FLY OVER ATLANTIC

Huge Passenger Aircraft For 24-Hour Air Service Being Built

Changes Coming

Construct Special Slipway For Erection of Planes Too Big For Indoor Construction

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Dramatic changes in world transport and communications are foreshadowed in the building, on the banks of the River Medway at Rochester, Kent, of a slipway where flying boats larger than any yet to take the air may be erected and launched.

Aided by the extensive development of metal construction methods, which have removed limitations inevitably prevailing when wood was the material on which the aircraft builder chiefly depended, flying boat designers have planned during the last few years craft worthy indeed to be styled "flying ships," and there is no indication that the process of growth is yet ended.

Flying machines of this order of size cannot be erected inside the largest sheds. Their overall height from keel to the top of the superstructure is too great. Already the company responsible for the new slipway has had difficulty in building big three-engined boats with a gross weight of 18 tons inside the shed at the Rochester works.

In future the hull of new flying ships will be constructed within the hangar and the work of erection, including attachment of the superstructure of wings, power plant installation and so forth, done on the slipway, from which the big machine will ultimately be launched. Thus one branch of aeronautical engineering is fast coming to resemble marine construction, and flying boat "yards" promise soon to rank with the shipyards. From the aircraft slipways will move a succession of big craft, able to cruise thousands of miles non-stop and to carry a heavy load swiftly and safely along the world's sea routes. In the perfection of these big marine aircraft lies perhaps the greatest promise for the future of long distance airways. More efficient and faster than the airship, they should be able to operate regular service all over the world before many more years have elapsed.

Trial Shipment Left Last Week For New York—Local Market Sought

VANCOUVER, Jan. 19.—Evidence of a new and developing phase of the fishing industry in British Columbia was brought to light when J. J. Dorsey, manager of the Northern Packing Co., at Ecoole, arrived in Vancouver with a considerable shipment of pickled herring and anchovy.

While Mr. Dorsey does not expect that much of a market can be created for domestic anchovy on account of many deterring factors, he does predict considerable increase in the use of pickled herring prepared under the "Bismark" system of curing.

More than 105 barrels of this new British Columbia fish product was shipped to the New York market by Mr. Dorsey last week.

PAYING BILLS

The attention of the Daily News has been drawn to the fact that while local people are being asked to pay their accounts, the worst offender in not paying accounts is the provincial government. Merchants have been asked to give the lowest possible price on the goods they had to sell and then have had to wait indefinitely for their pay.

The city too has been placed in an awkward position through not being able to secure the payment of promised monies. When the unemployment relief was commenced, the minister of public works was asked if it could be arranged to have the province pay promptly so as to avoid local bank interest. It was promised that just as soon as the vouchers were sent through a check would be sent at the end of each month. Since that not a dollar has been received with the result that the city overdraft at the bank is quite a burden to carry and also it tends to injure the credit of the city with the banks.

Some payments have been made to local merchants recently but the accounts are still very far in arrears. The excuse that the department is too busy to keep up the work does not seem very reasonable at a time when there is nothing doing in most government departments and people are being laid off from the government service.

If the government does not pay its accounts to whom can we look for an example?

A LABOR VIEW

The leading editorial article in The Canadian Unionist, organ of the All-Canadian Congress of Labor under the heading "The System Will Survive," has the following paragraph:

"The optimists are found mainly in the ranks of labor and socialist organizations. They have written and re-written capitalism's obituary notice many, many times, but they have not yet agreed upon a plan nor laid the foundation for a system to take its place. Among the pessimists, who regard capitalism's collapse as a dire disaster, Sir George Paish, as a distinguished economist, must be given a leading place, and he has recently been heard from."

Further along in the same article is the following intensely interesting paragraph:

"The transformation of society, if it comes upon us without conscious effort on our part, may not be the sort of transformation we want. Unless it is due to the workers' volition the last state may be worse than the first. For the time being, then, it is to the interest of the workers that capitalism shall regain its stride, and Sir George Paish, in an elaboration of his prophecy, promises that it will—if the intelligence of the world can be mobilized and brought to the rescue. Capitalism must survive the present crisis. Just as jailers are alert to prevent the cheating of the gallows by the suicide of the condemned before the time of execution, the workers must strive to avert the premature extinction of the capitalist system until they have built the scaffold and planned the structure of the new regime. For if the workers are not in control of the situation at the crucial hour, capitalism will cheat them; it will appoint fascism its successor."

Appoint New Heads to C.P.R. Departments

Canadian Pacific Railway Telegraphs Department has with the New Year changed in name to the Department of Communications having supervision over the telegraph, telephone and radio broadcasting services of the railway. To the head of the new department Mr. W. D. Neil is appointed as general manager, vice Mr. John McMillan, retired, and Mr. H. H. Goodchild.

