BERLIN, April 25.—Adolph Hitler's National Socialists became the strongest political party in four of five German states participating in yesterday's Diet elections but it still lacked a clear majority to control any of them. In Bavaria alone did they run slightly behind. In Prussia, which covers two-thirds of Germany, Hitlerites garnered 162 seats in comparison with nine they held heretofore, leaving them exactly even with the coalition which forms the present government.

There are 450 seats in all in the Prussian Diet.

BONES ARE IDENTIFIED

Mystery Surrounding Disappearance of William Morrison at Sue Channel in 1930 Cleared Up

Skull and bones of a human skeleton which were found recently in the bush in Sue Channel in the Kitimaat district have been identified as being those of Wm. Morrison, a hand logger, who has been missing since January, 1930 when his gasboat was found wrecked on the beach of Hawkbury Island, no trace being found of the man. The skull and bones were found in the bush about 1,000 yards from where the gasboat was wrecked and seventy-five yards from the water's edge. It is presumed that Morrison died of exposure in the woods following the wreck of his boat.

Morrison was forty-two years of age, a native of Ontario and unmarried. He had been hand-logging for six or eight years at Sue Channel in partnership with John Armstrong and a man named Duffy. He was a typesetter by trade and is known to have worked at one time in a Winnipeg newspaper shop.

Corp. A. W. Stone and Constable Robert Gibson returned to port last evening on the provincial police cruiser P.M.L.4 from Sue Channel where they were dispatched on word being received here that the bones had been found.

LOOK INTO GOLD FIND

Atlin Prospectors Make Trip to Scurvy Creek in Upper Liard River Country

Not convinced as to the actual merits of the recently reported strike, two parties of Atlin prospectors have returned to the northern mining town after having flown into the upper Liard River district to investigate a rumored rich gold find there, according to word received here. The prospectors, Paul Tingley, Wallace Sweet, Fred O'Neill, Tom Harper and Fred McLennan, were accompanied by the discoverer, a Shootanook Creek Indian named Willie Smith.

Scurvy Creek, on which the strike was made, is about five miles long. There was too much snow for the prospectors to form an adequate opinion of the area but panning in the creek did not reveal very much.

The strike was reported to have been made when Smith disturbed the soil while dressing a moose he had shot. He saw the glint of gold and decided to pan for it. The results were so gratifying that he filed a claim and took samples to Gold Commissioner W. W. Wright of Atlin.

The strike is near the "lost mine" for which Capt. E. J. A. Burke and two companions were seeking on their ill-fated flight in the fall of 1930.

SEES PRICES AS HIGH IN VANCOUVER

G. C. Minns Tells of Result of Recent Investigation While in The South

"During my visit in Vancouver recently I made a thorough investigation into the prices charged in that city and the methods of marketing and I found very few prices in any line of business that were lower than those charged in Prince Rupert," stated G. C. Minns in a talk with a Daily News representative at the week-end.

Local merchants are sometimes told that their prices are high, so Mr. Minns went to a good deal of pains to compare and his comparisons were on the whole favorable to Prince Rupert. Occasionally a store would offer a low-priced lead for the purpose of attracting customers, in a few cases these being ridiculously low, much lower than wholesale manufacturer's prices, but these, did not affect the general level. They were simply for the purpose of attracting buyers.

Mr. Minns bought considerable new stock for Wallace's some of which is already here and the remainder of which will arrive from time to time.

SERIOUS FIRE CAUSES HEAVY LOSS IN NATIVE VILLAGE DOWN COAST

Building Itself Valued at $12,000—Contents Were Also Lost—No Insurance is Carried on Structure—Need of Water System is Stressed

KITIMAAT, April 25.—A serious loss to the town of Kitimaat occurred on Friday evening last at 9:30 when the Band Hall, a large building 40x80 feet, was burned to the ground, together with a player piano, costing $500, stage scenery, and 60 opera seats, at a cost of $20 a set. The building itself was valued at $12,000.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is generally supposed that it started by some defect in the electric wiring in the rear gallery.

The building was erected in the year 1910 and was completed the following year by 28 members of the Band, President Phillip Williams, and committee, at a cost of $12,000.

