BUNOZ IS SPEAKER

Relationship Between Religion and Business Depression Discussed

"The relationship between religion and the present business depression" was discussed at some length and with great interest by Right Rev. Bishop E. M. Bunozi M. I. at the noonday luncheon of the Rotary Club the day before Christmas. Bishop Bunozi explained that there was nothing depressing about religion but quite the opposite. He recognized that the world was not a paradise and that the millennium was not here yet. Problems such as the present one of unemployment must be met and solved. Governments had tried to solve the problem but it was too big for them. So far they had failed, so it seemed the path of wisdom for religion to point the way.

Forty years ago, the Bishop pointed out, Pope Louis XIII wrote an encyclical on the condition of labor. This was at a time when the masses were in dire poverty and the wealth of the country was in the hands of a few people. This "Rerum Novarum" called the world back to the Christian life as the first essential and dealt as follows with the question of wages:

A Living Wage

"We now approach a subject of very great importance, and one on which, if extremes are to be avoided, right ideas are absolutely necessary. Wages we are told are fixed by free consent, and, therefore, the employer when he pays what was agreed upon, has done his part and is not called upon for anything further. The only way in which injustice could happen would be if the master refused to pay the whole of the wages—or the workman would not complete the work undertaken. When this happens, (Continued on page six.)

Salvation Army Instrumental In Gladdening Many Hearts In Prince Rupert Over Christmas

No Less Than 250 Men Were Provided With Christmas Dinner and Supper at Citadel—Fifty Hampers Sent Into Needy Homes

As a result of the efforts of the Salvation Army and the generous support of the public as a whole, the hearts of many local folk, men, women and children, who would not have been so happy otherwise, were gladdened at the Christmas season. The Army did splendid work on this occasion at a time when help was greatly needed by many. Capt. Steele and her assistants won the appreciation of many people and the admiration of all.

No less than 250 men partook of Christmas dinner and supper at the Citadel on Christmas Day, full course meals being served both at noon and in the evening. The Citadel was prettily decorated for the occasion and the atmosphere was permeated with a healthy and happy spirit of Christmas cheer.

Capt. Steele was in general charge and members of the H assisted with the serving of the meals. The cooking was carried out on the premises.

After the evening meal, there was a musical program, the men volunteering their talents for the occasion. The merriment continued well into the evening and the occasion was a memorable one.

In addition to providing the Christmas meals for the men, the Salvation Army was instrumental in sending out fifty well-laden hampers to homes in the city where need was felt. Volunteers gave of their services in connection with the distribution of hampers.

Potential New Gold Camp Is Reported to Have Been Found On Mainland South of Here

A potential new gold camp has been discovered on the mainland, opposite Butedale, about sixty miles down the coast from here, by Jack Pedersen, pioneer mining man of the north, and Hall Carpenter, who recently explored the area. The area, according to the locators, is in the gold belt which extends from Princess Royal Island across into the Khutze Inlet area. It was on this belt that the old Surf Inlet mine a few years ago produced considerable gold. Noah Timmins and interests recently bought the Surf Inlet and other properties.

Mr. Pedersen says that the new discovery is in a formation similar to that which produced the Surf Inlet mine. The ore is a gold-bearing quartz in a schist near the granite contact which cuts through that part of the country. When Pedersen and Carpenter reached the district, the weather changed and snow drove them out but not until they had succeeded in doing sufficient prospecting to convince them that the area has extraordinary merit. They intend to start development on the property next spring.

DAILY EDITION Monday, Dec. 28, 1931

HAPPY CHRISTMAS

Most people spent a happy Christmas. In a good many cases the festivities were curtailed very considerably but with others there was no change from the ordinary yuletide celebrations they have held in the past.

Possibly the worst time was that of the families affected by the recent shutdown of city relief employment. They found themselves in the predicament of having to conserve every cent because of the possibility of not being able to get any more.

A few of the local merchants criticized the city council for announcing the shutdown just a few days before the holiday and thus interfering with the Christmas business. Most of the men affected, however, appreciated being told in time so that they might not spend money needlessly which afterwards would be so badly required.

