CO-OPERATION

The keynote of the business world today is co-operation. The fact that there must be unity to gain results has long been recognized by capital and labor, the result being huge business corporations and large trades unions, both assuming international importance. One of the results of the war is to emphasize the advantages of united action and today we find Britain, France, Italy and Russia joining forces for the purchasing of war supplies in the United States and elsewhere, with a view to doing away with competitive bidding by these countries, which would tend to drive up prices, with detrimental results to all concerned.

The housewives of the United States have now combined to take decided action in regard to the enormous advances in the prices of eggs and poultry, while they claim that the produce dealers have combined in order to drive the price of those valuable food commodities still higher. It is thus apparent that, while "union is strength," that strength is often used in ways which are not to the best interests of the people at large, and there is a strong suspicion that such detrimental union is at work in Canada, as well as in the United States. The "get-together" idea has two sides to it. When the movement is for the benefit of humanity, and the improvement of food supply or of working conditions, it is good, but when it is a combine on the part of producers or manufacturers with the object of holding up the public at large, it is simply scientific highway robbery.

Another form of co-operation is being inaugurated early next month by the business men of British Columbia when a business men's dinner is being held in Vancouver. This movement is not designed to deal with the problems of the business men particularly, but to discuss the various problems which confront the people of this province now, and the problems which will arise out of the war. From the advance notice, it would appear that it is a "get-together" movement of the right kind, designed with a view to general advancement. The question of dealing with the thousands of returned soldiers will be one of the most important matters brought up, and the question of trade after the war will be another. Both are of the utmost importance, and both demand the efforts of the best minds of the province. The question of the production and marketing of the various resources of British Columbia will also be dealt with, and an united effort will be made to cope with the difficulties confronting the producer generally.

If such co-operation leads to greater production, it will lead to cheaper food commodities for the people of this province. It will mean a lessening of the importation of foods which we can, and should, produce ourselves, and will lead to a larger export of those lines of which we have abundance, thus paying for the lines which we are forced to import. If this co-operation of business men sets itself seriously to go into the high cost of living it may do more in a week than any government, with its round-about methods, will accomplish in months. The only offset to co-operation amongst those who seek to profit individually by their united efforts, is co-operation amongst those who seek to combat the individualistic grabbers who unite simply that they may grab. We cannot have too much of the right kind of union, and we should not tolerate for a moment the other kind.

STIRRING ADDRESS BY A. M. MANSON, M. L. A.

Going on to deal with the growing demand for pulpwood for paper making, Mr. Manson said that there is an enormous supply of pulpwood throughout this district, within easy reach of transportation.

Dealing with the mineral resources of this district he described the gold properties of the Kitsumkalum, of Lorne Creek and Manson Creek. He also dealt with the showings at Fiddler Creek, Copper River, Usk and Pacific and went on to tell of what had been done and is being done in the Hazelton district, dealing at length with the various mines of Roher De Boule and Hudson Bay Mountains and Nine Mile, Howson and Hunter Basins, Dome Mountain, Grouse Mountain, Owen Lake, Sabola, White Sail Lake, the Babine Range, the Groundhog country and Fraser Lake.

Mr. Manson pointed out the great possibilities of extensive gold mining in the Omineca and Findlay River districts by hydraulic and dredging. He pointed out that mining development meant business for the agriculturist, the store-keeper, the wholesaler, the manufacturer, in fact for everybody. After dealing with the enormous water power waiting to be developed, the speaker dwelt on the necessity for refineries and smelters. He advocated a government smelter for northern British Columbia and also stated that Dr. Wilson, an expert who had reported on the subject of a refinery to the government, had shown that this district would be the proper one for a copper refinery.

He dealt at length with the difficulties the farmer has to encounter, showing that, with the miner, he is the man who builds up cities. Broadening his view, the speaker said that our hinterland extended much farther than the valleys and the mountains behind us, and reached right across the continent to the Atlantic. "Through our gates should come the Oriental traders and the treasures of the sea for manufacture and consumption in the east," said Mr. Manson. He believed that, as a result of the war, commercialism of the future would be saner, more socialistic and more altruistic than that of the past.

In conclusion, he dealt briefly with the problem of the returned soldier. He said "The duty of the men who have had to remain at home is to see to it that the men who return from the front, return to a progressive province which will offer them opportunities. What our returned warriors ask is not charity, but a chance."

A vote of thanks was moved by L. M. de Gex, and seconded by T. H. Johnston, who coupled with it thanks to the G. T. P. for the use of the steamer. Mr. de Gex said that he thought that had Sir George E. Foster been present he would have changed his mind.

CHEERY LETTER FROM FORMER RUPERT BOY

George R. Naden has received a most interesting letter from Alex. A. Cannon, who formerly worked for Mr. Naden in this city and later for the late Duncan Ross. The following is an extract from the letter:

"When we first came out we had a shot at the Ypres Salient but that was an absolute summer picnic compared with this spot. Life is a continual round of mud, rats, shells of all descriptions, and more MUD.

"Even CAPITALS cannot express it: In fact if it is not over our knees now we think it is dusty.

"Have been very lucky so far personally and of my personal chums in the Battalion only one has been killed and one wounded, although we have had quite a few casualties.

"Being Pioneers our boys are out almost every night and the great part of the work is done in "No Man's Land" and no cover but darkness, which doesn't amount to much with flares of all kinds.

"However, it has been a wonderful experience and, if I come through all right, I shall never regret it.

"All the so-called terrific hardships are largely mental. One can adapt oneself and get lots of fun out of it, and occasionally get quite comfortable, though I never will get to love rats and other smaller animals."

Rubber Supply Is Steady While Leather Gets Scarcer

This Explains Low Price of Rubber Footwear in Spite of Increasing Cost of Fabrics, Chemicals and Labor

The war is using up enormous quantities both of leather and rubber. At the same time it is seriously restricting the output of the former, much of which came from Russia—while rubber production keeps pace with the demand. From the great plantations now reaching maturity in Britain's tropical Dominions will come this year 150,000 tons of raw rubber—75% of the world's production, and an increase of over 40,000 tons from last year.

Thus, thanks to the British Government's foresight in encouraging these plantations, the Allied armies have been abundantly supplied with all the rubber products they need—Germany and her allies have been cut off—and the price to the world at large has actually been reduced. Meanwhile, leather has been getting scarcer and more expensive—80% higher than in 1914—and the end is not yet.

At normal prices a pair of good shoes cost about four times as much as a pair of standard quality rubbers, and would last nearly twice as long if the rubbers were worn to protect them in bad weather. So even before the war rubbers were a mighty good investment, to say nothing of their prevention of wet feet, colds and doctors' bills.

Now, when shoes cost seven or eight times as much as the rubbers, the saving from wearing the latter is so outstanding that no one who believes in thrift will think of going without them. Nor will those who are anxious to help win the war, for by wearing rubbers and overshoes we conserve the leather so scarce yet so absolutely necessary for the soldiers.

ATTENTION VOTERS

Persons who hold lots under agreements, or assignment of agreement, must make a declaration giving particulars of their title, before the last day of November. Any person neglecting to take such declaration will not be entered on the voters' list.

It is impossible for me to ascertain the names of agreement holders unless they come in personally.

It will greatly facilitate matters if persons wishing to make declaration bring their agreements, so that I may inspect them and thus prevent errors.

Reference to old voters' lists satisfies me that only a small proportion of agreement holders have registered in past years. This, I believe, has happened because people wrongly think their names will be inserted without any action on their part. I therefore call special attention to the necessity of agreement holders making declarations.
