National Government To Appeal to People At Once 'Tis Decided

Fight Will be Staged by National Government on Platform of Manifesto to Be Issued by Premier MacDonald

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The British cabinet unanimously decided last night to issue an immediate call for a general election. The fight, it was announced, will be made by the national government on a manifesto to be issued immediately by Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald.

Parliament will be dissolved tomorrow and Great Britain will vote on October 27 in general election on issues of outstanding importance, it was announced today at Buckingham Palace, the residence of the King.

Mr. MacDonald will appeal to the nation as head of the National government in a speech tomorrow night.

The National government will appeal to the people as a unit, Premier MacDonald having at last won the struggle to keep the Conservatives and National government Liberals together under his leadership.

On the other side of the battle are ranged the Laborites, minus some of their old leaders, and a portion of the Liberals headed by Rt. Hon. David Lloyd-George, which opposes protective tariffs.

SENATOR IS DEAD

Dwight W. Morrow, Noted Financier and Diplomat of the United States, Passes Suddenly

Height of Career Fifty-eight-Year-Old U. S. Politician Father of Mrs. Lindbergh

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 6.—Business and financial circles throughout the nation were shocked at the sudden death yesterday of Senator Dwight W. Morrow, noted American financier and diplomat. The late Mr. Morrow, who was 58 years of age, was former United States Minister to Mexico. His career was practically at its peak as death removed him.

Populations of principal cities of the provinces are given as follows by the census: Vancouver 245,307, Victoria 38,441, New Westminster 17,524, North Vancouver 8,481, Trail 7,521, Nanaimo 6,648, Prince Rupert 6,326, Kamloops 6,093, Nelson 5,931, Kelowna 4,597, Vernon 3,884, Cranbrook 3,044.

When Calvin Coolidge, as a senator at Amherst college in 1896, voted for the man in the class "most likely to succeed," he picked Dwight Whitney Morrow. Thirty-two years later the then president of the United States helped make his prophecy come true by naming his classmate as ambassador to Mexico, a post which brought Mr. Morrow an international reputation and paved the way for his election as United States senator from New Jersey.

But previously the Coolidge estimate had been vindicated by Mr. Morrow's successful career, first in Washington, and then as a member of the banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. and as an adviser to the Allied Maritime Commission there.

WINTER READING.

How many people read one of Shakespeare's plays last winter? Possibly outside of possible compulsory reading in the schools, the number could be counted on the fingers without repeating more than once.

This is just intended as an introduction to a query as to what we shall read this winter. Shall we content ourselves with devouring the latest light novels or shall we at least intersperse a number of really classic books that have a definite educational value?

Then there is the question of reading aloud. In how many families are they content to turn off the radio for an hour and sit around the fire while one of the number reads a worth while book or magazine article?

We do not believe in living too much in the past. Possibly our forefathers were ancestor worshippers to a degree that is not allowed today.

DWIGHT MORROW.

Dwight Morrow, whose death is announced today, was best known to most Canadians as the father of Mrs. Charles Lindbergh, but to Americans he is well known as a politician and statesman.

Morrow never made the mistake of taking himself too seriously, despite the fact that he had raised himself from penury to riches and from being an obscure lawyer to an international reputation as a diplomat.

"Neighbor," he once told a New Jersey bankers' convention, "is a fine word. Your neighbor is the person who lives next door. He is the person you must get along with, not because he is the same sort of person as you, but because he is where he is and you are where you are."

Mr. Morrow had many neighbors, not only around his suburban home in Englewood, N. J., but in Wall Street, in Mexico, among the financiers and statesmen of Europe, Latin-America and Japan and in the halls of congress.

"If facts can be properly gathered and distributed, the presumption is strong that men in different nations will understand each other. Men want to understand each other. That is the great quest in life."

SMITH TEAM WINS GAME

Close Softball Match at High School Ends in Score of 2-1

In a scheduled game in the High School Softball League, Carl Smith's team defeated Tobey's team on Monday by a score of 2-1. It was an interesting game throughout which might be shown by the low score.

Tobey scored the first run in the first inning when Morgan crossed the plate on the latter's hit. Smith evened up things in the second. In the sixth inning Tobey's team was quickly retired. In Smith's half of the inning Hanson singled to right field, taking second on an over-throw and stole second.