ROSE TO THE OCCASION

People who have not been badly affected by the depression, this year rose to the occasion well and saw that none in the city went without Christmas things. Some churches and other organizations looked after their own people while the Salvation Army got much better support than ever in the past. They did excellent work, indicating that the people trusted them to handle the funds to the best advantage. We can assure those who gave the money for groceries that there were dozens of people made happy who otherwise would have had a cold Christmas. On behalf of the contributors we thank the Salvation Army for acting as their agents and doing so well a work which was so necessary at the holiday season.

MASONS AT CATHEDRAL

Special Service For Members of Craft Conducted at St. Andrew's Last Evening

Last evening's service in St. Andrew's Anglican Cathedral was designed particularly for members of the Masonic Craft a goodly number of whom attended in a body. There was an appropriate sermon by the dean, Very Rev. James B. Gibson. Opening prayers were taken by Rev. W. E. Collison, the lesson was read by C. V. Evitt and Rt. Rev. G. A. Rix, Bishop of Caledonia, pronounced the concluding prayer and the Benediction. The anthem "Arise, Shine, for the Light Has Come," was sung by the choir with H. Lincoln and A. J. Lancaster as soloists. Peter Lien presided at the organ.

The subject of the Dean's sermon was "The Building of the Temple" and his text was from I Kings VI-6 "The Temple was Built in Silence." All God's temples—the Temple of the Universe, the Temple of History and the Temple of Religion—were built in silence. So were the temple of people's own lives built with material found within the quarry of the mind, the quarry of the heart and the quarry of the will.

Christian Science Subject Sunday

To Follow Christ Way of God's Apportioning Must Be Taken

The subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday was "Christian Science."

Among the Bible texts included in the lesson-sermon was the following from John 4: 49, 50: "The nobleman saith unto him, Sir, come down ere my child die. Jesus saith unto him, Go thy way: thy son liveth. And the man believed the word that Jesus had spoken unto him, and he went his way."

The lesson-sermon also included the reading of citations from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, one passage being as follows: "If we wish to follow Christ, Truth, it must be in the way of God's apportioning."

Mrs. Charles E. Motte, who had been spending a few days in the city following her arrival from Burns Lake, sailed Thursday on the Prince Rupert for Victoria where she will join Mr. Motte formerly pastor of Rupert East United Church here, who was moved south recently.

Christmas and After

Not Necessary That Christmas Feeling Should Be Confined to Christmas Season

(By Very Rev. J. B. Gibson, Dean of St. Andrew's Cathedral)

The Wheel of Time has made another revolution and Christmas Day, 1931 is numbered with the past. But it is not necessary that the Christmas feeling (I almost wrote "spirit" but that is liable to misinterpretation) should be confined to the Christmas Season. Would it not be splendid if all the year were Christmas Time when we forget the things that separate us and think only of those that unite us?

We have a generous forgetfulness around December 25. Why not keep it up? If giving generously to bring joyful surprise works at Christmas Time, why not all the year? Unexpected kindness is a Christlike thing and the Christ spirit is not born anew in us at Christmas to be buried a week after in mouldy selfishness.

We have been reminded of the visit of the shepherds to the stable of Bethlehem and the strange sight they gazed upon. There was the little Babe, so innocent, with such marvellous powers of growth, possessing intellectual and spiritual capacities and there were the beasts, so stupid, so satisfied and content with the commonplace. That is a true representation of the world as man has ever found it. For ours is a strange world with the oddest contradictions and antagonisms. The late Studdard Kennedy said that "the world has a face as ugly as sin and as beautiful as an angel, as cruel as the sea and as tender as a woman. It is a world of stars and snakes, of violets and vermin, of laughter and tears, of peace and pain, of joy and sorrow." Yes, in the world we see the Babe and in the world we see the beast—goodness and evil within the same stable stall.

And when we think of our own lives how often are our hearts torn by contradictions of good and evil, of the Babe and the beasts? We are stirred at times by impulses of liberal generosity and we are at others given to narrow, petty criticisms and judgments. We know how hard and how difficult life is. We are aware that much is hidden from our knowledge and that, if we knew all the circumstances in a given case, very likely our sympathy would be aroused rather than our condemnation. We expect that others will be generous in their judgments upon us and we are prepared to do as we would be done by and then in some little insignificant thing the beast of ungenerous sarcasm comes tearing out of its hiding place. Envy, hatred, malice and all uncharitableness, these are the beasts that rush out unexpectedly from the hidden recesses of our hearts—often afterwards to our own deep sorrow.

