STRIKES OF RICH GOLD ORE IS MADE IN WESTERN ALASKA

United States Chief Executive Would Cut Arms of Whole World By One-Third; Issues Statement

Announcement Came Suddenly and Dramatically Before Small Group of Newspapermen at Washington Today—Abolition of Many Horrors of Modern Warfare Advocated

Proposals Are Too Drastic To Suit Republic of France

That Nation Presents Suggestions Regarding Aviation Curtailment and Would Abolish Aerial and Chemical Warfare Generally—Canadian Views Expressed

WASHINGTON, D.C., June 22.—President Herbert Clark Hoover, in a sudden and dramatic announcement at the White House today, proposed principles for reducing the arms of the entire world by nearly one-third. With Secretary of State Stimson at his side, the President read to a small group of newspapermen a statement saying: "The time has come when we should cut through the brush and adopt arms reductions calculated to save between ten and fifteen billion dollars during the next ten years."

President Hoover proposed: Abolition of all tanks, chemical warfare and large mobile guns. Reduction of one-third in the strength of all land armies over and above the "so-called police component." Abolition of all bombing planes and total prohibition of all bombardment from the air. Reduction in the treaty number and tonnage of all battleships by a third, aircraft carriers, cruisers and destroyers by a fourth and submarines by a third with no nation having more than 35,000 tons of submersibles.

PROPOSALS BY FRANCE
GENEVA, June 22.—France today presented sweeping proposals in regard to civil and military aviation to the air committee of the world disarmament conference. These embraced internationalization of commercial and transport planes and the placing of military machines over a designated size under control of the League of Nations. Dr. W. A. Riddell, Canadian delegate, declared that Canada was not convinced that internationalization of civil aviation would provide any greater security than was furnished by the present draft convention. Canada's civil air activities, he stressed, were intimately connected with settlement and development of new country. The French proposals included absolute prohibition of aerial, chemical, bacterial and incendiary warfare and prohibition of aerial bombardment except over fields of battle, air bases and long range artillery emplacements.

DEFENDS NATIONAL RAILWAY

The Winnipeg Free Press has been publishing a series of editorial articles in defence of the Canadian National Railway. Following is from one of them:

"The fact that, in the face of the intention of the Liberal members to make a minority finding, the majority members of the special parliamentary committee on railways so far moderated their purposes as to consent to findings which commanded unanimity, does not in the least counteract the highly unfavorable impression which the performance of the majority members has made on the public mind. The proceedings of the committee constituted an exposure of malignant partisan minds intent upon gratifying personal and political hatreds without regard to the injury that might be done to a great national institution. That these attacks were made under a transparent disguise of alleged regard to the public interest added hypocrisy to the other repellent features of the inquiry. The men who stand most clearly revealed are Dr. McGibbon, M.P. for Muskoka, and F. R. MacMillan, M.P. for Saskatchewan—two men who were known to be afflicted with a form of anti-Canadian National rabies, and were therefore put on the committee in order that they might, under the influence of their obsession, do the dirty work that would be repellent to minds not so afflicted. Then the chairmanship was bestowed on R. B. Hanson, M.P. for York-Sunbury, who considered himself appointed—as perhaps he was—to play the part of a bullying prosecuting attorney. A conspicuous member of the committee was Dr. Manion, Minister of Railways, who certainly did nothing to restrain the trio of inquisitors and occasionally took a hand in the game himself.

"Naturally, Dr. Manion's tactics in filling the public mind with gloom because it is so unfortunate as to be cursed with the ownership of the greatest railway in the world, meets with the enthusiastic approval of the Financial Post of Toronto, which we take as typically representative of dominant financial opinion in Montreal and Toronto. It said in a recent issue that the people of Canada are going to school to Dr. Manion and are for the first time getting instruction from a minister of railways on the reality of the railway situation. It is the common purpose of Dr. Manion and the interests for which the Post speaks to encourage the people to believe that there is nothing to show for the railway expenditures of the past ten years and that the railway situation is now just what it was in 1922, except that it has been worsened by an increase in the indebtedness. That is a most dishonest presentation of the case. The increase in indebtedness is something over four hundred million dollars—not a billion dollars as assailants of the Canadian National Railways put it—and in return for it the country has a real railway, not a fortuitous assortment of railway junk. It has a railway which in 1928 did what the knoockers said could never be done. It paid its way, as it would again if there was traffic in the country to be moved. Does Dr. Manion in his gloomy dissertations upon the terrible plight in which the country has got itself, because it owns a railway, ever think to tell the people that in 1928 this railway earned about 85 percent of the joint earnings of both railway systems in 1931? A simple statement of fact like that would serve to satisfy the people that they were not a lot of fools to put their money into a railway, and that the present misfortunes of the road are but part of a universal collapse of business.