First Inning Tobey—Allen safe on first on hot grounder to left field but out trying to steal second. Gillis thrown out at first, Smith to Blake. Morgan walked by Moxley. Morgan went home when Tobey hit to Moxley. Tobey gets third on over-throw to second. W. Smith out at first by Moxley. Two hits, 1 run, 2 errors.

Second Inning Tobey—Fulton singles. Ross forces Fulton out at second. Dugate struck out. Iverson struck out. One hit, no runs, no errors.

Third Inning Tobey—Moxley walks Allen. Allen forced out at second by Gillis. Morgan knocks a three-bagger but Gillis out at home. Tobey hits to short and safe at first. W. Smith out to C. Smith. One hit, no runs, no errors.

Fourth Inning Tobey—Fulton flies to Fisher. Ross thrown out at first. Dugate out. Smith to Blake. No hits, no runs, no errors.

Fifth Inning Tobey—Hanson flies out to Smith. Allen out, Moxley to Blake. Gillis flies out to Hanson who made a running catch outside third. No hits, no runs, no errors.

Sixth Inning Tobey—Morgan flies to Christison. Tobey out at first, Moxley to Blake. W. Smith fanned, no hits, no runs, no errors.

SPORT CHAT

Jimmy McLarnin, who was playing in the British Columbia open golf tournament at Uplands Club, Victoria, recently, stated that his next bout would either be a ten-round exhibition with Benny Leonard or a fifteen-round battle for the welterweight championship against Young Jackie Thompson.

Connie Mack, 68-year-old manager of the victorious Athletics, has explained why he never gives out his pitching selections in advance of a series game. The reason is because he might change his mind 15 minutes before the game and the baseball public might think he was trying to put something over or become mysterious.

McCaffery struck out. No hits, no runs, no errors.

Seventh Inning Tobey—Morgan flies to Christison. Tobey out at first, Moxley to Blake. W. Smith fanned, no hits, no runs, no errors.

Transport Council in the world war days of 1918. This latter activity lasted only eleven months, but it brought him the Distinguished Service Medal of the United States and citations from France, Italy and Greece.

After Calvin Coolidge had left the White House President Hoover confirmed the judgment of his predecessor as to the Morrow talents and capabilities by naming the ambassador as a member of the American delegation to the five power London naval conference of 1930. There he and General Dawes, the latter being then ambassador to the Court of St. James, specialized on the Franco-Italian naval problem and it was said that it was no fault of theirs that the ultimate treaty, in the drafting of which Mr. Morrow took a leading part, did not become a five power pact instead of being limited to the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

Mr. Morrow's list of achievements in professional life, business, diplomacy and practical politics sprang from an intellectual heritage, but a background of decidedly moderate worldly possessions. His father, Prof. James E. Morrow, was president of Marshall College at Huntington, W. Va., when his second son was born there on Jan. 11, 1873. The mother was Clara Johnson Morrow, reared on an Ohio farm but known to her girlhood neighbors as "literary" because of the number of books she read and because she was a champion speller. They named their second son for Prof. William Dwight Whitney of Yale, author of a famous English grammar.

The future diplomat finished his ordinary schooling at Allegheny, Pa., where his father had become a teacher in the high school. He worked his way through Amherst College, winning the degree of bachelor of arts in 1895. Then he turned to the study of law and after four years struggle with scant finances, graduated with an LL.B. degree from Columbia University in 1899.

He got himself a job as law clerk with the firm of Simpson, Thacher & Bartlett in New York, persuading them that he was worth $60 a month to start. Six years later he was a member of the firm and nine years after that in 1914 he transferred his allegiance to finance and became a partner in J. P. Morgan & Co.

With that famous house he specialized in international loans, spending considerable time in Cuba and also devoting attention to the increased European business that followed the outbreak of the world war.

In these activities he displayed not only keen commercial sagacity but also qualities of tact, sympathy and understanding that marked him as a leader in business diplomacy.

Two years of continued business success followed, then on Sept. 30, 1927, the banker became ambassador to Mexico, first resigning his partnership in the Morgan concern.

Mexico was then just beginning to emerge from a long period of tumult marked by civil wars, the overthrow of several administrations, widespread banditry, revolutionary laws relating to property rights of foreigners and anti-religious propaganda.

Ambassador Morrow found that confidence between the two governments was a decidedly minus quality. So first he started to make the Mexicans believe in the United States and his own country believe in its smaller southern neighbor.

