Mrs. Johnson said it was thought that the joint convention would have a splendid effect in bringing together the fishery authorities and encouraging the idea of co-operation between the two countries on matters of general interest to both such as fish conservation.

WORLD WAR IS LOOMING

Moderator of United Church Says Only Ministers and Laymen Can Prevent Conflict

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 24:—The threat of another world war looms on the horizon, according to Rev. Dr. Fred Smith, moderator of the congregational churches of the States, in addressing the general council of the United Church of Canada here.

"The world is drifting toward another great war," Dr. Smith declared, "and only the influence of ministers and church laymen can prevent another explosion which might destroy civilization."

The economic distress of today, was a legacy of the great war, the speaker maintained. To the same course he traced the downfall of political freedom.

Many Warships Seen

Dr. Smith, who recently returned from a tour of Europe, in behalf of the world alliance for good-will throughout the churches, declared that in all the Mediterranean ports which he had visited, there were at least four warships, and in one he had counted 51.

Further alluding to political freedom, Dr. Smith said, "In seven or eight countries which enjoyed constitutional rule 10 years ago, the people are now under the heel of sword-rattling dictators, and Mussolini is the greatest danger of them all."

Tourist Traffic By Automobile Shows Increase

Tourists entering Canada by automobile from the United States increased 27% in number during the first six months of 1930, as compared with 1929, according to special figures compiled for The Financial Post. This is a startling increase in view of the fact that tourist trade in 1930 has been continually rumored to be lagging far behind that of last year.

Total tourist traffic entering Canada by automobile from the United States during this period amounted to 1,814,182 cars which compares with 1,427,787 cars entering in the same period of 1929. No figures for the half-year were compiled prior to 1929 so further comparison is impossible.

Snow Covered Prairie Provinces This Morning and Thermometer Dropped Below Freezing Points

WINNIPEG, Sept. 24:—Snow blanketed the country an inch deep over a wide section of Alberta and Saskatchewan today after one of the earliest snow storms in years. The temperature dropped to freezing point and below last night in both provinces and strong winds carried flurries of snow over the grain reaped prairies throughout the night and on into the forenoon.

Telegraph and telephone lines were grounded by force of the wind. Scores of poles were broken off. Wire communication today was almost completely disrupted between Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Manson Finds It Difficult to Reconcile Paltry Watt Charges With Actions of Dishonest Man

"It is difficult indeed to reconcile such paltry charges as have been brought against Mr. Watt with the actions of a dishonest man," declared A. M. Manson K.C. on Tuesday afternoon in making a vigorous defence of Norman A. Watt, former government agent at Prince Rupert, before Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald's commission of inquiry into charges laid by the government against Mr. Watt.

Mr. Manson questioned if the government seriously contended that Mr. Watt had acted dishonestly or with lack of good faith. It was notable that no demand had been made of Walter Gale and others for return of coroner's fees which they admitted themselves that they had collected and kept for their own use.

Mr. Manson intimated that his argument would be divided into two parts: first, that Mr. Watt had acted with good faith and honesty in retaining the coroner's fees, second, the technical question of the law as to whether or not he was entitled to keep those fees.

Society Circus and Dance Is Expected to Be Largest Event of Season For Gymnasium Fund

At a meeting of the committee of the Rotary Club last night it was definitely decided to make the society circus and dance at Exhibition Hall on October 9 one of the outstanding events of the year in the matter of raising money for the new gymnasium building.

In the hall the main floor will be reserved for dancing, while around the sides will be many of the attractions of a fair including wheels of chance, fortune telling and a dozen other kinds of amusement.

Among the prizes already donated for this unique affair is a ton of herring bait for halibut fishing, given by the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Company. This will not be included in the grand tombola but there will be a separate drawing for it.

A unique prize which is included in the Grand Tombola is a free operation for appendicitis by Dr. W. T. Kergin. This must be taken within one year from the time of winning it and it is not transferable, but the winner does not have to take the operation, especially if he has already lost his appendix.

