DAILY EDITION Thursday, Feb. 25, 1932

AGAINST P. G. E. SCHEME

The railway engineers' report on the Peace-Coast outlet, tabled in the House at Ottawa the other day, will come as a surprise to nobody, says the Vancouver Province in a recent editorial article. It says, in brief, "not justified at present." If we said also that it would not satisfy anybody, that would not be to say that it was the wrong report. There could be few schemes of large-scale railway extension in Canada these days that would be likely to commend themselves as sound business, and what is not sound business these days is not likely to be practical politics. So, if we say that this report, adverse to the immediate prospects of a Peace-Coast outlet, will neither surprise nor satisfy anybody, that is only another way of saying that the Peace River-railway project, along with many other desirable projects, has got to mark time.

That marking time is inevitable in this business can hardly be gainsaid, but certainly it will save much lost motion and energy if the fact is recognized. This report is the result of the joint survey undertaken by the two transcontinental railway companies and the Tolmie government, and it is signed by the chief engineers of the railways and by J. R. Crysdales for the Tolmie government. It says that no western outlet is justified in the present general condition of Canadian business, because the existing railway furnishes the most economical route. It says also that it will take many times the existing traffic to justify another outlet. And it concludes that, by the time the volume of Peace Valley traffic reaches a point where the construction of a new coast outlet would be justified, all the relevant conditions may have materially changed.

What does this mean? It means, unless we are greatly mistaken, that neither the Canadian National nor the Canadian Pacific, and neither separately nor jointly, will touch the coast outlet project until times are better. It means, in consequence, and it should so mean, that what can not be practically considered by the principal Canadian railway companies as a sound business venture can not be considered as good public policy by any Canadian government. And it means most likely that we had better allow a considerable discount, for some time to come, from any of those frequent stories we are hearing about the completion of our own Pacific Great Eastern into the country of the Peace.

There is no great comfort in all this, but neither is there reason for unrelieved gloom. It does not mean that there is to be no development of the great potential grain areas of the Peace, and it does not mean that some day the stream of Peace wheat will not flow down by its most natural channel to its most natural outlet on the coast. It simply means what it says: "Not justified at present."

COAL MINE IS VISITED

Judge H. A. Robertson Investigates Telkwa Colliery and Sees Much of Interest

SMITHERS, Feb. 24.—While in Smithers last week, holding his regular monthly sittings of the County Court, relieving Judge Young who is absent on sick leave, Judge Robertson of Prince George accepted an opportunity of seeing for himself the Bulkley Valley Coal Mines, the only coal mine in Central British Columbia now in active operation.

The first striking thing on the trip was the condition of the road leading from Telkwa to the mine, seven miles distant. Slipping smoothly along at forty miles an hour in a high powered automobile in the middle of February struck Judge Robertson as being very different indeed from the time when he "mushed" on snowshoes over the "Trail of Ninety-eight" on the most spectacular mining expedition the world has ever known. The mine road is in the very best of condition and roads in the Bulkley Valley district are the best winter roads that the district has ever known.

Although seven miles from the railway at Telkwa the mine is in the valley of Goat Creek, a tributary of the Telkwa River, and the ascent from the railway level is so gradual that one does not realize that he has climbed at all. The good road and easy grade have been of great benefit to the operators of the mine in getting their product to the railway track at minimum cost for truck hauling.

On arrival at the mine Judge Robertson was conducted by Frank M. Dockrill, the operator, through the mine in person. The camp buildings and bunkers are on the flat valley floor beside Goat Creek, along which excellent saw timber gave plenty of building material right on the ground. In constructing the present buildings in the fall of 1930 the method followed was to take in a portable sawmill, owned by Van Horn and Sons of Telkwa, and cut the material at the mine.

Near Original Discovery
The mine workings on the face of a steep hillside rising from the bank of the creek are close to the spot where in 1898 the outcropping of this 14-foot seam led to the first discovery of coal in the district. The coal measures were taken up and exploratory work one at that time but passed into the hands of Ontario capital who have made no attempt to operate themselves. It was only a year and a half ago, when Frank M. Dockrill obtained a working lease, that this seam was first actually mined. In the short time that he has been operating Mr. Dockrill has accomplished a very great deal and Central British Columbia owes much to him for the establishment of this new industry when so little other mining is being done.

