OTTAWA, Sept. 17.—In the second division of the session, the Bennett government was accorded a majority of 54. The division came late last night on an amendment by former Premier King for a six months' hoist of the measure to amend the Customs Act in respect to dumping. The vote was 116 nays and 62 ayes.

IMMIGRANTS ASSIMILATE

WINNIPEG, Sept. 17.—Completing his duties as one of the Saskatchewan judges in the community progress competitions sponsored by the Canadian National Railways, Dr. W. J. Rose passed through Winnipeg yesterday en route to Hanover, N.H., for the opening of the fall term at Dartmouth College. During the past two weeks Dr. Rose covered more than 1500 miles by train and automobile judging the communities in Saskatchewan who entered into the competition.

"The beginnings of this first year's competitions are highly promising," said Dr. Rose, "successful beyond expectation. It is safe to predict that the values to be expected both in terms of better farms, homes, schools and better civic ideas in the communities reached by the judges in the yearly visits is far greater than can be foreseen at this moment."

"We were almost overcome with hospitality," continued Dr. Rose, speaking on behalf of Dr. W. C. Murray and Mrs. Violet McNaughton who, along with Dr. Rose, formed the judging committee for Saskatchewan. "Our general impression was one of distinct satisfaction at the great strides made in a single generation by people, some of whom have come from lands in Europe which, culturally, are known to be still in a very backward condition, we noticed almost everywhere a real interest in the cultural and spiritual factors in life, which not even the get-rich-quick philosophy of the New World has been able to eradicate."

City Is In Fortunate Position Today; Power Development Ominous

Former Attorney General Urges Business Men to Help Boost Resources and Develop City and District Industries

Declaring that Prince Rupert was weathering the present world depression with less unemployment and want than any other city in British Columbia, predicting that the large investment being made here in hydro-electric development by the Power Corporation of Canada would result in new industries being established locally in the near future and urging his hearers to use their best efforts towards the boosting of the city's and district's advantages and the developing of their resources, A. M. Manson K.C., M.L.A., gave a cool and well thought-out address before the Prince Rupert Retail Merchants' Association at dinner in the Boston Cafe last evening. The speaker's subject was "The Outlook for Prince Rupert as I See It." Bert Morgan, president of the association, was in the chair and there was a much larger attendance of members than usual at the dinner.

In opening, Mr. Manson expressed his pleasure at being back again in his old home town of Prince Rupert. It was pleasant to recognize old faces, to see the boys of a few years ago now holding responsible positions in the business and professional life of the city and to meet the new people.

Wherever and whenever "The Outlook for Prince Rupert" was discussed, Mr. Manson said, there was always a note of great optimism present. When he first came here, the speaker continued, he had believed that the city had a great future and, down through the years, the view had persisted with him that Prince Rupert was bound to become a place of consequence. Its strategic position made it logical that it should be developed.

Canada as a nation and a country was as yet merely in its infancy, declared Mr. Manson. Such development as there had so far been was but a mere scratching of the surface and no one could foretell what the progress of the country was to be. Perhaps the history of grain growing on the prairies might be an illustration of what might come to pass in other industries. He could remember when he was a boy that the grain growing of Canada was confined to that stretch of prairie along the United States border. Since that time there had been great development in wheat growing toward the Arctic coast. The Peace River country, well north, had proven to grow the best grain. In other industries, accomplishments quite as unexpected might come about.

When admission of this province to Confederation was being considered, statesmen in Parliament had condemned the transcontinental railway project. British Columbia had been termed by some of them "a hopeless sea of mountains" which would be "a millstone around the neck of the rest of the Dominion." Much to the contrary, however, British Columbia had proven itself in the years that had ensued, one of the Dominion's greatest assets.

Room For Two Railways Conceding that Canada had proven her natural resources in a most remarkable way, it was natural to suppose, declared the speaker, that there was room for two transcontinental railways. One could not handle all the territory or the potential business. Referring to the great resources of British Columbia, Mr. Manson

HOUSTON FARMER MURDER VICTIM

Discovered by neighbors, the murdered remains of Charles Yoeh, farmer of Houston, were found buried in his cabin early Tuesday, according to word received at divisional headquarters of the provincial police here, from Sergeant Andrew Fairbairn, district chief at Smithers. Inspector William Spiller, divisional officer commanding provincial police, now on his way west after a trip into the Peace River country, will stop off at Houston this week to investigate the circumstances of the reported murder.