"What is the purpose of this insidious, persistent, far-fung campaign? It is to make the people sick of their investment in the railway and to induce in their minds a hope that some organization will come along and relieve them of the burden. The nature of the game, the end to which it is being played, and the identity of the promoters of the enterprise are open to inspection by those who have eyes to see. In that fact there is a reasonable assurance that the conspiracy will fail."

I took three boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and felt much better, and now I would not be without them in the house."

Week-End at Southend Gives
Barrel of Fun to Londoner;
Lively Trip Start to Finish

(By Sid Webb)

Probably you have never heard of Southend-on-Sea, England's home of the delectable shell fish known as the "cockle" and a close relative of Prince Rupert's delicious clam, but that fact need not deter you from reading on. This seaside resort, situated at the mouth of the River Thames, some 35 miles from London, is the rollicking summer playground of "Mr. and Mrs. London" and the family and is easily reached by rail, motor coach and river steamboat. The cost of the return journey is around $1.25 while living costs are very reasonable, hence the lure of the sea to the city workers. More especially at the week-ends do the "natives" hit the Southend trail to revel in the balmy sea breezes and disport themselves at every conceivable vantage point on the broad beach and esplanade. It is then that "King Cockle" comes into his own, served all nice and juicy and blended with vinegar by the white coated "cockle trawlers" who hand them out at 2c a plate—no extra charge for the vinegar. It is a dire transgression of etiquette to fail to gorge a few cockles—in fact it is tantamount to going to Terrace in the strawberry season and eating dirt.

Let's Go!

In imagination accompany the writer from Fleet Street, in the heart of London's city, to Southend. It is 1 o'clock on a Saturday afternoon, the sun is shining invitingly and the business cares of the week have had the doors slammed on them for a few hours. We jump on a bus at Ludgate Circus and a "penorth" takes us to Fenchurch Street Station. In about 15 minutes, having threaded our way past the Bank of England and up Cornhill, we take our stand in the queue for our tickets. Wending our way upstairs we follow the crowd to the platform amid the clamor of happy folks and kiddies, the latter playing a tattoo upon their sand-buckets with the inevitable sharp edged sand spade. A dig or two in the nether regions with a spade or, perhaps, some sweet young lady's parasol, only adds zest to the venture.

We finally pack ourselves into one of the many trains which leave every few minutes, the guard (conductor) blows his whistle and off we go. Believe me folks the "old bus" can sure travel and soon we are sliding over the sleepers like hot butter down a bell rope. On the fast trains only one or two stops are made enroute and, at spots, we hit up 60 miles per hour. On the way south we pass through Dagenham, the British home of the new Henry Ford motor works. Some three years ago the place was only a little country village but has since grown up to "man's estate" with the erection of a monster factory plus hundreds of workmen's dwellings. It is said that the town is now alive with squirrels which come to pick up the "nuts."

Just before pulling into Southend, we stop at Leigh-on-Sea, an old seaside village, which is the home port of the cockle fleet, and to see the small boats out on the cockle beds reminds one forcibly of the Prince Rupert mosquito fleet. Leigh is a very picturesque old place and boasts of some fine sea traditions. Then we stop at Westcliffe—the Rolls Royce residential section, adjoining Southend—where the gardens are a blaze of color with the beauty of rambler rose trees, sweet peas, lilacs, etc. The soil is particularly fertile in this district both for flower and vegetable growth. In fact, it has been said that the potatoes would be as juicy as oranges if they grew on the rose bushes. Nearly every garden running down to the railway track boasts of a tennis lawn and every encouragement is given to sport generally. And so it is that we enter Southend proper. The gardens are a blaze of color and, when the sun shines, as it usually does, sun-bathing is much enjoyed by the residents in the privacy of their gardens or on the spacious balconies of their houses.