A list of the prizes will be published later when it will be seen that this is to be the biggest event of its kind ever attempted in Prince Rupert. Two thousand tickets have been printed and these will be sold either individually or in books as

MR. BRADY'S APPOINTMENT

Friends of J. C. Brady will be pleased to hear of his appointment to a good position at Ottawa in the employ of the Federal Government. Because he was beaten politically does not mean that Prince Rupert people do not like him personally. Everyone has a soft spot for him and his political opponents will be just as pleased as were his political supporters that he has secured a position that will give him scope for his many accomplishments and provide him with a good living. The Daily News joins in extending its best wishes to Mr. Brady in his new work.

SOVIET ACTIVITIES

It is difficult to understand all the varied activities of the Bolshevik organization which seems to have its headquarters in Russia. Undoubtedly the trouble in China is largely if not wholly engineered from Russia and now the final move to slump the markets of Britain and United States just at a time when those countries were suffering from financial depression seems like an effort to try to fan a communist uprising in those countries.

The devotees of the party seem to have both brains and money, two essentials in carrying out any undertaking. That they will fail seems certain but the effort is well timed. The sending of fake wires in the name of a well known and reputable head of a grain firm and the selling of the market short on the Chicago wheat exchange were clever plans touching weak spots in our system and they knew it. It is difficult to say what the next move may be.

COMPLIMENT TO CANADA

Having the Imperial Conference postpone its session for a day in order to accommodate Premier Bennett was a compliment to Canada. This country looms larger today in Britain than it ever did before and without representation from this country the conference opening would have fallen very flat.

THE WATT INQUIRY

To the people who have read the reports of the Watt inquiry comment is unnecessary. To Prince Rupert people Mr. Watt needed no commission of inquiry to free him from the charges levelled against him. They knew him and his work and that was sufficient. Perusal of the evidence and of the strained efforts to catch the former government agent in some trap will simply add to the respect in which he is held here and to detestation of the political efforts which were made to discredit him.

Mr. Manson pointed out that, prior to his appointment as government agent, and the number of offices connected therewith, Mr. Watt had not been a civil servant and was unfamiliar with the work. Unfortunately, too, at first, he had not had the co-operation of his staff. Under the circumstances, it might have been possible that he had overlooked the specific instructions regarding coroner's fees even if such instructions had existed.

On the other hand, Mr. Watt's commission of appointment, bearing the great seal of the province and the signature of the Lieutenant-governor, surely as formal and impressive a document as the crown could possibly issue, read that it was his (Mr. Watt's) privilege "to have, hold and enjoy the office of coroner together with all rights, fees and privileges" appertaining thereto. Was it to be expected that any ordinary business man would seek something in the statutes to contradict such a document as that?

Furthermore, rightly or wrongly, the established practice was for government agents acting as coroners to receive and keep these fees. Mr. Watt had been informed by Mr. Gale, his predecessor, that this was the practice and Mr. Watt himself, on being dismissed, had informed his successor, Mr. Monroe, that he was entitled to keep the fees. There was not the least concealment or secrecy about the practice.

Mr. Manson referred to the consistent reports of the auditors during the years while Mr. Watt was government agent, stating that his books were "in very good order." Never had any reference been made by the auditors to the matter of coroner's fees. Furthermore, the auditors had known of the practice here of keeping coroner's fees.

If the practice was wrong, why had the slightest mention never been made of it?

Nothing Concealed

Reports of each inquest, Mr. Manson continued, had been forwarded to the attorney-general's department but no inquiry had ever been made as to the disposal of the fees. It was to be assumed that the Department of Finance had some knowledge of the ordinary run of things in connection with such matters as these. In spite of this, Mr. McNeill, the chief auditor, had said that, as far as he knew, no revenue had ever been received by the province from coroner's fees. Mr. Manson recited several other places in the province, beside Prince Rupert, where the government agent also acted as coroner.

Never had Mr. Watt received anything, contended Mr. Manson, that would put him on his guard or suggest that his commission read incorrectly in this matter.

It was reasonable to believe Mr. Watt when he said that he had completely overlooked including these irregular and trivial coroner's fees in his income tax return.

In view of Mr. Watt's splendid record in all other matters, Mr. Manson could hardly see how His Lordship could find that he had deliberately endeavored to conceal the matter of the coroner's fees. It was difficult to reconcile such a paltry matter as this with intentional dishonesty.

What conclusion was to be drawn from the fact that the government had never taken steps to have others return moneys which they had received for coroner's fees, inquired Mr. Manson.

