everyone needs. FESTIVAL IS SUCCESSFUL

Harvest Observance By Salvation Army Concluded With Auction Last Evening

The Salvation Army's annual Harvest Festival proceedings came to a close last night with a very successful auction sale of donated goods in the Citadel. There was a large attendance at the sale and the financial returns for Army winter relief work were very satisfactory.

The auction sale was preceded by a parade through downtown streets. The parade was led by Mr. and Mrs. Moses Alexsee who wore the unique garb of Indian berry pickers. Milkmaids and farmers followed in procession. After the arrival of the procession at the Hall, the proceedings were opened with song by Adjutant William Kerr, Mrs. Kerr offering prayer. Sam Woods, the auctioneer, was then introduced to the audience and proceeded to carry out his work. There was keen bidding for the fruit, vegetables, etc. which was offered and every article was sold.

Adjutant Kerr stated this morning that the Army was very appreciative to all those who had donated articles of fruit or produce or assisted otherwise in connection with the Harvest Festival.

OFFICERS OF HOLY NAME

The annual election of officers of the Holy Name Society of the Catholic Cathedral Parish was held last evening in the parish school hall. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, James McNulty; Vice-President, Richard Moore; Secretary, George Lyons. Reverend Father Webb, O.M.I. rector, presided and outlined the plans for society work. Great interest was manifested by the large and enthusiastic attendance of men in the elaborate program of parish activities during the fall and winter months. Many questions involving the financial, social, recreational and educational affairs were discussed. The Holy Name Society will take an active part in the annual Catholic School Bazaar to be held November 6 and 7.

SPORT CHAT

Ross Oatman popular account of the Department of Public Works who visits Prince Rupert every month, won the men's singles championship of the Anyox Tennis Club recently when he downed Jerry Macintyre in straight sets, 6-1, 6-4, 6-1. The day previously Oatman won his place in the final by eliminating George Lee 6-2, 6-4, 6-4. According to the Anyox Herald, "Oatman played a hard, consistent game and deserves great credit for his victory, his game being steady and accurate at all times, which pretty well tells the story. He thus retains the championship which he also won last year."

UNABLE TO SHAKE WATT AS WITNESS

The examination of Mr. Watt was mostly of a technical nature in which it was shown that he was paid for city inquests but not for those conducted or originating in the unorganized districts. There was an occasional case at places such as Stewart or Terrace but no charge was made in those cases as he had been specially instructed not to do so.

Mr. Watt said it was difficult to get information when he took over the office as the atmosphere in the department was decidedly frigid and not congenial.

The accounts were audited regularly by the department at which times he discussed financial matters with them but did not remember ever discussing coroner's fees. It had never once been mentioned. C. L. Monroe was his successor in office and he had instructed him similarly in regard to the fees. Mr. Monroe was later called and confirmed this and said he had not kept the fees as a discussion regarding its legality arose.

Mr. Watt said he had remained about a month in charge of the office at much personal inconvenience to himself.

Mr. Locke would not let Mr. Watt tell about the famous interview with Mr. Shelly at the time he was dismissed as he claimed it was political and had nothing to do with the facts into which they were inquiring.

Mr. Manson suggested that Mr. Locke was much worried over this matter and the reply of Mr. Locke was that he had never been less worried than he was then.

His Lordship to Mr. Watt: "Do you take the stand yet that the fees were yours?" Mr. Watt intimated that he did.

RAISE FOR PREMIER

Committee Recommends $10,000 Increase in Macdonald's Salary

LONDON, Sept. 23.—A proposal to raise the salary of the Prime Minister by $10,000 a year has aroused considerable discussion here. It was the only definite recommendation of the Select Committee on Ministers' Remuneration, which issued a report recently. The committee had examined five witnesses—Sir Warren Fisher, Permanent Secretary to the Treasury, Mr. Balwin, Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Macdonald, and Viscount Hailsham—and as a result agreed that the salary should be raised from $25,000 to $35,000.

"Not only is his remuneration actually less than that of two of his colleagues," states the report "but the circumstances of his position render his salary of less value than that of any other minister. The house in Downing Street, which he is practically compelled to occupy, is admittedly very inconvenient and costly to maintain; and he has to provide out of his salary for entertainments which cannot be classified as official functions properly chargeable to the Government Hospitality Fund."

