Redistribution Presents Many Problems For Administration

VICTORIA, Jan. 18.—Every ten years the Dominion takes its census, and, according to the resulting showing of shifts of population, the provincial governments have to delve into the problems of redistribution. Usually, the changes are in the direction of an increase of members sent to the legislature. There has, however, been some change of mind on the part of public opinion.

Although 1921-22 was a period of deflation and commercial depression, the administration, then ruling, increased the members to 48 after considerable controversy and discussion. At present there is an outcry for economy, and there is some demand for a reduction of representation in the legislature; some suggesting that the members should be reduced by half to 24 members, and others thought a reduction to 40 members might meet the case.

The average cost of legislation in British Columbia, is, of late years, somewhere around $125,000 annually, or less than 1/2 of 1% of the total disbursements passing through the provincial treasury.

Whether this amount is considered too high or not, the purpose of representation must also be taken into account. If a member's duty is to keep himself in close contact with conditions within his constituency, so that he can place the facts clearly before the legislature when it sits, then the question of accessibility of a constituency must be taken into consideration. When it is remembered that the area of British Columbia comprises 372,630 square miles, with great concentration of population within only a few centres, and the rest only poorly developed and sparsely populated, the difficulties of doing justice to all will be apparent. Take for instance the following ridings:

Atlin	63,251 square miles.
Mackenzie	26,476 miles.
Omineca	71,251 miles.
Fort George	71,641 miles.
Cariboo	28,100 miles.
Lillooet	10,847 miles.

It is obvious that these ridings are already large, and any suggestion of merging one or the other of (Continued on Page Four)

Mayor of Tarrytown Finds Few Want Dry Law Enforced

TARRYTOWN, N.Y., Jan. 18.—Mayor Eugene H. Lehman has announced that Tarrytown would abandon its determined effort to enforce the prohibition law. The mayor said the number of people who honestly desired real enforcement was insignificant, and the number of people who did not wish it enforced was overwhelmingly large.

When Mr. Lehman, who was the principal of the Highland Manor School for Girls, became mayor last spring he announced a crusade to rid the town of gambling houses, disorderly resorts and speakeasies. Now, he says, disorderly places are gone, the gambling places reduced in number and the speakeasies much the same.

CHILDREN IN DEMAND

Supply of Institutions For Adoption Is About Exhausted

WINNIPEG, Jan. 18.—The demand for children to adopt has outrun the supply of tots and babies in Winnipeg institutions. Already many orders have been booked for the forthcoming citizens of 1932, according to Miss Mildred McMurray, head of the provincial child welfare adoption department.

Many people, said Miss McMurray, are apparently moved by an irresistible impulse to have a "little fairy in their house for Christmas." Application begin to pour in to the institutions and government departments early in November. During the past year over 1000 letters were received from residents of this province, Saskatchewan, Alberta and Ontario.

Whatever the prevailing taste of gentlemen, foster-parents continue to prefer blondes, Miss McMurray revealed. For one person indifferent to the sex or color of the child there are nine who consider nothing but a fair-haired, blue-eyed girl. Boys run a bad second. The adoption prospects of the dark-eyed mites are as dark as their coloring.

Hard times have not checked the progress of adoption but rather have spurred people in moderate circumstances to take on new responsibilities, Miss McMurray believed. For the last fiscal year there were 193 final adoptions put through by the department as against 124 in the preceding year.

Many Prisoners Seek Education

Inmates of San Quentin Penitentiary Pass University Tests

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., Jan. 18.—One-fifth of the population of San Quentin prison—1,096 men serving sentences ranging from two years to life—filed past a platform of educationalists recently and received certificates of completion of a three-months' course of university study.

More than half of the total number of prisoners are studying high school and university courses behind its gray walls and after January 1, some 4,000 were enrolled in classes that embrace everything from philosophy to arithmetic and electrical engineering.

