VANCOUVER WHEAT

VANCOUVER, Sept. 11.—Wheat dropped a little further today, being quoted at 78 1/2c. on the local Exchange this morning.

By way of the chain of rivers and lakes including the Mississippi and the Gulf of Mexico. Three of the men are brothers—Victor, Alvin and Evans Fisher—two of them farmers and the other a school teacher, and the fourth is another young school teacher, Charles Bruder, all from the village of Tyvan in Saskatchewan. They travelled in the canoe from Waterways, Alta., down the Mackenzie River to the Arctic, spent the summer on the Arctic, the following winter in the remote and little known Peel and Snake River country, out again in June and, crossing the divide from the Rai River to the Bell, Porcupine and Yukon, by train from Whitehorse to Skagway and by canoe to Prince Rupert. That in brief was the trip.

The most trying part of the adventure was that terrible winter spent trapping on the Snake and Peel Rivers when, in the darkness of the long Arctic night, they lived for 98 days on nothing but caribou meat and salt, fought against famine at times, made perilous foray trips with the savage team of wolf dogs, fought huge timber wolves and finally made for themselves a mooseskin canoe, killed their dogs and ran the rapids of the Peel River for two hundred miles to where they had left their own canoe, the waters roaring all the way and at times enveloping them in spray so thick that they were unable to see each other in the canoe. All they brought in with them was their catch of valuable furs which they were able to sell for several thousand dollars at Aklavik, thus helping to reimburse them for the cost of the trip.

Their Own Impressions

Asked as to what they considered the high lights of the trip, Charles Bruder said: "The greatest thrill I got was running the Peel River canyon in the skin boat. We looked it over before doing it and thought we could make it, but it was worse than we expected. However, once we got into it there was no turning back. The boat was taking water and we could not see anything for the spray. We knew we were in a bad place and had to go through with it. It was 'Do or Hell boys,' so we did and here we are." It was a simple narrative but expressive.

Alvin Fisher said: "What I remember most clearly was being out in the Arctic midwinter, pulling my own sled through five feet of snow on one of the tributaries of the Peel. There where we had not seen the sun for weeks, with very little grub and just enough twilight at midday to enable us to travel by its light, it dawned upon me how small man really is compared with the vast universe."

Evans Fisher said the hospitality of the north was what impressed him most. Everywhere they

The Richmond case was a long drawn out affair, having started on December 5 last. DAILY EDITION Thursday, Sept. 11, 1930

PERILOUS CANOE TRIP

Today we are publishing a story of the longest canoe trip on record made by four Canadian young men who were born and bred on farms in Saskatchewan. They set out in the spirit of adventure to learn something of their own country. They have been keen students everywhere they went, have fought their way through difficulties, have triumphed where others might have failed and have proved that Canadian men are equal to any in endurance, skill and adaptability.

We regret that it is impossible to tell more of their entrancingly interesting story. Space forbids recording much that is of interest. They are unassuming young men, keen on their hobby which they had planned for years before setting out.

An interesting feature of the trip is the fact that their fellows in their home village laughed at the idea, ridiculed it and prophesied that it could not be done. They have shown those prophesies to be false. If they get through safely to Panama they will be in a position to write a book about their adventures and possibly to go on the lecture platform if such should appeal to them. They have taken numerous pictures of the hazards, the game, the life, the natives and the beautiful scenery. These attest the truth of their narrative. We suggest that everyone read the story published today for it is an interesting one.

WHAT TO ADVERTISE

When advertising, it is necessary to success that a person advertise something that people want. In the Daily News classified columns there are various things asked for. Many people ask for that which is not available and they get no replies or very few to their advertisements. Possibly the most productive of results is an advertisement offering second hand furniture for sale. There seem to be many waiting to buy.

Reading the classified advertisements has become a habit with many people. They look them over because of their human interest. That is why the small classifieds are productive of such good results.

