Halibut Boat Owners Decide With Fishermen Against Co-Operative Marketing Plan

By a large majority on standing vote, halibut boat owners and fishermen of Prince Rupert, at a meeting last night in Moose Hall with some two hundred men in attendance, voted against signing up with the United Pacific Fisheries of Seattle for co-operative marketing of halibut this season.

W. E. Drake, local manager of Edward Lipsett Ltd., presided over the meeting which lasted about an hour and a half.

ASSESSMENT DISCUSSED

Stephens and Arnold Tell Why They Prefer Low Valuation and High Tax Rate

In response to an invitation by Ald. G. B. Casey, M. M. Stephens and G. H. Arnold explained at last night's meeting of the Prince Rupert Ratepayers' Association why they were in favor of a system of low valuation and high tax rate in the city assessment rather than a policy of high valuations and low tax rate.

The principal reason given by both Mr. Stephens and Mr. Arnold in support of the policy they favored was the fact that the Canadian National Railways had the benefit of a low assessment whereas the citizens still had to pay taxes on the basis of high assessment.

Mr. Arnold referred to the fact that the Supreme Court in 1927 had cut the Canadian National Railways assessment from $2,800,000 to $1,200,000. The assessment for citizens, however, had remained the same as it was originally.

Ratepayers' Association Passes Resolution Opposing Improvement Tax Move

On motion of Ex-Mayor H. B. Rochester, the Prince Rupert Ratepayers' Association, at its meeting last night, passed a resolution protesting at any move which may be made by the city council of 1932 toward the imposition of an improvement tax.

If the economy which was being talked about was actually put into practice, Mr. Rochester thought that there would probably be no real necessity for a tax on improvements. It would be a sad state of affairs and one of the worst things that could befall the city should the person who made improvements to his property be penalized for so doing by the imposition of an improvement tax.

Finances and Assessments Subject of Resolutions Passed at Meeting Last Night

The Prince Rupert Ratepayers' Association, at its meeting last night, passed several resolutions having to do with civic affairs. One resolution expressed opposition to the renewal of an agreement with the Canadian National Railways whereby the dry dock, being a competitive business, is exempted from taxation which other businesses must pay.

The resolutions were as follows: Moved by J. A. Curtis, seconded by H. B. Rochester:

"That, whereas the tax agreement between the City of Prince Rupert and the Canadian National Railways, exempting the dry dock or other property from taxation has expired, and,

"Whereas the property so exempted from taxation is the property of the people of Canada, and,

"Whereas the business carried on is largely competitive with the business of others paying their full share of taxes;

"Be it resolved that this meeting of taxpayers go on record as being (Continued on Page Four)

POLICE ARE DISCUSSED

Ratepayers Feel That Some Economies Are Possible in Present Service

The matter being brought up by R. T. J. Rose, the suggestion was offered at last night's meeting of the Prince Rupert Ratepayers' Association that something might be done in the way of effecting economies in the policing of the city.

Ald. Macdonald replied that policing last year had cost the city $14,000. In the last year of city policing here the cost had been $16,000. Also last year little had been received in payment of fines which tended to increase the net cost. (Continued on page four.)

Financial Situation In Review by Orme In Speech Last Night

Chief Magistrate Is Heard By Large Gathering of Ratepayers—Tells of Prospects For Year—Co-operation Between Council and School Board

"If we accept the situation as it exists and govern ourselves on a basis of strict business and economy, there is no question but that the municipality will come through the present crisis safely," declared Mayor Cyril H. Orme last night in an address before the Prince Rupert Ratepayers' Association on the affairs of the city.

He could hardly commit his council as far as definite matters of policy were concerned at this early date in the year, the mayor touched on many matters of municipal interest and referred more particularly to the financial situation. His Worship made a plea for the assistance and co-operation not only of the Ratepayers' Association but of the citizens generally in the crisis with which the 1932 council would have to deal.

The meeting itself was one of the largest gatherings of ratepayers that has ever been seen here. Even extra seating accommodation which had been provided in the council chamber was taxed. President F. W. Wesch was in the chair. After the mayor's address, comments were offered by some of the taxpayers present and several resolutions were dealt with.