MONEY IS EXHAUSTED

No More Funds For Relief Work Coming From Federal Government

VICTORIA, Jan. 18.—No more money will be forthcoming from Ottawa to British Columbia this winter for either provincial or municipal relief work but there has been no limit placed on federal contributions to direct relief of destitution, it was stated by Hon. J. W. Jones, provincial minister of finance, on his return from Calgary where he interviewed Premier R. B. Bennett on the relief situation.

As a result of the federal edict, resumption of neither municipal relief work or operation of government road camps may be expected this winter. The sums of $2,250,000 for relief in unorganized districts and $2,375,000 for municipalities still stand.

Mr. Jones stated that, as a result of the conference with Premier Bennett, the payment of federal debts to the province on account of unemployment relief work had been facilitated. This is not new money but merely recoups the province for expenditures already made.

Hub of Okanagan To Prince Rupert

Editor of Paper Converses Direct, and Tells of Conditions There

The editor of the Daily News on Saturday had a call by radiophone from R. J. McDougall, editor and proprietor of the Penticton Herald. He phoned to inquire how things were in Prince Rupert and to renew a former acquaintanceship of years ago.

Mr. McDougall said that Penticton, the largest town in the Okanagan, with a population of 4,600, was not as badly hit as most places. The apple crop last year was fair and the prices for soft fruits were pretty good. The result was that the town was in fair shape financially.

STRIKING NEW YEAR CARD

The most striking New Year card received this year came from the advertising firm of R. C. Smith & Son of Toronto. It is a small folder enclosing a sprig of heather and a call to Canadians to "Awake to the Possibilities of Inter-Empire trade." It is pointed out that the various sections of the Empire imported eleven billion dollars of merchandise and of that Canada supplied only 2.9 per cent. The frontispiece contains a picture of Miss Canada holding a roll of her products and a cablegram from Britannia to her reads: "Happy New Year daughter. All Empire awaiting family reunion at Ottawa. Will make 1932 beginning of new era of prosperity for you all."

SIZE OF NEW LEGISLATURE

It will be the duty of the present legislature to decide on the number of members that will constitute the legislature for the next ten years. Just now there are 48 seats which means that 48 members have to draw indemnities of $2,000 each. In addition to that each member is a considerable additional expense to the province in providing for his needs in the house.

One other province, New Brunswick, has the same number of members but they are paid only $1,000 each though they charge travelling expenses. Nova Scotia has 41 members at $1,000 each; Prince Edward Island, 30 at $400 each; Quebec, 85 at $2,500 each; Ontario, 112 at $2,000 each; Manitoba, 55 at $1,500 each; Saskatchewan, 63 members at $2,000 each, and Alberta, 63 at $2,000 each and travelling expenses.

If the present government can cut down the number of members without itself being dismembered, it will have done a service to the community. We are undoubtedly over-governed but it is difficult for a member to properly look after the needs of a huge constituency such as that of the federal member for Skeena. It takes him many weeks to travel over it and the cost of doing so is considerable. If the provincial constituencies were as large as that, none but a rich man could represent them unless travelling costs were paid.

WHICH WAS THE WORST?

It has been stated over and over again that this is the worst depression that the world has ever experienced, says the Edmonton Journal. The veteran financial editor of the New York Times, Alexander D. Noyes, sharply challenged that view in his New Year's review. What he knows of past depressions through personal experience he has supplemented through a lifetime's study of economic history.

The memories of only a few of his readers go back to collapses that occurred prior to those of 1920 and 1907. Mr. Noyes says that he is well aware that both of these had less serious effects than that from the aftermath of which we are still suffering. But he is certain that things are not as bad now as they were after 1893 and 1873. He recalls that the three years prior to 1896 witnessed complete paralysis of American trade; imminent insolvency of the United States government; its rescue, by barely the margin of a day, from lapse to a depreciated silver standard; receiverships for one-fourth of the country's railway mileage; nation-wide strikes of employees, sometimes amounting to industrial insurrection, and almost entire prostration of the national banking system. Wall Street itself, we are told, used to say in those days that America "has no financial future." Following the panic of 1873 a fifth of the investment in American railways was lost through foreclosure sales, the bank failures were numerous and disastrous and the struggle between capital and labor reached the stage of bloodshed.

