WAS IT RUSSIA?

While most of us have been giving credit to the League of Nations for the settlement of the Manchurian embroglio, it has been suggested that while the League sent messages and made more or less polite demands it was Russia that induced Japan to withdraw her troops. It is said that not until Russia began to move her troops in the direction of the scene of trouble did Japan seriously consider the present reasonable action which she is taking. Possibly warlike Russia is replacing Great Britain as the powerful peacemaker.

FEARS EXPRESSED

Fears are being expressed that within the next year there may be such a revival of industry and conditions may improve so rapidly that the improvement may not be permanent but that it will be quickly followed by another slump.

We also remember the people of some parts of the world got much worked up over the prospect of the earth colliding with some other heavenly body and both being consumed in the contact.

If we can only get rid of all our fears we shall have the millenium.

ANOTHER OPINION

Immediately after the result of the British election was known, Premier Bennett wired to Premier MacDonald asking that the Imperial Conference should again assemble. The proposal was well received in a great many quarters but the Manchester Guardian, the outstanding organ of Liberalism in Great Britain in an editorial article at the week-end said:

"Mr. Bennett is in too much of a hurry. He is anxious that the Imperial Conference should reassemble now that 'difficulties hitherto prevailing have been removed.' The chief difficulty has been the British government's unwillingness to fall in with Mr. Bennett's idea of a bargain. He suggested that Britain should tax foreign wheat, but allow Canadian wheat free, while Canada would retain her existing and prohibitive duties on British manufacturers and raise by a trifling amount duties on foreign goods.

"The 'difficulties' have not yet all been 'removed.' It was Snowden who declared we were not going to change our fiscal system to suit Bennett, and the latest report is that Snowden will be a member of the new government.

"It was Thomas who woke up the House of Commons by calling Bennett's bargain 'humbug,' and Thomas is very far from being removed.

"The alacrity with which Bennett acted to ensure that our manufacturers should not benefit in the Canadian market through suspension of the gold standard shows he has not changed. His maxim is still the Canadian manufacturer first, farmer a bad second, and Britain can have third place if she pleases."

Telkwa Coal Is Highly Lauded—Big Missouri Staff Curtailed—Winter Sets In In Rainbow Creek District

Telkwa Coal is a good quality bituminous coal and is much superior to the Alberta coals imported into the Northern British Columbia market declares a pamphlet entitled "Some Facts About British Columbia Coal" which has just been issued by the British Columbia Coal Committee. It is evident that there are suitable British Columbia coals of superior grade available to entirely shut out this Alberta importation, it is declared. Northern British Columbia has several coal fields but, as yet, only a small production has been made from the Telkwa field. A coal analysis contained in the pamphlet shows that Telkwa coal has 13,020 British thermal units ad is exceeded in this among British Columbia coals only by Crows Nest coal which contains 13,042 B. T. U. Sulphur content of Telkwa coal is 1.90 per cent which is much greater than any other B. C. coal. Telkwa ash is 8.60 per cent which is less than Island, Crows Nest and Merritt-Coalmont coal. Fixed carbon in Telkwa coal is placed at 62.1 per cent, volatile combustible matter 28.55 per cent and moisture .65 per cent or less than any other British Columbia coal.

J. O. St. Denis, accountant at the Big Missouri mine for the past several months, has left there for Trail in line with a heavy curtailment of staff at Big Missouri. It is understood that there are only eight or ten men still left at Big Missouri, most of these being engaged in diamond drilling.

Joseph Murray and W. Steele have returned to Vanderhoof after another trip into the Nation River district where they staked more claims for interested parties. They had a rather hard trip coming out. In the Rainbow Creek district winter has set in and snow is a foot deep.

Fish Well Trained
 Answer Dinner Bell

Fish Are Too Easy to Catch in Lake Near St. Paul

ST. PAUL, Nov. 3.—Arnold Vogt's trained fish soon may answer the dinner bell without danger of being hooked. He has asked Mayor W. A. Anderson of Minneapolis to help bring a halt to angling in Long Lake Crow Wing County, near his home. The fish are too friendly and easy to catch, he said. Mayor Anderson in turn, asked W. D. Stewart, state commissioner, who said he would consider a ban.

Vogt said he has the fish so well trained they come to shore and eat from his hands when he rings a bell. Neighbors, he complained, have taken to ringing a bell and catching them. "They've been taking out some of the largest and best trained," he said.