MUST HELP THEMSELVES

Everything comes to those who wait and rustle but those who simply wait are often disappointed. Just now Prince Rupert is much in the public eye as a result of the activities of the Power Corporation of Canada and this is the time to add our own efforts as they are worth twice as much when combined with those of the powerful financial concern. What we do may not amount to much but sometimes it is that little effort that proves the turning point in our favor.

As a rule publicity efforts are spasmodic. People get tired, enthusiasm wanes, no results are seen and the efforts cease.

As an illustration of how difficult it is to estimate results directly, let us take the Daily News classified advertising as an example. Sometimes a person inserts an advertisement, gets no results and forgets about it. Weeks afterwards a telephone call comes from some one who has suddenly realized that what was advertised was just what the person wanted. That often happens.

Take another instance: A member of the Daily News staff sometimes advertises something which he wishes to sell. As there is no charge for the advertisement to members of the staff, he leaves it in the paper a long time. For two or three weeks there is no reply and he thinks advertising that particular article useless. Then as if out of a clear sky come several replies and one results in business being done. It was the persistent advertising that brought results.

So with the city. One effort or two may not succeed but it is the persistent efforts of every organization and many citizens that brings results. Just when we tire and feel like giving up, is often the time when results are obtained. There is nothing so attractive as a live town with live citizens, well painted buildings, lighted shops and flashing signs. Add to this, courteous businessmen keen on serving their customers well and careful not to overcharge and prosperity is assured.

These are the days when wish bones are at a discount but backbones are at a premium.

DETAIL DIFFICULT

In all lines of business the difficult matter is to attend to details. It is comparatively easy to do the big things but the little things that really count are often neglected. That is why some people fail.

Prince Rupert people must have seen businesses gradually fade away and finally disappear just because the owners did not attend to the details. In many cases they tried to make good fellows of themselves and forgot to work hard.

Life is a matter of endless detail. Nature builds that way and the sure foundation to success of any kind is to attend carefully to the detail and do it every day.

Life is just a matter of one experience after another.

velop another Sullivan mine. The Premier had proven to be a remarkable mine and who knew but what there might be another Premier along the line of the C. N. R. east of Prince Rupert?

Speaking of agricultural resources of the central interior, the speaker declared that the fertile valleys of the south such as the Okanagan were not comparable in size as the Bulkley and certainly were no more fertile.

Mr. Manson spoke of the tremendous resources of pulp timber. The time, it must be admitted, had not as yet arrived when it could be hoped to successfully develop the pulp and paper industry in the central interior in competition with the coast which had the advantage of water transportation both of logs to the mills and the products of the mills to the markets abroad. Temporarily there was an almost insuperable handicap as far as the interior was concerned. This condition would not last forever, though, for paper was coming into more and more uses and the timber of the coast would ultimately reach a point where it would be depleted or where strict conservation would be necessary. Within a comparatively short time, the pulp timber of the central interior might be brought to account.

Great water powers of the district came in for the attention of the speaker. Today Prince Rupert had the example of one of the strongest financial concerns in Canada coming in and developing a large amount of electrical energy. There was comparatively little local market at the present time and that capital had not come here without something larger in view. Those people had considered coolly and calmly before investing that money here. They must see a possible market for the power they propose to develop. The reasonable conclusion was that the Power Corporation would see to it that industries were brought in to use the energy they were developing. That ought to be some consolation for local people.

Another great possibility was that of Oriental shipping. Canada's great potential market of the next fifty years lay in China and Japan. There had been astounding development and increase in shipping to the Orient in the last ten years and prospects were that it would be even vaster in the near future. It was inevitable that Prince Rupert, closer to the Orient and with better harbor than Vancouver, must share to a large extent in that business. Vancouver could not possibly take care of it all.