On the question of the law and Mr. Watt's right or otherwise to retain coroner's fees, Mr. Manson contended that a coroner was not actually a civil servant. If a coroner were not a civil servant, then the clause in the Revenue Act providing that a civil servant was not entitled to receive any fees over and above his monthly salary did not apply to him.

Mr. Manson argued further that fees paid by a municipality to a coroner for his services were not public moneys. In Vancouver the city paid its fees direct to the coroner and the province never had anything to do with them. If this was the practice in Vancouver, why should it not be the same in Prince Rupert? If coroner's fees were not public funds in one place, he could not see how they could be called such in another place.

Mr. Manson could not see how the Revenue Act could be considered to have anything to do with the coroner or his fees. The whole tenor of the Revenue Act had to do with the general sources of income with which the government carried on, submitted Mr. Manson.

And, if it came down to that, Mr. Manson submitted, the crown, by its own overt act, had issued clear instructions to Mr. Watt that he was entitled to receive and keep these coroner's fees.

The real downright essence of the whole matter was: had this man acted dishonorably or dishonestly?

Government's Argument

In submitting his argument, C. H. Locke K.C., government counsel, contended that Mr. Watt was subject to be governed by the Revenue oath by which he had sworn that he would not receive or take any fees over and above his regular salary. Mr. Locke argued that the wording of Mr. Watt's commission was ineffective if not justified by the order-in-council under which he had received his appointment. The order-in-council under which Mr. Watt was appointed coroner provided that he was to receive no additional salary.

His Lordship remarked that he could not appreciate Mr. Locke's argument that Mr. Watt's commission was dependent upon an order-in-council. The commission said plainly that Mr. Watt was entitled to the fees.

Mr. Manson pointed out that Mr. Watt had had no knowledge of the order-in-council. All he had to guide him was the commission.

Mr. Locke insisted that the commission had no more force than the order-in-council which said Mr. Watt was entitled to no additional remuneration through being coroner. It was as obligatory that coroner's fees should be accounted for as the many other fees that Mr. Watt had handled. Definite instructions with regard to each form of fee could not be expected to be issued.

System Responsible

If Mr. Watt knew that he was not entitled to retain the money derived from coroner's fees, Mr. Locke submitted, then the system enabled him to conceal it by simply not giving a receipt from the general receipt book. In rendering his account to the city for coroner's service, he had not used government paper. During the years from 1924 to 1929, the coroner's fees had never been included in his income tax returns. Was it probable that he had forgotten all those five years to include these fees in his returns?

If Mr. Watt relied on his commission in the matter of being entitled to receive coroner's fees, why had he not rendered accounts to the attorney-general's department covering inquests held in unorganized districts? Was it not clear to Mr. Watt that he was in a different category from other coroners who were not in the civil service? Was it not reasonable to expect that he might have inquired from the department or from the auditors as to his rights to keep coroner's fees?

Did not the holding of an inquest involve the sending of returns to the attorney-general's department, inquired His Lordship. Mr. Locke replied that the department received a return as to the evidence but no mention had been made in any of the letters to the department as to fees.