RESCUE BY BLUENOSE

HER GREATEST ACHIEVEMENT

LUNenburg, N.S., Nov. 3.—Much has been written of Lunenburg's champion Bluenose; of her victory over the Gloucester schooner Elsie off Halifax, to bring to Canada the title of sailing supremacy on the North Atlantic; of her triumphant defense against the Henry Ford and Columbia, built to beat her and take the cup to Gloucester. Within the month, front pages across the continent have pictured her beating home to banish from the racing lanes the speed spectre of Massachusetts' new Gertrude L. Thebaud.

But the greatest performance the Bluenose ever gave was none of these. Capt. Angus Walters will tell you, with a quiet emphasis foreign to his fiery confidence in the vessel's racing ability. Captain Angus—and 30 other men of Lunenburg—remembers a night of snow off Sable Island, snow driven in the van of a howling gale the like of which had not been seen by a generation of Banks fishermen. It was then that the Bluenose parted her cable off Sable Island's Northwest Bar; it was then that a living gale from the southwest drove her so close to that sinister outpost of Davy Jones that sand stuck to the log in fourteen fathoms of water; it was then that Bluenose, facing her supreme test, brought to bear her weatherly qualities, the persistence in heading up towards the wind's eye, that had made her the greatest thing in the fishing fleets—and saved a score of lives thereby.

A look of almost reverence comes over Angus Walters' face when he tells you about it; he stopped in the midst of after-race celebration, when the beaten Thebaud was on her way to Gloucester, to tell the story.

Someone had dug up the front page of a Halifax newspaper for April 25, 1926, carrying the eight-column steamer: "Bluenose Nearly Swept To Her Doom." The story recounted how she had been badly damaged in a storm early in the month, and had gone through another harrowing night off the island on April 20.

Dangerous Hook

Angus took out an envelope and pencil and drew a map of Sable Island. "Here is where we were," he began, marking a spot close under the dangerous hook known as the northwest point, on the southwest exposure of the island. "At anchor, off a lee shore. It had been snowing all day, and a gale blowing from the south-west. There was nothing to do but wait it out. The way the coast is there, it was windward work to get out either way, northwesterly around the point, toward the Nova Scotia coast, or out to the open.

"It must have been about 6 o'clock that night, with the storm at its worst, that the grandfather of all seas struck us—swept her forward, breaking the cable, smashed out 14 stanchions, carried away part of the rail and bulwarks. And there we were driving for a lee shore in the worst gale I've even seen on the Banks.

"We got the jumbo, double-reefed foresail, and a riding-sail onto her, and believe me, that was plenty.

Stewart Case Is Appealed

John McNeill of Stewart and James Connors of JubEAU Not Satisfied With Supreme Court Judgment

John McNeill of Stewart and James A. Connors of JubEAU have opened an appeal before the British Columbia Court of Appeal from a Supreme Court judgment of Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald in which Harry Quickstad was awarded $10,000 damages for breach by defendants of an agreement to sell the Red Top mine adjoining the George Copper in the Portland Canal district.

Quickstad alleges that McNeill and Connors broke an agreement whereby the mine was to be sold to him (Quickstad) for $250,000. The plaintiff was in turn negotiating a sale to J. F. Duthie, Seattle ship-builder.

Unemployed Members of The Trade to Become Salesmen

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—A nationwide campaign in which jobless electricians, are to become salesmen in an attempt to boom the electrical business and get their jobs back has been started under union auspices in cooperation with contractors.

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, which estimates there are 25,000 to 35,000 unemployed union electrical mechanics, has outlined a plan for a house-to-house canvass, which already has been submitted to President Hoover's unemployment committee.

The object is to secure business, especially from householders, so that contractors may employ more men.

Faint Print Traced Him

One night last October a young man broke into a jewellery store in Norwich, Conn. He had broken into other stores and re-sawed the police. He wore gloves to leave no trace. He would break a windowpane, then turn the catch and raise the window. This time he received a slight cut from the glass and took off his glove to examine it. Then he made a slip as all criminals do. He forgot and touched the glass with the cut finger. The Police found the faint print and traced him. Soon he was on his trial before the grand jury. His prints betrayed him.

Prints on Food—Danger!

Your finger prints are dangerous to you too. Not because of crimes—of course you do not commit any. But because of the disease germs your fingers leave on food as you eat it. There is the danger. These germs you have picked up from things that other people have touched with hands that perhaps checked a cough or sneeze. Colds and flu germs are transmitted most commonly this way. Life Extension Institute lists 27 diseases which may be transmitted through the hands.

That is the way your prints are dangerous to you. Through germs. They enter your mouth—on a chocolate, a biscuit, a fruit—and if you are run down you may become seriously ill.