In opening, the mayor expressed the belief that every member of the city council and school board was fully seized with the seriousness of the situation and was prepared to carry out a policy of the strictest economy. He referred to the conference which had been held between council and school board on financial affairs of the year.

General tax collections in 1931, the mayor revealed, had amounted to 80% and local improvement, 50%. Relief expenditure had totalled $12,415 and exchange had cost the city $10,668. These were expenditures over which the city had no control and which could not be anticipated, particularly the exchange.

In addition to this a bond issue which had become ready early in December had not been disposed of owing to the situation in the bond market following the action of Great Britain in going off the gold standard. Aside from this some $15,000 of bonds had still to be passed, making a total of some $118,000 of bonds remaining unsold to cover work which had been financed out of general fund.

Commenting upon the matter of relief work, the mayor pointed out that, through no fault of the city, the program had been interrupted when it was but half completed. This had been the biggest disappointment of the year. Had the original appropriation been allowed to stand, the city would have been able to take care of all its people until the end of March.

Turning to matters of the coming year, Mayor Orme stated that on (Continued on Page Two)

LOOKING FOR LENT

No, it's not because we wish to do penance, to abstain from fleshy foods or to bring the body into subjection that we look forward to Lent this year. It is because the season brings with it a demand for fish and Prince Rupert lives on fish, directly or indirectly.

Ash Wednesday, which is the first day of Lent, comes this year on February 10, much earlier than usual. As halibut fishing cannot commence until February 15, the Lenten season will be well advanced by the time the first shipments reach the market.

Easter this year comes on March 27 and Good Friday, March 25.

ARE WE DAMP

People in the south sometimes jibe at Prince Rupert on account of the alleged damp atmosphere. And yet if we are damp, other places on the coast may be said to be wet. Ketchikan, for instance, had a rainfall in 1931 of approximately 142 inches and the previous year, 159 inches. This makes us feel quite dry. Usually at Prince Rupert the precipitation amounts to something between eighty and one hundred inches, but last year it went just over the hundred.

BRITAIN AND TARIFF

Usually the executive committee, better known as the cabinet, of any self-governing country acts as a unit and those not in accord must get out. While there may be differences, these differences are settled in secret sessions and the world sees united action.

In Britain today they have made a change. There is an executive made up of people of many views, united in the one desire of rehabilitating the country. Some are professed free-traders and others are avowed protectionists. They have decided upon what really amounts to a constitutional change. When a tariff measure is introduced, as it will be undoubtedly, some of the members of the cabinet will oppose it. Possibly they will campaign against it. Yet they will remain members of the administration and will attend all meetings of the cabinet.

The British constitution has evolved and here is a new step in that evolutionary process. Where it will lead or what will be its effect, no one at present can say. It is another indication of the elasticity of the constitution and of its adaptability to new conditions as they arise.

THIS IS LEAP YEAR

This is leap year, one of the years in which February has 29 days instead of 28.

During leap year the ladies are supposed to have the right to propose marriage to any bachelor or widower of their acquaintance. They do not have to wait for the man to make the advances.

Of course a woman always has that right, if she so wishes, but this year is especially set apart for such procedure and she can act without feeling she has been invading the rights of the man.

FINANCIAL SITUATION IN REVIEW BY ORME IN SPEECH LAST NIGHT.

interest and redemption the sum of $163,200 would come due this year. Expenditures on exchange and relief could only be estimated. On the basis of existing conditions, exchange this year might be estimated at $20,000. It was very hard indeed to predict what the cost of relief might be.

Sizing up the situation himself, the mayor ventured the opinion that there had been a turn for the better in the affairs of Canada and Prince Rupert would undoubtedly participate in the improvement. Much would depend upon the extent of the development and use of natural resources.

During 1931 expenditure of the city's health, public works and engineering department had been but 55% of the average for the three years immediately previous, the mayor disclosed. For the year 1932 extraordinary expenditure including relief, exchange, etc. would be at least $35,000 over and above administration maintenance, and the mayor did not see where it would be possible for the city to embark upon any new work either local improvement or general. Of course, something might be done under relief work with government assistance.