Newfoundland's Unusual Summer

Ancient Colony Notes Remarkable Crop and Vegetation Growth Best Summer in Years

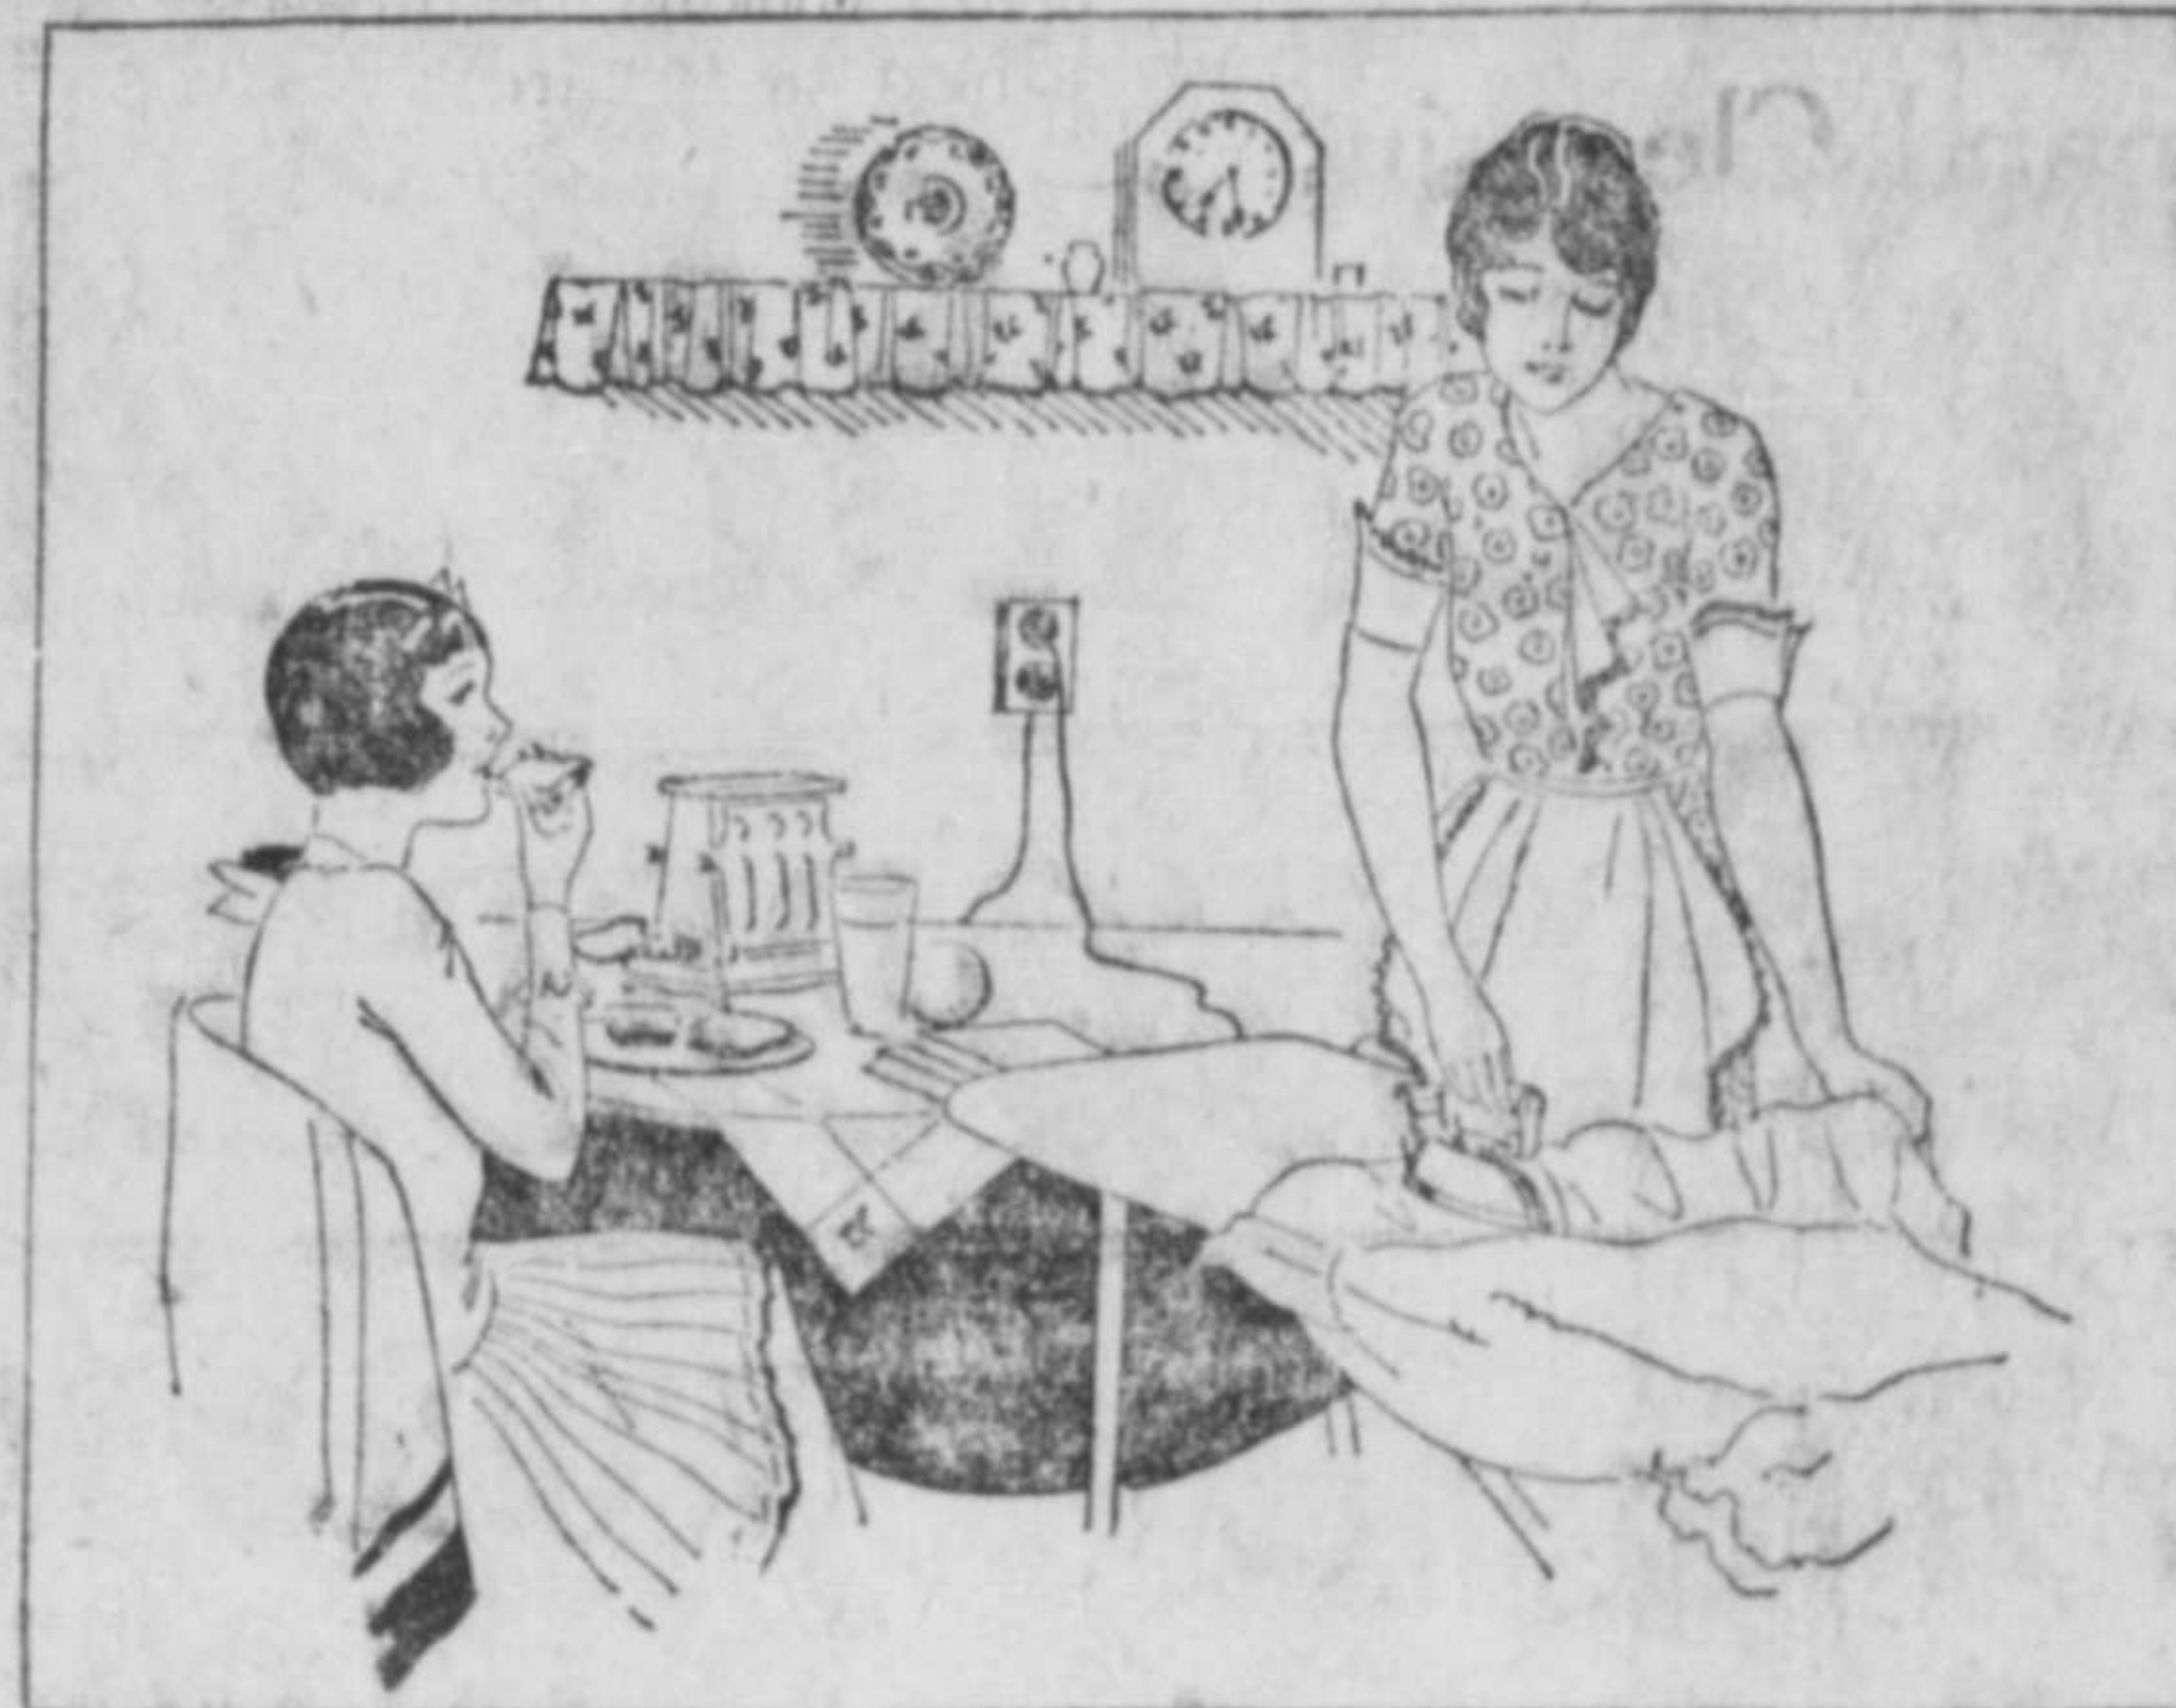

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Sept. 24:—The summer of 1930 will go down on the records as the longest, finest and warmest Newfoundland has experienced in some years. Prevailing southwest and westerly winds brought long periods of hot sunny days and the result was an abnormal stimulus to vegetation and crops. Corn grew and ripened to a remarkable extent. Sweet corn which usually attains only a small size in the Ancient Colony, grew to a size and quality equal to the Quebec product. Tomatoes grew and ripened out of doors while the cucumber, marrow and squash beds were amazingly prolific.