Safe With Lifebuoy

Germs are everywhere but a way to safety is by killing or making dormant the germs on your hands. Frequent washing—always before a meal—with the one soap made for this purpose will do it. That one soap is Lifebuoy. It contains a germicide. Laboratory tests proved that the germicide in Lifebuoy kills virulent

Skin Health Too

Instead of a perfume in Lifebuoy you note a clean health scent—known the world over as the sign of safety. It vanishes quickly after use. A bath with Lifebuoy's rich, penetrating lather destroys body odour, making you safe from offending for many hours. Safety from germs—and health for your skin, with Lifebuoy, yet you pay no more for it than for an ordinary toilet soap. Keep a cake of Lifebuoy on the wash basin and for the bath. Encourage your whole family—children especially—to benefit by its protective cleansing and by its wonderful effects on the complexion. Your dealer has Lifebuoy for you. Get a supply today.

And then it began—seven hours of heading to windward, trying to get out around that point. We kept sending down the lead until we got into 11 fathoms. After that we were too busy, and it wouldn't have mattered anyway.

"But she kept heading up, biting her way into that gale; I don't know as any other vessel could have done it. Well, all you could do was keep her going and hang on. Finally the wind hauled more westerly; that ended any chance of getting around the point and inside of the island. But it was luck for us, because it hauled enough so we could tack ship and let it drive us back, far enough outside to clear the south coast and get in the open.

"And that's about all," said Angus. Captain Walters is of two minds as to whether that experience off

Sable Island was the worst he ever had at sea. It was unquestionably the worst on the fishing banks, and the worst of short duration. But he remembers the time he took the Muriel B. Walters to Oporto with dried fish and was 45 days getting back to Lunenburg with salt out of Cadiz, Spain. That was 29 years ago. "We lost our rudder that time, and ran out of provisions—had to get rub from steamers we met by chance. They never expected to see us back home." But Angus is still there. And so is the Bluenose.

Lantern Slides Provide Scenes In Opera "Aida"

COLOGNE, Germany, Nov. 4.—Projected "lantern-slide" pictures in place of conventional scenery was the outstanding feature of the new production of Verdi's "Aida," with which the Cologne opera season opened. The producer, Herr Hans Strohbach, is the first to experiment with this method on a large scale. In the temple scene massive stone pillars were seen supporting tons of masonry, and even in the stalls it was not realized that the scene was nothing more than a picture cleverly projected from a bridge some 40 feet above the stage. Many difficulties were experienced before perfection was attained. Three projectors were used, each so finely adjusted that the three sections into which the pictures were divided were thrown on to the semi-circular screen, or horizon, as it is termed, without any detectable overlapping. Shadows concealed the "joint" between the picture and stage. The delicate task of transferring the scenes to the "slides" was carried out by Fri. Fritz, one of the opera's artists. Absolute perfection was necessary, for a microscopic defect in a slide would have been a glaring error on the stage.

SPORT NOTES

The Canadian-American Hockey League, through its president, James A. Dooley of Providence, has issued a franchise to a New York team, which will make its home in the Bronx Coliseum. Assent of New York's two National League teams, the Rangers and the Americans, made possible the invasion of the Metropolitan area by a third sextet. George Funk is president of the new club, which will be managed by Frank Foyston, veteran player-manager. Addition of New York increases the membership in the league to six clubs, Philadelphia, Boston, Springfield, Mass., Providence, New Haven and New York.

An only son will carry on for baseball's "Old Roman," Charles A. Comiskey. The task has fallen on the shoulders of J. Louis Comiskey, and he immediately announced that he would carry on by rebuilding the White Sox baseball club and keeping it in the Comiskey family. The elder Comiskey failed to leave a will, but his attorney announced that the entire state, valued at several million dollars, would automatically be turned over to his son.

There is little danger of the duck population of the prairies being greatly depleted if the experience of one "nimrod" who recently spent a day on the marshes near St. Laurent, Man., can be considered general. This sportsman fired 75 shells costing $3.75. His fare on the Canadian National was $3.60, and his hunter's license, $2.00. His bag was three ducks, or $3.10 a duck. As there was no evidence of pellets in the birds, it is believed that they died of heart failure caused by the barrage.

Promoter Armand Vincent, who has staged two world's bantamweight title matches in Montreal recently, is angling for another championship show to be held in Montreal next June between Lou Brouillard, New Bedford, Mass., newly crowned welterweight king, and hard-hitting Jimmy McLarnin of Vancouver. Vincent says he has wired Brouillard an offer of $25,000 to defend his title in Montreal against McLarnin next summer. A similar offer would be made to the Vancouver fighter, the promoter added.