There was no insurance carried. The citizens, one and all, worked heroically to keep the fire from spreading. Had it not been for the favorable wind, the whole town might have been destroyed.

The pressing need of a water system for Kitimaat was in this case fully demonstrated—and the hope is that something may be done by the government in the present great necessity.

Falling from a ladder when trying to save a nearby dwelling, Chas. Williams received painful bruises, and was rendered unconscious. His condition is not serious.

DAILY EDITION  Monday, April 25, 1932

CAN WE BE BRITISH?

The question was recently asked if Canada can ever become really British. Today she is a part of the British Empire politically and the conference that is to take place at Ottawa this summer will endeavor to make her a part of the Empire economically, that position not having been attained as yet. Where she has failed is in not being a part of the Empire at heart.

Canada is a strip of country clinging to the northern boundary of a great nation of something like one hundred and twenty million people. In that strip there are ten million people listening in to the other one hundred and twenty million. The expression "listening in" is very modern but the fact is old. Canada listened in to the United States long before the invention of radio. She was such a near neighbor that it could scarcely be otherwise. With only an imaginary line—imaginary except when crossed without permission—dividing them, there was bound to be an assimilation of ideas and ideals, a growing-together and a consequent tendency to break the old ties stretching across the ocean. The ties were gradually becoming less strong as the younger generation grew up under the influence of the larger mass to the south.

Then came the war, and it revived all the old memories. Canada responded splendidly and the reluctance of the United States to join tended to snap the newly-formed ties and to re-form a British sentiment in this country. The younger men learned for the first time that they were really British and not American. Those of other than British extraction also learned that they were in a British country and they too responded in large numbers to the call from overseas and many of them fought and fell for the country of their adoption.

The lesson of the war has not been forgotten. Since that time an effort has been made to keep the communications open between Canada and the other countries of the British Commonwealth and British ideas and ideals have been fostered through more frequent visits of leaders of thought from either side and from greater efforts on the part of the press to cultivate an Empire consciousness.

STILL LISTENING IN

But Canada is still "listening in" to the United States. The radio has extended its scope and is still extending and today Canadians can hear almost any evening about the political problems of California, the civic troubles of Seattle, the colossal efforts of the nation to cope with unemployment, the urges to loyalty to the Stars and Stripes and the pleas that the memories of those who fought for America in the Great War should be revered.

The radio is almost silent in regard to Canadian problems. We are developing no national consciousness as the Soviet in Russia is doing. We all know how to "reach for a lucky" but we know nothing in the west about Nova Scotia, about the port problems of St. John, N.B., the wonderful manner in which the habitants are carrying on in Quebec unconscious of the depression which afflicts the rest of us. No broadcast is heard in regard to the new factories in Ontario, the mines of Northern Manitoba, the peculiar problems of the prairie provinces or the outlook of the western frontier. As long as Ralph is elected governor of California, that is all we need to know. Why worry about the political outlook in Saskatchewan?

So far as Northern British Columbia is concerned, there is no Canadian radio except on certain privileged evenings when the weak voice of the C. N. R. stations, or the weaker voices of the lesser broadcasts, may be picked up for a brief period. In fact, no effort is being made to counteract the insidious propaganda of the south which continues day and night, year in and year out, without intermission, reforming Canada and making her American in her consciousness, her ideals and her aspirations. In spite of the rather feeble efforts of late to build up British sentiment, the average native son or foreign born citizen knows nothing of such men as Lloyd George, Ramsay MacDonald, Stanley Baldwin, the Chamberlains or Churchill. He knows little of the literature, the music, the social life or the trend of thought of England but he knows all about the affairs of Hollywood, the social events of the White House, the sayings of Senator Borah or the ebullitions of Senator Johnson.

SHALL ANYTHING BE DONE?

Is anything to be done about this? Do we really wish to get closer to the other countries of the Empire or shall we drift along until the next generation decides to go its own way irrespective of what their fathers thought. Is it desirable to keep up the Empire connection for all time or shall it be only until Canadians have forgotten that they are British and have discovered that they are American? These questions have to be decided, and the longer we wait the more difficult it will be to take action if action is desired. Today, in spite of the little Empire flurry of the past few years, we are bound in one direction and that is direct into assimilation with our good neighbors to the south. If this is what Canadians want, why worry?

