

PEACE RIVER OUTLET REPORT MADE TWO QUEEN CHARLOTTE ISLAND LOGGING CAMPS RE-OPEN

No New Western Line Justified In Opinion of Experts, House is Advised; Obed Route Favored

Many Times Present Traffic Necessary For Another Railway—Deferring of Final Selection of Route is Recommended

OTTAWA, Feb. 18:—That no western outlet is justified for the present as existing railways furnish the most economical route is the conclusion of J. M. R. Fairbairn, chief engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and his conferees on the committee appointed by Hon. R. J. Manion, minister of railways, to enquire into the Peace River outlet question. It will take many times the present traffic to justify another railway outlet, the report declared.

The report, which was tabled in the House of Commons yesterday, said the Obed route for the western outlet was the most favorable from a railway economic standpoint, considering the present phase of the railway situation. The added recommendation was made that the matter of a final route be decided when the question is a practical one.

MADMAN IS SHOT DEAD

Albert Johnson Killed By Posse Yesterday After Shooting Two of Its Members

EDMONTON, Feb. 18:—Word was flashed here late yesterday afternoon from Aklavik that Albert Johnson, demented northern trapper of the Rat River district, who has been the object of a sensational police chase during the past several weeks in the course of which he shot two Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers, one (Constable E. Milen) fatally, had been himself finally shot and killed by a police posse. Johnson was shot down only after he had shot two members of the posse, on officer, Sergeant E. F. Hersey, and a trapper, both being seriously injured.

Johnson was heading for Alaska when he was finally taken. He had crossed into Yukon Territory and had doubled back on his tracks, evidently to ascertain if he was being pursued.

Capt. W. R. (Wop) May witnessed yesterday's fight from the air and took the wounded Hersey back to Aklavik.

MISSING IN PLANE

Pilot Graham and Mrs. Christofferson Fail to Reach Atlin From Hazelton

There was no further report last night of Pilot W. R. Graham, Alaskan aviator, and his companion, Mrs. Edna Christofferson, Portland sportswoman, who are missing on a flight from Hazelton to Atlin. They were last sighted Monday afternoon at 2:15 west of Nahlin and 100 miles south of Atlin, failing to arrive at the latter point. They had left Hazelton at 10 o'clock that morning.

Graham and Mrs. Christofferson were on their way north to conduct a search, with the possibility of effecting salvage, for the Hudson Bay Co.'s trading steamer Baychimo, which is lost in the Arctic Ocean with a rich cargo of furs.

Weather was stormy on Monday but since then flying conditions have been favorable. The plane was not equipped with snow shoes. A stop was to have been made at Atlin for refuelling. Nome was the ultimate destination.

Idea That England Has Passed Zenith of Career is Scouted By Speaker in Address Here

An enlightening and highly interesting account of present conditions in England, together with some conclusions as to the future for the Old Country, featured an eloquent address on the subject "Where Now Stands England?" which was delivered last night in the city council chamber before a large audience under the auspices of the Women's Canadian Club by Rev. Dr. J. Wesley Bready of Toronto. Dr. Bready spoke eloquently and impressively and his address was keenly enjoyed by all. Mrs. D. McD. Hunter, president of the Women's Canadian Club, presided over the gathering.

From many quarters on many continents today they say Britain's day is past. Those who take this mournful attitude say she has had her day. They claim that war has lost her her power and never again can she hold her commanding place in the world as in the past. Some people would be pleased if the duty would fall on them to write the epitaph of Old England and give her a decent burial. Is this attitude justified on the facts, asked Dr. Bready.

The speaker said he was Canadian born and graduated at Queens, Toronto. He had spent eleven years in the Old Country and had met the Princes of Wales, Lloyd George, Baldwin, Ramsay MacDonald, Lord Grey and Lord Oxford. He had been privileged in the literary sphere to meet Bernard Shaw, H. G. Wells, G. K. Chesterton, Rudyard Kipling and J. L. Garvin. He had performed duties in the British Museum Library, Lambeth and Guildhall. He had visited every city in the British Isles and gone through the workshops and the mines. He had seen British conditions at first hand and had arrived at his conclusions from first hand observations.