Two slopes are run into the hillside from the level of the top of the bunkers, about 30 feet above the valley level. These two slopes follow down the dip of the measures on an easy gradient, and are connected at the No. 1 level run about two hundred and fifty feet from their portals. Chambers off this level are being mined for the coal now being produced. Horse-drawn cars haul the coal to the bunkers, where it is screened over two screens and then dropped directly into one of the three great bins from which the trucks are loaded.

All of the workings are in coal and it is not found necessary to take out any material but the clean coal, owing to the fact that the seam is of almost uniform width of between thirteen and fourteen feet, all clean coal except for an inch-wide parting of shale in the middle of the seam. It is not found advisable to mine more than the lower nine or ten feet of the seam, so as one walks through the mine-workings one is struck by the fact that walls, floor and roof are all in coal. The workings are dry though some moisture comes from the coal and it is necessary to have a pump in the lower levels, to which the water drains by gravity and is pumped to the surface by a hand-pump.

Makes Investigation
During the judge's visit to the mine, he spent an hour underground making a thorough investigation. He was shown the removal of a pillar which supported a weak spot in the roof of one of the chambers from which the coal was being mined. A gradual settling down of roof coal brings extreme pressure on the wooden supports until they creak and groan as if in pain like a human being. When the supporting pillar was knocked out by the miners a huge block of coal weighing two or three tons dropped from the roof.

Mining and shipment of coal is going steadily ahead under Mr. Dockrill's personal direction. Not only are Smithers and Telkwa supplied by direct truck-hauling but carload shipments to points along the railway from Prince George to Prince Rupert supply a growing market as the high heating qualities of the coal become better known. It is the highest in B.T.U.'s—13,900—of any coal now being marketed in Western Canada and Bulkley Valley folks are justly proud of their Bulkley Valley Coal Mine.

standing, and we continue to carry on our work in connection with the Prince Rupert Sea Cadet Corps, Captain Cook, and Lieutenant R. Blance, who continues in charge of this work, is still enthusiastic and gives freely of his time, and the members of the Sea Cadet Corps, as well as the Prince Rupert Branch of the Navy League of Canada, very much appreciate his efforts in this branch of our work.

"We very much miss the usual allowance from the Department of National Defense towards the expenses in connection with our Sea Cadet Corps, and our tag day collections suffered by nearly fifty percent owing, we believe, to the present hard times.

"The present strength of the Sea Cadet Corps consists of 26 Cadets on the roll. The fact that this is 14 less than last year is explained by the boys entering High School and not being able to attend the drills and meetings. The boys take a keen interest in their work, and 21 attended camp at Terrace, B.C., which is located about 96 miles from this city on the Canadian National Railway line. They had a very successful time, which was enjoyed by all, and they created a favorable impression at Terrace where the people stated that they would like to see them again.

"A series of parties have been held during the past winter to which the Cadets invited their girl friends. These very successful affairs were organized by Mr. and Mrs. Young, whose work in this connection is very much appreciated.

Cadet Lieutenant W. Fidler, who received his appointment as Sub-Lieutenant in this Corps during the past year, was selected by the Navy Department to make the West Indies cruise on the H.M.C.S. "Skeena," through his membership in the R.C.N.V.R. We consider this selection a compliment to our Sea Cadet Corps.

"A very good report was received from Admiral Storey after his annual inspection of the Sea Cadets.

"In conclusion, I wish to tender Lieutenant W. Hume, Commanding Officer of the Prince Rupert Unit of the R.C.N.V.R., the very best thanks of the Prince Rupert Branch of the Navy League of Canada for the use of their quarters and officers' mess during the past year; to the members of the executive committee, and to any others who have helped in any way this branch of the Navy League. I wish particularly to thank Mr. and Mrs. Young for their assistance in connection with the Sea Cadet Corps.

"Mr. Young continues to be in charge of the actual training of the boys, and Mrs. Young is always available and willing to help on all social occasions."

"How do they do it?"

Among your friends there's sure to be at least one smart young married couple who are the envy and admiration of all who know them.