W. D. Neil

Mr. Neil joined the service of the Canadian Pacific Railway as an operator at Calgary in 1905, thus rising from the ranks to the highest post in the gift of his department. His first ten years of service were spent in the West and in 1915 he came as superintendent of traffic to Montreal. In 1922 he became assistant manager eastern lines and in 1924 assistant manager western lines. Since 1930 he was assistant general manager of the department and now is promoted chief.

Mr. McMillan became a construction lineman with the Canadian Pacific in 1883 and passed through various grades of promotion in the West until March 1915 when he was promoted manager of Telegraphs at Montreal. He has been general manager, Canadian Pacific Telegraphs since 1921 from which position he now retires.

Mr. Goodchild started with the Canadian Pacific as an operator in 1899 at Vancouver and has been in the West during all his service except for a year in Montreal as traffic superintendent. He had been in Vancouver as superintendent of Telegraphs since 1930 and is promoted from that position to his present post at Montreal.

Mr. Fawcett entered the company's service in 1905 as clerk in the vice-president's office at Winnipeg. Passing through various positions always in the West he became general storekeeper western lines with office at Winnipeg in 1917 from which he is now promoted general store-keeper of the whole Canadian Pacific system with headquarters at Montreal.

Mr. Goodchild had already a record of work with British commercial firms in London, England and with the Grand Trunk in Canada before he joined the Canadian Pacific Railway as a clerk in the Comptroller's office at Montreal in 1888. By October 1899 he had risen to the position of assistant auditor of disbursements. Similar auditor's appointments followed in 1901 and 1904 until in 1913 he became general store-keeper, eastern lines, from which post he now retires.

DISCUSSION OF TARIFFS

Christian Science Monitor Sees Significance in New Canadian Views

After an experiment with higher tariff protection, there are signs that Canada may move toward lowering the barriers again—at least in certain directions, says the Christian Science Monitor editorially. The Dominion Minister of Trade and Commerce, Harry H. Stevens, recently journeyed to Honolulu to meet the New Zealand Minister of Finance, Mr. Downie Stewart, in an effort to restore better trade relations. Both countries have discovered by hard experience since 1930 that tariff barriers do obstruct trade.

Negotiations between Canada and New Zealand are understood to be in the direction of reestablishing preferential tariff rates rather than any general step toward freer trade. Doubt about the value of high protection has lately been expressed, however, by the president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, W. H. Mincey. He is quoted from Montreal in a New Year's message as follows:

"I would also like to see our tariffs kept moderate. I believe in tariffs for revenue and for moderate protection. But they should not be built up into stone walls as they are in some high tariff countries so that nothing can get over them. Because if we do that we shall become like they are, hard up with the country full of gold."

Low Tariff Opinion
Low tariff opinion in Canada may be much encouraged by this new declaration in favor of "moderate protection," as the Canadian Manufacturers' Association hitherto has been regarded as the spearhead of an aggressive tariff policy. After the last general election, the new Government came in with a tariff mandate rather tending toward imitation of the tariff policy in the United States. The experiment of raising the Canadian tariff has since been tried.

It may be too soon to say that public opinion has lost confidence in higher protection as the path to prosperity, but the declaration of the president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association in favor of keeping tariffs moderate is significant.

CITY'S NAME MISSPELLED

BASEL, Switzerland, Jan. 19.—The world knows this little town as the headquarters of its bankers but insists on misspelling the name of a city founded before the year 1000.

It is the seat for the Bank for International Settlements and an important site of financial conferences. The German spelling "Basle" was changed to "Basel" at some time or other in the history of the city but a large proportion of the English speaking peoples continue the old spelling. The French spell it "Baile."

All this doesn't disturb the satisfied citizens of the rich old town tucked away in a corner of Switzerland with the German frontier within sight on one side and the French on the other.

Prince Rupert

THE FRONT DOOR OF THE PEACE RIVER COUNTRY

Economy is the keynote of all activities today. No money is expended unless it is looked upon as an absolute necessity.

It is at a time like this when the advantages of the Pacific outlet to the sea should be recognized by all Canadians. It is the hope of a very large section of the country, particularly of that new and rapidly growing young empire through which the Peace River flows.