IN THE LETTER BOX

WOULD HAVE SEA LIONS DESTROYED

Editor, Daily News:

I would like to call the attention of the fisheries department to the large herds of sea lions occupying the following strategic positions with regard to salmon fishing generally:

Butterworth Rocks and South end of Zayas Island, estimated 350 head.

St. Joseph's Rocks, near Frederick Is. estimated 500 head.

Those occupying Butterworth Rock operate from the mouth of the Skeena to Rose Spit, and from Dundas to Banks Island, Frederick Island and Hippo with great efficiency.

The average weight of these creatures is about 2,000 pounds and must require a ration of at least 50 pounds of fish per day—averaging salmon halibut, herring, etc. at 5 cents per pound gives a food value of $2,375.00 per day, it is costing fishermen and the public generally to allow these creatures to remain, or $866,875.00 per year.

During trolling season they will follow the boats, tearing not just one, but several fish in succession from the lines; and fish after fish is taken on the trolls that are so badly lacerated as to be unfit for food, so they must be able to capture fish under natural conditions. If this is so, what price have the halibut fisherman paid, and are still paying, in past years, with helpless fish torn from their gear.

Having no value as food, ornaments, or even as pets, it seems to the government might well be with maintaining a nuisance. In fact one sniff of rifles would banish such completely the "Pet" with any imagination whatever can doubt that the fish of all kinds are driven off by sea lions and seals, and my estimate of fifty pounds of food per day is not excessive, as some lions attain weight of nearly three tons.

Sentiment is a nice thing to possess, but not at a cost of nearly $900,000 a year to this district.

Respectfully yours,

went, whether into the hut of the trapper, the cabin of the Indian or the home of the Eskimo, they were welcomed as one of the family, not effusively but as a matter of course. It was a wonderful thing this hospitality of the people of the north.

Victor Fisher, leader of the party, saw in the great north a wonderful country, ready to produce for man, yet people were piling up in the south, competing and trampling on each other when the unused potentialities of the north were going to waste.

Detail of Trip

Telling some of the details of the trip the boys said they left Waterways on May 16, 1929, went up the Clearwater to Athabasca Lake. Here their troubles began. The lake was filled with ice and sand bars and they stuck in the ice and found it impossible to find their way back among the bars. Finally they made an island and spent several days while the ice receded.

Great Slave Lake was almost equally bad. The huge ice floes carried by the wind would gradually close in on the shore crushing everything in their path and shoving the ice hundreds of feet up the beach. Their chief effort was to avoid the ice.

Then came the great Mackenzie with its rapids to them unknown. They ran them all, even the Ramparts where the river steamers have to use a cable to haul themselves up against the stream. They inspected the oil wells at Fort Norman, capped by the Imperial Oil Co., but ready at any time to be put into production. They saw the burning coal mine on the banks of the river which is said to have been burning when Mackenzie discovered the river. It is slowly burning its way into the banks and glows red at night. They learned to catch the big "Aconie," a white fish about the size of a salmon, and finally arrived at Aklavik at the Delta of the river where they made their headquarters during July and August, visiting the shores of the Arctic, and cruising around, mixing with the Eskimos, Indians and whites of that great but little known region.

"It is not cold at the Arctic," declared the travellers. "It seldom gets colder than 20 below zero on the shore. The coldest part is the great lake region far to the south. It was cold where we wintered in the mountains, going as far as 70 below zero at times."

They were surprised at the Eskimos. Many of them were six feet tall, heavy-built good natured people, reliable, prosperous and hospitable. Most of them owned their own schooners and their credit was always good with the traders. "While we were at Aklavik 90 or 70 schooners were moored there at one time and there were literally thousands of dogs, savage brutes, descendants of the Arctic wolves, void of fear or affection, savage and mean. It was the law there that these dogs have to be tied during summer as they have caused the death of a number of people, children and grown-ups. We bought a team," said Victor. "And were attacked by them on several occasions. They were the meanest dogs I have ever known."