A famous ham and eggs breakfast with President Elias Calles at the latter's ranch outside Mexico City has been credited with being the real start of his campaign.

Discarding the useless system of exchanging notes, the new diplomat adopted the method of direct, friendly conversation with responsible officials as a means of settling international problems.

Marriage of the ambassador's daughter, Anne, to Charles Lindbergh on May 27, 1929, helped enhance the popular regard for Mr. Morrow and his family. The fact that the young people met when the famous aviator reached Mexico City on the first of his good will tours of Latin America, and that "Leedy" came back by air to make several visits with the Morrow family, appealed to the love for romance inherent in a Latin people.

With official and popular confidence backing him, Mr. Morrow had an unusually successful regime as ambassador.

Mr. Morrow's election in November, 1930, as Senator for New Jersey entitled him to add the description "statesman" to the list of "lawyer, banker, diplomat" which had epitomized his earlier vocations. It came by a majority of nearly 200,000 in a democratic year and again focussed attention on him. Talk of him as probable presidential timber which had started after his primary success was revived.

Lotbiniere Street

There was some discussion over the omission of Lotbiniere Street from the program, Alderman Collart urging that it would be the most suitable for the purpose. Alderman Rudderham, chairman of the Board of Works, explained that this was a costly work and if done the waterworks replacements would have to be omitted, something that was not desirable. Another alternative was to omit the fill on Fifth Avenue at the bridge, but it was pointed out that this would enable the clearing of the Booth School grounds of a good deal of rock (subject to the approval of the trustees), and in this way would serve a double purpose.

MUSKEG TO WRAP PIPE

Fort Churchill Finds Novel Use for Prime, Thick Moss

CHURCHILL, Man., Oct. 5.—Though Churchill stands in the barren midst of a northland muskeg area, muskeg is scarce in the vicinity of the new prairie sea harbor—if prime, thick mossy muskeg is considered. Because of this near-paradoxical fact, the product is to be hauled up from the south to form a protective covering for the unique, four-mile pipe line which is to carry water to the community on the shore of Hudson Bay.

Formed of the decayed vegetation of centuries, muskeg has made possible the transfer of water to Churchill from Lake Isabelle and a chain of other lakes to the southeast. Laid on piles and guarded by a heavy layer of muskeg from the sub-zero temperatures of winter, the pipe line will be in full operation next fall, according to the statement of D. W. MacLachlan, Dominion engineer in charge of Churchill development.

Visiting the source of the water supply in mid-September when the first of the moss protection was already being applied, Mr. MacLachlan stated it would be necessary to bring in muskeg from along the 511-mile Hudson Bay Railway line. The growth near Churchill, he explained, was too thin to make its "skinning" from the ground economical, whereas ten-inch-thick muskeg is plentiful farther south.

The novel plan of an overland pipe-line guarded from the bitter winter temperatures by a product of the north itself was developed when it was found impractical to lay underground piping at Churchill. Frost remains in the ground the year round at the new harbor, and borings have shown that it penetrates as far as 175 feet, even into bed-rock, often regarded as impermeable to frost.

Dredging Reservoir

Canada's department of railways and canals is now dredging out an 18,000,000-gallon reservoir near Isabelle Lake, because the majority of the surrounding lakes freeze solid during the long winter north of '58. Five hundred feet long, 200 feet wide, and 20 feet deep, the reservoir will be large enough to supply the requirements of ships and locomotives, the elevator power plant and residents of the town-site to be opened next summer by the province.

A ten-inch iron pipe in the protective four foot thick layer of muskeg will carry the water, dividing it before it reaches the town into two eight-inch pipes. The pipes will deliver water to two 60,000-gallon reservoirs within the settlement's boundaries, provided with heating and pumping equipment, so that the water may be kept at such a temperature to prevent freezing.

A different system of piping water to the town has won the favor of provincial authorities, who govern the town-site area, but has not definitely been planned for construction. Engineers for the province would prefer to bring the supply from above tide-water on the Churchill river, at whose mouth the settlement is located. This would involve an eight-mile pipe-line on the bed of the river.

Source of further Dominion water supply, if necessary, says Mr. MacLachlan, is a lake 2½ miles south of the reservoir running into the bay. Its flow, diverted over an eight-foot divide and carried by gravity to the reservoir, would bring a supply four times as great as the Lake Isabelle supply. Moreover, the Dominion development could be worked in with a scheme for a pipe-line from tidewater on the river should such an added supply ever be needed.