Some Handicaps

At the same time, the speaker pointed out, Prince Rupert had some handicaps which should not be overlooked. One of the most serious handicaps was that Vancouver had a great start on Prince Rupert. It was a city of 100,000 when Prince Rupert was born. It was a great port and had the advantage of the fertile Fraser Valley behind it as well as being closer to Seattle, Portland and the Panama Canal. It was natural that ships should go to the point where there were sufficient varieties of commodities to make full cargoes both inbound and outbound. Prince Rupert had not at present the commodities necessary for mixed cargoes outbound or the population and centres nearby for to receive these cargoes inbound. The same conditions applied to passenger traffic. It was natural that the travelers should go to the distributing point which on this coast at present was Vancouver. It was like a large magnet and a little one. The large one drew in all the business. If ever Prince Rupert could get 25,000 people, it would not notice Vancouver's magnet and would have little cause for further worry.

Vancouver talked and thought only in terms of Vancouver and sometimes might not be very broad-minded about it. It was necessary for Prince Rupert to fight for everything it got and, even then, it often did not get its share because in the south there was the population—and the votes.

"We do not want a spirit of jealousy or recrimination here," declared Mr. Manson. "It is no use for saying nasty things about Vancouver. It is better that you should just keep pulling and pulling, continue reasonable optimism, do the best you can to develop your resources, continually boost the advantages of the city and district and, if you feel inclined to speculate, put your money in the local rather than the outside venture and support the proposition that supports our own locality."

Delivering a message more particularly to the merchants, Mr. Manson wondered how much money went out of Prince Rupert to stores in Vancouver, Calgary, Winnipeg, etc. He ventured to think that the volume of money that went out might approximate that which was spent in local stores. A town could not get along that way. He wondered if the merchants were careful enough themselves. Did they buy as far as possible in British Columbia and Canada. He thought it was desirable that the merchants should endeavor to educate their customers to use the home products.

"As for Prince Rupert, I am not the least downhearted," declared Mr. Manson in bringing his address to a close. "We may not have the same old great enthusiasm but just as cold as you know how, cast aside all nonsense and optimism, and get down to cold common sense, and who can say that Prince Rupert is not going to go? As a matter of fact, I think you are situated better today than you have ever been before. I simply cannot think that any big corporation with Sir Herbert Holt at its head is going to throw such a great sum of money into a community like this unless it intends to follow it up with more money for the development of industries."

Prince Rupert Fortunate

"Meantime, you are one of the most fortunate cities in British Columbia today. You have less real want and less unemployment. Let me tell you that times in Vancouver are not nearly so good. You were fortunate in having had such a splendid canning season. Halibut prices may not have been good but they are bound to soon be better. You have gone through this world depression better than possibly any other city. You will be bound to feel the dip but the wave will soon turn and we will all work up hill. That will be the time, I think, when you will find outside capital coming here for the establishment of industries and the developing of your resources.

Bert Morgan, the president, in thanking Mr. Manson for his address, concurred heartily in his counsel that the use of Canadian goods should always be encouraged.

In moving a vote of thanks to the speaker, James H. Thompson welcomed Mr. Manson back to the city and to the dinner. His talk had been much appreciated and he for one (Mr. Thompson) shared Mr. Manson's optimism as to Prince Rupert's prospects. The vote of thanks was seconded by R. E. Benson and carried with enthusiasm and applause.

Before adjourning, business matters pertaining to the association's affairs were taken up.

RENTAL OF THEATRE

Editor, Daily News:
Rumors have been circulated in the past and are now being circulated that the Capitol theatre cannot be rented for local entertainments. Such rumors are very unfair and quite erroneous for, with the exception of public holidays, the theatre can be rented at any time.

It is also being said that I have asked $500.00 per night as rental for the theatre. This statement, also is quite untrue and, as I know the people of this city are fair minded, I wish them to know exactly the rental which I have asked of all organizations wishing to rent the theatre.

As the receipts of the theatre vary on different nights of the week, the policy which I have followed, since becoming manager, is as follows:

If it is desired to rent the theatre for Monday, the rental will be the average of the four preceding Mondays. If for Tuesday, the average of the four preceding Tuesdays, and so on for the other days of the week. I believe this rental to be fair and reasonable.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space in your valuable columns, I am,

Yours very truly,

S. P. McMORDIE,
Manager,

LIBERATION

ONE does not have to go back many years to reach the time when most of the water used in the house had to be carried from the spring or well, not always situated close to the house.

Even the introduction of the hand pump, which brought water to the kitchen, did not dispense with the backbreaking work of pumping and lifting heavy pails.