A Great Country

"Where now stands England?" he asked. "My heart swelled within me when as a representative of the new world to the old world I went over thinking I could teach England much. But old England taught me very much," added Dr. Bready. The Americans say England is the land of Peers and butlers; the speaker thought so, too, but he learned differently, and his changed outlook (Continued on Page Two)

RUSHBROOK IS SPEAKER

"Influence of the Jew" Subject of Highly Interesting Discourse Last Night

Powerful People

Influence Felt in Many Countries and in Many Spheres

There was a very large attendance at the regular monthly meeting of the Prince Rupert Parent-Teachers' Association last evening in the Borden Street School to hear Rev. Canon W. F. Rushbrook speak on the subject of "The Influence of the Jew Upon Modern Life and Thought."

Beginning his address with the remark that it was a well known fact that some of the least observed forces are the most important, Canon Rushbrook demonstrated that the whole can only be adjusted and understood by taking these seemingly minor factors into account.

Palestine was one of the smallest countries in the world and the estimated Jewish population of the world was only 15,600,000 people. Yet, apart from the purely scientific thought, these Jewish people have wielded and are still wielding a greater basic influence upon world thought than the peoples of all other nations combined. Their women had given birth to the most perfect saints of the Orient—upright, admonishing, solitary prophets; and finally from their race was born Jesus—He who had been awaited by all the prophets.

The Jew created no metaphysics, nor science, nor sculpture, nor art, nor architecture of his own; but he had given to the world the grandest poetry of antiquity, glowing with sublimity in the psalms and prophets, sometimes imitatively tender as in the stories of Joseph and Ruth, and at other times burning with passion. So magnificent and uplifting was their religious literature that it was certain to last for all time.

Evolved Idea of God

Alone among all eastern people the Jews early evolved the idea of one omnipotent God. They, without doubt, dominated the religious thought of the world. Disraeli once said in a sarcastic retort: "One half of the Christian world worships a Jew, the other half, a Jewess."

Jehovah or Y-we, signifying the self-existent or "I Am," was the Jewish national God and this conception has thrusted into the background lesser ideas of Deity until the Jewish National God has practically become the God of the kingdoms of the earth. To a Jew civilization owed its ethics. The life of Jesus was all that was best in ethics. Childhood, womanhood, manhood and home owed to Him a debt that the whole world recognized; and wherever his life and teachings were known, there at once life began to modify and consciously or unconsciously began to adopt the principles lived and taught by Jesus.

Turning to politics and statecraft, the speaker again showed the paramount influence of the Jew. Here the decalogue of the Jews was basic and fundamental. Present day Communistic and socialistic tendencies undoubtedly had their source in Hebraic history and literature. Prior to the exile, theocracy of the Hebrews was Communistic! This was evidenced also in the lives of the first recruits of Jesus. It was not to be wondered at, then, that present day communistic ideas were the progeny of Jew. (Continued on page six.)

SURMOUNTING DIFFICULTIES

Slowly but surely Great Britain is surmounting her difficulties, if reports received from across the ocean are correct. The spirit of confidence has been restored and from various parts of the world monied interests are securing sites there for factories which they plan to operate to provide the British people with the goods which, up to the present, they have been importing. Thus the last free market for the high tariff countries is being cut off and in future all will operate more or less on an equality.

It is with a situation like this developing that the Imperial Conference will be held next summer at Ottawa and numerous matters of interest to the British Commonwealth will then be discussed. It was in view of this meeting that the attempt of some British interests to import Russian timber in huge quantities was headed off and assurances given that much of the business would come to Canada.

PUBLICITY FOR CANADA

Every time a question such as the timber supply is discussed in England a good deal of publicity is given to Canada and her ability to supply British markets. The whole country is receptive to news and views in regard to British Empire consolidation and this country stands to benefit from each move. Possibly a climax will be reached with the meeting at Ottawa in July.