Mr. Noyes poured ridicule on the "new era" talk that was heard in 1928 and 1929. Those indulging in it claimed that fundamental conditions had so changed that there could never be another depression and he kept warning them of the folly of any such assumption. Now he is using much the same language regarding statements that our economic system has gone to pieces and cannot possibly recover. He finds that present events are following much the usual course as after previous great crashes. But this does not mean that everything will be as it was previously when confidence reasserts itself. It is, he declares, "a perfectly well known economic fact that the character of economic history and the working of economic machinery have never been exactly the same after a great panic and a period of profound depression as they were before."

There is plenty of evidence that the lessons which such experiences should impress are being better learned now than they were under similar conditions in the past and that more determination will be manifested to prevent repetition of the loss and suffering of the past two years.

'Life' Is Science Service Subject For Yesterday

The subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday was "Life." Among the Bible texts included in the lesson-sermon was the following from II Timothy 1:10: "But is now made manifest by the appearing of our Savior Jesus Christ, who hath abolished death, and hath brought life and immortality to light through the gospel."

The lesson-sermon also included the reading of citations from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, one passage being as follows: "Jesus could give his temporal life into his enemies' hands; but when his earth-mission was accomplished, his spiritual life, indestructible and eternal, was found forever the same. He knew that matter had no life and that real Life is God; therefore he could no more be separated from his spiritual life than God could be extinguished."

Prince Rupert

THE FRONT DOOR OF THE PEACE RIVER COUNTRY

Economy is the keynote of all activities today. No money is expended unless it is looked upon as an absolute necessity.

It is at a time like this when the advantages of the Pacific outlet to the sea should be recognized by all Canadians. It is the hope of a very large section of the country, particularly of that new and rapidly growing young empire through which the Peace River flows.

PRINCE RUPERT WAS BUILT TO BE THE WESTERN OUTLET

the logical point from which the grain of the Peace should be shipped. There are other points which might be made available but the railway is already built into Prince Rupert from Edmonton by the best grade of any line on the continent. The port is already here and a fine elevator ready to receive the grain. No expense is necessary except for the piece of railway connecting the existing Peace River railways with the main line of the Canadian National at some point between Hansard and the coast. With that operated jointly by the two big railway companies and with the C. P. R. granted suitable running privileges over the C. N. R. to enable them to do business on an equality with their competitor, the business of hauling grain to the Pacific by the best possible route can commence.

While this is a time when strictest economy is being practised everywhere, it is a time when the employment of labor in a large way is eminently desirable. Men are out of work and must be fed. The reasonable thing would be to set them to work on big undertakings of a productive nature and this Peace River Pacific outlet is one that lends itself to the purpose, especially if one of the longer and more economical routes such as that to Hazelton should be adopted.

SETTLERS ARE STILL POURING INTO THE PEACE COUNTRY

The towns are growing into cities and the villages into towns. The people are a unit in demanding a western outlet and they have adopted the Prince Rupert attitude which is that it be built by the most feasible route to the coast.

The location of this route means everything to the country. If it should be built south instead of west and should go by a tortuous route with mountain grades instead of by way of a perfect water grade to the sea, it would mean that high freight rates would be set to enable the railways to earn dividends under the difficult circumstances. A case in point is that of the C. P. R. which was built through the difficult Kicking Horse Pass and as a result of which a mountain differential had to be established.

It would be little short of a crime to place a permanent embargo on all western shipments from the Peace River country, especially at a time when people are looking for the most economical way of carrying on the business of the country and enabling the farmers to compete with grain growers in other countries to the best advantage. The interests of the grain growers should be paramount. Any line that is built should be for the purpose of serving them and not to advantage any particular port or district.

