ALD. COLLART BEING SENT TO OTTAWA

City Council Decides To Send Delegate On Peace River Outlet

If For No Other Reason Than Friendly Gesture to People of North, It is Considered Advisable

In connection with the campaign to bring the Peace River railway outlet to Prince Rupert, the city council decided unanimously last night to send Ald. Theo Collart to Ottawa to interview with regard to the project not only members of the government but also members of the House generally. The decision to send a delegate to Ottawa came on motion of Ald. Collart, seconded by Ald. Macdonald, after a rather lengthy discussion as to whether or not it would be advisable to send the delegate in view of the results it might be hoped to obtain. Even in view of the stringent finances of the city, it was decided to stretch a point and send the delegate if for no other purpose than a friendly gesture towards the people of the Peace River who have already expressed their favor for this port as the outlet and who themselves are sending a delegate, C. W. Frederick, to Ottawa, in the cause of early construction of the outlet. After the decision had been made to send a delegate, Ald. Collart was selected the delegate on motion of Ald. Brown, seconded by Ald. Pullen.

In bringing up the matter, Ald. Collart announced that the Peace River committee at its last meeting had decided to leave the question of sending a delegate to the council. From the Peace River district, C. W. Frederick was being sent to Ottawa and the people there were anxious to have some one from Prince Rupert accompany him. It was advisable, Ald. Collart felt, that Prince Rupert should show the people of the Peace River that it was still behind their fight for an outlet. The committee suggested that the cost of sending the delegate to Ottawa should be taken out of any grant the city might make this year towards the Peace River outlet campaign.

Ald. Linzey inquired how much had been appropriated to the Peace River committee this year. Mayor Orme replying that no appropriation had yet been made.

Ald. Pullen stated that the committee felt strongly that Prince Rupert should be represented at Ottawa on the matter of the Peace River outlet. The route was something that the city was greatly concerned with. He understood that both the federal member, Mr. Brady, and the Liberal candidate, Mr. Hanson, who would be unable to go himself, were desirous that Prince Rupert should send a delegate. If the cost could be kept say within $500, Ald. Pullen thought a delegate should be sent.

Ald. Macdonald thought that a delegate should be sent. The whole community was behind the campaign for the Peace River outlet. He believed that Prince Rupert should show the people of the Peace River that this port was willing to co-operate even if it was necessary to spend money in so doing. In any case, he thought the matter of the Peace River outlet would probably be settled within a year and it was not likely that the sending of Peace River delegates to Ottawa would come up perennially.

A Real Fight

Ald. Rudderham thought that Prince Rupert had started its fight for the Peace River outlet in real earnest. After the work that had been done last year, he did not think a mere $400 or $500 should stop the campaign.

Though he would not oppose the sending of a delegate, Ald. Brown questioned that any results would come from sending one. The case had already been presented fully to Premier King. Sir Henry Thornton and Col. Ham.