PRINCE RUPERT WAS BUILT TO BE THE WESTERN OUTLET

the logical point from which the grain of the Peace should be shipped. There are other points which might be made available but the railway is already built into Prince Rupert from Edmonton by the best grade of any line on the continent. The port is already here and a fine elevator ready to receive the grain. No expense is necessary except for the piece of railway connecting the existing Peace River railways with the main line of the Canadian National at some point between Hansard and the coast. With that operated jointly by the two big railway companies and with the C. P. R. granted suitable running privileges over the C. N. R. to enable them to do business on an equality with their competitor, the business of hauling grain to the Pacific by the best possible route can commence.

While this is a time when strictest economy is being practised everywhere, it is a time when the employment of labor in a large way is eminently desirable. Men are out of work and must be fed. The reasonable thing would be to set them to work on big undertakings of a productive nature and this Peace River Pacific outlet is one that lends itself to the purpose, especially if one of the longer and more economical routes such as that to Hazelton should be adopted.

SETTLERS ARE STILL POURING INTO THE PEACE COUNTRY

The towns are growing into cities and the villages into towns. The people are a unit in demanding a western outlet and they have adopted the Prince Rupert attitude which is that it be built by the most feasible route to the coast.

The location of this route means everything to the country. If it should be built south instead of west and should go by a tortuous route with mountain grades instead of by way of a perfect water grade to the sea, it would mean that high freight rates would be set to enable the railways to earn dividends under the difficult circumstances. A case in point is that of the C. P. R. which was built through the difficult Kicking Horse Pass and as a result of which a mountain differential had to be established.

It would be little short of a crime to place a permanent embargo on all western shipments from the Peace River country, especially at a time when people are looking for the most economical way of carrying on the business of the country and enabling the farmers to compete with grain growers in other countries to the best advantage. The interests of the grain growers should be paramount. Any line that is built should be for the purpose of serving them and not to advantage any particular port or district.

PRINCE RUPERT IS THE PORT OF THE WESTERN ROUTE

for the products of Northern Alberta and British Columbia. The port has one of the finest harbors in the world, open all the year round and easily accessible from the ocean. It has one of the most up-to-date elevators suited for terminal shipping purposes. It has docks suited for deep sea shipping, a large dry dock and shipyard and other conveniences that go to the making of a port, such as a quarantine station, wireless and radio telephone stations. Nothing is lacking. The port is ready for business, the railway is ready to carry the grain and all that is needed is the western connection with it from the Peace country.

It would seem the part of statesmanship for any government to enable such modern facilities to be used for the benefit of the Peace River farmers and at the same time to provide employment for that army of men who today are clamoring for honest jobs to enable them to live as decent citizens of Canada.

RUSSIA HAS MUCH GOLD

Soviet Republic Possesses Large Supply of Precious Metal

MOSCOW, Jan. 19.—Forced by an adverse foreign trade balance to "ship" gold in considerable quantities to meet its obligations abroad, Soviet Russia nevertheless seems able to increase its supply of the precious metal from its own tremendous resources.

This is apparent from the monthly balance sheet of the "Gosbank," or state bank, which shows that in November the country's gold assets increased to 612,569,320 rubles (approximately $306,284,660) from 600,253,050 rubles (or about $300,126,525) in the preceding month.

The foreign trade figures for this period were not available but it was considered certain here that the unfavorable balance had not been appreciably reduced, if at all, due to conditions abroad which resulted in lower prices for Soviet products.

Last statistics published were preliminary estimates for the end of the first eight months of the year, showing that for that period the balance against Soviet Russia in its foreign trade rose to 210,631,000 rubles (about $105,315,500) from 181,200,000 rubles (about $75,510,000) for the first six months of the year.

To make up this discrepancy, Soviet Russia must rely on two factors—since its currency is not recognized in international finance—the foreign currency it receives from sales in other lands, and gold. The supply of the former naturally is dependent upon the ability of this nation to export its products and fluctuates accordingly.

Therefore, the importance of marshalling its gold resources is not being overlooked by authorities here. Figures on annual production of gold are kept secret, but mining specialists from Great Britain and the United States who have been on the job here for several years say the surface hardly has been scratched.

GIRL GUIDE ASS'N MEET

Annual Session Held Last Night at Home of President, Mrs. R. L. McIntosh

The annual meeting of the Prince Rupert Girl Guides' Association was held last night at the home of the president, Mrs. R. L. McIntosh, Fourth Avenue West. There was a fairly good attendance.

Reports of Guide companies and Brownie packs, read by guiders, indicated that 1931 had been a successful year.

After the report of the president had been read, officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. R. L. McIntosh. Vice-president, Mrs. Shelford Darton.

Secretary, Mrs. Ernest Anderson. Chairman of examining committee, Mrs. H. L. Landry.

Executive—Mrs. Chris Perry and the regent of Municipal Chapter, Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire (Mrs. John Manson).