It seems likely that Premier Bennett will have definite proposals to make to the conference just as he had at the last Imperial gathering in London. There is a suggestion being made in Britain that an embargo be placed upon Russian imports when they conflict with business between various sections of the British Commonwealth. This it is pointed out would be better than a duty as it would protect the Canadian worker from competition with the poorly paid Russian labor which would be unfair in anything like an open market.

At present most of the lumber used in Britain comes from countries surrounding the Baltic but the tendency of the Buy-within-the-Empire movement will be to turn some at least of this business to Canada.

was that England was a very great country.

Referring to the public schools in England, Dr. Bready said it was easy for us to poke fun at them and the seemingly ridiculous sums of money spent on education at Eton and other public schools. But they breed a sense of chivalry, build character and sportsmanship. Germany and France made sacrifices in the war, admitted the speaker, but England threw the very flower of her youth into the jaws of death. Officers of England led their men into battle, they did not send them. Whoever will be able to estimate the number of youths from public school who went to their death? Unless the women of the world can throw all their weight into a contest of arbitration to stop further wars, another such war as the last would be the signing of a death warrant to the white race.

In an ethical and dialectic standard we still may ask does England hold her own with other nations? If England has lost the sense of daring, how is it she holds records on land, on sea and in the air? England, small England, would more than hold her own even if she held one record. But she holds them all. To the death-mourner it was a challenging thought to those preparing her epitaph. British cars, boats and aeroplanes suggest that the blood supposed to be running thin must have the creative initiative.

Mistress of the Seas

Despite gloomy forebodings, said the speaker, it is well to remember the concentrated efforts of the big financiers of New York who spent billions of dollars in an effort to wrest the mercantile business from England. It was a complete failure. England is mistress of the seas, always by far. Her ships carry more goods than the United States and Germany put together, with plenty to spare.

The speaker said it was a good move for England to go off the gold standard. She was still the centre of finance, even more so than five or six years ago.

Regarding the trade mark of "British Made," this suggests, said the speaker, that if a contract is made it will be carried out even if at a great loss. Not yet has the proud slogan, "Word as good as his bond," been lost for the Britisher.

It is said that retaining the monarchical form of government retards British progress, but in disproving this the speaker quoted a number of England's leading parliamentarians who poor at youth rose to great heights. Lloyd George did not get the highest honors because of blue blood running in his veins or because of Royal help. He was the son of poor parents with no association with the powers that be. Ramsey MacDonald was born in a Scotch village of just as humble parentage as Lloyd George. Sir John Simon, one of the greatest institutional lawyers in the world, was a son of a humble congregational minister. Arthur Henderson was born of laboring parents.

Magnanimous Generosity

Is it easy for men of humble origin in America to reach such high estate? There the aim is to reach the millionaire class and then get political interest. In England public men do not work so much for the money but for their country, said Dr. Bready. The speaker referred to the importance of the Balfour note of August 1, 1922, just four years after the signing of the Armistice. Though the rest of the world owed England four times as much as England owed the United States she was willing to wipe the slate clean. She offered to forego 3,400 million pounds, if, in return the American debt was swept aside. America could not see things in that way, some did see the magnanimous generosity but the American people in general did not.

Sport

Speaking on the sport in England and as an illustration, Dr. Bready referred to the game of cricket. Before commencing the captains of opposing teams always shake hands. At the conclusion the teams respond with three hearty cheers to each other. The games usually last for three days showing the typical character of the people to keep going steadily. So different from America where a hostile and bustle is executed to get a game over in a hurry.

Referring to the literature and political history of England, the speaker called attention to the names of some of England's outstanding writers and leaders and their works. In Canada we do not know enough of their wonderful doings. John Wesley did much to show the soul of England. Sixty years of his life he gave in a passion of service for God and his native land. In his works he made thirty thousand pounds, but, added the speaker, he gave it all away in assisting the poor and died worth hardly ten pounds.

Lord Shaftesbury dedicated his life to old England. Fifty-seven years he spent in his effort, which ultimately was successful in abolishing the condition of white slavery in factories and mines and brought in a state of industrial, educational and political freedom for the working classes.