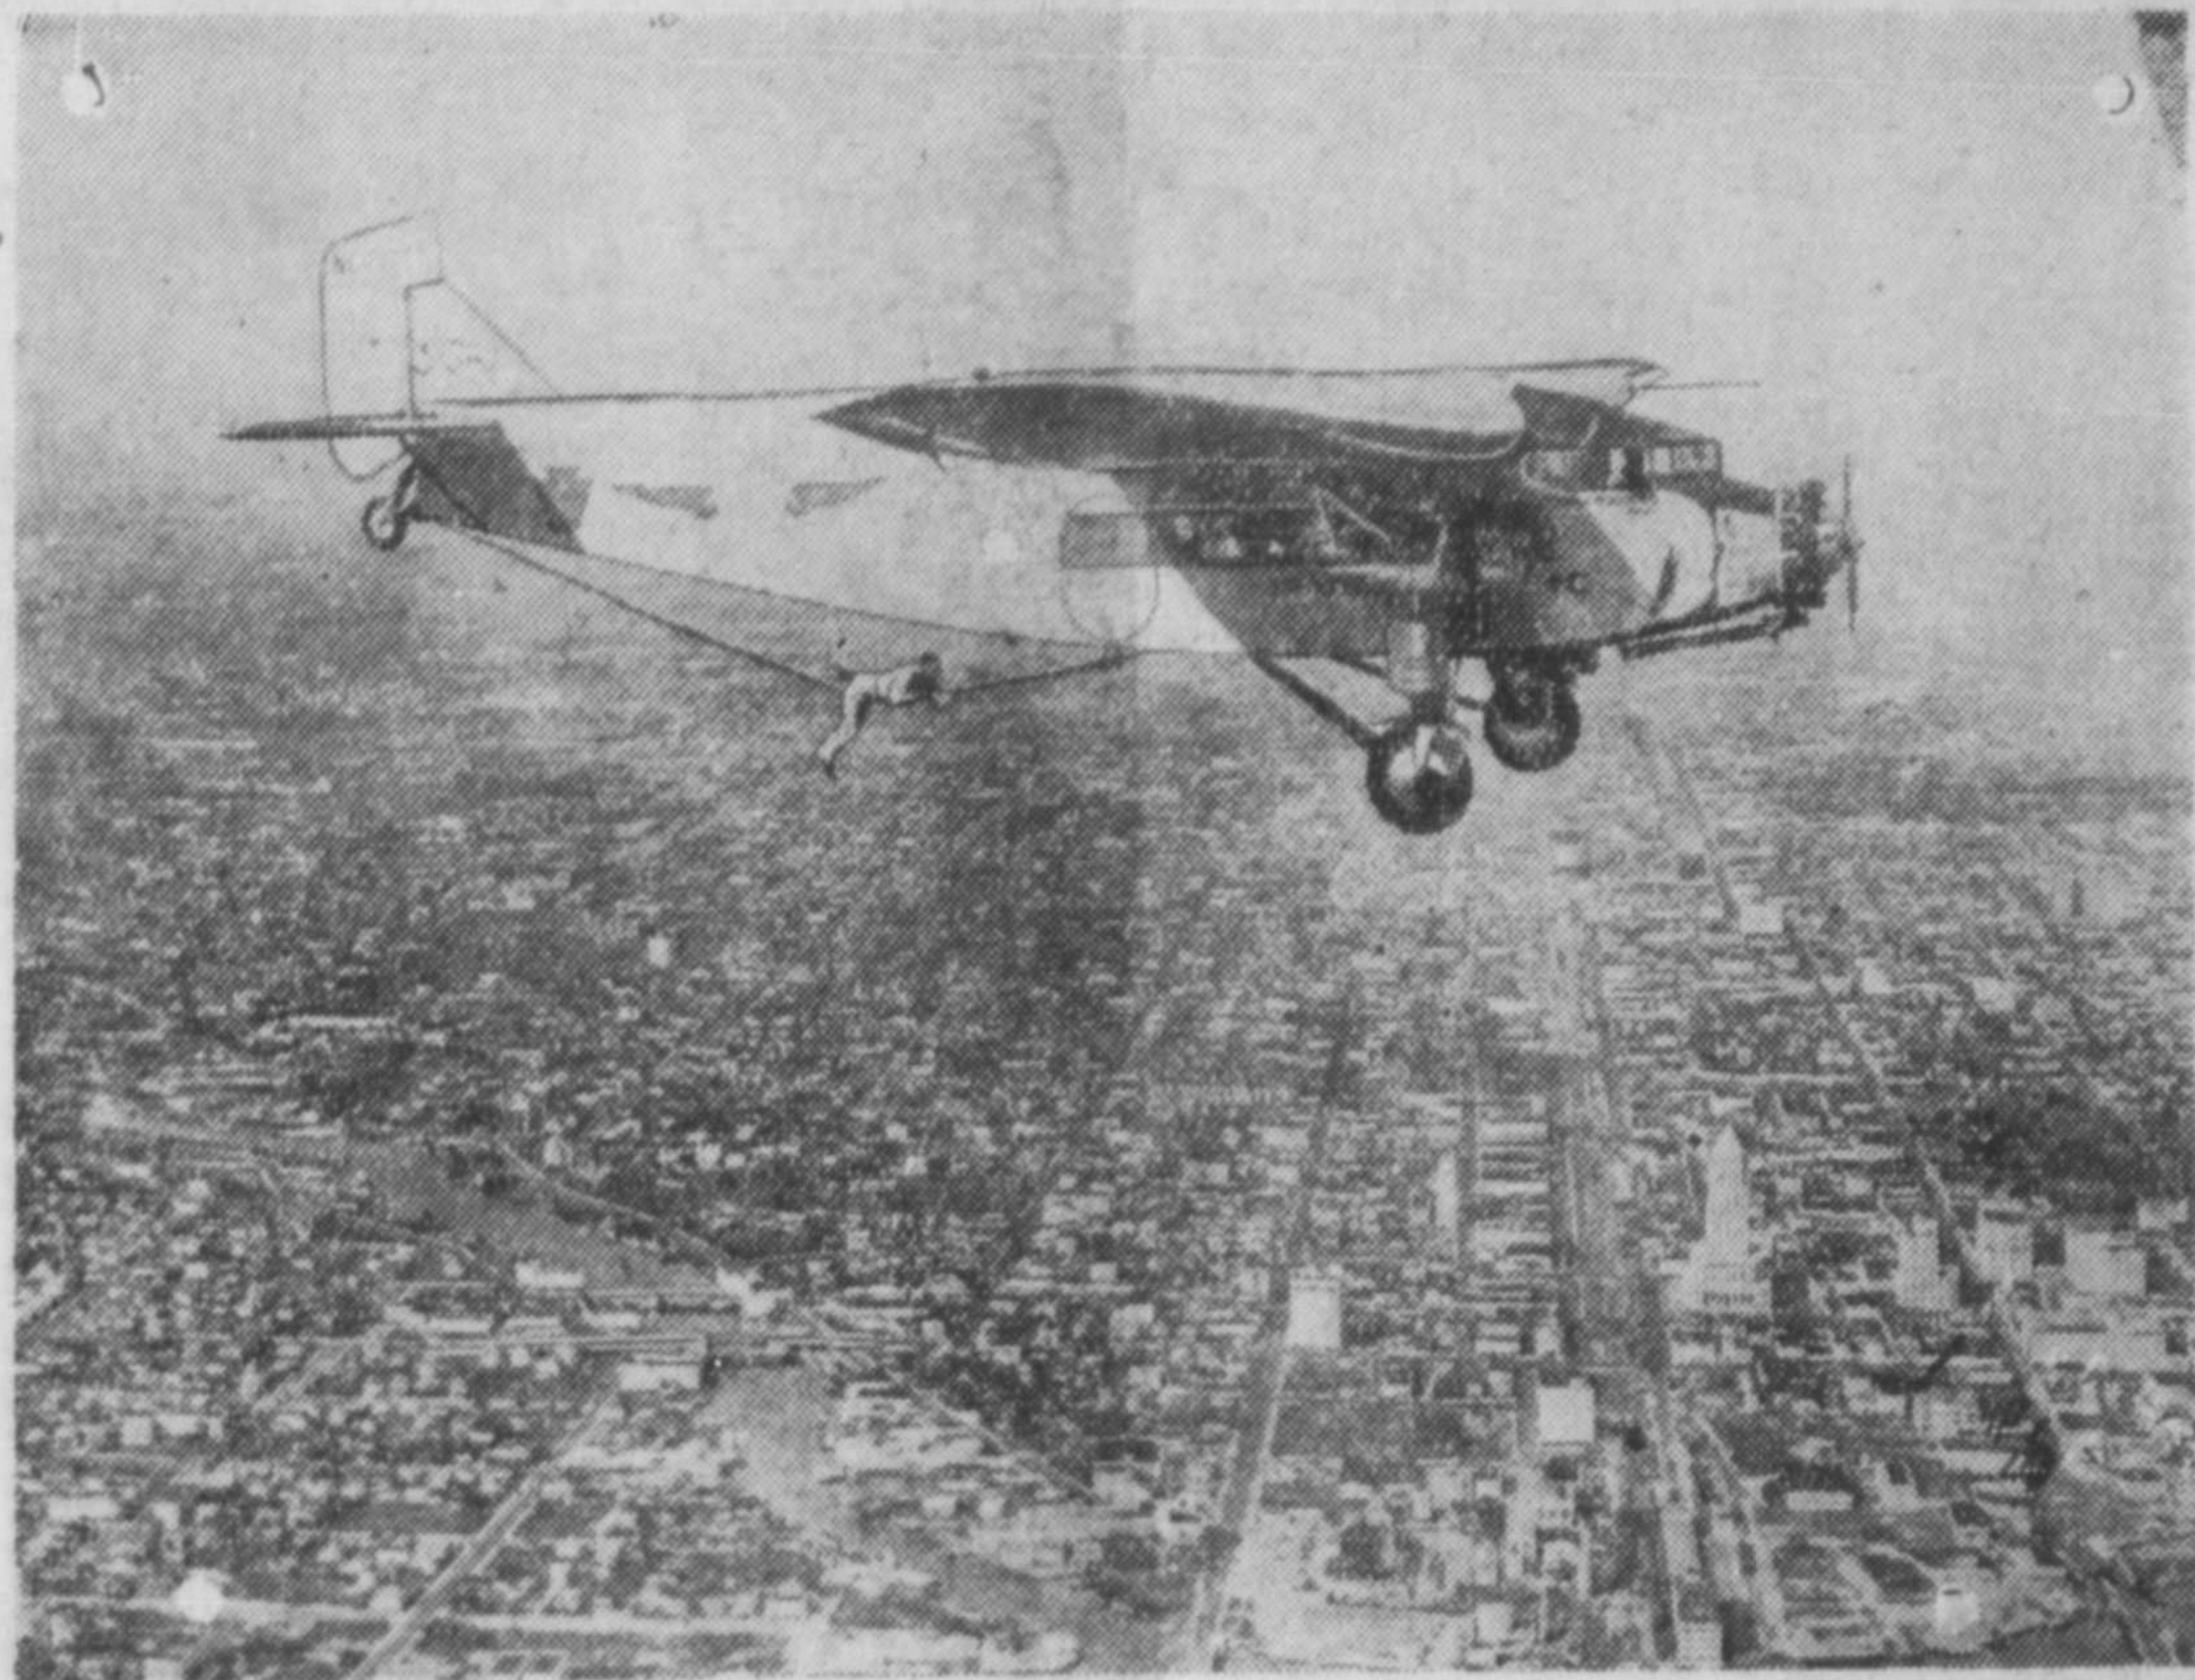

Ald. Pillsbury agreed with Ald. Brown. He could not see where anything was to be gained by spending the city's money on sending a delegate. The federal member was capable of putting the case forcibly before the government.