It was estimated, stated the mayor, that revenue and tax collections would be down some 15% this year. In the interests of the municipality, it was essential this year that there be the strictest of economy. Everything possible in the way of expenditure would necessarily have to be cut out. No matter what personal feelings might be there was little option in the matter.

The mayor invited the co-operation and assistance of the association. The city council would at all times be prepared to accept any advice or assistance from the association in the spirit in which it was given. In fact, declared Mayor Orme, it would be necessary for the city council to have the co-operation of every citizen.

"The case however, is by no means hopeless," stated the mayor. "If we accept the situation as it exists and govern ourselves on a basis of strict business and economy, there is no doubt but that the municipality will come through safely."

Meantime, the city was in much the same position as all individuals and businesses today. All must expect cuts and would undoubtedly be satisfied if they could carry on and weather the storm. If all pulled together and co-operated, there was no question but that the municipality would come through safely.

President Wesch thanked Mayor Orme for his address and assured His Worship that the association was at all times desirous of assisting the city council.

J. A. Curtis asked the mayor if the provincial government had ever paid for the cement sidewalk around the old court house square. Mr. Orme replied that this had been paid some time ago.

Stephens Appreciative

M. M. Stephens expressed appreciation for the talk of the mayor. He was pleased to hear of the spirit of co-operation between the school board and city council in the interests of economy. This was to be commended and was appreciated by the members of the association. If this co-operation were carried through and certain cuts made, Mr. Stephens had no doubt but that the city would weather the storm. He did believe, however, that nothing but the strictest economy would carry the city through. The situation was a very serious one. Half the area of the city now belonged to the city and was paying no taxes. On account of this there was much less revenue than before. Another difficulty was that streets, sidewalks and utilities had been provided over an area which was capable of housing ten times the present population. This was conducive of reversion of lots to the city. The city had perforce to pay local improvements on reverted property out of general fund which was greatly diminished. He cautioned the city council, school board and other public and semi-public bodies that there must be the utmost economy.

H. B. Rochester expressed gratification at seeing a meeting of such large size interest itself in civic affairs. It was an object lesson to all citizens. He had appreciated the mayor's talk and was glad to hear that economy plans were proposed. It was essential that precautions be taken against the situation becoming any worse. Mr. Rochester thought that more interest should be taken in meetings of the city council. If there were a good attendance of citizens at every meeting, the council would have more incentive to do its very best. He, for one, intended to attend the meetings. Mr. Rochester thought that much could be done in the way of curtailing expenditures if the city council and school board got together.

PLAYS ARE SATIRICAL

Sardonic Thrusts by Playwrights At All and Sundry

NEW YORK, Jan. 23— Like a critic hooting at the passing parade, the Broadway theatre is unusually satirical this season. Most facets of the national scene, from trans-Atlantic flyers to the vice-president's office, have been targets for sardonic thrusts of playwrights.

"Wonder Boy", following the steps of "Once in a Lifetime", poked fun at movie magnates, while "Louder Please" is just as derisive of movie press agents. "The Man on Stilts" exposed the machinery behind such weird spectacles as trans-continental marathons. "Blessed Event" is said to be veerbitter in its denunciation of Broadway columnists, while "The Wave" goes behind the scenes of radio broadcasting stations, emphasizing the eccentricities of that scene. "Zoom" is the first of several plays to upset the pedestals of those young persons who have gained fame by shooting their planes across the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. "Of Thee I Sing", an operetta, turns a flood of embarrassing witticisms upon Washington making light of the vice-president, the senate, the diplomatic corps and other dignitaries.

"Crying Out Loud" is an off-spring of the crash in Wall Street. Its satire is aimed at those mushroom millionaires who suddenly found their paper profits whiffed away in the night, and themselves back taking orders again from behind the ribbon counters.

"Hay Fever" laughs out loud at actresses who like to exercise exhibitionist complexes in the home, while "The Left Bank" takes to task the American expatriates in Paris who preach that their native land is "a great cultural desert."

