TRADE BALANCE BETTER

The fact that Canada's favorable trade balance this October was double that of the same month last year may be taken as just another proof that the depression is almost over and that good times are "just around the corner." Re-opening of manufacturing plants in the east has been caused by the increase of Canada's trade during the past few months. While the improvement may have been largely so far in the east, it is now spreading to the prairies as marked by the increased activity of the past few weeks in grain export and it is reasonable to expect that British Columbia, including Prince Rupert, may also be feeling eased conditions in the very near future.

LIGHTER THAN AIR

The announcement that the R-100, which made a flight to Canada last year, is being sold for scrap may be taken to indicate that the British government, for the time being at least, is abandoning its experiments with "lighter than air" machines. The country, which has shown the world the way so far as "heavier than air" machines are concerned, has almost as consistently failed in her experiments with the dirigible. The crowning failure was the tragic destruction of the defective R-101, sister ship to the R-100, in France last summer. Since then, it has been freely predicted that Britain would quit the "lighter than air."

Germany has triumphed consistently so far as "lighter than air" is concerned. That country succeeded during the war with its Zeppelins and later with the great Graf Zeppelin, which has been the most successful dirigible in the history of aviation. The United States with its "Akron" is now making a bid for dirigible supremacy. The "Los Angeles," of course, was a European built machine which was purchased by United States.

EXTENSION OF P. G. E.

Careful consideration and study of the conditions of this poor white elephant goes to show that to extend it to Prince George will cause it only to have another coat of whitewash, declares the Kamloops Sentinel, in an editorial on the proposal to extend the Pacific Great Eastern Railway. It does not make any profit now over running expenses, with an abnormally high freight rate. It is still classed as a railway under construction, therefore, it makes its own freight rates, which are from 40 to 300 per cent higher than could be charged were it governed by the board of railway commissioners for Canada. As soon as it reaches Prince George it will become a finished railway, according to the original plans; therefore it will come under the jurisdiction of the railway board and freight rates will prop to normal. Will the extension give it more freight say sufficient to make up the loss of revenue? Considering the extra help and more rolling stock that will be required the answer must be most emphatically no!

SPORT CHAT

Dr. William G. Anderson, director of the Yale Gymnasium, foresees the decline of football and the growth of the so-called minor sports to the point where they become self supporting. Football's popularity, in his opinion, has reached its peak in the United States, and a gradual decline in public interest may be expected. "Football," he says, "has had its seven fat years, and usually seven lean years follow, you know. Like the Greeks and the Romans, the public likes spectacles. That's why football has grown so popular. We are in the threshold of a new era in athletics. The future will see less emphasis on organized sports and more attention paid to the physical training of the individual student."

Agitation to abolish the kick-off in United States football following the unfortunate death of Dick Sheridan, Army right end, during a recent game with Yale, has met with a chilly reception. Sheridan suffered fatal injuries when tackling a Yale player after the latter had received the Army kick-off. Immediately following the Army player's death a wave of hysteria swept eastern football communities. The kick-off was at the bottom of it all and many demands were made that it be abolished. However, six members of the committee of nine members of the United States Football Rules Committee, asked for comment, indicated they favored retention of the play. Two others declined to comment while the other could not be reached. One member declared the kick-off one of the most spectacular plays in the United States game and that it resulted in no more injuries than other formations.

CARE WITH FIREARMS

Should Be Inculcated From Childhood, Interior Paper Says in Editorial

The tragic death of Mr. Birnie when he was shot and killed near Smithers while out hunting, calls to mind the necessity for extreme care in the use of firearms, says an editorial in the Burns Lake Observer. Few have been the accidents of this nature in Central British Columbia but on Vancouver Island and many other places frequented by hunters and sportsmen the occurrences are by no means rare. Care in the use of firearms should be impressed on our growing youth. Even with air guns and toys children should be taught to observe all the rules of best practice. It has been our lot to note children pointing toy guns and air guns at other children and also using air guns for shooting around the streets of the village. This should be discouraged by every possible means and parents should impress on their children the need of circumspect action. Even toys can be habit-forming.

NEWS OF THE MINES AROUND PRINCE RUPERT

"Tropical Valley" Is Interesting—New Mine Near Cedarvale—Columario Best in Interior

With the recent return to Philadelphia of an expedition headed by Dr. J. Norman Henry, president of the University Club of Philadelphia, some interesting information may probably be soon revealed regarding the mining and other possibilities of the so-called "tropical valley" on the northeastern frontier of British Columbia. The Henry party made its trip into this district during the past summer and brought out reports confirming the existence of the tropical valley. The father of most of the early stories of the tropical valley was Frank Perry a prospector who has made many trips from jumping off points at Hazelton or Prince George during the past fourteen years. Each season Perry would come out with tales of mineral finds, of extensive copper deposits and of gold placers. Long before Perry started to tell of the strange valley, however, Major E. B. Hart went in in 1913 and 1914 to explore this portion of the Province. Major Hart made extensive reports on the district which are on record in government archives. In 1925 Perry managed to interest Archibald Little, Detroit mining engineer, in the district and an aerial expedition in charge of Lieut.-Col. J. Scott Williams of Montreal was organized and went into the country from Prince Rupert. After this expedition it was declared by Perry that in addition to other mineral deposits, there were vertical coal seams in the tropical valley—300 feet thick and he knew of at least seven districts in which there was placer gold in great quantity. Perry stated that the tropical valley was located about 200 miles from Liard Post. In earlier years, following discoveries made by Dr. Thibert, who had journeyed in from Minnesota via the Peace River and Liard to find the rich placers of the Dease Lake region in 1871, some millions of dollars of gold was taken from the region and intermittent work has been carried on there ever since by dredging companies. Lieut. Col. Williams, head of the Little aerial expedition, said that the country visited during his exploration was undoubtedly rich in mineral wealth and some day would doubtless produce great wealth. One of the first requirements, however, was capital to provide transportation.

Very little interest was taken in the auction sale at Smithers last Monday by Provincial Collector Harold F. Shaw of mineral properties in arrears of taxes. Some of the properties had been settled for by the owners just prior to the sale.

Cedarvale people are very hopeful in regard to the development of a new mining property on Porcupine Creek. The property is held by Walter Moberley and associates and is situated about three-and-a-half miles from the railway at an easy elevation of 500 feet. Work has been carried fifteen feet from the surface and a wall of ore 24 feet across has been uncovered. The ore has been assayed and shows 30 per cent zinc, 15 per cent lead, 30 ounces in silver with a little copper and small amount of gold. Just a few days ago placer gold was found on the property and it is believed that there is every chance of a good mineral property being developed.

Douglas Lay, mining engineer for the northeastern mineral survey district has returned to his headquarters at Hazelton after an inspection trip into the Cariboo placer country. Speaking of mining prospects in the local district, Mr. Lay said that the Columario district had by far the best prospect. It was close to the railway and a great deal of development had been done. The property had been thoroughly examined and sampled by competent men and they had recommended the building of a mill at the railway track with an aerial tram connection with the mine. The ore carried good gold values. Mr. Lay said that the present outlook was anything but bright for other metals besides gold.