Ald. Collart stated that it was not the intention that the delegate would only meet the government. What was more important, it was proposed he should canvass the members of the House. Apart from that, however, he felt Prince Rupert should show its active interest and impress upon the people of the Peace River that this city was behind the movement for the outlet here.

Mayor Orme appreciated the situation with regard to the Peace River outlet.

WAS KILLED INSTANTLY

Further Details of Finding of Earl Borland's Body—Digging For Eielson

ABOARD THE NANUK, Feb. 18.—Commander Spenov, Russian in charge of the digging operations for the bodies of Borland and Eielson, reported that the condition of Borland's body, which was found last week, indicated that he had undoubtedly been killed instantly. It is thought that both Borland and Eielson were killed instantly when the plane crashed.

Borland's body was removed to a tent and will be brought to the Nanuk later. The Russians reported yesterday that they had resumed digging operations for Eielson's body after a three day interruption due to a heavy snowstorm. It was expected that the body would be located soon, as 19 men are now engaged in the digging operations.

CANNERY MAN PASSES AWAY

George Alexander, After Whom Skeena River Plant Was Named, Dies at Great Age

VANCOUVER, Feb. 18.—George Alexander, who came to British Columbia from Scotland 50 years ago and made an outstanding name for himself in the commercial fishing industry, died here yesterday at the age of 86 years.

The former manager of the Great West Canning Co. at Steveston after whom Alexander cannery on the Skeena River was named, was born in Aberdeenshire, Scotland, on August 8, 1844. He was educated at Foveran Parish public school and came to British Columbia in 1878. Engaging in the fishing and timber business, he was manager of the Canadian Pacific Packing Co. from 1886 to 1892 and from 1892 to 1896 was district manager of the British Columbia Packers' Association. He was a commissioner of the Lulu Island dyking scheme.

The late Mr. Alexander, besides his widow, is survived by one son and three daughters. The family home was on Nelson Street.

Surveys Start Preparatory To Construction Of Skeena Highway Starting In Spring

In anticipation of a start being made during the coming spring on resumption from this end of the construction of the Skeena River Highway, a provincial public works department survey party under C. J. Ellison started work yesterday on the staking of the bridge site across Galloway Rapids and the laying out of the road route from there on. It is the intention to get the route laid out well in advance of actual construction starting.

As announced before, the proposed route for the continuation of the road is past Cloyah Bay not far from Denise Arm via Prudhomme Lake towards the head of Warke Canal near which it will turn up a low valley running between the head of Warke Canal to Skeena City. At the latter point it is the intention that the highway will cross the Skeena River by means of a ferry.

JASPER PARK NORTHLAND EXTENSIONS IS IN PORT

Accommodation of Lodge to Be Raised One Hundred to 550 New American Coast Motorship Arrives Here to Enter Dock For Propeller Repairs

MONTREAL, Feb. 18.—Increased travel summer after summer in the Canadian Rockies, and the growing popularity of Jasper National Park and Jasper Park Lodge have made necessary a considerable enlargement of the Canadian National Railways Hotel in the Athabasca Valley. Walter Pratt, general manager of the hotel department of the system, announced today. The accommodation of the lodge will be brought up to 550, an increase of 100 over the past season's capacity.

New buildings to be constructed before the opening in May will include two ten-room cabins, one 16-room cabin, one eight-room cabin, one two-suite cabin and a sleeping building for golfers, with 23 bedrooms. Each cabin will be equipped with baths for each room and with sitting rooms. Two additional staff cabins, with 16 rooms each, will be necessary. A new building will be created for the nurses who stay at the lodge to give service to guests. Dining rooms, laundry, power house, private service room, and garage will be enlarged and improved, new buses and cars will be acquired, the curio shop will be enlarged, the ticket office will be moved and new specialty shop opened up. Enclosed verandahs will be placed in some of the cabins. The program of landscaping will be continued.

Preparations, Mr. Pratt said, were being made for the reception of a large number of guests, including many tours and special parties.

The Northland is a thoroughly modern motorship fitted for carrying both freight and passengers. Of 1250 tonnage, she is 180 feet in length and is equipped with two long full diesel engines. She carries a crew of 32 men and has passenger accommodation for 66 persons.

NEW PHONE BOARD HERE

Capacity of Local System, Following Installation, to Be 1900 Instruments

Ald. S. D. Macdonald, chairman of the utilities committee, reported at last night's council meeting that a new section for the local telephone switchboard had arrived and would be installed within the next two or three weeks by the staff of the department. This would give an additional 209 phones, bringing the capacity up to 1850 or 1900 instruments. As there were now some 1600 instruments in use, Ald. Macdonald felt that the present installation would probably take care of the situation in the city for the next two or three years.

DAILY EDITION Tuesday, Feb. 18, 1930

FIRST WOMAN SENATOR

The first woman senator has been appointed after the highest court in the Empire decided that a woman is really a person.

Most men will agree with us that woman is not only a person but "the person" in most households. If she holds that position in the household she can hardly be looked upon as a nonentity in state affairs.