There are close to 2000 clubs in Berlin, Germany, devoted to gymnastics and sport, with a total membership of more than half a million. They have at their disposal 320 athletic fields, half of which belong to the city, with an area of almost 2000 acres.

The RECORD SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

Flight-Lieut. J. N. Boothman, flying a seaplane seven times over the 31-mile course at an average speed of 340.08 miles per hour, won for the third time in succession the Schneider Cup race for Great Britain. The Trophy is now the permanent property of the Royal Aero Club of England. It is significant of the enormous strides taken in the field of aeronautics that the 1913 average was 45.25 miles per hour—contrasting sharply with the 1931 average of 340.08 miles per hour.

This is a remarkable tribute to Britain's supremacy in the air—just as continued supremacy among Canadian cigarettes is a tribute to Turret's superior quality, mildness and fragrance.

After all, nothing can replace good, honest tobacco; grown and ripened right out in the field under nature's own sunlight—nothing artificial about that—and the high quality is "inbred".

The Schneider Cup Trophy, depicted above, is made of gold, silver and bronze and represents the Goddess Zephyr kissing the waves which are crested in the form of men's heads. Jacques Schneider to the "Federation Aeronaute Internationale" in 1912 for the purpose of encouraging the development of sea-going aircraft.

MUSKEG TO MAKE SILK

Dead Sphagnum Moss Can be Put To Good Use, It is Believed

MONTREAL, Nov. 4.—The eventual manufacture of wall board, liner, coarse paper, fuel, and even artificial silk from the extensive peat beds and muskegs found in all parts of Canada is foreshadowed by the successful inauguration of the new Carlson Building Company plant at Edmonton where the conversion of muskeg into wallboard began this month.

According to the Natural Resources Department of the Canadian National experiments are already being conducted with a view to determining the cellulose content of various deposits, particularly those of the Hudson Bay Railway region, as on this factor depends its suitability as raw material for paper stock, coarse wrapping paper, and other similar products.

"It is along the new Hudson Bay line that the most extensive deposits of peat and muskeg occur," states a Canadian National official. "Surveys have shown that adjacent to the railway there are at east 90 square miles of it consisting in the main of dead sphagnum moss which has lain there for countless years. These deposits vary from six to eight feet in thickness and the supply is virtually inexhaustible owing to the fact that as the old muskeg is removed, fresh sphagnum moss grows in its place, eventually dying down to form fresh deposits."

Half Million Is Spent By Henry Ford on Melting

DETROIT, Nov. 4.—Henry Ford has spent $500,000 on new machinery to be used in the melting down of junked cars, it was revealed yesterday.

Can't Run Homes But Are Able to Secure Luxuries

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—A South African visitor writes home to a Cape Town paper some of his impressions from interviews. He finds that now the wife in each household is given less money for her budgeting, according to New York editors. "And the strange thing is," he was told, "that to the mastery methods of our supersalesmen, impoverished families on the edge of unemployment, even if they have lost all the savings they may have scraped together, go on lavishly 'buying' their luxuries."

"There was a characteristic case recently in which several hundred costly fur coats were cleverly advertised and put up for sale on new and attractive instalment terms. They were sold out in a day, and could have been sold out many times over to women who had not the wherewithal to keep their homes going."

Nine New Nursing Districts Opened During Last Year

MONTREAL, Nov. 4.—Miss Elizabeth Smellie, of Ottawa, chief superintendent of the Victorian Order of Nurses, for Canada, stated recently in an interview that the Order had opened nine new districts last year. The principal problem this year consists in the increased demand for free nursing service because of the difficult times prevailing. The V.O.N. hopes not to be obliged to decrease its staffs anywhere, but to strengthen them, she stated.

Through its work for mothers and babies, the death rate of these patients of the V.O.N. is less than half the general average, she stated.

STORES TO BE CLOSED

Remembrance Day is Statutory Holiday Same as Christmas

Mayor Orme announced this morning that Wednesday next, being a statutory holiday all places of business in the city were required to close just as they would on Christmas or New Year's Day. There was no option.

The law changing the status of the day was passed at the last session of Parliament.

Buffalo Meat to Be Given Unemployed

HELENA, Mont., Nov. 4.—Buffaloes may form a part of the food to be distributed among Montana's drought sufferers and unemployed this winter. An offer of 50 animals from the expanding herd in Yellowstone National Park has been transmitted to Governor John E. Erickson by Roger Toll, superintendent of the park. The buffaloes will be turned over to the Red Cross.

