BRING BACK PROSPERITY

"Spend and bring back prosperity" is the advice given by more than one important economist as a cure for the present economic situation. In spite of the fact that this advice runs counter to the time honored proverbs about saving for a rainy day, a study of past economic history proves it to be sound. Even in a period of depression a majority of the people have money to spend. But most of in the Catholic Church, Anyox, rethem lack courage to spend it. A time comes when needs cently when Miss Margaret Patricia become urgent, when confidence returns-people start O'Neill, second daughter of Mr. and buying, orders filter back to the maunfacturer who is able to employ more men. Slowly at first, but with gradually increasing speed, the economic machine gets under full load and most of the evils of unemployment vanish. This is invariably the story of economic recovery. Without a surprise to the large number of out. doubt it can be hastened. Aggressive manufacturers, by friends of both bride and groom. the application of strong stimulants can, in their own particular field, accelerate the buying movement with beneficial results all round.

A Canadian manufacturer of linoleum and floor coverings is taking a definite lead in this respect by introducing a contest idea calculated to bring hundreds of prospective buyers into the merchant's store and thereby help him to sell more goods. The contest is designed primarily to sti- couple the best of good luck. mulate the buying of floor coverings and apart from the self interest of the maunfacturer which is natural, it is popular in Anyox, the bride especundoubtedly a sincere push to move the sluggish economic having resided there since early machine a little faster, which other Canadian manufac-childhood days. turers would do well to simulate.

HELP THE UNEMPLOYED

This is the season when people are planning to do their gardening, to clean up their lots, to remove ash piles and to repair fences. Any small amount of work helps relieve Negotiations Opened with Gyro the unemployment situation which is still very acute. Because of this the city is making an appeal to residents to get as much work as possible done, right now.

Under the present hard times atmosphere, there is a Voyageurs, a 16-voice choral body tendency to curtail on the usual work and this is a hard-of ship to the men who are needing the wages for food. We suggest a loosening up so that those willing to work may August or early in September. It is be enabled to carry on. For those not willing to do any a well known musical organization work, we have no sympathy.

months later in Paris.

General Damaso Berenguer, who succeeded to the nominal premiership, restored freedom of speech and lightened censorship of the press. Republican and other leaders who had been exiled since 1923 came back and a flood of agitation against monarchial institutions was released. Strikes, student agitations and similar demonstrations flared up, and in December, 1930, there was an open attempt at revolution. The people finally spoke at the elections yesterday and Alfonso was wise enough to take them at their word. Continuation of his reign would, no doubt, have fomented further revolt.

A monarch of great wealth, the marriage of King Alfonso to Prin- I cess Victoria of England was always described as a love affair. They have four sons and two daughters. Although beset by assassins and revolutions without, Alfonso has always been credited with making a real family life within the residential sections of his palace. As much simplicity as the royal station permitted was always the rule and never a day passed without Alfonso spending some time with his children.

DRY BASEMENT ADDS VALUABLE SPACE TO MODERN RESIDENCE

How to Prevent the Invasion of Moisture

IT costs much less to build a water-I tight wall than to repair a leaky one. Consequently, the time to make a basement water-tight is when it is built. Monolithic concrete foundations easily can be made watertight if the amount of mixing water used in making the concrete is carefully regulated. The recommend mix for water-tight concrete is one containing not over 61/2 gallon's of water per sack of cement.

Concrete block and concrete building tile often are more convenient than monolithic concrete for the construction of foundation walls above grade and for walls enclosing basements. Plain, unsurfaced block or tile are used for walls . below grade. The units are laid-up quickly and economically and provide walls of great strength.

A line of concrete drain tile is placed entirely around the outside of the footing and is connnected to a suitable outlet. The excavation above the tile is filled with soil. cinders, or some other material of a porous nature to provide a fill that will allow water to seep through quickly. When the foundation is erected so near another building that it is impossible to run a line around the outside, the tile may be placed on inside of the

As a further precaution in securing a water-tight basement wall. two or more coats of portland cement plaster may be applied to the exterior surface as soon as wall forms are removed, or, in the case of a concrete block wall, just as soon as the mortar joints have hardened. The plaster is mixed in the proportions of one part cement to three parts sand. Before applying the plaster, the surface should be dampened evenly.

If-basement space is to be utilized completely, it is well to furr the exterior walls on the inner surface should consist of two base coats. and apply a coating of portland each 3/8-inch thick, and a finish cement on metal lath. A Snug Little Four Roomed Home

Those who build, often make the mistake of putting too much money into the house and getting something larger than they need. The result is that they have more to take care of, more to repair, more to renovate and the interest on the extra expenditure is lost. Also it may be mentioned that in case of the owner wishing to sell or rent, it is usually easier to get a customer or a tenant for a cottage than a large house.

Today we are giving the plan of a four-room bungalow with sun-room and dinette as extras. There is no pantry but the cabinet kitchen takes its place and is more convenient for the woman doing her own work. The house is very well laid out and should appeal to those wishing something at less cost than plans hitherto offered. It is too wide for a single Prince Rupert lot but few people wish to build on a single lot today. With property prices so low there is no need for it.

This bungalow is a western product built to meet western needs and is well worthy of close study.