A Week's Doings at Parliament

By Tom Reid, M.P.

Ralston Is Critical of Rhodes, His Fellow Townsman—British Columbians in Gallery—Olof Hanson Urges Greater Use of Prince Rupert Shipyard

Monday, April 11—A great deal of interest was manifested in the first speech in reply to the budget address on Monday as evidenced by the large attendance both in the House and in the galleries. Hon. J. L. Ralston had been given the task of chief financial critic for the Liberal party and, in his speech of over two and a half hours, covered every phase of the budget, being followed very attentively by everyone in the House. Mr. Ralston has the faculty of speaking in a very reasoned manner and without any sign of rancor. It is a remarkable coincidence that both he and Hon. E. N. Rhodes, minister of finance, come from the same town. His address was an outstanding one and closed with the plea that what we in Canada were suffering from was due in large measure to the drying up of all trade which he claimed had been brought about by the tariff barriers placed around Canada since the present government came into office. One apt remark of Col. Ralston's was aent the sales tax which he characterized as the poor man's income tax. Before sitting down he moved an amendment along lines just mentioned. On rising at 6 o'clock we looked forward to the evening session on account of the fact that Hon. H. H. Stevens intended to speak, he having adjourned the debate just as the clock struck six.

Private bills being on the agenda for the first hour, it was 8:45 p.m. before Mr. Stevens rose to speak and he also was listened to with a great deal of attention, his address, not quite as long as that of the Hon. Mr. Ralston, lasting just over an hour. A part of his address was taken up to discuss the debt and the interest to be paid on the debt affecting Canada, pointing out that Canada owes over five billions abroad. He recognized that something was wrong with the price levels and that no country could prosper if loans had to be paid back at ten percent.

Mr. Heaps of Winnipeg followed and, in his speech, regretted that nothing had been done to relieve unemployment, deprecating the policy of palliatives and rigid economy at a time when there was so much unemployment and distress.

Mr. Bruhn There

Tuesday—Among the many visitors noted in the galleries was the minister of public works from British Columbia, Hon. Rolf Bruhn, who was here for the conference of provincial representatives who met at Ottawa to discuss with the Prime Minister and his cabinet matters affecting unemployment and direct relief. It must have been quite a change for him to be a spectator and a looker-on. Other visitors from British Columbia in the gallery at the same time were Alderman John Bennett and Relief Officer Colonel Cooper, who were here in regard to delayed relief payments for the city of Vancouver, an amount of almost one million dollars being owing them by both governments, no payments having yet been made for their commitments.

A bill was introduced by the writer, the object of which was to give to British Columbia reduced rates on grain and flour moving from the prairies to the Pacific Coast.

The debate on the budget was then resumed and lasted until 11 o'clock this evening, being participated in by some seven speakers. The same interest was not manifested in these speeches as could be seen by the sparse attendance in the House. One of the most interesting speeches was made by Mr. Gardiner, leader of the United Farmers Group, who advocated, among other things, the taxing of the savings of the Canadian people into circulation. Before sitting down he moved a sub-amendment advocating nationalization of credit and currency and told the House that he could not accept the amendment offered by the Liberal party advocating a freer trade policy.

Advocate Peace Army

Wednesday—Four speakers occupied the time of the House on Wednesday, namely Mr. Woodsworth, Mr. Edwards, Mr. Howard and Mr. Bourassa. Mr. Woodsworth suggested that a peace army should be recruited, giving to every unemployed man a chance to earn $1.10 a day with everything found and advocated that this peace army go into the north country to clear bush, to make highways and to beautify our parks and other areas.