LOSING GOOD EMPLOYEES

Yesterday Robert Young, an expert linotype man, left the employ of The Daily News and has gone south. Only recently George Wilson left the business management of this paper to live in Vancouver. Both were excellent men in their different lines of work. It is matter for regret that conditions should have been such that they had to leave. Possibly some day both will be back here, but, in the meantime, we have to carry on without them.

It is always regrettable to have to part with good men. It means that those left behind have to use extra effort in order to fill their places. We shall ask for greater co-operation on the part of the public and especially from advertisers in getting in their copy early.

In spite of the changes The Daily News will continue to be Northern and Central British Columbia's newspaper, the exponent of the new north.

The "best society" is all right but often not for the best people.

WHAT OF THE WHEAT SITUATION

Wheat prices have gone tumbling and no one can tell what the future for the wheat growing industry has in store. The Wheat Pool, backed by the other grain dealers and the financial institutions of the country have tried to stem the downward trend but without success. What the effect will be on the local Pool no one can say.

If you can make mistakes charmingly, you have personality.

NEED OF PEACE RAILWAY

The drop in the price of wheat only accentuates the need of the western outlet to the Peace River and the desirability that the outlet should be by the most direct route to the ocean. That means direct to Prince Rupert or Stewart, probably the former because of the facilities already provided at the former port. The Stewart line may follow later if the Prince Rupert line comes first.

With lower prices for wheat the Peace River farmers will find it difficult to pay the high freight charges to get the product to the seaboard. They will need every encouragement and the western outlet will be the one factor that will place them in a position to compete. Also the building of the railway at this time will help to stabilize industrial conditions in the west, something for which all should strive.

We have canned food, canned music, and even our thoughts are carefully preserved from escaping beyond the tin boundary of prudence.

Line-ups for tonight's Billiard League fixture between the Grotto and Elks will be as follows:
Don Brown (Grotto) vs. C. P. Balagno (Elks).
W. J. Nelson vs. A. A. Eason.
George Waugh vs. F. H. Stephens.
James Andrews vs. A. Donald.
M. M. McLachlan vs. William Mitchell.

Primo Carnera, the biggest man in boxing, both in weight and interest, may visit the Pacific northwest next month. Arrangements are under way for the levitation of the heavyweights to make a tour of the Pacific coast, and if he decides to come west, which seems likely, Nate Druxman and Joe Waterman, officials of the National Athletic club at Seattle, will show the "man mountain" in a Seattle ring. Waterman, who has already wired Carnera's manager for the Venetian carpenter's services, said that the proposed show would not be any "Max Schmeling exhibition." Of course Carnera will not meet any Sharkeys or Dempseys in Seattle, but whoever he is pitted against he will go in the ring to fight," said Waterman. "It won't be any sparring match."

Ireland's turf betting control board has decreed against the totalizer in favor of the pari-mutuel system of wagering at race meetings in the Emerald Isle. They carefully surveyed the field before reaching this conclusion. The principal reason seems to rest in the cheapness of the system as compared with the Australian totalizing system. It is held that while the electric contrivance may prove the cheapest in the long run the initial outlay is so large that the board hesitated to burden the various associations to that extent.

FINALS OF BADMINTON

Miss Mitchell and Russell Win Mixed Doubles—Misses Mitchell and Cross, Ladies' and Brand and Bartlett, Men's

KEEN PLAY

Final games in the city badminton championship tournament under the auspices of the I.O.D.E. Badminton Club were played last night before an enthusiastic crowd of eighty spectators or more.

The opening event of the evening was the mixed doubles in which Miss Caroline Mitchell and Frank Russell beat Mrs. V. Long and C. J. Norrington 15-8, 15-11. The winners had a decided edge in the first game, their opponents being over-eager. The losers, however, put up a splendid fight in the second game and at one time were leading 11 to 5. Miss Mitchell and partner staged a final rally and turned in a well-deserved victory.

The next was an exhibition game in which W. Tobey, jr., and W. Cross opposed R. Allen and J. Gillatt. The boys played a strong game and showed much promise.

The first game of the ladies' doubles was very even, Mrs. Sheldford Darton and Mrs. H. L. Shadwell being a trifle unfortunate in losing to Miss Caroline Mitchell and Miss Frances Cross. The former pair, however, went to pieces in the second game and Misses Mitchell and Cross won handily 15-11, 15-4.

The men's doubles proved to be the outstanding event of the evening and those who liked thrills had them aplenty, the result being in doubt right up to the last so evenly were the constants matched. The winners, Carl Brand and Bob Bartlett, were deserving of much credit for pulling themselves out after having lost the first two games while the sympathy of all went to Frank Russell and Will Lambie for losing by such a small margin. The score was 14-17, 5-15, 15-5, 18-17, in favor of Brand and Bartlett.

winners. Delicious refreshments were then served with Mrs. C. H. Elkins and Mrs. C. J. Norrington in charge.

Morris Blott, H. T. Cross, A. C. Brand and W. Currie acted as umpires for the games, J. A. Teng presided at the door and C. J. Norrington was in general charge of the tournament which was an outstanding success.

