LLOYD GEORGE IS DUBBED A VILLAIN

PATTULLO ASKS PROMPT PUBLICATION OF WATT REPORT

Mrs. Stanley Baldwin Charges Liberal Chief Wrecking Country

Accuses Him of Keeping Labor Party In Office—"Unpatriotic and Unenviable Position For Any Man to Hold"

BUCKINGHAM, England, Dec. 12.—"The villain of the Great War was the German Emperor. The villain of today is Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George," declared Mrs. Stanley Baldwin, wife of the British Conservative leader, in opening a fair here today. Mrs. Baldwin referred to the Liberal support which maintained the Labor government in power. She asked if it showed love of country to keep the Socialists in office.

"It is a most unpatriotic and unenviable position for any man to hold. Lloyd George is wrecking the country by putting his party before England," Mrs. Baldwin declared.

LEAD IS LARGER

Canadiens Cutting Big Swathe In National Hockey League Now; Americans Have Luck

OTTAWA, Dec. 12.—The Canadiens increased their lead at the top of the Canadian section by taking a thrilling overtime battle from Ottawa Senators last night. The Canucks came from behind in the third period to score two goals for a tie and then Morenz scored in the overtime to win the game.

At Montreal, the Maroons nosed out Detroit when Siebert's fluke shot from centre ice trickled into the net.

At New York, the Americans sprang a surprise by defeating Boston. A lucky goal by Burche early in the second period settled the issue. His pass out from a corner struck a Boston player and bounded into the net.

Last night's scores:
New York Americans 2, Boston 1.
Maroons 3, Detroit 2.
Canadiens 5, Ottawa 4.

JOE NORTH IS VICTOR

Debarred From Running Himself, He Elects Wife As Police Commissioner In Victoria

Anscomb Mayor

Capital City Again Does the Unusual Thing In Its Civic Election

VICTORIA, Dec. 12.—Mayor Herbert Anscomb was re-elected for his third term with a majority of 2149 over John Dean. Aldermen elected were W. T. Straith, James Adam and H. O. Litchfield, members of the retiring council, and two new members—R. T. Williams and T. W. Hawkins. Ald. William Cullin was defeated and Ald. E. S. Woodward retired.

The feature of the campaign, aside from the mayoralty, was the election of Mrs. Dorothy North to the single vacancy on the police commission. Mrs. North frankly told the electors that, if elected, she would be the mouthpiece of her husband, Joe North. He was debarred from running for office by reason of judgments standing against him as a result of actions arising from statements attributed to him when acting as police commissioner some years ago. This is probably the first time in Canada that a proxy has been endorsed for civic office. Joe North conducted the campaign and made it clear that a vote for his wife would be a vote for him.

DRIVER IS BLAMELESS

Alex McKinnon Held Not Responsible For Death of W. Hanson In Truck Accident

After a four-hour hearing, the coroner's jury investigating the death of William Hanson, who died Sunday morning as a result of injuries sustained the evening previous when a city truck on which he was riding plunged off an old plank roadway at the corner of Tenth Avenue and Bacon Street, found that deceased had come to his death accidentally and that no blame was to be attached to Alex McKinnon, driver in charge of the truck. Many witnesses were heard, these including practically all the other dozen men who were riding on the truck at the time of the accident. Alex McKinnon, who was the driver of the truck, also took the stand. A. M. Manson K.C. appeared as counsel for McKinnon while E. F. Jones appeared for the city. The witnesses were examined by Sergeant W. J. Service, chief of city police. John Dybhavn acted as interpreter for some of the Scandinavian witnesses who were unable to speak English very well.

On reaching British Columbia a few days ago after a trip to the east, T. D. Pattullo, Liberal leader for the province, dispatched from Prince George a telegram to Premier S. F. Tolmie urging him, instead of holding the document until the forthcoming session of the legislature as was originally proposed, to immediately make public the report of Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald on the investigation into the case of Norman A. Watt, former government agent here. It was announced a short time ago that the report of Mr. Justice Macdonald had been placed in the hands of the government.