"Sing High, Sing Low" is supposed to be an exposure of cut-uns back stage at grand opera. "The Devil Passes", something of a theological drama, is being presented by Ben Levy, youthful British dramatist. In his latest offering, Levy has written a witty, provocative and oftimes Macabre story. His central figure is a young curate who believes the most effective way to win wayward ones to religion is to offer them temptations so strong they must either reject them or give up all claims to a soul. "The Devil Passes" follows altogether a different path to his four previous successes, including "Springtime for Henry" and "Mrs. Moonlight."

Woe Unto You Hypocrites!

'Twere Better That Those Who Scoff at Those Who Fail Were Never Born

(A Sermon By a Layman)

Text: "Woe unto you hypocrites."

In taking this text it is not my intention today to use it necessarily in the same context as that from which it was quoted. I am not planning to criticize the men and women who are striving to do better, who attend church and throw in their lot with those who profess to stand for the better things of life and who fail. They have their reward.

Today I want to take a fall out of the self-righteous men and women who stay at home and sneer at those who go to church. I mean the men and women who consider themselves so good that the church could not make them any better and who scoff when they see some poor sinner trying to live a better life, steadily climbing toward the higher things and then failing. These men are to be pitied but surely not blamed.

Sometimes we hear sneers at the clergy who are making a good effort to be real pastors of a real flock. They are making this their life work and it is a pretty hard one to have to pry loose a few shekels from the congregation to keep the church going. The sneers come again from the men and women who stay at home and not from those who attend church. They are the sneers of the self-righteous who think they need no outside help to keep them in the way of life.

Woe unto you self-righteous men and you backbiting women who carry on a campaign against those who are trying their best to make good.

Man is a social creature. He cannot live to himself, even if he wishes to do so. Usually the man who tries to live alone becomes mentally unbalanced and has to be taken care of in a mental hospital. It is an unnatural life. To develop normally he must meet and associate with his fellows. Who better could he meet and associate with than the men and women who are seeking after truth, who try to live decent lives and who look for spiritual uplift from prayer and meditation and to gain inspiration from worship.

If in doing this he sometimes reverts to original type or falls into the abyss, remember it is better to have tried and failed than never to have tried at all. Life is made up of a series of efforts. Sometimes they are successful and sometimes they fail but the effort is the thing. If the effort is a good one, even though it does not meet with success, it is far better than not to have tried.

Woe unto you dullards who scoff at the efforts of those who fail. I tell you it would have been better had you not been born.

PANTHERS WIN IN THRILLING BASKETBALL

SPORT CHAT

What makes wrestlers squint their little pig-like eyes? This tendency is often noticed in mat men after they have been grappling for several years, and Ed "Strangler" Lewis, one of the many claimants to the world's title, has a theory of his own as to the cause. Lewis says he suffers from this eye affliction, and so does Gus Sonnenberg, another top-notch in the wrestling art. In fact, Sonnenberg is obliged to wear heavy glasses when not wrestling. Lewis contends that the eye trouble started with a germ brought from India by Jatrindo Gobar, heavyweight wrestler who invaded this country some five or six years ago. The disease is known to medical science as trachoma or granulation of the eye-lids. It was unknown, Lewis insists, until Gobar, who was troubled that way, spread the infection here. Howard Cantonwine, another heavyweight wrestler, has had the same trouble and he agrees with Lewis' theory. Cantonwine's eyes caused him so much pain that he went to a specialist in Germany. The germ knows no favorites and most wrestlers try to ward it off by the frequent application of salt solutions.

Ping pong, that long derided dining-table version of tennis, celebrated its comeback this month. Six man teams, selected only after protracted and painstaking trials, represented New York and Chicago in a big ping pong poy-wow in Chicago on January 16. Devotees of the dining-table diversion see in the meeting an epochal chance to make the general public ping pong conscious. But the sponsors of the match—and they are amateurs—are serious about it. A loving cup which would do justice to the trophy table at a major golf tourney went to the winning team, and lesser cups were awarded individual winners in singles and doubles. Going the "outdoor version" of the game one better, the teams were uniformly attired. Each sextet wore blue trousers, the Chicagoans topping these with blue shirts with insignia of the Inter-fraternity Club and the New Yorkers wearing gray shirts with a "N.Y." monogram.