There are times when the spirit of magnanimity raises us to heights of forgiveness and enables us to retain our faith in human nature and then some beast of pride or selfishness will urge us to get even with the one who has wronged us. And in getting even we lower ourselves to the same level of the one who has acted unfairly towards us.

We all feel within us a response to goodness and to love, a responsiveness to all that represents the best, and then too we are face to face with the temptations of our lower nature and we know something of the terror of Jesus when, during His temptation in the wil-

"THE NEXT TWO WEEKS SHE GAINED 15 OUNCES"

Excuse me, dear reader, just a minute, while I open my mail. Here's a letter from London, Ontario, that sounds interesting. Perhaps you'd like to hear it.

"Dear Mary Blake," it begins, "I must tell you what Carnation Milk has done for my baby. At seven weeks I took her to a specialist, for she was under-weight and had gained only 2 ounces in two weeks. He put her on a formula using Carnation Milk and in the next two weeks she gained 15 ounces!"

"She is a year old now and has had no other milk since. She is not fat, but well filled out and the correct weight, and has a very happy disposition. Her teeth, which she has cut just lately, have caused no upset in her digestion, and she has been free from the ailments so common to many babies."

That is interesting, isn't it? Did you know that Carnation Milk is now being prescribed by the very greatest specialists as the ideal milk for bottle-fed babies? Well, it is—and the reason is that it has been found to be far easier to digest than any other form of cow's milk.

You see, Carnation is heat treated; and that causes it to form very fine, soft, flaky curds, which the baby's stomach can digest almost as easily as the curds of mother's milk. Carnation is homogenized, too, so the butter-fat is in tiny particles which do not tax the digestion.

Besides being more digestible, Carnation is fully equal in nutrition to the very best of bottled milk. It is unsweetened evaporated milk—only water is taken out of pure whole milk; nothing is added. Butter-fat, carbohydrates, minerals—all are there. The vitamins are the same as in bottled milk, so only the usual supplements—orange juice and cod-liver oil—are needed.

Really, I wish every mother knew about this wonderful milk. Think of the safety of milk that comes sterilized in an air-tight can, protected from any possible contamination. Think of being saved the bother of boiling or pasteurizing. Think of how the uniformity of this milk prevents upsets. Think of being able to get the same milk anywhere, if you happen to be traveling or visiting. Do you wonder that I get heaps of enthusiastic letters from mothers of Carnation babies?

If you'd like to know more about Carnation Milk for babies please write for the new Carnation booklet, "Baby Feeding Simplified." It will show you what medical authorities say about this good milk. And, if you are interested in novel, delicious recipes, send for the Carnation cook book. Both are free. Address Carnation Co., Limited, 134 Abbott Street, Vancouver, B.C.

USE THE SAFEGUARDED MILK

Protect your baby from diet upsets by using the milk of unchanging goodness. Guard your baby's health by using the milk that is always safe—because sterilized. The greatest baby-feeding authorities say that Carnation is just as nourishing—from the standpoint of vitamins, minerals, etc.—as the best bottled milk, besides being far easier to digest.

Milk from Canadian cows, packed in Canada in Canadian cans and cases.

Guide to Correspondents

The Daily News welcomes correspondence on live topics of the day or any other subject of public interest, but letters must be brief and to the point. The long-winded correspondent has no place in modern journalism.
Every letter must be signed by the writer, not necessarily for publication but as a matter of good faith and courtesy. All unsigned documents go to the waste paper basket. Letters of a caustic character must have the signature appended for publication.
Letter should be written on one side of the paper only. Correspondents must avoid personalities and the language should be such as would be allowed in the ordinary rules of debate.

From "the Perfect Quality Receiver" in the Science Museum at South Kensington, London, comes the principle of Twin-Power Detection found in the 1932 Majestic Superheterodynes.

Due to this principle, nine tubes do the work of eleven in these models. Two of them are the new "247" Pentode Tubes, each of which has the power output of two ordinary "245" tubes. These new Majestics have all the power and efficiency of an 11-tube set with the low cost of a 9-tube set.

COUNCIL AT GREENVILLE

Dominion Constable Newnam Has Arduous Trip Up Naas River to Hold Poll

GREENVILLE, Dec. 23.—The election of the Greenville native council for 1932 was attended by events this year which will long be remembered. Owing to the recent heavy thaw, the Naas River had been dangerous for travel for a week and all hope had been given up that Christmas supplies which had been ordered, would be brought up in time and it was thought that there would be no chance for anyone to come in to take the election until after the New Year. Accordingly the natives carried on with their public work and were very busy sawing lumber with which to build a new church.