With an income that is frankly abbreviated, and with no benevolent Aunts in the offing, they still have a home that is correct and comfortable in all its appointments, a home that is admired and copied by their friends.

"Yes, Jane is a remarkable little manager," will probably be the young husband's proud answer. And there is little doubt about it.

THEY DO IT THIS WAY

Take a look around that home and you will find no end of well known advertised products. For Jane is an efficient little manager. She can't afford to take chances that must only be debited to "Experience." When she buys for her home she must get tried and tested and trusted products which carry an honorable name to guarantee her satisfaction.

You will find that Jane is a consistent reader of the advertisements. Are you?

The Daily News welcomes correspondence on live topics of the day or any other subject of public interest, but letters must be brief and to the point. The long-winded correspondent has no place in modern journalism.
Every letter must be signed by the writer, not necessarily for publication but as a matter of good faith and courtesy. All unsigned documents go to the waste paper basket. Letters of a caustic character must have the signature appended for publication.
Letter should be written on one side of the paper only. Correspondents must avoid personalities and the language should be such as would be allowed in the ordinary rules of debate.

Indigestion

When chronic, is best relieved by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

In most cases, indigestion results from torpid liver and sluggish bowel action. Tablets for the stomach and aids to digestion fail in this chronic form of indigestion. You must get the filtering and excretory organs right before you can expect permanent relief and this is best accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.
Chronic indigestion is a very common condition. On this account many suffer for years not realizing that relief is at hand in the form of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Headaches, biliousness, spells of constipation and diarrhoea are among the accompanying ailments. What a relief it would be to be free of this condition which makes one feel so miserable and it is so easy by using this well-known regulator of the liver, kidneys and bowels.

CONTROL OF LOCAL FIRM PURCHASED

C. G. Minns Takes Over Interests of Late H. S. Wallace in Departmental Store

Following the demise of the senior partner in the firm of H. S. Wallace & Co. Ltd. the total outstanding interests in the company have been purchased by C. G. Minns of Prince Rupert, who will continue to operate the big departmental store at the corner of Third Avenue and Fulton Street.

Mr. Minns has managed the business since 1918 but up to the present time has held only a minority interest in it. He is now in complete control.

To start with, Mr. Minns is putting on a business readjustment sale at which he promises some wonderful values. During the time the business has been in the hands of the executors the management has been handicapped in not being allowed to make extensive purchases. Now orders are being placed for new goods and by the time the sale is over a complete new stock will be on hand.

With the business now in local control a progressive policy is promised.

Scottish Travel On Sunday Is Now Different

LONDON, Feb. 25.—The attitude of Scotland towards travel on "the Sabbath" has completely changed in recent years, according to the General Manager of the Glasgow Transport Department. The majority of the citizens see the day "well aired" before starting their travels. A few years ago the traffic was negligible after 9 p.m., whereas now it is heaviest after that hour. Tram and bus services run in the forenoon for church-goers have never paid, and never will pay.

The system of one-cent fares has not proved of great service to the working classes, but is used by business men and others moving about the centre of the city. The withdrawal of one-cent fares would result in the reduction of the number of passengers, but would likely produce additional revenue.

NEW ACTOR IS WINNER

It is no slur on either Claudette Colbert, that charming brunette actress, or Gary Cooper, the strong silent hero, to say that the show in "His Woman," mid-week offering at the Capitol Theatre, is stolen from both of them by a real newcomer to the screen in the person of Mr. Richard Spiro. Mr. Spiro is dimpled and beautiful. His enunciation may not be so good but his gurgles and even his howls are utterly charming. He is just nine months old.

The story of "His Woman" concerns a sea captain who, while going ashore at a foreign port, finds a baby floating in the water. He decides to adopt the infant and searches for a woman to take care of it. A girl, who has anything but a good reputation in the town, applies for the job and the captain, believing her to be decent and competent, takes her on. The captain and the girl fall in love but, when he finds out about her past, he tries to forget her. Several melodramatic events ensue and finally, because of the baby, the captain and the girl forgive each other and marry.

Miss Colbert plays the part of the girl and Cooper, the captain. Both acquit themselves with credit.