Now that Capt. Burke's fate has been learned, it is desired to concentrate on the search for Renahan.

DAILY EDITION

who, after considerable objection by Mr. Manson which was finally waived, went to the stand and told of a deathbed statement that had been made by Hanson the evening before he died. Hanson had said: "I don't know how fast he was going. He was going at a good speed, too fast to make the turn. Other trucks stopped but he didn't." The statement was witnessed by Constable Blaney and Sergeant Service. Deceased's statement was contradicted by many other witnesses who testified that the truck was travelling not much over five miles and that it was successful in negotiating the turning.

Prior to the statement of deceased being read, Dr. W. T. Kergin testified that he (Hanson) was in sound mind the evening before he died.

George Rodger, who lives near the corner of Tenth Avenue and Bacon Street about 100 yards away, was an eye witness of the truck leaving the road. He was standing at his kitchen window reading a paper at the time. He saw the truck come down Tenth Avenue and turn the corner or nearly so. After the truck had straightened down Bacon Street, it seemed to stagger and turned sharply at right angles and went over the road. Witness saw the guard rail go over.

Nature of Injuries

Dr. L. W. Kergin, who performed an autopsy, testified that death had been due to shock and hemorrhage from injuries received. The left of deceased's chest was injured, his shoulder and many ribs were broken, the left lung was collapsed having been perforated by a rib bone.

F. Rousell, automobile mechanic, testified that the driving chain on one side was loose and in bad condition. About fifteen rollers were missing. These rollers being missing would have a tendency to disturb the ratio of the gear. The steering apparatus was also very slack, witness testified. On the driving gear on the other side, five rollers were missing. Sprockets were worn down on both sides. The truck was 18 years old and parts were showing signs of wearing. One of the wheels striking a hole in the road might have caused the truck to skid.

While Rousell's evidence was being taken, City Engineer Good made a number of interruptions, asserting that Rousell was making inferences which were unfair to the city.

Taking the stand, Mr. Good declared that the truck had been overhauled about ten days before. Under cross-examination, Mr. Good said that a fibrous fungus seemed to form on plank roadways, particularly when the traffic was longitudinal. Mr. Good did not think that the condition of the truck had anything to do with the accident. There had never been any complaints of the chain coming off the sprockets. It was Mr. McKinnon, the driver who had overhauled it.

Other witnesses called by the police were F. D. Rice B.C.L.S., who took measurements and surveys at the scene of the accident and R. E. Benson, who took photos. Among the men on the truck who gave evidence were William Wilson, Anton Dybhavn, Ernie Selnes, Charles Batt, John Kinslor and Hagbart Elde. All agreed that the car was not going fast and that it was a rainy and gusty day. Sergeant Service gave evidence in regard to measurements and inspections which had been made at the scene of the accident.

Defence Witnesses

Witnesses called by Mr. Manson included John Basso and Louis Pustak, both of whom were riding on the truck when it went over. Both testified that the car was going little more or perhaps no more than five miles an hour. Either could have caught up with the truck by easy running. W. Shepherd was quite sure the truck was not going ten miles an hour.

A. McKinnon, the driver, said that he had been driving cars off and on for 15 years. He had driven this truck two and a half or three months. It was very wet and windy on the day of the accident. As he approached the turn on Tenth Avenue to Bacon Street, he was not going more than five miles an hour, having slowed up. Just after turning he noticed the front end of the car skid. It might have been due to the tread of the tires being smooth and the road greasy. There was a scum on top of the planks and a distinct incline from one side of the road to the other. As soon as the front wheels started to skid, witness put on the emergency brake. He did not use the foot brake because it was not in working order and had not been for years. The foot brake was considered too small for this truck. It could not be relied upon. The emergency brake was in perfect order. After putting on the brake, the whole car seemed to skid. One front wheel went through the fence and the whole vehicle followed.

The car had always steered satisfactorily and the chain had never come off the sprockets.

As the car went over, witness put it into gear. Otherwise there might have been an explosion.

The slippery plank road, together with the incline, was responsible for the accident, McKinnon declared.