Three-Two Taxi Loses Out in Final by Score of 31 to 23; Other Fine Games Presented

Thrilling play was turned in by the seniors in the play-off series last night, the Panthers playing perfect ball to defeat 32 Taxi 31-23 and win the championship of the first half.

The Merchants were very lucky in defeating the Tuxis in a rough intermediate battle, 17-11. The girls played good basketball and the Comets lost a hard game to the Amazons 9-7.

The Japanese easily took the leading Scouts in a good junior game, 16-10.

Senior Game

The fans were waiting with tense excitement for the whistle to start the senior game for they knew it was to be a great battle. And they were treated to some of the fastest basketball ever staged in this city. Right from the start the ball started to zig-zag up and down the floor at a terrific rate. Close checking was prominent and the Panthers played an excellent defensive game not giving the Taxi boys the least chance to shoot. Play was very close with neither team having the edge. Wrathall, who was dead on the basket, could not get a shot due to the defense that he had to compete against. The whistle blew amid a great deal of excitement and shouting to end the first half, 10-10.

Play resumed in the second half at just as fast a clip but the Panthers used a couple of nice combination plays and scored three baskets before 32 hit their stride. However, the Taxi boys retaliated with two quick shots that brought them within safe distance again. Then both teams started to score and with but ten minutes to go the score stood 22-21 for the Panthers. Then the boys opened up and the spectators were shown what real basketball looked like. The Panthers started to use some well-timed team work and managed to get an eight-point lead over the hard-fighting 32. Then they went back on defensive play and kept the Taxi boys at bay till the final whistle blew ending the game 31-23.

It is difficult to pick individuals for the Panthers for they were all good, but for 32, Gurvich and Ratchford were easily the best.

Panthers—Macdonald (4), Mitchell (4), Cross (9), Kelsey (11), Irvine (3), McNulty.
32 Taxi—Stalker (1), Ratchford (8), Wrathall (4), Gurvich (8), V. Menzies (2), Frizzell.

Intermediate Game

This game was not dead by any means but, as far as basketball is concerned, one would think they were trying to play rugby. It is a shame that some of the boys don't get it into their heads that the day of dirty play is over. There was a real good exhibition last week between the High School and Tuxis but last night's game certainly was disappointing. The Merchants won by hard, rough play and gave the Tuxis no chance to use their floor strategy but they retaliated in the same manner. The Tuxis were away off in their shooting and were missing all the cinch shots. The intermediates are noted in this town for the good brand of basketball and it is to be sincerely hoped that there is not a repetition of last night's game.

Merchants—Currie (2), Comadina, Dingwell (2), Pierce (3), Hunt (6), Yaeger, McNulty (4).
Tuxis—R. Morrison (1), J. Morrison (4), Thurber (2), Nakamoto (4), Smith, Hanson.

Junior Game

The junior boys were as usual up to standard, the Scouts playing a good combination game against the Japs who were too fond of dribbling the ball. Although the Scouts were considerably weakened by the absence of Wilson, they found themselves on the top end of a 6-2 score for the first half.
The second half started, however, with quite a different story, for the Japs, seeing the folly of their ways, started to play combination and in a very few minutes tied the score. From then on they played far superior ball and well deserved their victory over the leading Scouts, 16-10.

Scouts—Santurbane (6), Miller, Viereck (2), Smith, Naylor (2), Lindsay.
Japanese—Obata (6), Suehiro, Kishimoto (6), Kanaya (4), Nakamoto, Condo.

Ladies' Game

The girls are improving a great deal in their basketball and it was only through bad luck in shooting that the Comets again had to buckle under the Amazons. The first half was not so good but in the second half it got very exciting. The score was tied nearly all the way through with the Comets having the edge of the play. The Amazons, however, sank a basket with two minutes to go to give them a lead of two points which they maintained till the whistle blew.