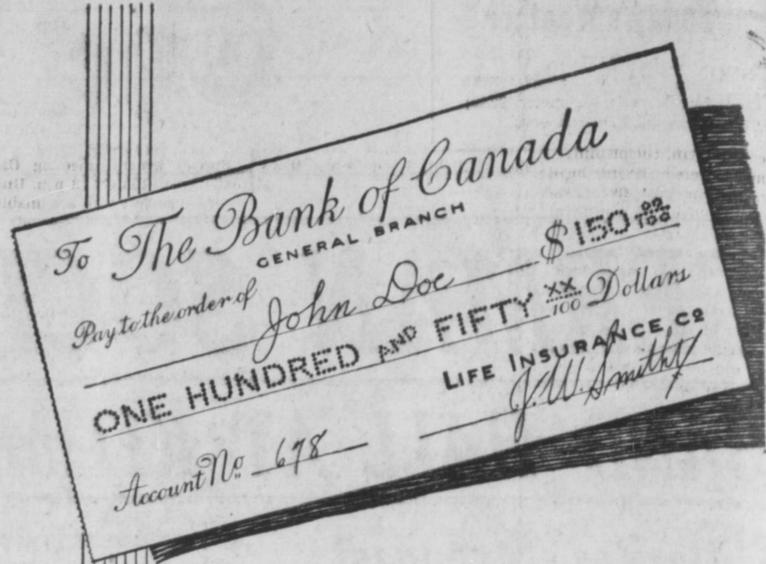

One speaker who never fails to get a great deal of attention is Mr. Bourassa who, to my mind at least, is a very interesting and fluent debater.

Mr. Dickie Is Heard

Thursday—The budget debate still continued with Mr. Dickie, member for Nanaimo, being the first speaker. He took the opportunity to place on record the findings of the committee which has been sitting in Victoria investigating charges in connection with the handling of unemployment relief and relief accounts. It was interesting to note that he seized the opportunity of placing this report in the House at Ottawa before it had been placed in the House at Victoria.

There was a break in the day's proceedings when the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod was admitted to the House and informed the Speaker that the deputy of the Governor General desired the presence of the Speaker and members of the House of Commons at the Senate Chamber, where assent was given to some measures which had passed both the House of Commons and the Senate Chamber. This proceeding occupied the time of the House for about half an hour.

The debate continued up until the hour of adjournment, a tacit understanding having been arrived at regarding the date the vote would be taken on the sub-amendment introduced by Mr. Gardiner, the amendment introduced by Mr. Ralston and on the budget address —It being generally understood that the vote would take place on Tuesday evening next, leading to a change of proceedings in the House on Friday.

Estimates Discussed

Friday—Practically the whole day passed discussing estimates, the estimates for trade and commerce taking up the greater part of the time. It is during the passing of these items that the various members air any grievances they have regarding particular phases of the expenditures affecting their ridings and it is sometimes a difficult matter for the chairman of the committee to keep the members within the scope of the item under discussion.

The first item which came up was an expenditure regarding the railway in the Maritimes, which brought nearly all the Nova Scotia and New Brunswick members into the arena. Each and every one of them, of course, coming to the rescue of Halifax and Saint John as ports which should be encouraged for the shipment of export grain.

Hanson on Dry Dock

The member for Skeena, Olof Hanson, urged upon the government the necessity of utilizing its own dry dock at Prince Rupert. He objected to the building of boats in the east, for use in northern waters. The minister of marine, in reply, promised to keep in mind the ship facilities at Prince Rupert in the future, either for repairs or for the building of new boats.

At 8 o'clock, when the House met, the first hour was devoted to private bills and it so happened that the bill in connection with the reduction of freight rates to British Columbia was introduced. The minister of railways said he could not see his way to support the bill and that he was against the principle entirely and he asked the member for New Westminster to withdraw the bill for another year at least or until such time as the commission which has been investigating railroads brings in a report in the matter. The bill was adjourned for another week at which time it will again come up for discussion and will no doubt be finally decided by a vote, as it is not the writer's intention to withdraw this, believing that nothing will be gained for British Columbia except by consistent effort.

Man in the Moon

It looks to me as if by the time I've paid my taxes there'll be nothing left for the grocer.

It's a cheery outlook. Nothing to pay but city taxes, provincial taxes, federal taxes and dog taxes.

The best way to raise money today would be to put a tax on worried looks.

What a relief it would be to move to a country where taxation was illegal!

Pretty Young Thing: "Are you sure these curtains won't shrink. I want them for my bedroom windows."