In Canada the leader of the official opposition receives a salary of $10,000, equivalent to that of a cabinet minister, but it is not so in England. The report goes on to remark of an English Prime Minister: "His position, great as it is, is at best a temporary one, and it must not be forgotten that when he goes out of office he probably becomes leader of the Opposition with a salary of $2,000 a year and no pension; and while his colleagues can as ex-Ministers legitimately supplement their incomes in various ways, he alone is debarred from so doing."

The report summarizes the main recommendations of the committee of 1920, which included the proposal that the Prime Minister's salary should be $40,000, and that all other members of the Cabinet should receive the same total salary. At present several ministers receive only $10,000 while the Lord High Chancellor draws $50,000. The Attorney-General is given $35,000 and fees, the Solicitor-General $30,000 and fees. The Committee would make no definite recommendations regarding these anomalies, and concluded:

"Your committee realize that one of the obstacles in the way of placing Ministers' salaries on an equitable basis is the natural reluctance of any government to propose an increase, but they suggest, as an act of justice, that all parties should co-operate in carrying out the recommendation in regard to the Prime Minister's salary."

The varying fortunes of the Prime Minister make the salary paid an important consideration for some, while others need not give it a thought. Gladstone inherited great wealth from his father, but Disraeli repeatedly ran into debt. The Earl of Rosebery married into the Rothschild family and secured a vast fortune. The late Lord Oxford and Asquith was less successful at making money than his literary wife, and found himself a poor man in his old age only to be relieved by the gifts of friends. Mr. Baldwin is a wealthy manufacturer, but Mr. Macdonald's meagre income as a journalist has never done more than keep him out of debt. In his first days as Prime Minister, Mr. Macdonald is said to have been a strap hanger on his way home each night not being able to afford a car. It must be remembered that a fourth of his present salary is swallowed up in income tax.

By comparison with Mr. Macdonald's allowance of $25,000, President Hoover's salary of $75,000 seems generous enough, together with his travelling allowance of $25,000. The Prime Minister of Canada receives only $15,000 and his Cabinet Ministers $10,000 each. Mr. Scullin of Australia is still lower with $10,500, while his Cabinet Ministers are held at $8,000.

Fewer Tourists During Season But Valuable

WINNIPEG, Sept. 23.—While the tourist business this season may not equal that of 1929, this fourth largest industry has doubled in five years' time, according to C. W. Johnston, Montreal, General Passenger Traffic Manager, for the Canadian National Railways, who is in Winnipeg today.

In 1929, Mr. Johnston pointed out, the business provided a total revenue of about $300,000,000 most of which came from American visitors who left in this country forty percent of the vast sum they expended in pleasure and business travel outside of the United States. "As a result of the economical situation across the line," said Mr. Johnston, "a number of those who previously travelled extensively in Canada did not return this year but on the other hand, many Americans visited here for the first time and generally speaking, the tourist trade has been more than fair, to say the least."

AROUND PRINCE RUPERT
Silver Cup to Get More Finances—Woodbine Work
Proceeding—Stewart Property to Be Sold at Auction

A small crew of men has been kept at work on the Silver Cup property in the Hazelton district during the past summer but the mine is only on a maintenance basis for the present. The company is only partially financed to continue operations but officials hope to bring in sufficient new money to enable resumption of development work before long, possibly before snow flies this fall. It is not proposed to start the mill again until ore sufficient for six months' operations is assured, officials state. As values are in silver, lead and zinc, no doubt the low prevailing prices for these metals are a factor in the delay in financing further operations.

Development work on the George Enterprise property at Stewart has closed down after a season which was featured by ideal weather conditions which enabled the crew to carry out a far more extensive program of work than would have been possible under ordinary conditions. Starting last June with a crew of seven men, the property was given an intensive prospecting which yielded very satisfactory results and will have an important bearing on future developments. In addition to numerous open cuts, tunnels A and 15 were considerably extended during the season with results apparently very satisfactory to the management. On the Heather group, which was added to the original holdings in 1928, work was confined this season to developing the discovery made last fall and here again the results were said to be very pleasing. Since the George Enterprise was incorporated in February 1928, the company has actively and efficiently explored its large holdings. The property consists of 21 surveyed claims situated near the head of Bear River valley. A well conditioned camp is maintained and mining operations are served by modern equipment including a 220-foot portable compressor with direct connection to a 60 h.p. gas engine.