Late one afternoon Rev. W. S. Cooper ran into the village and said that somebody was shouting about a mile away on the river and possibly was in trouble with the ice. A heavy fog had arisen but Jonah Gray went out and found Dominion Constable E. G. Newnam of the Indian Department and Arthur Nelson of Kincolith, both of whom were held up by thin ice but were guided in the right direction by the noise of the sawmill. Otherwise they might have been lost in the fog. Both had had several tumbles and were wet through but Jonah Gray led them on to solid ice and they reached Greenville in safety.

Constable Newnam acted as deputy for the Indian Agent and took the election the following day. In the preliminary proceedings he gave out some straight talk and some useful information about the game laws and new fisheries regulations. He was assisted at the election by Rev. J. W. Weaver, assistant school teacher and recently appointed to take charge of the Church Army at Greenville under the Anglican Church. The result of the election was as follows:

Chief Councillor, Sam McKay.
Councillors, John Green Nelson, Johnson Russ, George Martin, Peter Calder, Leonard Douglas and Charles Leeson.

Appointments made were:
Chief Constable and Truant Officer, Charles McNeill.
Assisting Chief Constable, Sam Tait.

Village Constables, Henry Robinson, Chris Calder, Wm. Martin and Jonah Gray.

A large party accompanied Constable Newnam down to open water to meet his boat from Kincolith which brought up the Christmas supplies. Sam McKay and others took the opportunity of getting down to Prince Rupert in order to confer with the Indian Agent and Bishop Rix and to get more Christmas supplies. If the thaw keeps up it is expected that the river will open up and they will be able to return to Greenville all the way by boat.

A. Ingram, who has been in the employ of the bridge department of the Canadian National Railways at Hazelton, arrived in the city by train from the interior on Thursday and sailed that evening on the Prince Rupert for his home in Vancouver. Mr. Ingram was here with the Hazelton baseball club at the Fair last fall.

the State should intervene to see that each obtain his own, but not under any other circumstance.

"This mode of reasoning is by no means convincing to a fair-minded man, for there are important considerations which it leaves out of view altogether. To labor is to exert oneself for the sake of procuring for the purpose of life and most of all for self-preservation. In the sweat of thy brow shall thou eat thy bread (Genesis). Therefore, a man's labor has two notes or characters. First of all it is personal, for the exertion of individual power belongs to the individual who puts it forth, employing this power for that personal profit for which it was given.

"Secondly, man's labor is necessary, for without the result of labor a man cannot live; and self-conservation is a law of nature, which it is wrong to disobey.

"Now, if we were to consider labor merely so far as it is personal, doubtless it would be within the workman's right to accept any rate of wages whatever, for in the same way as he is free to work or not so he is free to accept a small remuneration or even not at all. But this is a mere abstract supposition; the labor of the working man is not only his personal attribute, but it is necessary, and this makes all the difference. The preservation of life is the bounden duty of each and all, and to fail therein is a crime. It follows that each one has right to procure what is required in order to live, and the poor can procure it in no other way than by work and wages.

"Let it be granted then that, as a rule, workman and employer should make free agreements and in particular should freely agree as to wages; nevertheless there is a dictate of nature more imperious and more ancient than any bargain between man and man, that the remuneration should be enough to support the wage earner in reasonable and frugal comfort. If through necessity or fear of a worse evil the workman accepts harder conditions because an employer or contractor will give him no better, he is the victim of force and injustice."

The encyclical dealt with the matter of property and mentioned that ownership of property was a divine right. Instead of suppressing it, as some would do, its application should be extended. Ownership gave an interest in a community. On the other hand the Pope looked upon the great corporations as a possible danger as concentrating power in the hands of a few. God gave the earth to mankind so that all might secure sustenance from it.

The Bishop went on to say that Christ did not come to teach people how to engage in big business but how to get along together. He mentioned the progress that had been made in the world. This came from development of the intellectual side of man's nature but there was the moral side that only religion could control. This was where devotion to a higher power became necessary. Negotiations among nations also required divine guidance. Any economic and social system must have a religious basis in order to be successful.