"The people at the Mackenzie Delta make their living mostly from rats. It is one of the best rat districts in the world. While the people kill foxes, wolves and other furbearing animals, rats are the staple. Birds are plentiful, much the same birds found on this coast. There were plenty of ducks and geese, sea gulls and various divers, as well as the smaller birds of the south. We enjoyed our visit to Aklavik very much."

"In order to study conditions in the country, we decided to winter there and chose for ourselves the least known section for winter quarters. We took a boat as well as the canoe in order to carry the dog team and sled and, with an outboard motor, started up the Peel River to the Snake where we built our cabin and planned to stay but there was no game so we had to move. Two of us set out with the dog team and travelled three days and nights with nothing to eat. The dogs gave up and refused to go any further and one died. So we left the toboggan and pushed on and finally reached camp very exhausted and without success in securing food." Another expedition was more successful. Pulling the sled themselves they found tracks of five moose and followed them three days, finally killing three and taking back to camp meat for men and dogs. Then they moved camp to where the game was to be found

It was in this region that Victor told of being out alone on a frozen lake when he was attacked by huge timber wolves. He shot several and the others then made off. They hunted and trapped all winter and returned to Aklavik last June with plenty of experience and several thousand dollars to the good.

It is impossible to recount all the adventures they had. Getting over the divide was difficult for the Rat River was small and rapid and the boys had to wade day after day in the intensely cold water and then the worst was over, although there were still adventures and things of intense interest to see.

From Ketchikan Here

Coming in from Ketchikan the boys encountered a westerly blow and were seasick for the first time in their lives. The canoe rode the big rollers from the Pacific well but their stomachs revolted so they laid up for three days in a sheltered cove, coming on here when the seas abated.

BUY COAL AND SAVE

Albert & McCaffrey Advise Public to Get In Winter Stock Now; Get Best For Less

World wide unemployment and the difficulties arising therefrom bring economic questions to the fore on this, the eve on what is predicted by many will be the hardest winter this, as well as other countries, has experienced in years. The question of coal naturally arises, as the matter of fuel comes second only to food, and all householders, companies and corporations are now engaged in figuring where their coal supplies are to come from and what the price is to be. Now is the time, by buying, to bring about savings in the winter's fuel bill.

The total production of the Nanaimo-Wellington mines on Vancouver Island is 3500 tons per day. From one of the shafts known as No. 1 hard comes 700 tons per day of the choicest coal produced by this company. During the winter season when there is a great demand for this particular No. 1 hard coal it becomes impossible to obtain any more than a very small portion of this production. At the present time of the year, however, all that is desired can be obtained.

Albert & McCaffrey now have two thousand tons of this choice coal undoubtedly the best bituminous coal on the continent, on their wharf. Those who are desirous of saving money on their coal bills during the winter and, at the same time, get this choice fuel would be well advised to place their orders now for the full winter's supply. A reduction in price will be made to those who buy lots of five tons or more and pay cash for same.—Advt. (212)

The regular monthly meeting of the board of school trustees was held last night in the City Hall the session lasting about an hour and the agenda including little more routine business. Mrs. T. M. Spencer, chairman, presided and others present included Trustees L. W. Waugh, W.R. McAfee, Earl Barrie and J. H. Thompson and Principals D. H. Hartness, Miss E. A. Mercer, Miss S. A. Mills, Miss O. E. McArthur and Miss J. D. Moffatt. At the opening of the meeting, Mrs. Spencer welcomed the teachers back after their vacation and expressed the hope that the rest had been instrumental in equipping them with renewed vigor and enthusiasm for the coming year's work.

WRITE "CREAM SOUPS" FIRST ON YOUR MENUS

When you tell me that cream soups have a prominent place in your meal planning, I know that you have both a sense of artistry in your menus and a firm knowledge of food values.

And, if you tell me that you serve them, not before a heavy dinner, but as luncheon and supper dishes, my regard for your skill is still greater.