Work on the Woodbine property at Stewart is proceeding apace and is centred upon the sinking of a shaft to intercept gold ores which were shown in diamond drill holes last spring. It is evident that the management has great faith in the future of the property and is making a genuine attempt to prove up another producer.

Engineers of the Premier Gold Mining Co. have been examining several properties in the Portland Canal district during the past summer, the latest to receive attention having been the A. and T. on Bear Lake ridge. Last month the Terminus was inspected and the Ruby Silver came in for attention two weeks ago. No reports of the examinations are, of course, available.

Pursuant to a judgment against the Marmot Consolidated Mines Ltd. handed down by Judge F. McB. Young in County Court here in favor of Joseph Ryan, substitute for Joseph K. Green, all the estate, right, title and interest of the defendant company are to be sold at auction in Prince Rupert on September 26. This includes 39 mineral claims and fractions owned by the company at the forks of Marmot River comprising the group known as the Marmot Consolidated.

With the completion of the contract let early in June, work on the Windsor group on Bitter Creek has closed down for the winter. The program included driving two tunnels, one 80 feet and the other 50 feet and it is learned that results were very satisfactory. In addition to the tunnel work, some open cuts were made. Jim Landers was in charge of the work this season and, under his direction, it is said that the progress made has considerably enhanced the outlook for this promising property.

William Hanna, well known Anxox prospector and original discoverer of the famous Hidden Creek property, is a visitor in the city, having arrived this morning on the Catala from the smelter town.

TIBET IS ISOLATED

Priestly Class Jealous Rulers of Closed Country—Many of Inhabitants Nomadic

MELBOURNE, Aust., Sept. 23.—Having lived for more than 20 years on the border line between China and Tibet, Mr. R. Cunningham, who is at present at Melbourne, has gained an extensive knowledge of life in Tibet, which is probably the least known inhabited country in the world. Populated by more than 6,000,000 people, Tibet is bordered by Russia on the north, India on the south, China on the east, and Persia on the west. Four high mountain ranges correspond with these boundaries, and Tibet may only be entered by high, snow-capped passes from 14,000 to 20,000 feet above sea-level.

"It seems as if nature had conspired with the lamas to make Tibet a closed country," said Mr. Cunningham. "Apart from the fact that no person, other than a Tibetan, is allowed to enter the country, it would be difficult for one to live in or near Tibet, because the height above sea-level makes the atmosphere so rarified." Relative of Sadhu Sundar Singh, an Indian Christian who visited Australia several years ago, were found by Mr. Cunningham at Darjeeling in North India in March. Sundar Singh was taken prisoner when he first visited Tibet, and he was told that if he returned he would be put to death. It was rumored, however, that he had died of cholera.

Having learned to speak the Tibetan language, Mr. Cunningham has frequently conversed with the lamas who pass into China, and from them he has obtained information of the political and religious organization of the country. The whole basis of its life, he said, was religious; the supreme ruler, the Dalai Lama, being both the religious and political head. There were several cities with from 5,000 to 7,000 inhabitants, all of whom belong to the priestly caste of lamas. The remainder of the population consists of Nomads searching pasture for their herds. The lamas were also the military force of Tibet.

STOP CONSTIPATION AT THE START

You May Pay If You Don't

When you realize that about 90% of all sickness begins with constipation, you won't want to take chances. If you have the symptoms—bad breath, coated tongue, always tired—put a stop to them now!

But do it the natural way. Not with pills and drugs, which give but temporary relief and must be taken in increasing doses. Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—an appetizing, deliciously flavored cereal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN sweeps the system clean of wastes and impurities. Its action is natural; the roughage carries with it the poisons which clog your system.

In addition, ALL-BRAN is rich in iron. Scientific research shows that nearly all this iron goes into the blood, making it give the rich glow of healthy color.

You'll like ALL-BRAN. Ready-to-eat with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Physicians recommend it. And we guarantee it to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. Two tablespoons daily—with every meal, in recurring cases.

Start now! Today, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers in the red-and-green package. Served in hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.