McKinnon was subjected to considerable cross-examination by Sergeant Service. The truck was not in a dangerous condition as far as he knew, witness insisted. He had never found it awkward to handle. He admitted that there was play in the steering wheel.

In briefly addressing the jury, Mr. Manson declared that the evidence was not sufficient to convict his client on a manslaughter charge. He therefore, asked the jury to bring in a rider exonerating McKinnon.

Sergeant Service called attention to the defects in the car.

After brief remarks by the coroner, the jury retired returning with its verdict as recorded.

DAILY ROUGHAGE IS AN ESSENTIAL IN ANY DIET

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Is Effective Relief for Constipation. Also Adds Iron to the Blood

Do you suffer from constipation? Are you one of those who have tried one "rest pocket cure" after another and still have no sense of permanent relief? If so, this is big news to you! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is natural, effective relief for both temporary and recurring constipation. It is the original—and today is included in the diets of millions of people who formerly suffered from constipation.

When roughage is missing from food, constipation is the consequence. The soft foods we eat today seldom include enough roughage. The simple necessity, then, is to see to it that sufficient roughage is included in our food.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the bulk that your system requires.

In addition, it is rich in iron. Scientific research proves that nearly all this iron is absorbed by the system, building red blood and bringing the glorious color of health to the complexion.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed. Your money will be returned if you are not satisfied. Be sure to include it in reducing diets as a preventive for both constipation and anemia.

There are so many ways you can eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN and enjoy it. In any form, it is appetizing. It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals and soups and notice the added flavor. Many people soak it in fruit juices. Excellent in cooked foods. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. It is served in hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Ask for it! Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

dramatic talent and these have been taken good advantage of by the youthful players.

Miss Molly Delaney makes a very capable accompanist for the many solo and chorus numbers.

Just before the opening curtain last night, D. H. Hartness, principal of the High School, made a few remarks. He was deeply appreciative of the fine support that had been given by such a large audience. He wished to convey thanks to the Moose Order for donation of the hall, to Walter Howarth for supplying the orchestra, to Earl Barrie for loaning furniture, to the parents for their assistance in connection with costumes and to the audience which had turned out in such large numbers.

ience which had turned out in such large numbers.

Story of the Play

"The Gypsy Rover" is built around the character of Rob, later known as Sir Gilbert Howe, taken by J. W. Plummer. Rob is stolen when an infant, by his nurse, Meg (Miss Eleanor Tite), who later becomes the wife of Marto, a gypsy (Bob Moxley). Rob grows to manhood among the gypsies believing Meg and Marto to be his parents.

It happens one day, while riding with her fiancée, Lord Craven (Billy Vance), Lady Constance Martendale (Miss Cathie Eastman) be come lost in the woods. They wander to the gypsy camp where Constance and Rob meet and fall in love at first sight. Craven objects to Rob's attitude, but in a very funny comedy scene with Marto and Sinfo (Bert Cameron), he is made to tell Sir George (Tom Marshall), who later comes in search of Constance, that Rob is a charming fellow. They plan to elope, but are overheard by Craven who informs Sir George, and plans are made to capture Rob. This is successfully accomplished and Rob is thrown into prison, but later escapes.

Two years elapse and Rob comes into his estates, his identity having been proven by Meg. He becomes a successful composer, and a social lion. Constance has remained true to her love for Rob and on his return to England, he woos and wins her for his wife. As Rob says, "The good fairies have led me to the beautiful country after all, and our story, Constance, can end in the proper way. They lived happily ever after."

The comedy scenes are played by Sinfo and Marto. Variety is given to the main story by the changing fortunes of Nina (Miss May Jones) and Jerome (Wizner Bryant), and Sinfo and Zara (Miss Edith Kergin).

The First Act, set in a gypsy encampment, was bright with the colorful gypsy costumes of chorus and principals. Features of the act were the rapid succession of bright choruses and a scene in which Rob sings the theme song, "Fairyland" to the gypsy children.