For cream soups serve a twofold purpose—they stimulate appetite, and they satisfy it. The warmth of the soup starts the meal off well; the milk which is its base is soothing. And the vegetable puree with which it is combined adds to the rich food values present in the milk the important minerals which are necessary to a balanced diet. Cream soup is really a meal in itself.

All the more important, then, that it should be a good soup. And, with the cooking knowledge at your disposal today, there is really no excuse for having anything but a marvelously delicious cream soup.

If you will follow one simple rule, I can promise that your cream soups will always be rich and creamy, of good body and exceptionally smooth, velvety texture. That rule is to make them with Carnation Milk.

It is cream. It is whole milk, evaporated to double creamness. But you can dilute it to any degree desired, and the last drop out of the can will still be as creamy as the first—because the cream is broken up—"homogenized" into very tiny particles to keep it distributed throughout the milk.

This breaking up of the cream particles does a very remarkable thing to dishes made with Carnation Milk—makes ice cream velvety, candy silky-smooth, custards and cakes and sauces wonderfully fine-textured.

Even the best of bottled milk cannot equal these results. Yet Carnation Milk is most economical, saving in butter and cream.

Why not try Carnation Milk and find out for yourself how satisfying it is. Write for free Carnation Cook Book. Address Carnation Co., Limited, 134 Abbott Street, Vancouver, B.C.

Carnation Cream of Pea Soup—1 No. 2 can peas, 1 slice onion, 1 1/2 tsp. sugar, 1 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. pepper, 2 tsp. butter, 2 tsp. flour, 1 cup Carnation Milk, 1 cup water. Drain and measure liquid from peas and add enough water to make 2 cups of liquid.

Add peas, onion, sugar, salt and pepper and simmer for 15 minutes. Rub through sieve. Make white sauce of butter, flour, and Carnation diluted with water. Add paprika. Combine pea mixture and white sauce and serve hot. Serves 6.

Why Carnation Milk makes the best cream soups

One of the reasons that Carnation Milk makes such delicious cream soups is that it is doubly rich in cream. Don't make the mistake of thinking, as many women do, that Carnation Milk the same rich creaminess, the same silken smoothness that Carnation Milk gives to cream soups you will find in every dish in which this good milk is used.

National League Race Increases In Tensity As Cardinals-Robins Reduce Cubs' First Place Lead

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Victories by St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Robins, chief contenders for the National League lead held by Chicago Cubs, increased the tensity of the pennant race in the senior circuit yesterday. These two teams, virtually tied for second place, reduced the margin that the Cubs had held over them from two and one half to one and one half games. St. Louis downed the New York Giants in a tight contest while Brooklyn shut out the Cubs. The Cardinals retained second place by a single percentage point.

SPORT CHAT

"Regret will be felt by all lovers of animals at the new regulation which has governed bull-fighting in Spain from August 1," says the London Times in a recent editorial, which comments upon the re-introduction by the sanction of the Madrid government of the practice of using fire-darts. Among the host of minor reforms introduced into all phases of national life by the late dictator, Primo de Rivera, none did him more credit than his innovation of the petos, or padded coats, for the protection of the horses and his prohibition of fire-darts. Both changes met with obstinate obstruction from the big bull-fighting interests of Spain, and indeed also from public opinion; but, backed by the authority of Don Alfonso and by the small but energetic Society for the Protection of Animals and Plants, he made them effective.

"In the long and deliberate process of doing the bull to death in an arena from which escape is impossible, the turn of banderillos is reached after the mounted picadores have driven their long lances into the neck-muscles of the bull and so weakened his biting power. The dart-throwers then take up the running, and play nimbly round the partially crippled animal. Unmounted and unprotected themselves, they throw their javelins from close quarters so as to plant them in couples around the same mark behind the horns. Their work is hazardous, and often their colleagues have to spring forward with their red cloaks to distract the attention of the still formidable fighting animal from the defenceless banderillos.