Dr. Barnardo

Dr. Barnardo started his great work from a tiny donkey shed ragged school to an organization which has influential legislature the world over. Since 1870, fifty thousand young men and girls have passed through Dr. Barnardo's home to migrate to Canada. Many have risen to high command in our country. Dr. Barnardo was a genius and had great gifts of imagination, sympathy and love which together with his faith, organizing power and medical training, uniquely fitted him for his mighty pioneering work. The Titanic battles Barnardo had to fight against prejudice, bigotry and antiquated laws, make the record of his achievement an epic of the nineteenth century.

If England continues to raise such men as in the past she will always hold her commanding position, averred Dr. Bready.

Vote of Thanks

An enthusiastic vote of thanks for his address was tendered Dr. Bready on motion of Mrs. H. P. Rochester, seconded by Mrs. William Millar. The meeting opened with the singing of "O Canada" and closed with "God Save the King." There were 100 persons present.

The Amethyst For February

By E. DORSAY

MYSTIC, purple jewel—symbol of the god of wine, of apostolic love, and favored charm of soldiers—the amethyst proudly points to a long, rich heritage of romance and adventure in upholding its honored place as February's birthstone.

The amethyst shares control of the February-born with the planet Neptune. Neptune rules the subconscious, and gives those who are born under its spell a keen insight into the hidden places of human nature. These qualities, coupled with the courage and sensitiveness which the amethyst bestows, make the children of February kindly, sympathetic friends.

It was during the crusades that the amethyst became a soldier's charm. Many a knight prayed devoutly to his amethyst in the shadow of a Moslem fortress; and many a captured knight, kneeling before the fair lady whose colors adorned his lance, received from her an amethyst to protect him on the lists. Even as late as the World War this belief in the amethyst's efficacy persisted—a precious amulet in whose purple fire rests a vast reserve of courage and strength.

The name "amethyst" comes directly from the ancient Greek, "a-methystos," and means lit ally, "not drunken." According to the ancient legend, the stone was created by the wine-god Bacchus, who one day pursued a lovely maiden through the forest of the gods, and overtook her only to find that Diana had converted the nymph into a pure white crystal to protect her from his impetuous wooing. Bacchus was so touched, that he poured a libation of his own purple wine over the transformed maiden—consecrating the stone, and thus formed as a perpetual charm against the fury of his own passions.

This legend has been handed down as a warning against all excess. And those born in February—under the sign of Pisces—may well take heed, for they are traditionally susceptible to dissipation and over-indulgence.

In Christian times, the luscious beauty of the amethyst endeared it to the fathers of the church; and this gem, which had been the creature of the pagan Bacchus, became the apostolic stone of bishops indeed. St. Valentine, whose festival is a highlight of February, vouchsafed for the tradition that the marriage of Mary and Joseph was solemnized with an amethyst ring. Later on in the Middle Ages, masters of witchcraft attributed to the amethyst magnetic rays and great healing properties—and perhaps they saw, in the amethyst's rich purple attraction, a prophesy of the violet rays of modern medicine.

The fascination of the amethyst endures today—a fascination based on sheer beauty which suits our mood and gives February's children a bygone wish to be secure against all dangers of passion.

Sandys-Wunsch and Sergeant Thomas Brice, both of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police detachment at Liard Post, who passed through here at the first of the week, have arrived in Vancouver, Sergeant Brice, who was formerly stationed here, is suffering from severely frozen feet and is a virtual cripple at present. His feet were frozen last November while on patrol. As a result of treatment he is to receive in the south, it is expected he will eventually regain full use of the limbs. Sandys-Wunsch and Brice were brought out from Liard Post to Skagway by airplane.