PRINCE RUPERT IS THE PORT OF THE WESTERN ROUTE

for the products of Northern Alberta and British Columbia. The port has one of the finest harbors in the world, open all the year round and easily accessible from the ocean. It has one of the most up-to-date elevators suited for terminal shipping purposes. It has docks suited for deep sea shipping, a large dry dock and shipyard and other conveniences that go to the making of a port, such as a quarantine station, wireless and radio telephone stations. Nothing is lacking. The port is ready for business, the railway is ready to carry the grain and all that is needed is the western connection with it from the Peace country.

It would seem the part of statesmanship for any government to enable such modern facilities to be used for the benefit of the Peace River farmers and at the same time to provide employment for that army of men who today are clamoring for honest jobs to enable them to live as decent citizens of Canada.

ORIGIN OF BIG BANK

Old Bill Recalls Inception of Royal Bank of Canada

HALIFAX, Jan. 18.—It was a $20 bill, dated October 1, 1864, of doubtful status.

Two banks had cleared it without knowing quite what it was worth, if anything, who was responsible for its existence, who was responsible for its payment.

There the accountants gathered around it this week. They admired the old fashioned ship—half steamer, half sailing vessel—that was set off in an oval at the top; they wondered what had become of "The Merchants' Bank" it purported to represent; they pondered over the signatures: "J. W. Merkel, president—George Maclean, cashier."

So the strange note was referred to C. E. Mackenzie, supervisor of Maritime branches, for a decision on its value.

Promptly, Mr. Mackenzie decided its value was exactly $20, that the obligation was the Royal Bank's. He proceeded to tell a story that might have been something like this:

The Merchants' Bank was the bank from which the Royal Bank of Canada grew to a sturdy oak of international proportions. It had its origin back in the days when the American Civil War was at its height, when the northern states of the union offered a market for all kinds of produce, when blockade runners carrying on trade with the southern confederacy swarmed in the port of Halifax, when business houses reaped huge profits and the city was in its heyday of prosperity.

New business ventures were the fashion, and among those recorded in Halifax newspapers of that time was The Merchants' Bank, which opened its doors to the public on May 2, 1864, with J. W. Merkel as president, George Maclean as cashier, Edward Kenny (later Sir Edward Kenny), T. C. Kinnear, John Duffus, William Cunard, (son of Samuel Cunard), John Tobin, founder of Tobin and Company, George P. Mitchell and Jeremiah Northup, directors. Prominent names, those were at the times and some of them are carried on by citizens of Halifax today.

Thus G. McGregor, Mitchell of Halifax, now a director of the Royal Bank, is a grandson of George P. Mitchell; J. Newwood, Duffus, a grandson of John Duffus; Andrew Merkel is a grandson of J. W. Merkel; and J. B. Kenny, K.C., ex-mayor of Halifax, is a grandson of Sir Edward Kenny. Miss Muriel Kinnear, who recently was transferred from the Dominion Archives office in Halifax to Ottawa, is a grand-daughter of T. C. Kinnear. The firm prospered. In 1867, under the British North America Act, the new parliament of Canada was given exclusive jurisdiction over all matter pertaining to banking. Full banking privileges were not permitted to co-partnership associations, so the directors of the Merchants' Bank applied for a charter, and an act incorporating the Merchant's Bank of Halifax received royal assent on June 23, 1869, with an authorized capital of $1,000,000.

T. C. Kinnear was elected president, and the bank expanded rapidly. Branches were established in various parts of Nova Scotia. In 1870 Thomas E. Kenny, son of one of the original directors, was elected president to succeed Mr. Kinnear. Further expansion was undertaken, and in 1901, with branches in Canada from coast to coast in Newfoundland, in Cuba, and an agency in New York, the institution had become international in its scope and it was decided that a more comprehensive title should be adopted in accord with its position. In that year the name was changed to The Royal Bank of Canada which in later years extended its business to England, France, Spain, Bahamas, South America, Panama and counted nearly 900 branches.