"The climax of the fight has still to come, when the matador can approach close enough to drive his sword into the bull's vitals; and in the meantime the sharp pain of the dart-points is expected to excite his fighting instincts. Should he nevertheless not run in to attack his assailant he is judged to be of a cowardly nature; and at this moment recourse was made, and is apparently again to be made, to the banderillas de fuego. Crackers attached to the fire-darts explode with a series of reports which send even a much-exhausted bull careening afresh across the sand, while the infernal contrivance on his back scorches his lacerated shoulders with discharges of sulphur.

"The maddened creature is often dazed and terrified rather than rendered more combative, and many of the best judges hold that not even this cruel device can turn a bad fighter into a good one. It must in any case be revolting to all lovers of animals and of true sport, to whom bull-fighting is at best a brutal spectacle in which a noble animal is done to death in a confined area, so strangely different from the green open pastures where he has been bred, for the delectation of the populace. It is true that the new regulation imposes certain limits to the sizes and type of fire-darts, but it does not seem likely, in the opinion of our correspondent, that these precautions will greatly reduce the bull's agony."

George Brown of Skidegate Champion Track and Field Man In Prince Rupert This Year

Having piled up a large lead in the aggregate for Dominion Day and Labor Day, the only occasions on which track meets were held this season, George Brown of Skidegate, a student at Coqualeetza Institute, has been awarded the Hanson Cup for track and field competition here this year. Phillip Edgcombe was second in the competition and Eddie Smith, third. Brown will hold the Hanson Cup for the coming year. It is a perpetual challenge trophy which must be returned for competition each year.

Merely routine business was taken up last night at a meeting of the local Moose Lodge. D. C. Schubert, the dictator, was in the chair

City Engineer F. N. Good appeared before the school board last evening with the request that his two small boys be given permission to attend either Borden Street or Booth Memorial School instead of Westview. He had no criticism to offer as far as the teaching work was concerned at Westview but he merely believed that it was impossible for children to concentrate as well on their studies in an ungraded school as they could in a graded school where the teacher had but the one class to attend to. After some discussion, the board decided that it was impossible to meet with Mr. Good's request. School boundaries had been set and to deviate from the rules for any particular person or family would establish a precedent which might cause endless trouble.

ENROLMENT IS LARGE

Practically Eleven Hundred Pupils in Attendance at City Schools

There was a total of 1098 pupils enrolled in city schools at the commencement of the present term and it was expected that the total would be slightly higher than this by the time all the pupils were enrolled. It was reported to the school board last night through attendance reports submitted by the various principals. Briefly, enrolment figures for the various schools were as follows: High School, 200; Booth Memorial School, 475 (241 boys, 234 girls); Borden Street School, 337; Seal Cove, 64 (36 boys, 28 girls); Westview, 22 (12 girls, 10 boys). Each principal reported that necessary repairs and general cleaning up had been carried out in his or her school during the vacation and that the premises in each case were in a very satisfactory shape.

Principal D. H. Hartness, in his report for the High School, mentioned that the opening of a Senior Matriculation class had been justified this year through the fact that there were nine pupils enrolled, eight being from this city and one from Prince George. He referred to a very creditable exhibit of High School work that had been shown in the Fair. Mr. Hartness reported that the main fire escape was rather shaky and should be repaired. The necessary timber will be provided by the board so the janitor may make the fire escape repair.

Miss Mercer reported that there were already 63 beginners registered in Booth Memorial School. Three new teachers — Misses Morrison, Edgecumbe and Maude Maguire — had taken up duty on the staff. Owing to overcrowding, certain adjustments had had to be made in the grades. As there were now 14 classes and only 13 regular classrooms in the school, one class was opened in the basement. At Miss Mercer's request, the board decided to have an extension telephone installed so that this basement classroom might be brought into better communication with the rest of the school.