The second act is set in a room in Sir George Martendale's house. Principals and chorus appear in dress suited to the surroundings. The act is featured by a duet sung by Rob and Constance, a humorous robbery scene by Sinfo and Marto, and a sentimental meeting between Nina, Constance's sister, and Capt. Jerome. Minor parts are taken by Sir Toby Lyon (Earl Gordon), Sir Francis McCorkle (Oscar Fulton) and the butler (Rupert Ross).

The last act shows the return of Rob, who has now recovered his lost name and estates, and his reunion with Constance.

MANY USES FOUND FOR PETROLEUM

George Woodland, Manager of Imperial Oil, Gives Interesting Address to Rotary Club

The romance of the development of petroleum, and the products manufactured from it made an interesting story as told by George Woodland at the Rotary Club luncheon yesterday. Members of the club were surprised at the almost infinite number of uses to which they were put. As the speaker said it is doubtful if any single industry, except printing, has brought so many changes to the world as has the modern production and use of petroleum. None perhaps has wrought its revolution in manners, customs, modes of life, relations of the individual to the social establishment in so short a period of time as has the industry of petroleum along with others that are collateral to and dependent on it.

Mr. Woodland told of petroleum as an illuminant, as the producer of power for transportation and for industrial purposes; as a lubricant, and for medicinal and numerous other purposes, an endlessly increasing number. In the course of his address he said:

"Oil usually occurs within the space or between the grains of sedimentary rocks and not in large underground lakes or pools, as many persons erroneously believe, although there are some rare instances where oil has accumulated in large cavities or caves in the rocks.

"The sedimentary rocks are porous and absorb the oil, as a sponge would water, this porous oil-bearing sandstone may contain one eighth of its bulk in petroleum. Oil stored in such porous rocks would escape to the surface of the ground if there were not a cover of dense non-porous rock capping the reservoir. Therefore a commercial oil area must have an overlying cap which acts as a lid or seal.

"When the drill penetrates this cap or covering rock, the oil long pent up comes to the surface by natural pressure or pumping.

"The accumulation of oil in large quantities in certain spots in the earth is caused by geologic structure, distortions of the earth's surface due to cooling and contracting.

"The main geologic structures are monocline, anticline, domes, synclines and faults. The anticlinal structures where the rocks have been bowed up, with an inclination downward in two opposite directions from a common axis are the most favorable for oil.

"The geological factors which must be present in order that there may be an accumulation of oil, may be in conclusion enumerated as follows: There must have been a source from which hydrogen and carbon could be derived. There must have been conditions which converted the hydrogen and carbon into oil.

"There must be a porous rock which would act as a reservoir for the oil.

"There must be a capping to prevent the escape of the oil.

"And finally, the structure must be a geologic one which would cause the accumulation. Geologists in search of oil are primarily concerned with these features."

Changes in Transportation

Reference was made by Mr. Woodland to the changes which have come about in transportation through the development of the automobile. Country life had been improved immeasurably and the cities had benefited equally by avoidance of congestion and the residents of each understand each other's problems better than ever before.

Number of Products Endlessly Increasing

"The number of products and by-products of petroleum goes on endlessly increasing, making it every year a greater contributor to the progress, comfort and well being of men. The nation cannot make war without it, and they cannot live in peace without it. At the end of the World War one of the statesmen of the Allies said that "we floated to victory on a sea of oil." It was literally true. Petroleum had given to the victors their superiority in the air, on the sea and in land transportation.

"Because of its universality of usefulness, petroleum is the most sought resource in the world today. Nations want it as a guarantee of their power and so it has become of great importance in international politics. They are literally combing the world for it, and another half century will surely see the industry's expansion into an era of which we do not now dream."

The ladies of the Anglican Church held their annual bazaar on Saturday afternoon in the Legion Hall which was nicely decorated with a Christmas tree suggestive of the season. The fancy work was beautiful and abundant. The home-made candy was tempting in dainty little baskets while the home cooking in evidence was equally good; several iced Christmas cakes made good purchasing. A guessing contest was also enjoyed on a fruit cake, donated by Mrs. E. A. McCarthy. Four persons were correct in judging the weight, necessitating a drawing won by George Dover. Afternoon tea was served by the young ladies.