Because official records dated the birth of the Royal Bank of Canada 1869, the year the Merchants' Bank of Halifax was incorporated, the accountants did not know about the co-partnership association that had been established in 1864.

Old Ship Portrayed Mr. Mackenzie might have added that the ship portrayed on the old bill was Sir Samuel Cunard's Britannia, which left Liverpool on July 4, 1840, for Halifax, N.S., Mass. initiating the original bi-weekly service of the Cunard line. The arrival of the Britannia at Boston on July 18 was the signal for one of the greatest demonstrations in the history of the port.

But that is another story. There is more than history attached to the $20 bill, for it is one of many old bank notes that have turned up in the clearings during the last few weeks.

Bundles recently cleared from Louisburg contained $600 in old bills, representing the Merchants' Bank of Halifax, absorbed by the Royal Bank of Canada in 1910.

People's Bank of Halifax and Bank of British North America, absorbed by the Bank of Halifax and Bank of British North America, absorbed by the Bank of Montreal in 1905 and 1913, respectively; Merchants' Bank of Prince Edward Island, taken over by the Canadian Bank of Commerce in 1906. They were all good, and the Gabarus lady who deposited them was paid dollar for dollar in modern currency.

Halifax paper compared press despatches from Boston, announcing that a score of private and state banks had closed their doors and from Halifax, telling about the honoring of time-worn bills of early banks, to illustrate the difference between the banking systems of Canada and United States. And a banker figured that if the owner of the belated Merchants' Bank bill had deposited it in a bank instead of keeping it in his stocking he would have had more than $150.00 today instead of $20.

Delayed by snowstorms in Alaska waters, C.P.R. steamer Princess Mary, Capt. S. K. Gray, arrived in port at 1 o'clock this morning from Skagway and other northern points and sailed about 30 hour later for Vancouver. The vessel will call here on Wednesday of next week on her next Alaska voyage.

Owing to the steamer Princess Mary, on which the visitors were arriving, being late, Rev. Paul Mathers and party of natives from Metlakatla, Alaska, did not participate, as planned, in evening service at St. Andrew's Anglican Cathedral here yesterday. The party arrived early this morning on the Princess Mary from the north and from here will proceed to Metlakatla and Kitkatla with a view to effecting a reconciliation of various groups making up the Tsimpsian tribe.

There were 38 passengers aboard the steamer Princess Mary which was in port early this morning southbound from Skagway to Vancouver. Ten persons disembarked here from the vessel including the Indian party from Metlakatla, Alaska, which will visit Metlakatla and Kitkatla in this district.

Large numbers of Prince Rupert people were conversing with Vancouver people over the weekend by means of the radiophone but the longest call recorded so far was one put through this morning by Mrs. G. W. Dunn, 132 5th Ave. East, to friends in Rossland. She said she could hear them well but her voice was not quite as clear as the other end, owing, it was thought, to a snowstorm prevailing there.

SPORT NOTES

Branding promoters and professional athletes as "leaches" and "sucker hunters," Rev. J. Richmond Craig, uttered a scathing denunciation of the whole field of professional sports in a sermon at Grace United Church in Winnipeg recently. "Prize fighting is the most disgraceful and the greatest graft of modern times," said the pastor. "It is no longer sport. There is no element of athletic chance. It is a pure organized steal of the lowest kind. Only last week," the speaker continued, "over 5,000 unemployed men were given a free New Year's dinner in the face of that and in the face of our depression a dead-beat prize-fighter can come into Winnipeg and take away more money than would feed all these men."

The minister deplored the practice of a Winnipeg newspaper of giving publicity to a bridge tournament. The bridge players were two of the greatest "sucker-hunters" in the world, he said. "Only a few days ago," he said, "I was shocked to see a picture of an editor of one of our papers in Winnipeg standing beside a prizefighter." Mr. Craig believed that sport in the Old Country was on a much higher plane than it was in this country. He declared that professional sport here was neither sporting nor athletic in principle or in practice.