Arrival at Southend

Well, folks, we now pull into Southend and, as we alight, the tang of the sea air strikes us forcibly in the nostrils in vivid contrast to the begrimed atmosphere of London. We are soon wallowing among the crowds of happy sea hunters and, to the banging of kiddies' spades, perhaps, an occasional operatic or music hall air on a mouth organ, we wend our way to the main street of Southend. It has just turned three o'clock and we haven't many steps to go to find a sumptuous restaurant and a good cup o'tea. Unfortunately—perhaps fortunately—the saloons are not open yet for these do not begin business until later in the evening. After our refresher we start out to explore this comparatively new Londoner's paradise and endeavor to fix ourselves up for the night. Perhaps we'll be sure of a roof and a comfortable bed first. If we decided to stay in the town it would be quite an easy matter to find a home but, if we decided on somewhere quieter, we just jump on a penny bus, or street car, and land in a few minutes at Southchurch on Thorpe Bay. Both these suburbs are fine residential sites and nearly every house caters to the visitor.

It doesn't take us long to find a good bed and breakfast for about $5 so we park our toothbrushes and pyjamas and, after a wash and brush up, we return to the town to see the sights—and there are plenty. There is no more cosmopolitan crowd in England than at Southend and there are practically no restrictions as to dress, so long as one keeps within the bounds of propriety. Going on to the sea front we see crowds of men, women, girls and boys, of all ages, descriptions and sizes—some in comical paper hats, soldier hats, sailor hats, bonnets, top hats, in fact all shapes. Along come a string of young female beauties in beach pyjamas the colors of a rainbow stew, followed by a beauty chorus in bathing suits of all shapes and hues, perhaps adorned also with a light bathing wrap, perhaps not, for Southend has no use for Mrs. Grundy and her prudish nonsense.

Ships a Hoy!

Ah! about the ships and the sea! If the tide is out it is out and a good telescope will be necessary if one wants to see the breakers breaking. Of course there is the pier, quite a show place of its own, and a 4c ride on the electric railway—for it's the longest pier in the world—will prove to us that we are actually at the sea. However, if the tide is up, then we are in luck and one can step off the esplanade into the briny. It is then the hire boats ply their trade and what a real live fleet it is. It includes sailing boats—mostly of the old fashioned "sky-lark" type—motor boats, speed boats, rowing boats, and luxury yachts the latter boasting of a bar where "heavily" intoxicants are sold to passengers and boats mostly utilized on the long runs. For 12c one can take a real nice seagoing trip of about half-an-hour's duration and, in addition, be entertained with catchy music and songs provided the sea hasn't got into the works of the piano but even then there's music from a banjo, a saxophone or a guitar to take away the thoughts of seasickness, for some of the Londoners are poor sailors but they are few and far between. For 39c one can do the seagoing business properly for a few hours, a visit to the warships at Shoeburyness or, perhaps, a few hours' run along the coast and very nice too. The writer had 12 cents worth on "one visit and the view of the West-cliffe gardens from the sea with the sunlight upon the beautiful flowers and foliage was a sight for a king.

Well, we're back on shore and the blow has given us an appetite, to say nothing of a thirst, so we go to find something to eat and have not a very arduous quest. The sea front abounds with good restaurants and, at some of them, one can watch the eats being put through their paces through the windows for everything is cooked in full view of the universe. For 50c one can get a real good wholesome blow-out, even steak and chips or ham and tomatoes, perhaps fish and chips plus free vinegar. Anyway there is no need to starve so long as one has the price. We satisfy the inner man and look to spend the evening.

The town abounds in cinemas, theatres and vaudeville but, if we want some real fun and excitement, we turn into the Kursaal where we can get all the fun of the fair and

BOSTON SAILOR GIVEN UNPOPULAR CALL LAST NIGHT IN TITLE BOUT

Got Majority Vote of Two Judges and Referee—Crowd Felt That German Actually Had Margin of Points—Return Bout Likely

NEW YORK, June 22.—A new world's heavyweight champion emerged from the fifteen-round title bout at Madison Square Garden's Long Island Bowl last night when Jack Sharkey of Boston was awarded the decision over Max Schmeling, the German title-holder of the past two years. The decision was given on a two-to-one vote of the two judges and referee and was booed by the crowd of 75,000 fight fans which witnessed the battle. Undoubtedly, the opinion of the spectators was that Schmeling had piled up a clear margin of points. The unpopularity of the decision together with a great showing put up by both fighters, undoubtedly paved the way for a return title bout at an early date.

During the entire fifteen rounds not a single knockdown was scored. Schmeling weighed in at 188 pounds and Sharkey at 205. Schmeling was the aggressor during a large part of the time. He battered Sharkey's left eye continuously with short right crosses and the optic was almost entirely closed at the end of the fight. The crowd was a good deal larger than had been anticipated and the gate of $500,000 also exceeded expectations. A lot of eleventh-hour interest developed in the battle.