Woman's work on the farm, and indeed in the city, involved an enormous expenditure of strength and vitality. Among other tasks she was dependent on her own hands to do the family washing, a good deal of the milking, the filling and cleaning of lamps, ironing, taking care of the poultry (which meant also the poultry house), to say nothing of innumerable minor tasks, and at the same time had to rear, feed, clothe and otherwise provide for her children.

Today she is liberated from much of the drudgery of household tasks. The washing, ironing, lighting, cooking; and on the farm, milking, poultry work, dairy work, and the pumping of water, can now be done by electricity.

The electrical servant also relieves the man of the household from many tasks which he used to take as a matter of course.

The Northern Electric Company is pleased that in the manufacture of wires and cables, and in the distribution of many electrical household appliances, it has been able to assist in the liberation of woman from some of her work, that so frequently overtaxed her strength and endurance.

SHE THOUGHT: "If only someone would tell you that 'B.O.' keeps you from making good." Yet, to be polite, SHE SAID: "I'm very sorry you're leaving us!"

Couldn't hold a job ... was "B.O." the reason?

DISMISSED again! The president's secretary suspected why. So did others in the office. But no one wanted to tell him. It was too personal a matter.

Was "B.O." the reason—body odour? Judge by the facts. When he discovered his fault at last—and how to correct it—"luck" changed. Today he's a valued junior executive—advancing fast. He knows the easy way to keep perspiration odourless.

Even though you feel that you couldn't be guilty of "B.O.," this is so important a matter to take chances with. Remember this. We all perspire. Pores give off a quart of odour-causing waste even on cool days, science says.

True we don't notice it in ourselves because we so soon become accustomed to an ever-present odour. But it can be most annoying to others. Why risk offending? It's so easy to be safe. Just wash and bathe with Lifebuoy.

"Most refreshing soap I ever used!" say millions of delighted users. A Lifebuoy bath drives away fatigue, makes you feel gloriously fresh and fit. And no worries about "B.O." For this creamy, abundant, searching lather purifies pores—destroys all odour.

True complexion beauty

Lifebuoy's gentle, yet thorough cleansing, frees clogged pores of impurities—brings dull, sallow complexions back to healthy, radiant freshness. Its pleasant extra-clean scent—that vanishes as you rinse—tells you Lifebuoy purifies. Adopt Lifebuoy today.

Bouquet From New York For Local Printers

Rose, Cowan & Latta Produced Circular Which Brought Favorable Communication

The bouquet received from New York City in regard to local printing mentioned in the Daily News editorially yesterday, was for work done by Rose, Cowan & Latta of Prince Rupert, Frank Dibb, manager. It was printed on high grade deckle edged paper with a parchment finish and was a very striking piece of workmanship.

The eulogy of the work came from Charles E. Miller, publisher's representative, New York City, who said: "The story which you have presented about the Daily News and Prince Rupert, in text, in typography, press work and the stock upon which it is printed is splendid and tells in a gripping way facts of interest."—Adv't.

Miss Dorothy Stephens of White Horse arrived in the city Sunday on the Princess Louise and will visit for a couple of weeks with her sister, Mrs. J. W. McAuley, Fourth Avenue West.

SPORT CHAT

The "Ashes" have returned to Australia as they well deserved to do, and the story of the final test match of 1930 is now ancient history. The match was perhaps remarkable most for the universal opinion excited that, in a game always leisurely at its best, timeless cricket, once a side has obtained a preponderating advantage, was capable of developing into downright tedium. A very different aspect of the game was shown a few days later at Bristol when the Australians met Gloucester in a two days' match. This terminated in a tie after one of the most extraordinary and thrilling games ever played between an English country and an Australian eleven.

Gloucestershire in the end left Australia 118 runs to make to win, and the Australians started off with a first wicket partnership of 39. By the time their score had climbed to 73 half the side were out, and when Bradman was accounted for with the score at 81 the 6,000 spectators began to sit up and take notice. Another wicket fell with the score at 86, and by the time the total had reached 108 Australia were just 10 runs from the goal and had two wickets to fall. Within three runs of victory Australia lost another wicket. Then two singles were scored. The field closed in; a run was wanted for victory and Gloucestershire meant to stop it if they could. The bowling was too deadly for the batsmen to take a final risk, and the inevitable happened. One of them stopped a straight one with his pad and the match was a tie.