LINING UP OF SEATS

them with another constituency would immediately raise the cry of injustice because of the very large territory which a member will have to traverse to keep in touch with conditions. Travelling expenses might have to be provided by the country, as is already done in some other provinces, and when that is done the object for which a reduction of members is being considered will have been defeated, because what is saved in the sessional indemnity will be spent in travelling allowances.

Cut Down Cities

On the other hand, it has been suggested that the larger cities now represented by several members each might without difficulty, so far as being able to keep in contact with conditions is concerned, have the number of their representation reduced. It is true enough that the big city members will have no difficulty in keeping in touch with the voters, but the cities can claim that the urban population in the two cities of Victoria and Vancouver alone represent more than 50% of the population of the province, and that they contribute probably three-quarters of the revenue, and therefore their interests should not be allowed to suffer through insufficient representation. The government is therefore against a complex problem, and potentialities for development in the future but are at present peopled by scattered settlements and the urban constituencies of very small in area, are thinly populated and contribute but a small revenue of the province. The government will have to strike a balance, and endeavor to be fair to all sections of the country, in this respect it may be as well to how other provinces in Canada represented. It might be noted according to the latest census figures British Columbia's population has increased to 669,000.

WHAT A RECORD!

Canada's phenomenal and truly record growth since the beginning of the century has raised her from ninth place among the trade nations of the world to fourth place—an unparalleled record of industrial growth. Her exports have increased by almost 700%, her population by 90%, and manufacturing production some 800% during the three decades just past. The per capita railway mileage of Canada is the greatest in the world.

The RECORD SPEAKS for ITSELF

The growth in popularity of Turret Cigarettes has been as phenomenal and as outstanding as Canada's growth in industry and population. Quality alone is responsible for this marked preference on the part of all lovers of good Virginia cigarettes in Canada. After all, nothing can replace good, honest tobacco; grown and ripened right out in the field under nature's own sunlight—nothing artificial about that—and the high quality is "inbred".

To End RESTLESS, TOSSING SLEEPLESS NIGHTS

Ovaltine is widely used in hospitals and nursing homes, not only for sleeplessness but for building up the health and strength of convalescents, for expectant and nursing mothers, and for aged folk who need extra nourishment. It is also widely used as a family beverage where there are growing children—at meals, between meals and at bedtime.

OVALTINE RUSKS
For firm teeth and healthy gums eat Ovaltine Rusks. They combine Canadian wheat flour and Ovaltine granules, and offer a much higher food value than ordinary rusks or biscuits.

Ovaltine is sold at all good stores, in 50c, 75c, $1.25 and special 14.50 family size tins; also served at soda fountains.

Cheapest Way of Reaching the People

The cheapest way of reaching practically all the people of Prince Rupert and district is by means of the classified columns of the Daily News.

Nearly everyone has something they could turn into cash through the "For Sale" column. Perhaps they have a house to rent. Here is the chance. Spend 50c on a classified advertisement and secure a tenant rather than have it idle.

If a girl wishes a position or a housewife wishes help, the best means of getting supplied is through a want ad.

Dressmakers sometimes want work; small storekeepers want to move their goods; or maybe you need an article that has been used rather than pay the price for new. Give the Daily News classified columns a trial. Many have been very pleased at the result.

BANCROFT FEATURED

"Rich Man's Folly," current attraction at the Capitol Theatre featuring the ever popular and virile George Bancroft, is a story of intriguing interest. Bancroft plays the part of an ambitious money-grabbing shipbuilder who stifles all his gentler qualities for money and a mad ambition.

It is the kind of a part in which Bancroft excels. He virtually lives the part of hard-fisted domineering man. He has the experience and talent technique to interpret the role splendidly indeed.

The picture is filled with incidents with the clash and clang of a great shipbuilding plant and its thousands of workers. It is a great industrial epic in which photography as well as the players has an important role.

In the cast, besides Bancroft, are many screen favorites whom the fans love to see including Frances Dee, Robert Ames, Juliette Compton, David Durand and others.