Rev. Frank Bushfield of Anyox Resigns—Rev. W. H. Pierce Asks Superannuation

Spring sessions of Prince Rupert Presbytery of the United Church of Canada opened yesterday afternoon in First United Church here with Rev. W. H. Gibson of Bella Bella, chairman, presiding and Rev. V. H. Sansum of Port Simpson acting as secretary. Suitable reference was made to the memory of the life and great work of Rev. George Edgar of Klemtu, member of the Presbytery, who died recently. A letter of condolence will be dispatched to the widow. At the evening session Rev. Frank Bushfield of Anyox resigned the pastorate there, asking for new appointment. Rev. W. H. Pierce of Port Essington applied for superannuation. Both applications were accepted by the Presbytery and will be recommended to the conference. This morning reports on missionary and maintenance fund, evangelical, social service and foreign mission work were presented. An interesting feature of the sessions has been the presence of Rev. Arthur Barner, superintendent of Indian missions for Canada, and Rev. Dr. G. A. Wilson, superintendent of missions for British Columbia. The former is giving a series of devotional addresses on "The Natural Resources of the Kingdom of God." Presbytery sessions are continuing this afternoon.

Sixty-Two People Vote in Police Plebiscite in First Two Hours After Opening

That keen interest is being evinced in the plebiscite today on whether the provincial police shall be retained to police the city or whether the form of city policing shall be reverted to was fully evident by the volume of voting recorded this morning. In the first two hours of voting up to 10 a.m., no less than 62 ballots had been cast whereas, in the annual civic election last month, only seventeen votes had been recorded in the first two hours of voting. Despite the unfavorable weather, it is expected that there will be quite a heavy vote. The poll, which opened at 8 a.m., will close at 8 o'clock this evening. Within an hour's time, the result of the voting should be known. City Solicitor E. F. Jones is returning officer for the plebiscite with W. D. Vance and H. M. Daggett as deputy returning officers. Scrutineers for the Citizens' Committee, favoring provincial policing, are David Borland and Jack Watt.

Guide to Correspondents

The Daily News welcomes correspondence on live topics of the day or any other subject of public interest, but letters must be brief and to the point. The long-winded correspondent has no place in modern journalism. Every letter must be signed by the writer, not necessarily for publication but as a matter of good faith and courtesy. All unsigned documents go to the waste paper basket. Letters of a caustic character must have the signature appended for publication. Letter should be written on one side of the paper only. Correspondents must avoid personalities and the language should be such as would be allowed in the ordinary rules of debate.

ish minds. Ferdinand Lassalle, the father of German socialism, was a Jew; Karl Marx, noted for his revolutionary socialism, was a Jew; Lenin was a Jew. The ideas of such men were strongly influencing the world of politics today. The leaders in Russian thought today were such men—Trotsky, Kamenev, Redek, Zinoviev and many others—all Jews.

In Other Fields

In the fields of political economy, mathematics and philosophy the names of such prominent Jews as Ricardo, Einstein, Freud and Bergson can be recalled.

In North America, where there were in round numbers only 4,600,000 Jews, three of the great educational forces were controlled by Jews namely: the press, secular education and the motion picture industry. Behind the great syndicate news agencies was the Jew. He was the news censor and news of national and international import came to the public filtered through the mind of the Jew.

In Hollywood almost every high executive and most of the responsible underlings were Jews who control this great moving picture industry, the fourth largest in the world. These Jewish executives were responsible for advertising and super-salesmanship for creating the public demand for types of pictures which too often contained false sentiment, false morality and false everything. A. G. Gardner, one of the greatest of living journalists asked: "What is the use of spending $1,000,000,000 a year on educating the young if you are going to de-educate them with torrents of undesirable and silly nonsense shown on the screen?" Canon Rushbrook emphasized the fact that the motion picture was here to stay and could be made a means of untold blessing, and that to the parents belonged the power to determine its future.

Secular Education

Dealing with secular education the speaker stated that the Jew would do anything for an education. They were tenacious students for they knew that education would unlock for them many doors that would otherwise remain forever closed.

Dr. William O'Shea, superintendent of schools in New York City, at his home here a few years ago, and made the astounding statement that, though a minority population, more than 50% of the teachers in New York City were Jews. Thus, in the very elementary stages of his intellectual life, the child came under Jewish influence.

In Harvard University during 1931-1932, the registration of students in the three higher enrollments showed 1112 Episcopalians, 808 Jews, 756 Roman Catholics and this when there were only 4,600,000 Jews in the whole of America.