LOSES BY ACCIDENT

Shamrock V Had Bad Luck Today in Third Race When Main Halyard Snapped

NEWPORT, Sept. 17.—Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger Shamrock V lost her third straight race in the America's Cup series today when her main halyard snapped 45 minutes after the start and she had to be taken in tow, the Enterprise continuing her way on the course.

The Shamrock was holding a slight lead when her mainsail came down on the deck as the halyard block carried away.

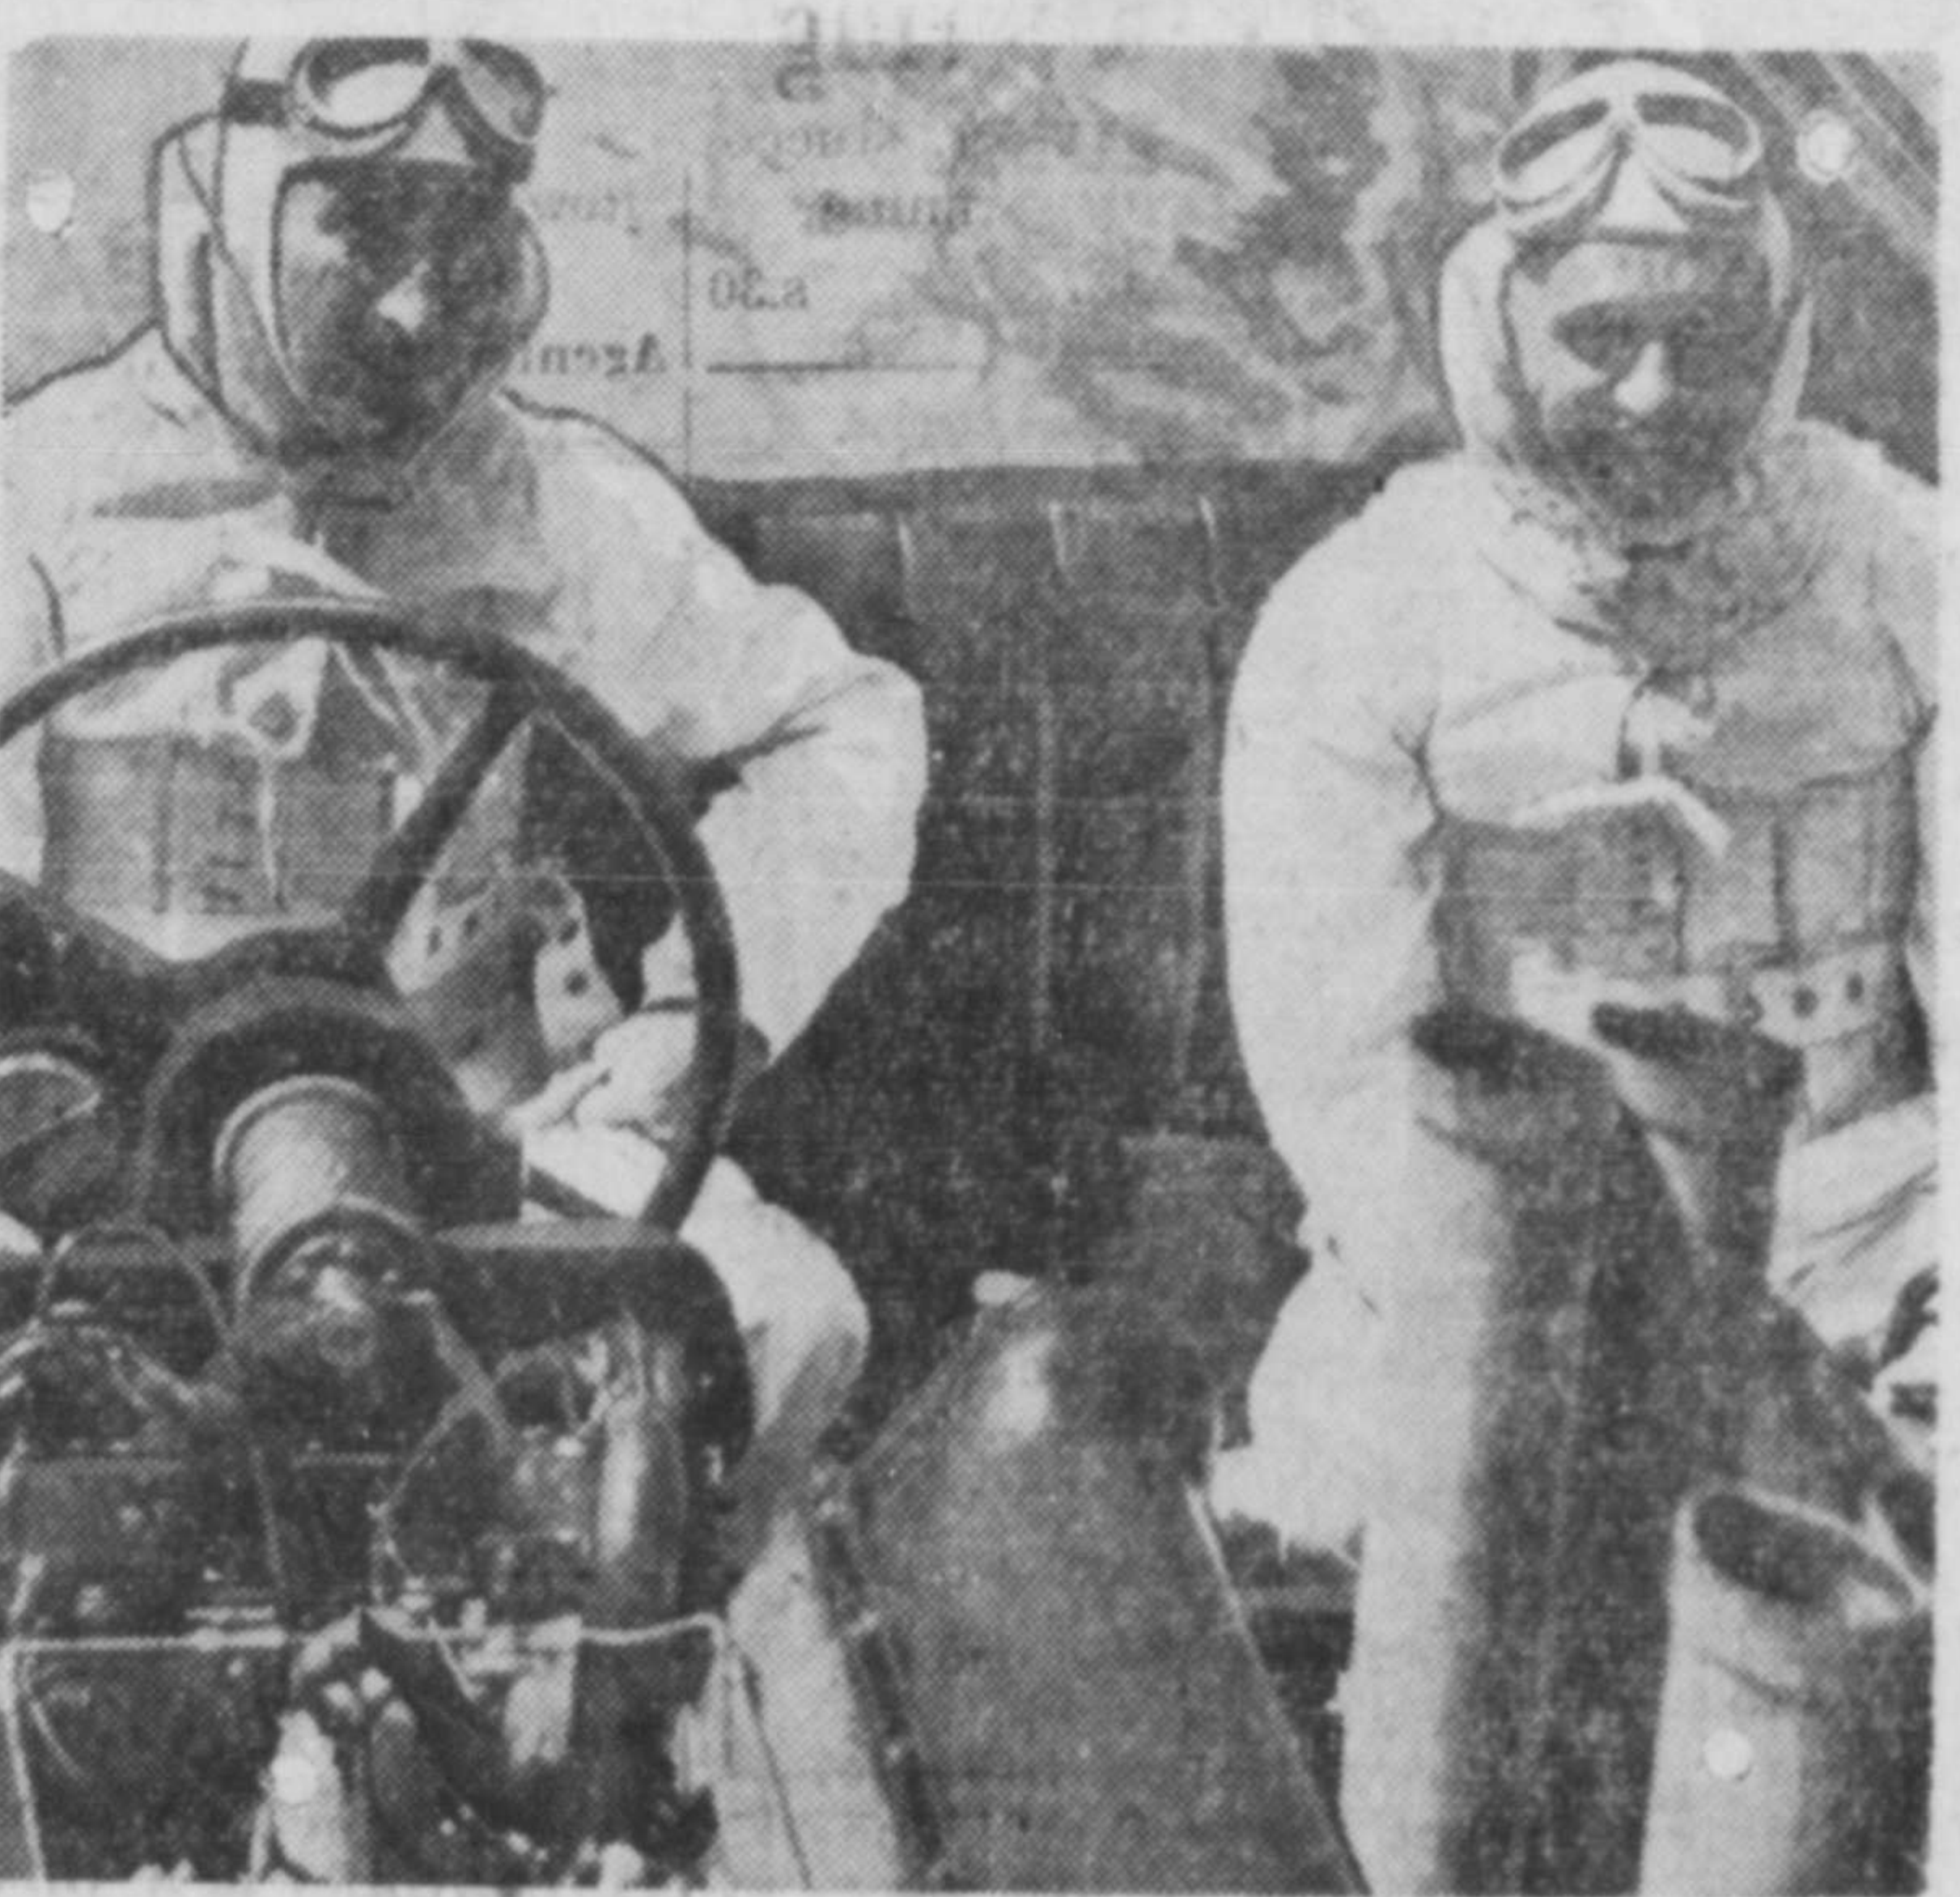

The race started at 10:10 a.m. under ideal conditions. There was a 12-knot breeze with some sea. Both yachts crossed the starting line together on the 15-mile beat to windward. The Shamrock held a technical advantage at the start being to windward.

The wind holding true, the Enterprise had a straight run home after the turn before the wind.