A big majority of the sport writers present gave Schmeling eight rounds and Sharkey six with one even. The closing of Sharkey's eye was about all the damage that was done to either fighter.

Robert Arthur, jr., who has been on a brief trip to Victoria, returned to the city from the south on the Prince Rupert this morning.

MERCHANTS WIN MATCH

Home Oil Protests Dominion Day Cup Game—Was Hotly Contested Encounter

Subject to a protest which has been entered by the losers on the grounds that the winners played an unregistered man in the person of Ernie Pierce, the Merchants went into the final of the Dominion Day Football Cup by defeating Home Oil Distributors by a score of 4 to 1 at the Acropolis Hill grounds last evening. It was a well-contested match, particularly in the first half, but tempers became frayed in the second half and this did not tend to improve things. During this period Referee James A. Johnstone banished Henry Dickens of the Merchants and William Murray of the Home Oil from the field for fighting. Their cases will come before the board of control at an early date.

The Merchants won the toss and elected to kick downhill. In about twenty minutes Niek Chenoski opened the scoring for the Merchants on a cross from Johnny Comadina at outside left. The shot gave Bobby Moxley, Home Oil goalie, no chance whatever. The Home Oil players pressed hard and about 10 minutes later, Bye equalized from close in after the oil men had broken away from the Merchants' defenders. The first half ended with the score standing fairly at one all which was a just reflection of the merits of play.

Shortly after the start of the second half, Henry Dickens put the Merchants one up from a scrimmage in front of the goal mouth. Leslie Amor broke away on outside right about ten minutes later and, eluding Skinner, scored the third for the Merchants. With the period about fifteen minutes to go, Roy Fong headed in the leather to make the final score 4 to 1 for the Merchants. The Home Oil was unlucky in shooting during the

ROUND HOUSE BEATS NAVY

Many Errors Caused One-Sided Result in C. N. R. A. Softball

In a regular scheduled C. N. R. A. softball game, the Round House defeated the Navy by a score of 13 to 2 last night. The Navy boys made many errors which were mainly responsible for the one-sided result. Horton, for the Round House, secured four hits in five times up and scored five other runners. Johnson, at short for Round House, played tip-top ball with Cameron on first a close second. For the Navy both the pitchers were good, but their work was hopeless with the support given them by the rest of the Navy team.

Round House—Arney, Johnson, Horton, Cross, Dickey, H. Skattebol, Cameron, Allen, Raby, Nelson.
Navy—Stewart, Armstrong, Franks, Pitcher, Peterson, Bremner, Rice, White, Westman, Derry.

DOES YOUR BUSINESS NEED A DOCTOR?

Now, Mr. Businessman, have you ever tried to diagnose the reason for that sudden drop in profit over the figures of "last month?" If the temperature of your business alarms you there is no need for you to lose any sleep—the remedy is simple.

ADVERTISE

"Ah!" you say, "But that's all very well. I'm only a small man and can't afford it." That's the reason the small man remains a small man. The big men in business today did not become big by hiding their light under a bushel, they advertised, and Advertisised, and ADVERTISED. Advertising is as necessary to a "sick" business as the doctor's services are to a sick person. And it will find the money to pay its own bills, if done judiciously, from the increased volume of increased profits. Start with a small appropriation

WEEK-END AT SOUTHBEND GIVES BARREL OF FUN TO LONDONER; LIVELY TRIP START TO FINISH

If the "Scotch" blood comes to the surface, need only spend the price of admission, 6c.

Once inside we are confronted with hundreds of amusements and side shows. For 6c you can get three wooden balls and if you are lucky at throwing and hit the "bullseye" two young ladies are tipped out of bed in their underwear. If you don't like underwear you can go on the scenic railway, or the switchback and lose your meal. It's about the darndest switchback in the world, the next most exciting thing in this life would be to try and cross the Atlantic on a washing board. Oh, yes, and there's the water chute if you are looking for a real thrill. You climb up towards the stars, then sit in a flat boatlike affair and are shot down a chute into the water at about 80 miles an hour, more or less.

And oh boy, you should hear the girls scream when the splash comes! Of course if one doesn't want to spend, well, one can just take the mike out of the other fellow endeavoring to get a kick out of life.