Forest growth was marked and observers noted a lengthening up to two feet in young saplings over a period of only a few months.

Naturally enough the same kindly winds that brought the fair weather, brought down from the St. Lawrence valley a great many severe electric storms, far more than usually falls to the lot of the Newfoundland people. Fortunately these storms caused little damage.

The St. John's morning newspaper, the Daily News, has advocated action on the part of the department of agriculture, to secure data and statistics on the products this year and of other facts relating to the unusual summer season, feeling that the information thus revealed would be highly interesting and valuable.

Crust Quickly
Dissolved

One after another, a million men and women have made this discovery; that this simple method does dissolve the crust of dandruff; puts the scalp in the pink of condition; makes hair soft, lustrous, thick and vigorous.
 Get a bottle of "Danderine" from your drug or toilet counter today. Put a little on your brush each time you dress your hair. Penetrating to the head, its soothing aid soon has an itching, feverish scalp cool, comfortable, healthy. The crust of dandruff simply melts away.
 Dandruff is unsightly. It is the cause of grayness, baldness, dry, brittle, dull hair. When the scalp is freed from this irritating scurf, Danderine soon has the hair back in condition; soft, glossy, thick, vigorous and youthful-looking.
 Start on Danderine today and end hair worries. A thirty-five cent bottle will demonstrate its merit!