The Jew, concluded the speaker, dominates not only religious thought, statecraft, motion pictures, secular education, but also sat on top of the country's industrial institutions. If they were not watchful, the Gentile majority would have to take a second place to the Jewish minority.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Canon Rushbrook for his address.

Mrs. S. V. Cox presided over the meeting. It was decided to hold the usual Easter candy sale in the schools and conveners were appointed as follows: Borden Street, Mrs. Teng; Westview, Mrs. Denning; Seal Cove, Mrs. Viereck. The convenor for Booth School will be appointed at next meeting. Miss White and Miss Tucker delighted the audience with pianoforte duets, as also did Julius Welle with accordion selections. After the meeting refreshments were served by a committee in charge of Mrs. J. A. Teng.

LOCAL MAN TALKS WITH MONTREAL

William Goldbloom, the local fur dealer, yesterday put through a radio telephone call for Montreal and conversed for several minutes with his daughter, Mrs. L. Ripstein, and also said hello to his grandchildren there. The call went by way of the trans-Canada route recently opened.

J. Boyd Young of Port Simpson was also talking direct from his store in Port Simpson with J. Lamb, the canneryman in the south. This is the first time Port Simpson has been connected with the radio-telephone system.

J. Field Strang, who has been here since yesterday on business in connection with a new cannery project which he and associates are planning, will sail by the ss Prince Rupert tonight on his return to Vancouver.

DR. BREADY IS SPEAKER

Pupils of High and Public Schools
 Hear Visiting Lecturer

Taking for his subject the story of the lives and works of Britain's two most famous social reformers, Dr. Barnardo and Lord Shaftsbury, Dr. J. Wesley Bready of Toronto addressed the pupils of King Edward High School and of grades eight and seven from Borden and Booth Memorial School yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. D. McD. Hunter, president of the Women's Canadian Club of Prince Rupert, introduced the speaker who, in turn, expressed his debt to the Canadian National Federation of Canadian Clubs under whose auspices he was addressing the meeting.

Dr. Wesley Bready as editor of "Dr. Barnardo," the story of the great reformer, was peculiarly well equipped for such a subject. Known as the "father of nobody's children," Dr. Barnardo's work concerned itself with the rescuing of destitute children. The methods of Dr. Barnardo have been copied by social service organizations over the world and by government agencies. An interesting sidelight was thrown on the character of Dr. Barnardo when the speaker told of his change from an atheist and free thinker to that of a spiritual revivalist.

Turning to the story of Lord Shaftsbury, son of a lord who had been chairman of a committee of the House of Lords for 40 years, brought up with all that wealth and tradition could impress on his character, Dr. Bready emphasized the tremendous influence the teachings of Maria Mills had. Lord Shaftsbury when 80 years old, referred to his nurse as the best friend he had ever had. The encounter while at Harrow with the drunken workmen stumbling while carrying the coffin with the body of a fellow workman altered the pattern of his life and he devoted all his energies to the amelioration and improvement of the lot of the working classes. The lack of sympathy between the employer and the working classes was impressed on his hearers. Children of the world would find it difficult to realize what things did exist less than a hundred years ago.

Miss Mercer, who presided, received a very hearty vote of thanks. Dr. Bready for his talk and the children endorsed it with enthusiasm.

United Church Young People Have Meeting

The regular fortnightly meeting of the United Church Young People's Society was held in the church parlors last evening with 22 members present.

Following the business period a very interesting address was given by Eric Gee on "History as Reflected in Furniture Styles and Designs," which was very much enjoyed by those present.

The meeting came to a close with the serving of refreshments.

Capt. Gerald H. Barry of Victoria, inspector of Indian schools, arrived in the city on the Prince John this morning from Vancouver via the Queen Charlotte Islands. On his way up he visited the native schools at Skidegate and Massett.

A Good Product Well Advertised

When you see something widely and consistently advertised, you can be pretty sure it's well worth having. If it weren't . . . if it didn't represent an honest and worthy value . . . the maker couldn't afford to advertise it.