In the absence of Capt. Norma Rogers, colors presented to First Prince Rupert Company, Girl Guides, by the local association, were received by Lieut. Brewerton.

The subject of a Ranger company was again broached but no one has yet been found who will take charge of same.

After the close of the meeting, delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

ship" is to be pursued to actuality is clear from present purposeful development in this country. The next step, following the successful trials of the two 35-ton boats, is already planned. A 60-ton boat designed for commercial operation of a transatlantic service, with a maximum range at a cruising speed of more than two miles a minute of no less than 2,500 sea miles, is receiving official consideration. This air leviathan, probably built largely of stainless steel, will be planned to carry passengers and a big load of luggage and mails in extreme comfort, with sleeping accommodation resembling the passenger decks of a water-borne ship.

Such a craft will be able to cross the Atlantic Ocean in less than 24 hours. And it by no means represents the limit of size; at least one British flying boat designer has made preliminary calculations for the construction of a flying boat weighing more than 90 tons.

Try Miss McFarlane's Favorite Recipe for BISCUITS

1/2 teaspoon salt 4 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder 2 cups pastry flour (or 1 1/2 cups bread flour) 2 tablespoons shortening 1/4 cup milk, or half milk and half water

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in the chilled shortening. Now add the chilled liquid to make soft dough. Press dough onto a floured board and do not handle more than is necessary. Roll or pat out with hands to about 1/2 inch thickness. Cut out with a floured biscuit cutter. Place on slightly greased pan or baking sheet and bake in hot oven at 450° F. 12 to 15 minutes.

"For Light, Flaky Biscuits use Magic Baking Powder,"

says Miss M. McFarlane, dietitian of St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto

"I RECOMMEND Magic because I know it is pure, and free from harmful ingredients." Miss McFarlane's opinion is based on a thorough knowledge of food chemistry, and on close study of food effects upon the body. On practical cooking experience, too.

Most dietitians in public institutions, like Miss McFarlane, use Magic exclusively. Because it is always uniform, dependable, and gives consistently better baking results.

And Magic is the favorite of Canadian housewives. It outsells all other baking powders combined. You'll find Magic makes all your baked foods unusually light and tender... and gives you the same perfect results every time.

Free Cook Book—When you bake at home, the new Magic Cook Book will give you dozens of recipes for delicious baked foods. Write to Standard Brands Ltd., Fraser Avenue and Liberty Street, Toronto, Ont.

Guide to Correspondents

The Daily News welcomes correspondence on live topics of the day or any other subject of public interest, but letters must be brief and to the point. The long-winded correspondent has no place in modern journalism.
Every letter must be signed by the writer, not necessarily for publication but as a matter of good faith and courtesy. All unsigned documents go to the waste paper basket. Letters of a caustic character must have the signature appended for publication.
Letter should be written on one side of the paper only. Correspondents must avoid personalities and the language should be such as would be allowed in the ordinary rules of debate.

Cheapest Way of Reaching the People

The cheapest way of reaching practically all the people of Prince Rupert and district is by means of the classified columns of the Daily News.

Nearly everyone has something they could turn into cash through the "For Sale" column. Perhaps they have a house to rent. Here is the chance. Spend 50c on a classified advertisement and secure a tenant rather than have it idle.

If a girl wishes a position or a housewife wishes help, the best means of getting supplied is through a want ad.

Dressmakers sometimes want work; small store-keepers want to move their goods; or maybe you need an article that has been used rather than pay the price for new. Give the Daily News classified columns a trial. Many have been very pleased at the result.

Couple Celebrate 70th Anniversary Of Their Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Selby of Dunham, Que., Receive Congratulations

DUNHAM, Que., Jan. 19.—Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Selby celebrated the seventieth anniversary of their wedding here on New Year's day. In the afternoon a reception was held at the residence of their son, A. E. Selby, when forty relatives and friends from Dunham and Cowansville gathered to extend their congratulations. Sharing in the congratulations was Mrs. Charles E. Baker, formerly Miss Kate Ford, of Dunham, the only surviving member of the group of guests at the wedding seventy years ago.

It was on January 1, 1862, at the home of her father, Charles Gaylor Meig's Corner, Dunham, that Miss Emily Gaylor was married to Jonathan Selby of Dunham, the ceremony being performed by the Ven. Archdeacon Scott, D.D., then rector of the local Anglican church and now of Quebec, in the presence of numerous relatives and friends. Both bride and groom were minors and the consent of the fathers of the young couple was necessary before the marriage could take place. Two children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Selby, Annie, Mrs. Chas. Buchanan of Hartford, Conn., and Arthur Ernest Selby of Dunham.