INSTALMENT XXXVIII

"You're very like a dog," said Bundle. "I like dogs. They're so friendly and faithful and warm-hearted. I think that perhaps I could just bring myself to marry you, Bill—with a great effort, you know."
Bill's response to this was to relinquish his grasp of her and recoil violently. He looked at her with amazement in his eyes.
"Bundle—you don't mean it?"
"There's nothing for it," said Bundle. "I see I shall have to re-lapse into unconsciousness again."

"Bundle—darling" Bill caught her to him. He was trembling violently. "Bundle—do you really mean it—do you? You don't know how much I love you."
"Oh, Bill," said Bundle.
There is no need to describe in detail the conversation of the next ten minutes. It consisted mostly of repetitions.
"And do you really love me?" said Bill, incredulously, for the twentieth time as he at last released her.

"Yes—yes—yes. Now do let's be sensible. I've got a racking head still, and I've been nearly squeezed to death by you. I want to get the hang of things. Where are we and what's happened?"
For the first time, Bundle began to take stock of her surroundings. They were in the secret room, she noted, and the balze door was closed and presumably locked. They were prisoners, then!
Bundle's eyes came back to Bill. Quite oblivious of her question he was watching her with adoring eyes.

"Bill, darling," said Bundle. "pull yourself together. We've got to get out of here."
"Eh!" said Bill. "What? Oh, yes. That'll be all right. No difficulty about that."
"It's being in love makes you feel like that," said Bundle. "I feel rather the same myself. As though everything's easy and possible."
"So it is," said Bill. "Now that I know you care for me—"
"Stop it," said Bundle. "Once we begin again any serious conversation will be hopeless. Unless you pull yourself together and become sensible, I shall very likely change my mind."

"I shan't let you," said Bill. "You don't think that once having got you I'd be such a fool as to let you go, do you?"
"You would not coerce me against my will, I hope," said Bundle grandiloquently.
"Wouldn't I?" said Bill. "You just watch me do it, that's all."

The Russian Again

"You really are rather a darling, Bill. I was afraid you might be too meek, but I see there's going to be no danger of that. In another half hour you'd be ordering me about. Oh, dear, we're getting silly again. Now, look here, Bill, we've got to get out of here."
"I tell you that'll be quite all right. I shall—"
He broke off, obedient to a pressure from Bundle's hand. She was leaning forward, listening intently. Yes, she had not been mistaken. A step was crossing the outer room. The key was thrust into the lock and turned. Bundle held her breath. Was it Jimmy coming to rescue them—or was it some one else?

The door opened and the black-bearded Mr. Mosgorovsky stood on the threshold.

Immediately Bill took a step forward, standing in front of Bundle. "Look here," he said. "I want a word with you privately."
The Russian did not reply for a minute or two. He stood stroking his long, silky, black beard and smiling quietly to himself.

"So," he said at last, "it is like that. Very well. The lady will be pleased to come with me."
"It's all right, Bundle," said Bill. "Leave it to me. You go with this chap. Nobody's going to hurt you. I know what I'm doing."
Bundle rose obediently. That note of authority in Bill's voice was new to her. He seemed absolutely sure of himself and confident of being able to deal with the situation. Bundle wondered vaguely what it was that Bill had—or thought he had—up his sleeve.

She passed out of the room in front of the Russian. He followed her, closing the door behind him and locking it.

"This way, please," he said. He indicated the staircase and she mounted obediently to the floor above. Here she was directed to pass into a small, frowsy room, which she took to be Alfred's bedroom.

Mosgorovsky said: "You will wait here quietly, please. There must be no noise."
Then he went out, closing the door behind him and locking her in.

Bundle sat down on a chair. Her head was aching badly still and she felt incapable of sustained thought. Bill seemed to have the situation well in hand. Sooner or later, she supposed, some one would come and let her out.

An Emergency Meeting

The minutes passed. Bundle's watch stopped, but she judged that over an hour had passed since the Russian had brought her here. What was happening? What, indeed, had happened?

At last she heard footsteps on the stairs. It was Mosgorovsky once more. He spoke very formally to her.
"Lady Eileen Brent, you are wanted at an emergency meeting of the Seven Dials Society. Please follow me."
He led the way down the stairs and Bundle followed him. He opened the door of the secret chamber and Bundle passed in, catching her breath in surprise as she did so.

She was seeing for the second time what she had only had a glimpse of the first time through her peep-hole. The masked figures were sitting round the table. As she stood there, taken aback by the suddenness of it, Mosgorovsky slipped into his place, adjusting his clock mask as he did so.
But this time the chair at the head of the table was occupied. No. 7 was in his place.

Bundle's heart beat violently. She was standing at the foot of the table directly facing him and she stared and stared at the mocking piece of hanging stuff, with the clock dial on it, that hid his features.

He sat quite immovable and Bundle got an odd sensation of power radiating from him. His inactivity was not the inactivity of weakness—and she wished violently, almost hysterically, that he would speak—that he would make some sign, some gesture—not just sit there like a gigantic spider in the middle of its web waiting remorselessly for its prey.