E. Morris and P. Harvey played hard for Comets while J. Ritchie and S. Boddie played well for the Amazons.

Amazons—Boddie (2), Morgan (2), Ritchie, Prichard (4), Kach, Tite (1).
Comets—Harvey (2), Steen, Morris (2), McLeod (2), B. Jack (1).
Refereeing was in the capable hands of D. Morrison, Johnson, W. Mitchell and Brick Skinner.

MOTIONS BY RATEPAYERS

opposed to any renewal of an agreement exempting this property from taxation and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the city council of the City of Prince Rupert."

Moved by H. B. Rochester, seconded by G. H. Arnold:
"That, whereas it has been stated in the press that the provincial government grants to schools will be greatly reduced for the present year, thus placing an additional burden upon municipalities,

"It is the opinion of this meeting that the Prince Rupert School Board should use the utmost economy and give the city council the maximum of assistance in its financing at a time when everything but taxes has been greatly reduced in cost; and that copies of this resolution be sent to the board of school trustees, and to the city council of the City of Prince Rupert."

Moved by G. H. Arnold, seconded by M. M. Stephens:

"That taxpayers dissatisfied with their assessments join with the members of this association in protesting against their assessment at the next sitting of the court of revision, and be informed that, if they desire, they may be represented by either M. M. Stephens or Geo. H. Arnold, or both at said court of revision, without charge, by leaving their tax notices and the necessary authority at the office of either of the above named."

Moved by M. M. Stephens, seconded by Ald. G. B. Casey:
"That, whereas taxpayers, either directly or indirectly, have to foot the bills of the municipality, and are desirous of giving assistance, whenever possible, and criticism, when necessary, of the acts of its representatives in the city council, they believe they could better assist if they were supplied with a copy of the minutes of all council meetings, and hereby instruct the secretary to ask the council to have an additional copy of the minutes of all meetings made and mailed to the secretary of the Prince Rupert Ratepayers' Association."

Officers of the First North B. C. Regiment entertained their friends at an enjoyable mess dance in the Armory last night.

Eagles' Dance Is Enjoyable

Large Crowd Present at Jolly Affair Last Night in Aerie Hall

Popularity of the jolly social dances held periodically by the Eagles' Lodge was again evinced last night when, despite the inclement weather, some 180 persons were present to enjoy the affair. Splendid music was furnished by Charles Balagno's Venetian orchestra and George Brooke was, as usual, a genial master of ceremonies. Dancing started at 9:30 p.m. and continued until 1:30 a.m. the guests being loath even then to leave.

At midnight delicious refreshments were served and confetti was then distributed with much merriment ensuing.

During the evening announcement was made of a smoker to be held on Thursday of next week. James Brown presided at the door.

Police Are Discussed

Mr. Stephens expressed the opinion that some economies might be effected if the agreement between the city and provincial police was overhauled. It should be possible to police the city for $10,000 if the agreement were a good one. Mr. Stephens did not think the provincial police should get any share of fines when a flat rate was paid by the city for policing service.

Ald. Macdonald agreed that there was a place where some economies might be effected. He did not think this was either the time or place to discuss which kind of police he preferred although he was prepared to do so at any time.

In answer to President Wesch, Ald. Macdonald expressed the opinion that a police force of three men was not adequate for the city.

A motion by William Wilson and Ald. G. B. Casey that the fine for first offence drunkenness be reduced from $25 to $10, the present heavy fine working a hardship on wives and families, failed of passage being superseded by Mr. Stephens' amendment to adjust

Scientific Study of Halibut to be Continued—To Ship Halibut Livers Again—Co-operative Marketing Discussed