Candia Clerk: "Lady, with your figure, you should worry whether they shrink or not."

thus we adjourned for the weekend, the weather as we left the House, having some snow in the air.

MAN SOON RETURNED TO TELL HOW WELL HIS GLASSES FITTED

Recently a man, complaining of having suffered severe headaches for the past five or six years, and unable to read at all, called on G. F. Davey, Reg. Optometrist in charge of the Optical Dept. of Max Heilbroner, Jeweler, to see if glasses would give him relief. A thorough examination soon explained the headaches, and how he must have suffered, as the eyes were unable to work in harmony, one being very defective. A pair of double vision glasses were supplied to suit his particular case and inside two days he called to tell us that the headaches were entirely gone, reading a pleasure and he was very pleased with the service which cost a lot less than he had ever expected. He also told us that we could expect to meet a lot of his friends.

On Saturday of this week the Supreme Coffee limerick contest closes. A number of entries have already been received but others are looked for and this is the last week for those who would like to get the five dollar prize. The following limericks were received from a point about five hundred miles away: There was a young lady called Jean Whose home was so tidy and clean, But her cooking was flat, And the reason for that, Her coffee was never Supreme. There was a young man named Keen, He always was scrawny and lean, But now he is fat, There's a reason for that, He now drinks coffee Supreme.

Build Up Health With Spring Tonic The fashion of taking a Spring tonic is based on sound medical grounds. Winter has thinned and devitalized the blood stream so that it isn't carrying enough oxygen. That is the reason for the listless, languid, easily-tired-out condition so prevalent at this season. What is needed is a tonic—one that will build new blood and restore and purify the blood stream, and thus enable it to carry the energizing oxygen that quickly revitalizes the whole system. Thousands have proven that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the ideal tonic for this purpose. Mrs. A. Merritt of Welland says: "Again last Spring I became ill. I could not do my work; was pale, weak, and tired all the time. I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they soon made me strong and happy again." Try them and experience for yourself the new strength and vigour they will bring you. At your druggist's in the new glass container. 50c a package.

EXECUTIVES HAVE MEET

Football, Softball and Baseball Representatives Discuss Details of 1932 Activities

A meeting of the executives of the Prince Rupert Football Association, C. N. R. Softball League and Prince Rupert Baseball Association was held in the Grotto Cigar Store last night, with Bert Morgan in the chair, to discuss the question of playing nights suitable to the three organizations. The following arrangement was made:

Senior football will be played on Tuesdays and Thursdays while junior football will be played on Wednesday nights each week.

Senior baseball will be played on Mondays and Fridays while intermediate baseball will be played on Sundays, Tuesdays and Thursdays until the football season opens, after which the intermediates will play only on Sundays, until such time as school closes for the summer term when intermediate baseball will take over the Wednesday evening instead of junior football.

Softball will be played as usual on Tuesdays and Fridays. This arrangement should work out satisfactorily to all concerned, as it means that baseballers and footballers each have only one night conflicting with the softball enthusiasts, instead of two nights as was the case last year.

The question of having repairs made to the dressing room at Acropolis Hill was also discussed but, in view of the fact that the baseball players do not use the dressing room and would not have any use for it, even if it were put in better condition, it was decided that the football association would find ways and means of having the necessary repairs made without financial assistance from the baseball association.

The meeting also went on record as being in favor of holding a big sports day on Empire Day, May 24, to consist of baseball, football, track meet and softball. The following committee was named to go into the matter more fully and will hold a meeting at an early date: Jimmy Farquhar and Stan Moran representing baseball; Bert Morgan and George Laidler representing football; J. W. Plommer and Phil Edgecumbe representing the Spartan Athletic Club; H. Skattebol and Sonny Styles representing softball.

It was also decided that the above committee would name representatives to interview the C. N. R. A. as it was understood that they were contemplating holding their annual picnic on Terrace on July 1 this year and it was felt that this would conflict and materially detract from the success of the annual Dominion Day celebration held under the auspices of the various sporting organizations in the city.

An executive meeting of the football association will be held on Tuesday evening to draw up the schedule and make final arrangements for the opening of the season. This meeting will be held in the Grotto Cigar Store.