She shivered and as she did so Mosgorovsky rose. His voice, smooth, silky, persuasive, seemed curiously far away.
"Lady Eileen, you have been present unasked at the secret councils of this society. It is therefore necessary that you should identify yourself with our aims and ambitions. The place 2 o'clock, you may notice, is vacant. It is that place that is offered to you."
Bundle gasped. The thing was like a fantastic nightmare. Was it possible that she, Bundle Brent, was being asked to join a murderous secret society? Had the same proposition been made to Bill, and had he refused indignantly?

"I can't do that," she said bluntly.
"Do not answer precipitately." She fancied that Mosgorovsky, beneath his cloak mask, was smiling significantly into his beard.
"You do not as yet know, Lady Eileen, what it is you are refusing."

SERVICE OF CAPT. DONALD

Has Sailed Over One Million Miles On This Coast in C.N.R. Boats - Some Personal History

When the "Prince Rupert" warped into her berth at the Canadian National dock, Vancouver, on February 17, Captain Dan Donald, commodore of the Canadian National Steamship Services on the Pacific Coast, will chalk up a record mileage in the service of the company, says the current number of Canadian National Railways Magazine.

His personal log shows that since he joined the service, in 1910 he has guided ships of the company through approximately 1,150,000 miles of the tortuous waters known as the Inside Passage, and famous throughout the world as one of the most picturesque waterways known.

Despite the youthful appearance and alertness, which is apparent to many thousands who have been aboard the ships he has commanded, the Captain is a veteran sailor. Born in Greenock, Scotland, the home of hardy salts and daring clippermen, when the whitewinged sailing vessels resounded to sea chanties, Captain "Dan" started his nautical career aboard the full rigged clipper "Abercarne," a vessel that sailed to Australia in the wool trade.

It was a hard school but one in which the youngsters learned truly and well the art of handling sailing ships in all weathers. From this trade, to an equally arduous one came the young Scotsman, for next he sailed from Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, and during a voyage on "Celestial Burrel," a noted clipper of the port, he was, during a typhoon, wrecked on the island of Formosa, in the China Sea. Shipped homeward from Hong Kong to Yarmouth via Victoria, B.C., he decided to remain on the Pacific Coast. Obtaining a mate's place aboard a tug, employed in the salmon packing industry, he gained his first knowledge of the inlets and bays of the 7,000-mile coast line of British Columbia. Later he served with the Union Steamship Co. on various boats and when, in 1910, the Grand Trunk Pacific organized a boat service between Vancouver and Prince Rupert, he shipped as first officer on "Prince Albert," following being master of the "Henriette," which carried structural steel for the bridgework on the railway between Prince Rupert and Jasper. Later he was master of the "Prince Albert," then the "Prince George" and for the last seven years has been on the bridge of the "Prince Rupert."

A total of 907 voyages is credited to Captain Dan Donald with ships that belong to the Canadian National Services. Through foggy winter weather, through dark nights, with high seas running between rocky walls, and in fair days, he has captained on the scenic seas many thousands of passengers who marvel at the seamanship which carries them through the archipelago of islands down narrow passages and by frowning heights that rise in sheer grandeur above the ships.

In 1913, after valiant efforts, Captain Donald, was instrumental in saving the crew and 33 passengers from a storm-tossed steamer in the Gulf of Georgia.
During the war years, the "Prince George" was taken over by the British Admiralty and, with Captain Donald at the helm, was so employed for some time. He wears a naval decoration for this service.

"I can make a pretty good guess," said Bundle.
"Can you?"
It was the voice of 7 o'clock. It awoke some vague chord of memory in Bundle's brain. Surely she knew that voice?

Very slowly No. 7 raised a hand to his head and fumbled with the fastening of the mask.
Bundle held her breath. At last—she was going to know.
The mask fell.
Bundle found herself looking into the expressionless, wooden face of Superintendent Battle.

CITY COUNCIL DECIDES TO DELEGATE ON PEACE RIVER OUTLET.

River outlet. Yet he honestly believed that, outside of the gesture, it was throwing money away to send a delegate. In the final analysis, engineers of the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific railways were bound to decide in favor of the outlet to Prince Rupert and he believed that the decision with respect to the outlet would be made not until after the next federal election.

Moral Affect

The strong point that Ald. MacDonald saw was the moral effect of sending a delegate upon the people of the Peace River. If Prince Rupert failed to send a delegate the people of the Peace River might feel that they were not getting the support they were entitled to in advocating the outlet to this port.

Mayor Orme, speaking again, said that in a certain section of the city there were not enough water pipes to give domestic supply. The city was wondering where it was going to get the money to instal the pipes. Under the circumstances, he questioned the advisability of sending a delegate to Ottawa.

Ald. Pullen referred to the good results that had been obtained by the mayor when he was sent last month as a delegate to Victoria. Maybe, if a delegate were sent to Ottawa, he might get similar encouragement. Ald. Pullen thought that Ald. Collart was the man who should be sent. He had the work at his finger tips, was energetic and had the advantage of being able to talk French so would be able to meet the French-Canadian members with their own language.