Believed to Be Oldest Woman in Western Canada

WINNIPEG, Jan. 19.—Mrs. Joseph Gladu of High Bluff, Man., who is probably the oldest woman in Manitoba and perhaps Western Canada, celebrated her 105th birthday Christmas Day. Born Christmas day, 1826, at Fort Vancouver, Josephine Le Braine was adopted by friends, and taken over the Rockies to the Peace River, when a child of nine years of age. Her new family moved to Edmonton, then Fort Simpson, and east to Norway House, on Lake Winnipeg. Finally the family settled at M'Leichurch, where Josephine married Frank Moissette, and their family grew to a total of 10 children, of whom at least five still survive. Mr. Moissette died 28 years ago and Mrs. Moissette subsequently married Joseph Gladu who died recently. Being still in possession of her faculties, Mrs. Gladu, a devout Roman Catholic, attended at this year's midnight mass at Oak Bluff. She is a familiar figure in the community, often being seen driving about the countryside in her buggy.

Twenty Years Ago In Prince Rupert

January 19, 1912
C. H. Keithly of the Empress Theatre cigar stand had his head cut and an unknown Montenegrin also sustained slight injuries a few minutes before noon today when there was a shower of rock and mud on Sixth Street from lane grading operations a block away. Plate glass was shattered wholesale and offices and stores were virtually wrecked.

William Manson M. P. P. has promised the Prince Rupert Progressive Conservative Association that he will use his influence toward getting roads made around Kaien Island and up Mount Oldfield.

F. H. Mobley was the speaker before a meeting in the Presbyterian Church Hall last night. He paid tribute to the pioneer women of the north.

SITUATION IN INDIA

Drastic Action Taken in Bengal to Cope With Campaign of Murder and Intimidation
ORDINANCES SIGNED
New Regulations Resemble Irish Free State Regression Act

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 15.—The government of India lost no time in taking the firm action against terrorism forecast by Lord Lothian, under-secretary for India, in the house of lords. Lord Willingdon, Viceroy of India, signed an ordinance giving drastic powers to the Bengal government and magistrates and these were shortly extended to the United Provinces and the Northwest Frontier.

Mahatma Gandhi shortly after his return at the end of December asked the Viceroy whether the ordinance meant the end of peaceful relations between the government and the Congress party, but a few hours before this communication was sent Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald from Lissieux outspokenly denounced Indian agitators as selfish blockaders in the path of Indian progress. "An enlightened India would not only give them no countenance but would turn and rend them," the Prime Minister said.

The extra powers are described by the Times of India as follows: "The ordinance so closely resembles the Irish Free State Permanent Repression Act that its source of inspiration is obvious. President Cosgrave's administration was faced this summer with much the same problem that confronts the authorities in Bengal, and the remedies applied in Ireland with the sanction of the Free State Parliament suggest themselves as clearly suitable for India. Lord Willingdon's Ordinance falls into two main parts, the first arming the executive with special powers for tracing and apprehending terrorists. The police are entitled to detain any suspect for 24 hours, one of the main objects of this provision being the temporary removal of terrorist spies. Wide rights of search, commandeering buildings, moveable property and vehicles, closing of thoroughfares and imposing fines on districts which aid terrorist gangs complete the extra powers granted in the chapter.

(Trials of Terrorists)
"The second chapter closely follows Free State precedent by empowering the local government to set up special tribunals and magistrates for the trial of suspected terrorists, with the difference that whereas the Irish tribunals are purely military those in India will be composed of three judges of the High Court. As in the Free State, there will be no appeal against any sentence passed by a tribunal; the High Courts are totally excluded from interference with the special courts established under the Ordinance.

"Nobody likes extra-legal methods; they place power in the hands of the police which may be abused. But desperate diseases call for desperate cures, and none

PRESERVING SEA LIONS

Killing in Alaska Waters Prohibited By Government

(Seaman's Journal)
Killing of walrus and sea lions in the Territory of Alaska or in any of the waters of Alaska over which the United States has jurisdiction is prohibited until April 30, 1932, except as to walrus and sea lions killed by natives for food or clothing, by miners or explorers when in need of food, by anyone in the necessary protection of property or while such animals are actually engaged in the devastation of runs of salmon, or to the collection of specimens for scientific purposes under permits issued by the Secretary of Commerce. The penalties and forfeitures imposed by law will be strictly enforced against all persons who commit acts in violation thereof or of the regulations promulgated in accordance therewith.

can say that the situation in Bengal at the moment is anything but serious. Following a long series of dastardly crimes and the active existence of murder associations Government officials in many districts go about in daily fear of their lives.