A Canadian vessel will leave this coast early in the new year for the halibut banks to continue the study of that mysterious member of the fish family. "We have found out many things about the halibut during the last few years, but not half the story is so far known," says John P. Babcock, deputy commissioner of fisheries, regarded as one of the outstanding authorities on the halibut and Pacific salmon. The vessel will go to the Hecate Straits to dredge in the sea bottom for evidence to reveal the home life of Mr. and Mrs. Halibut and their families. The proposed work of the International Fisheries Commission, under which these operations will be carried on, has been the subject of a series of conferences between Mr. Babcock, W. A. Pound, federal deputy minister of fisheries, and other experts. "There is no doubt that the halibut has been seriously depleted in recent years and there is no indication that the decline has been permanently arrested," says Mr. Pound. "Our investigations, so far as they have proceeded, have given us a fairly complete knowledge of halibut on certain parts of the coast, but much work remains to be done, particularly in the southern area. It has already been demonstrated that different stocks of halibut exist in the southern area comprising Hecate Straits and water contiguous to the Queen Charlotte Islands that are distinct from the stocks found further west, and the International Commission will concentrate on that area in future."

load having arrived on Wednesday of this week. Gammon & Watt with the boats Bertha G. and Zenardi are seining for the Rupert Marine Products reduction plant, R. M. P. boats doing the packing. Gammon & Watt are also to fill a herring pound at Pearl Harbor from which fresh bait will be dispensed during the early part of the season to the halibut fleet. The herring for the start of the season are rather smaller than usual.

Returning Next Week

H. N. Brocklesby, acting director of the Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental Station, is expected back in Prince Rupert next week from a month's trip east during which he attended the annual meeting in Ottawa of the Biological Board of Canada, later visiting points on the Atlantic seaboard on official business. Mr. Brocklesby left here on Christmas Day.

Official announcement this week of the re-appointment of D. B. Finn as director of the Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental Station was received with considerable interest. Mr. Finn's many friends here will be gratified at the news of his return. While he will officially resume the post on April 1, it is understood it may be a little later than that before he actually arrives here. He is at present at Cambridge University, England, engaged in special scientific work. Mr. Finn's re-appointment was forecast in these columns several weeks ago.

The season for the hunting of geese and ducks in this district will close on January 31 next week. As usual, there has been little in the way of hunting activity during the month of January. Bad weather of late has hampered the operations of the nimrods, and at least one trip was called off during the past week on account of the boisterousness of the elements.

Halibut livers from both Canadian and American fish will again be shipped east from here during the coming season to the Abbott Laboratories at Chicago where they are to be used in medicinal preparations. Use of halibut livers in this way was experimented with last year by this concern and it appears evident that the experiments were successful. Shipment of the livers to Chicago was inaugurated last fall and will be carried out on a much larger scale this year, it is understood. The livers will again be handled by the Bacon Fisheries and will be dehydrated before being shipped east.

As a result of the visit here this week of F. J. Kwapil of the United Pacific Fisheries, Seattle, the matter of co-operative marketing of halibut is once again a very live question here. Possibly there is not the same whole-hearted enthusiasm as attended last year's efforts in this line. Yet there are still many who are hopeful of some such sort of system eventually working out for the benefit of the producers of fish. The feeling seems to be general, however, that the ground should be very sure before anything is actually again attempted. More will, doubtless, be heard of the matter. Mr. Kwapil is reported to have presented a very attractive proposition to the boat owners and fishermen while here.

TURK GIRLS GO MODERN

Things Not What They Used to Be In Land of Former Sultans

MONTREAL, Jan. 23—Turan Aziz, sole Turkish journalist on the North American continent, on a recent visit to this city said in an interview: "But yes, we have the flappers in Turkey now. We have our girls doing all that girls on this continent do. They play tennis. They also box; they dance; they go to work in the offices and put 'kohl' on the eye-lashes and use powder."

"Do they behave like the girls here, too?" he was asked. "They dance just as well," Aziz said. "But they do not smoke, and that is funny because in my country we grow the best cigarette tobacco. But still, they don't do that."

"And how do you find the girls on this continent?" "How?" he repeated. "They are very curious. Curious about me, I mean. They ask lots of questions about the harem. I tell them it was a nice place. They ask me whether the stories from 'A Thousand and One Nights' are all true and if Turkey still is like that. They are sorry when I tell them that it is not."