ROBINS OUT OF RUNNING

Only St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs Now Have Chance For Pennant

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Only two clubs in the National League now retain a mathematical chance to win the pennant as a result of yesterday's two games.

By downing Philadelphia 19 to 16, St. Louis Cardinals moved out three full games ahead of Chicago Cubs who were idle.

Brooklyn Robins lost and 3 to 2 decision to New York Giants and are now completely out of the race.

The Chicago Cubs have but four games in which to try and catch the leaders. Their chance of coming out on top is very remote although possible.

FOOTBALL MEETING

Annual Gathering of Junior Soccer League—To Play Off For Season's Honors

The annual meeting of the Junior Football League took place last evening in the City Hall.

A notice of motion on the question of playing the season's games in two parts, the winner of the first part to play off with the winner of the second half, if there should be different teams winning each half, was discussed and, after a lengthy discussion, the motion was passed.

The election of officers for the ensuing year took place and resulted as follows:

President—J. S. Wilson.
Vice-President—J. Campbell.
Secretary-Treasurer—A. Halleran.

Representative to the Senior Football Association—W. W. C. O'Neill.

Arrangements for the annual banquet were left in the hands of Miss Mills and the president and secretary-treasurer.

In accepting the position of president for another year, the president congratulated the other members, and the delegates on the success of the season's operations. He felt that there was no other sporting organization in the city run on better lines and this was due to the hearty and helpful co-operation of the executive and delegates.

Biggest Trout From Nipigon Just Landed

ORIENT BAY, Ont., Sept. 24.—A speckled trout weighing seven and one-quarter pounds, landed from the swift waters of the Nipigon River by D. J. The Nipigon shield awarded to the angler guest at Nipigon Lodge who lands the largest speckled trout, will, as a result, be presented to Mr. Burnham for 1930. The runner-up was C. ## Drift Three Days In an Open Dory

Fisherman Tells How He and Companion Survived Ordeal After Missing Schooner

LUNENBURG, N. S., Sept. 24.—Three days in an open dory with a very meagre supply of food and water, and given up for lost after they had strayed from their vessel in a dense fog about 150 miles south of Cape Breton coast, where they were picked up by a passing vessel and carried to Maderia, was the thrilling experience of Charles Scott and Joseph Clarke, members of the fishing schooner Madelyn Hebb, in command of Captain Fred Fanner of the Lunenburg deep-sea fishing fleet. The men are natives of Newfoundland.

The Madelyn Hebb was fishing on the northern edge of Bank Queo, when, on the morning of May 15, Scott and Clarke, in company with the rest of the crew, left the vessel to attend to their trawls. Dense fog prevailed at that time, and the two men, who were dory mates, failed to locate their trawl. The story of the three days' experience and dread uncertainty is told thus by Clarke:

"Unable to find our trawl, we started, as we thought, to row back to the vessel; after rowing quite a while without finding her, we gave up the hunt and started rowing towards the Cape Breton shore which was about 150 miles north of where we were then. All day long we rowed, with a few short spells in between. Towards evening, to make matters worse, it started to blow heavy and got very rough. We left off rowing so as to save our strength for a smoother sea, and made a drag out of two trawl tubs that were in our dory, which we put out to keep the dory head on to the wind and sea, and with one of us in the bow and one aft, we tried to sleep. Our small craft, however, tossed about just like an egg-shell and there was no sleep for us that night.

The next morning, still thick a fog, we hauled in the drag and again started rowing for the land. By this time we were both feeling pretty blue, for we knew very well that even if our strength held out to row the long stretch of 130 miles, we were making so much leeway that we would miss the Cape Breton coast and make the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

"The second day went by the same as the first, with fog so thick that we could hardly see much more than a dory's length. We tried using the small dory sail, but soon found out that we then made more leeway, so again we took to our oars. When the second night arrived we put out our drag and let the dory drift, while we managed to get a few cat-naps. Early the next morning, which was the third day, we took our oars, feeling in our own minds, if we didn't soon get picked up it was all over with us.

We began to see we would not make the land and that our only hope was to be picked up by a vessel or steamer, and as long as it stayed thick, our chances this way were small.