Miss Mills thanked the board for sets of supplementary readers that had been furnished for Borden Street School. She told of certain grade adjustments that had been made in her school, with particular reference to an extra classroom which had been opened at the corner of Sixth Avenue and Fulton Street. Miss Edna Vickers, the principal reported, had attended summer school at Victoria during the holidays while W. W. C. O'Neill had taken up a course in Vancouver. Miss McArthur reported 13 new beginners at Seal Cove School, and Miss Moffatt seven at Westview.

Molybdenum Mine Was Inspected

George A. Close of England Going South Tonight After Visit to Property at Alice Arm

George A. Close of Lauriston, Rochdale, Eng., who is interested in the Dalhousie Mining Co., will be in the city tonight aboard the steamer Prince George on his way to Vancouver after a visit to Alice Arm where he inspected the Tidewater molybdenum mine which the Dalhousie Co. is engaged in developing with results that are reported to be highly satisfactory. Mr. Close, who boarded the Prince George at Anyox last night, is accompanied south by R. Brown and Angus McLeod, the latter being superintendent at the Tidewater Molybdenum.

Additional School Room Necessary

Board Takes Temporary Quarters In Building at Corner of Sixth and Fulton

To accommodate an overflow of pupils from Borden Street School, a temporary classroom has been opened at the corner of Sixth Avenue and Fulton Street by the board of school trustees. The rental for these quarters is $30 per month.

At last night's meeting of the board it was decided to offer Reg. Clark, Borden Street School janitor, $15 a month extra if he would also look after the additional room. The matter of a stove was left in the hands of the Borden Street School committee to provide. A cupboard will be moved to the newly opened room from Miss Halliwell's room at Borden Street School and the latter room will get a new cupboard.

Other minor items of furnishings and equipment for the extra room were discussed by the board.

Dr. J. W. Lang of Anyox, after a brief visit in the city, sailed by the Prince George yesterday afternoon on his return to the smelter town.

Twenty Years Ago

In Prince Rupert

September 11, 1910

But for labor shortage, five thousand more men than are being used would be employed on the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, it is stated by A. W. Smithers, chairman of the board of the railway.

Lots on the new townsite of Eljison, 172 miles east of Prince Rupert, on the Grand Trunk Pacific line, are being put on the market. C. D. Newton is the agent in Prince Rupert.

Capt. William Kerr of the Salvation Army was in the city yesterday from the Killisnoo district of Alaska. This winter he will divide his attention between Port Simpson and Port Essington. He states that a citadel is to be established in Prince Rupert with Ensign and Mrs. Johnson of Dawson coming here to take charge of the Army work.

Large Officer and Small Men

A rather ludicrous scene occurred Tuesday night on Third Avenue much to the amusement of passers-by. Two small men, one about five feet in height and the other possibly three inches shorter, having imbibed of the wine when it was red, were inclined to become quarrelsome, so much so that police intervention was necessitated. Who should take the matter in hand but Constable G. C. Sharpe, six-foot-six Jack Dempsey of the provincial police force? The funny scene was when the burly officer grasped one quarrelsome little man in either mighty hand and virtually carried them off like six-year old school kids to the police station.

DOCTOR IS DISCUSSED

School Board Expects to Hear From Medicos Regarding Inspection

The school board last night briefly discussed the matter of a medical inspector of schools following the resignation of Dr. J. H. Carson but took no action pending a proposition being submitted by doctors of the city who are to have a meeting to go into the question.

Mention was made of an interview with Dr. J. P. Cade, medical health officer, on the matter. Dr. Cade had pointed out that medical health inspection in the schools must be carried out just at that time of the day when other professional demands must be taken care of by the doctor. As a matter of fact, none of the doctors were very anxious to undertake the work but it was possible that on the basis of 50c for each pupil examined something might be done. Dr. Cade had promised to get the doctors together to go into the matter.

There was some talk of a school nurse but the board felt that it could hardly afford to employ a full time nurse.