The Dominion's use of northland moss to protect their water supply is particularly interesting in view of the fact that greatest difficulty in building the bay line railway from The Pas was encountered in soggy muskeg areas. The trouble was surmounted by laying the steel in the winter when the muskeg was frozen solid, and later "choking" the soft spots when ballasting was completed in warmer weather.

Northland Navigation Co.'s motorship Norco, Capt. Ekholm, arrived in port at 7 o'clock this morning from Ketchikan and, after discharging one carload of frozen fish for transshipment east over the Canadian National Railways, sailed in continuation of her voyage to Seattle.

DEATH... entered the room with her!

The Law was on her husband's side—that Judas who claimed her child. She came to plead for mercy—armed—prepared to kill, but then—PATE stepped in to play an amazing role in this great true-life story of war, infidelity, and mother love!

25¢

IT AGONIZED her to look back on the days of their courtship. War days, in a Paris empty of gaiety and laughter, bombarded by screaming shells—or those happy, carefree times after the Armistice, when Paul-Louis had worshipped his beautiful Gladys, blindly, madly, with all the fervour of the Latin versed in love.

Her childhood sweetheart had gone to Italy to fight—Major Leonard Howarden—and she had done her share in a library for convalescent soldiers—cheering and helping those poor maimed men who ached to forget the horror and degradation of battle. There she had met Paul-Louis, and in the wild peril and terror of bombardment they had confessed their love—the sweeter for so much common suffering.

She had sacrificed all to marry him—her citizenship—her property—content only to be his—to have his love. But he was a gentleman of France. His faithless kisses—his honeyed words outraged her—and yet she forgave again and again. Hating his wayward habits, she loved him still. How could she—how could any woman endure such torture and still go on?

She left him, taking the child which the Law declared was his. He followed across the sea to take it back. Her mother heart grew cold and stern with a terrible purpose—to keep her boy at the cost of her husband's life. And then the violent climax came that wrung her soul and changed her life—told in NOVEMBER TRUE STORY MAGAZINE as only this suffering woman can tell it. The story is called HER LORD AND MASTER, and if love and life are dear to you—if you thrill to a tale of battle and action—you will want to read it complete in all its gripping details! PICTURE IS EXCELLENT

Drama and Comedy Pleasingly Combined in "Bad Girl"

Pretty drama and well sustained comedy are delightfully combined in the picture "Bad Girl," current offering at the Capitol Theatre. The picture is from the well known novel of the same name but any objectionable matter the book may have contained has been completely removed in the picturization and the title is, indeed, misleading.

The story is briefly that of the meeting of a boy and girl who meet, fall in love, marry and have a baby, each believing that the other does not want the child but discovering at the end that the very thing each thought the other hated bids fair to be the biggest event in their lives.

Sally Eilers, who has been coming along in the films, comes through with a sterling and sincere performance in the title role. The male lead is capably portrayed by James Dunne, recent recruit from musical comedy. Minna Gombell has a part of importance, particularly in the comedy parts, which she performs delightfully. Prince Rupert is the first point in British Columbia at which "Bad Girl" has been shown. Only three weeks ago it was running at the Roxy Theatre in New York. It is one of the season's most discussed pictures.

New Carrier Collection System

In view of the depression and to make it as easy as possible for people to pay, the Daily News is to be sold on a weekly basis, payable in advance.

The delivery boy will collect each Friday evening for the week following. He buys the papers and sells them to the customers, so there will be no credit given. The boy cannot afford it. Please do not ask him to return for the weekly payment. Have it ready for him.

Customers now in arrears will pay the amount owing at the office, but this will have nothing to do with the regular collections made by the boy. He will be doing business on his own, and if he does not make his own collections will not deliver the paper.

Those paid in advance will continue to receive the paper until the subscription expires. Any wishing to continue the yearly payments may do so, and we pay the boy.

The price of the paper will be 10c a week, payable strictly in advance. That means six papers for ten cents.

It will take a few weeks to get the new system running smoothly, and in the meantime we ask for the co-operation of the readers of the paper. The routes not going on the new system this week will do so just as soon as the lists are made up and the boys properly instructed. Help the boys to set up in business for themselves!