Ald. Linzey thought that Ald. MacDonald had clinched the matter when he referred to the moral effect upon the people of the Peace River. Probably this would be the last blow that would have to be struck in the fight. Though he was not generally in favor of sending delegates, he did think it would be wise in this case and that the city should strain a point in order to do so.

The Peace River outlet was the life and soul of Prince Rupert, Ald. Black said, and while he did not much favor sending of delegates, he thought nothing should be done to prejudice Prince Rupert's case in this matter.

There was further discussion before the question of sending a delegate was put and carried. It was decided to limit the expenses of the delegate to $500.

YOUTH WILL BE SERVED

Only One Beard in Cabinet of Old France Now

PARIS, Feb. 18.—The young New Year's coming to Paris finds youth being served, in more ways than one.

The new year sees only one beard in the new Tardieu cabinet and that's a pretty fair symptom of a new state of things. The beard belongs to Henri Cheron, minister of finance, indicating youth utilizes the caution of age.

Seen from an airplane Paris hasn't changed her broad general outline, but her face has been lifted and she is massaging her wrinkles; she needs a little more color.

Modern art has hit the stores. New fronts of geometrical angularity stick out like lighthouses. Green, blue and violet lights illuminate shops and even the opera. The old bourgeoisie is afraid "the traditional beauty of old Paris" will be destroyed. There has even been legislation to protect historic spots from the ambition of those who want modern quarters.

Yet the thirsty traveler can rest as usual on cafe's sidewalk "terrasses." Many old landmark places are gone, replaced by nice, new shiny ones with higher-priced beer and brisk, prosperous looking waiters. Soon the shabby friendly gargon who liked to gossip with his customers and always said "Merci, Monsieur," will get his place in a museum.

"English spoken," no longer attracts attention on store windows. Foreign shoppers take for granted they can find in any store some one with enough polyglot to take their money. Even the cops are learning English.

Visitors who like their native hits—well-seasoned by a couple of years delay—can see them here. The theatre, in fact, now runs largely to English, Russian, German and American shows and about half the French actors and three-fourths of

WHEN A CHILD IS FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.
When these symptoms appear, give Baby's Milk of Magnesia.
Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, cures children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.
Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information," Address The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., Windsor, Ont. It will be sent FREE.
In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 60 years.

Coupled with all this is the picture of modern art. There are pictures than ever before, a force of quantity overwhelming additional art so that Paris, and usually France, is ever seeking "new" in all things.

New Company Takes Over Silver Cup; Big Operations Near Usk Planned; Columario to Be Active Again

The Silver Cup mine at Hazelton, it is reported, will be taken over by a new company to be known as the Omineca Mining and Milling Co., which is about to be incorporated. It is the reported intention of the company to first develop a quantity of ore, after which milling would be resumed in the plant which was established during the past year by the old company. Holders of shares in the old company, it is said, will be able to take out shares in the new. Alwin Harvey, Vancouver produce broker, is provisional president and J. Edward Sears, lawyer, secretary. T. B. Lewis, a well known mining engineer, will be managing-director, and, according to the report, will assume immediate control of the property.

The Copper River Exploration Co. is being incorporated now with heavy capital to prospect the country around Usk with a view to starting mining operations on a rather large scale. The company already has under option to bond the Toulon group of five crown-granted claims as well as five claims held by location; the Ptarmigan group and the Northwest group, all of which are on Bornite Mountain. Fifty-one claims located between Kleanza Lake and Copper River, about 25 miles from Usk, have been taken over. The sum of $35,000 has been placed in the bank to be used this summer in prospecting the holdings of the company. As soon as possible a number of men will be started on the Toulon group, where considerable work has already been done. A cross-cut, which, it is expected, will take till about July 1, will be run, and then it is proposed to place a diamond drill on the property and thoroughly prospect it for big tonnage. The Toulon is one of the oldest properties on the Skeena River and contains chiefly copper with gold and silver values. It is low grade but with high grade lenses occurring at intervals. A few men will be put on the Ptarmigan-Northwest groups to prospect and another group of mining engineers and geologists will spend the summer on the fifty-one claims that reach out of the Copper River. The future of the Usk-Terrace district, as far as mining progress is concerned, may depend to a great extent on what success may be attained by the new company. Those identified with the venture firmly believe that there are the necessary ore deposits. An English syndicate is behind the enterprise and Grossman & Holland of Vancouver are the solicitors. H. L. Batten, M. E., is secretary and director and John Willman of Usk is another director.

The crew on the property near Usk of the Columario Gold Mining Co., which has been kept in working order during the past winter by three men, will shortly be raised to thirty. Last fall the company was obliged to close down operations because of bad road conditions. It will only be a matter of a short time before the property is again running to full capacity. A definite program of development has been mapped out and it is expected this will be completed by the end of June. After that it is planned to instal a mill to treat the ore. The company is controlled in Toronto.