"During the forenoon," said Clarke, "I cut off the tops of my rubber boots and took the lining to kindle a fire, using the bait tub for a stove, and splitting up a tub trawl for firewood. In this way we partly boiled bits of fresh herring that we had in the boat for bait. We ate the fish and drank the last drop of water and longed for the fog to lift. About 5 o'clock that afternoon the fog lifted, and a seaman can easily know how we felt. A short spell afterwards we were sighted by the term schooner St. Clair Theriault, of Pictou, in command of Captain Peardon, loaded with lumber and bound for Madeira. You can think we felt pretty good when we found ourselves with the deck of a vessel once more under our feet and something good to eat."

STEWART IS REMEMBERED

Fine Photographs Recall Visit of Officers and Men of Warship

STEWART, Sept. 24.—When the British light cruiser H. M. S. Despatch was in Stewart at the end of July some very excellent photographs of the ship were taken by a local photographer. One of these showing Mt. Rainier towering its full 8700 feet above the cruiser as she lay at anchor in the harbor, was framed and presented to the officers and ship's company by the local branch of the Canadian Legion, and this week the Legion is in receipt of a letter from the Captain in which he expresses the thanks of himself and crew for the gift. The letter, written from Portland Ore., says in part:

"This present has given great pleasure to everyone on board, reminding us as it does of three very pleasant days spent at Stewart, our only regret being that the visit was such a short one."

A. M. Manson, K.C., former attorney-general, was the speaker before the Prince Rupert Gyr Club at its regular monthly luncheon in the Commodore Cafe today.

LONG TRIP OF KIDDIES

Youthful Brother and Sister Travelled From Ceylon to Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Sept. 24.—From Ceylon to Scotland accompanied by their aunt, a visit to their grandmother in Edinburgh and their journey across the Atlantic to their mother in Canada, which they made unaccompanied, is the story of two tried but happy little travellers, which ended last night here when they stepped off the Canadian National Railways train, the "Continental" Limited, to be greeted by their mother whom they had not seen for more than a year.

Grace Cowie, who is seven years old and James, her five-year old brother, are the heroes of this story of a journey which has taken them more than half way around the world to join their mother.

Starting from Ceylon more than a year ago, their voyage, which took them through the Indian Ocean, across the Arabian Sea, up the Red sea to the Suez Canal, the entire length of the Mediterranean to the Straits of Gibraltar, thence to Scotland for a visit to their grandmother and, finally, across the Atlantic to their mother in Winnipeg, is a journey which very few children of their age may boast.

Grace was carrying a doll in her arms when she arrived here—a doll which was given to her in Ceylon and which has been her inseparable companion throughout the entire trip. James stepped off the train with an air of an experienced traveller, and he truly is, for he has sailed five of the seven seas.

The young travellers arrived at Quebec recently on the ss. Antonia, where they were handed over to the Canadian National Railways for safe keeping to Winnipeg.

Many Card Parties and Tournaments Planned For Winter

This is the opening of the card party season when many organizations in the city are laying their plans for various events throughout the winter.

The Ladies of the Royal Purple are planning a series of bridge and whist games every second Monday at which cash prizes will be given each evening, concluding with a large prize at the end of the tournament series. This will run all winter and promises to be one of the outstanding events of the year.

Other organizations are making plans for tournaments and series of games and it seems as if there would be plenty of opportunities offering for those who enjoy cards.

Town Hall At Stewart Moved To New Site

STEWART, Sept. 24.—Messrs. Wall and Jones are busily engaged in carrying out their contract to move the municipal building from its present location to the village-owned lots at the corner of Sixth and Columbia Streets. The building now stands on the rear of the lot at Fifth and Columbia which was purchased some time ago by the Northern British Columbia Power Co., and part of the agreement of sale was that the power company move the building to a new location designated by the owners. Accordingly tenders were called for this work last week and Messrs. Wall and Jones, with their bid of $295, secured the contract.

DO YOU SUFFER WITH HEADACHE?

So easy to get quick relief and prevent an attack in the future. Avoid bromides and dope. They relieve quickly but affect the heart and are very dangerous. They are depressing and only give temporary relief, the cause of the headache still remains within. The safe and harmless way. First correct the cause, sweeten the sour and acid stomach, relieve the intestines of the decayed and poisonous food matter, gently stimulate the liver, start the bile flowing and the bowels pass off the waste matter which causes your headache. Try Carter's Little Liver Pills. Druggists 25c red pkg.