Nobel Prize Sought For South American

Nominee of Argentine is Manuel Galvez, 48-Year Old Author

BUENOS AYRES, Nov. 3.—Last year's award of the Nobel Prize for Literature to Sinclair Lewis, first North American to attain the honor, prompted a group of Argentine professors and writers to seek the same recognition for a writer of South America.

Their nominee is Manuel Galvez, 48-year old Argentine novelist and poet, one of the leading Spanish-American writers and one whose work translated into several languages, has attracted some international attention. His nomination has been sent to the Swedish Academy of Literature through Sweden's Minister in Argentina.

At first a poet, Galvez turned to more solid literary forms and in more than twenty books has studied the psychological problems of his native country. His "Scenes of the Paraguayan War," in three volumes, is called "the Argentine Iliad."

Far from admitting his partial deafness a handicap, he says it is a gift every novelist ought to possess.

TEACHERS' MEETING

Misses Mercer, Hartin, Rothwell and Mitchell Tell Interestingly of Travels

The Prince Rupert Teachers' Association held its regular monthly meeting at the Booth School last evening when Miss E. A. Mercer and Miss May Mercer spoke on the trip they had made to Japan during the summer vacation and Miss Rothwell and Miss Mitchell spoke on their trip to China and the Philippines. These talks, given with views and reproductions of photographs, were of the greatest interest to all.

Miss Hartin, in speaking of Japan, remarked on the teeming masses of people, the countless bicycles used, in most cases with the riders carrying enormous loads, the racing automobiles with their expert drivers and their incessant honking of horns, the natives with their characteristic dresses, and the Japanese houses with their paucity of furniture and yet their perfectly balanced furnished appearance. The descriptions were always interesting and had a human appeal not often found elsewhere.

Miss Mercer spoke on the shrines of Japan. Following an interesting reference to the two religions, their differences and later the union of the two as complementary to each other, Miss Mercer took her listeners through many of the shrines she had visited. The typical torii gates, lanterns in thousands, the effective decoration of vari-colored woods, the sacred deer, the elaborate and marvellous detail in carving were a few of the many interesting points referred to.

Miss Rothwell opened her talk with a reference to the typhoon hazards and the success of modern methods of communication by which boats are enabled to avoid the course of this menacing storm. Her journey included visits to Shanghai, Peking—though there was a possibility at one time that owing to the unsettled state of the city that part of the trip would have to be omitted—Kowloon and Hong Kong. The descriptions of the royal palace at Peking was vividly given. The construction of the buildings, their wealth of detail, the Empress' "navy," the room of the thousand clocks, the strange legends that resulted in even stranger customs were all interestingly told. The hard conditions of the countless thousands, the ill-paid labors of the people and the lack of consideration shown towards many women who toil at heavy manual work were revealing lights. The anti-foreign feeling in certain sections explained some of the recent happenings in China.

Miss Mitchell was equally interesting as she told of their experiences in Manila, in the Philippines. Their opportunities to visit certain parts of the surrounding country were limited owing to the four days' torrential rain. This made automobile driving dangerous as the driver

Love Him!

Silly question! Of course you love him. You exit for him. It gives you a queer feeling—to see him playing there on the floor—and to realize he's yours. Love him? Oh my—you'd do anything for him!

could not see ahead and later the water was up to the mudguards of the cars. The "Venice of the East" represents three civilizations and these three are very evident in the habits of the peoples, their buildings and their dress. The natives have their houses built on stilts and thatched with an open storey underneath, in which the stock find shelter. There is the Spanish civilization inside the walled city and then there is the progressive American civilization evident in the most modern of buildings and fine roads. The problem of independence is, however, a very live one with the Filipinos.

A very hearty vote of thanks was accorded the speakers on the motion of Miss Delaney seconded by Miss Halliwell.

In the business meeting presided over by J. S. Wilson the tentative program for the year was presented by the executive and an interesting and worthwhile year seems assured. The resignation of J. W. Plommer as press correspondent was accepted with regret and J. S. Wilson was appointed.

A committee under the charge of Miss Rothwell and Miss Edgecumbe served tea and at this time an opportunity was afforded to see a model of a Japanese home as well as a "Hanging picture," a characteristic feature of every home and a torii gate.

College Hospital In Toronto Soon

TORONTO, Nov. 3.—Preliminary operations on the erection of the new women's college hospital will start soon. The design for the building has been entirely altered from the original to allow sufficient space for an enlarged structure. It is the intention of the hospital to wreck the house formerly owned by the Jeffrey family and the stables in the near future. The houses on Grosvenor Street will be remodelled and utilized for temporary nurses' residences. The house on Grenville Street will still be used as an out-patient department and will be temporarily connected to the first unit of the new building.