Wild West Shows

Of course there are the proverbial Wild West ride shows where the cowboy (?) wears his spurs upside down or, a pair of carpet slippers, but the hat and revolver are usually true to type. If they can't shoot they can shout and there is no excuse for saying you didn't hear him the first time. Then there's the Indians and their snakes but what man wants to pay to see snakes when you can buy them by the glassful—and so the fun goes on. We stroll along the front after all this excitement and admire the wonderful and colorful electric illuminations, and to see the pier lit up from end to end is a sight worth seeing.

With a last long breath of sea air we board the bus for "home" and bed and have no trouble in nearly sleeping the clock around. On Sunday morning we can go for a swim before breakfast or a lovely country walk after which we can sit on the front in a deck chair and watch the "world" go by while we get a coat of tan and listen to one of His Majesty's bands. After a good lunch and a quiet afternoon we board a train about 6 p.m. which lands us back in London just after 7 feeling much refreshed for our few hours of ozone breathing and ready for the business battle on the morrow.

Cheap Holiday

For ten bucks, all told, we have had a delightful change and feel as though we had been on a real holiday. In fact, thousands of people live down that way and go backward and forward every day to London to business so well does the railway cater for quick travel and cheap season tickets. In the summer time it's lovely but in the winter time not so good.

Naturally we have brought some cockles back in a nifty little straw bag and our landlady munches these while we tuck in to some ham and — and tell her all about the sea which she has probably never seen in her life.

It's a fact, dear folks, there are yet thousands of Londoners who have never yet been to the seaside although it is practically on their doorstep, or seen Big Ben and I'll bet doughnuts to a new collar stud there are folks in Prince Rupert today who have never been fishing for crabs at McNicholl Creek—the greatest and cheapest sport in the world.

Police Gardens Are Looking Well

Efforts Being Made to Develop Beauty Spot But Spit Bug Interferes

The police station gardens are looking very well this year. They indicate that a great deal of interest has been taken in keeping them well cultivated and trimmed. Just now, however, the spit bug is starting to spoil some of the flowers, especially the seedlings and the honeysuckle. The combined police units have been marshalled to rid the gardens of the nasty little intruder but with no good result so far. Naturally the police get lots of advice as to what to do in the circumstances but the advice is not very valuable.

As many other gardens are injured by the pest, anyone knowing an absolute cure would be doing a public service by publishing it.

COMEDY IS HILARIOUS

"This is the Night" Mid-Week Feature of Capitol Screen—"Morocco" Brought Back

In "This is the Night," mid-week feature offering at the Capitol Theatre here, Lily Damita plays the part of a beautiful Parisian actress who is hired by Charlie Ruggles to pose as the wife of Roland Young.

This deception is necessary to fool Cary Grant, young business man, with whose wife, Thelma Todd, the bachelor Young had been caught in a gay moment by Grant just back from a long trip. The five friends take a trip to Vienna and there complications begin for Lily and Young perceive that they are really falling in love with each other. The complications revolve in a cyclone of farcical predicaments, all ending merrily. Several song hits are interspersed in the action.

As the weekly revival feature for tonight only, in addition to the full regular program, "Morocco," which proved a great drama in its initial showing, is being brought back. Marlene Dietrich and Gary Cooper, it will be remembered, are the stars.

Skeena Sockeye Fleet Awaiting Price Increase

There was no change in the situation as affects sockeye fishing on the Skeena River yesterday so far as could be gathered in official quarters. The fishermen, having reflected the price of 27½¢ a piece for sockeye, were still awaiting word from the canners in regard to their request for 30¢ and sockeye fishing had not as yet commenced.

Norman L. Freeman, local representative of the International Fisheries Commission returned to the city on the Prince Robert this morning from a trip to Juneau and Ketchikan on official duties.

The Classified Ads.

Many people have something in the house they would like to sell which could be turned into money if they knew of a customer. Try a classified advertisement. Most people read the classifieds. For about fifty cents you can let them know about it and it may prove a profitable transaction.

Renting the House

There are a number of houses in the city not rented yet and many people make little effort to secure a tenant. Others who are wise to their opportunities try a classified advertisement in the "For Rent" column and often get results. As one satisfied customer said recently: "Those little ads certainly do bring results."

Some Like Reader Ads.

Some people after trying other kinds of advertising decide to try a reader among the locals and personals. Then they have got results. The cost is a little higher but they have been well satisfied. When conditions are like they are today the newspapers can often help. The price is not very high. Do not lie down and bemoan your hard fate. Try a different kind of advertisement and if that is not successful try again.