It is expected that repairs can be made to the Shamrock prior to tomorrow's scheduled race.

The Enterprise rounded the half way mark at 12:54 and started on the 15-mile run back toward the finish line before the wind.

The Enterprise crossed the finish line at 2:34 p.m., scoring her hollow victory in the third race of the series. The American boat now has to win but one of the four remaining races to retain the coveted America's Cup.

HINTS FOR GARDENERS

BULBS FOR WINTER BLOOMING

One can easily have house flowers from early in November until well on in February by planting suitable bulbs in pots or bowls at this time. Narcissus, hyacinths, Chinese lilies, tulips, freesias, scillas, daffodils and others can be grown in soil, water, pebbles, or fibre. For all round satisfaction, fibre is probably the best substance in which to grow them, as it can be bought along with the bulbs, is cleanest to handle, requires no drainage, and can be used over and over again. Tulips, daffodils, narcissus and hyacinths should be planted deep enough so that only the tip of the bulb shows above the surface. The Chinese lily should not go nearly as deep. The narcissus and Chinese lily will bloom in about six weeks to eight weeks, while the hyacinths, tulips and daffodils will not come on in less than two or three months. By planting the narcissus in succession two crops of flowers can be produced in the same bowl, while planting the others at intervals of two weeks from now until Christmas will give a succession of bloom from February on to the time when the outside flowers will commence blooming.

After planting, place the bulbs in a dark, cold cellar where the temperature can be kept as close to 45 degrees as possible. When the root growth has developed well (this can be ascertained by turning one of the pots or bowls out in the hand) bring out into fair light and a temperature of about 55 degrees. Water more liberally and in a week or two remove to full sun and a temperature of 65 or 70 degrees. After the flowers come out, keep the plants fairly cool, not much over 65 degrees, and, if possible, give them much lower temperature at night, or at least for a few hours a day. This will make the bloom last longer.

SHOWER OF GROCERIES

Successful Affair Yesterday in Aid of Ridley Home

A very successful grocery shower was held yesterday afternoon at the Ridley Home under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Andrew's Anglican Cathedral. The fine day brought many visitors laden with gifts. A most enjoyable afternoon was spent looking over the three cottages and hearing details of the work and the pressing need for extension. Each cottage had started the term with nine children which meant overcrowding if any more were admitted. It was hoped that a central kitchen would shortly be built which will enable the work to be carried on more efficiently and economically.

Refreshments were served by the following ladies: Mrs. T. Andrew, Mrs. W. C. Aspinall, Mrs. A. H. Waddington, Mrs. W. E. Tucker, Mrs. T. H. Cross, Miss Hicks and Miss Rudge.

Donations were received by Mrs. F. W. Stamp-Vincent, Mrs. W. A. McLean and Miss Beagley from the following: Mrs. A. H. Waddington, T. Trotter, Watt's Grocery, Mrs. J. Conenry, Bush's Groceries, Mrs. D. C. Stuart, Mrs. T. Andrew, Mrs. Goodsall, Mrs. J. B. Gibson, Mrs. Sinclair, Mrs. W. E. Tucker, Mrs. Rollins, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. W. W. Wrathall, Mrs. V. In Grandmother's Day: "A dozen eggs, please... are you sure they're fresh?... the last weren't so good... and a half pound of cheese—mild... let me taste it please... no, that's too sharp—let me try some of that one... I guess that will do... and some bacon... not that—it's too fat... have you some leaner?... well I think I'll try it"... and so on, ad infinitum.

Today: "One dozen Silver Seal Eggs, please; a half pound of Blank's Mild Cheese; a pound of So-and-so's Boneless Bacon; a package of Gold Medal Seedless Raisins; that will be all, thank you"... and the shopping is finished!

Have you ever considered what advertised goods mean to you? How many actual shopping hours you save in a year just by knowing what you want before you go to buy?

And more than that—you know just what you're getting. You ask for things by brand name with confidence, for you're sure they'll be the same today as they were yesterday, or last month. Advertisers must maintain standard quality in their products; their advertisements must be your guarantee of reliability. They cannot afford to advertise poor or uneven merchandise.

Read the advertisements regularly. The time you spend in doing so will be regained many times over when it comes to buying. To say nothing of the satisfaction of having perfect confidence in what you purchase.