The spirit of co-operation which prevailed by the various organizations represented at the meeting held last night augurs well for the success of sport in general in the community this season.

Northland Navigation Co.'s motorship Northland, Capt. Len Williams, arrived in port at 9 o'clock this morning from Ketchikan with one carload of fresh halibut for transshipment to the United States on this afternoon's train.

Young Empress Defeated Young Elks By Score on 11 to 8 Yesterday Afternoon

Heavy hitting featured the Intermediate League baseball opener at the Acropolis Hill grounds yesterday afternoon, the Young Empress defeating Young Elks by a score of 11 to 8. On the whole it was a fairly good exhibition of the diamond sport although fielding might have been better on some occasions. Earl Batt hurled for the Empress team and was received by Erickson, Nakamoto and Obata were moundmen for the Elks and Kishimoto and Kanaya catchers.

Excellent weather prevailed for the game and there was a fair sized crowd of fans on hand.

WORKLESS MEETING

Local Association Decides to Affiliate With National Unemployed Workers

Shenton Heard

Labor Candidate For Atlin in Provincial Election is Speaker Here

At a representative meeting of the Prince Rupert and District Unemployed Association held in the Eagles' Hall last evening, considerable discussion took place and some important business was transacted. Among the major results of the meeting was the decision to affiliate the Prince Rupert local with the National Unemployed Workers' Association. Among those who spoke at some length on this question were George Murray, E. Hoffman, A. O. Morse and W. Mohoney. The danger of affiliating with an organization the political ideas of whose leaders was unknown was pointed out by one speaker.

Another speaker, in reply, stressed the fact that no matter who were the leaders, it was the mass of the rank and file membership who made the final decisions. As the discussion threatened to become unnecessarily prolonged, it was moved and seconded that discussion cease and that the question of affiliation be put to a vote. This resulted in a practically unanimous vote for affiliation.

The local unemployed also decided to send two delegates to a provincial convention to be held at Vancouver on May 2 and 3. The nomination of the delegates was left in the hands of the central committee.

A feature of the meeting was an address of T. J. Shenton, former inspector of mines for Northern B. C., and Labor candidate for Atlin in the next provincial election. In the course of his remarks Mr. Shenton expressed his belief that capitalism as a social system had utterly failed to cope with the needs of the majority of the people. "The capitalistic structure," he said, "may be compared to a pyramid standing on its apex, and it is our duty as workers to set it on its proper and logical base." The speaker promised to do his utmost to ameliorate the lot of the suffering thousands of unemployed and in support of his pledge, pointed to his activities in the past. Both Mr. Shenton and the sentiments which he expressed were most enthusiastically received.

Among the instructions given to the delegates to the unemployed conference was the recommendation that the matter of compensation for workers on relief work be taken up, this to be given on the basis of a $4.00 per day wage.

Concluding one of the busiest sessions of the unemployed, the meeting adjourned at 10:30 p.m. C. Chapman presided.

INTERVIEW WITH RIX

Prelate From Prince Rupert Expresses Democratic Ideas To Toronto Scribe

Lordship Dying Out

Local Bishop Tells Toronto Newspaperman a Few Things About His Diocese

Once you get a taste for bishops there is no controlling it, writes R. E. Knowles in the Toronto Star.

The Right Rev. George Alexander Rix, D.D., Bishop of Caledonia—which is, in effect, Prince Rupert—fell to my lot this morning. Bishop Rix, who has a diocese of over 300,000 miles in extent, is a native of Barrie, a graduate of Wycliffe (of which he has been Dean), a former rector of Cannington, Ontario, likewise of Orangeville—then of Prince Rupert, becoming Canon, archdeacon, administrator—and finally flowering into a bishop's estate and power; for which job I should say, in terms of appearance, manner, atmosphere, he was fore-fashioned in eternity.

Title Become Rare

"May I call you 'your lordship'?" I asked in beginning, thinking it wise to settle the fundamentals first. "I don't answer to the term," replied this splendid six-footer-and-then-some, with the gray hair and the smiling face and the youthful mein. "That's just what Bishop Renison said to me yesterday," I remarked.

"I fancy that's what most of them would say," replied this Pacific pastor-in-chief; "why, when I was over at the Lambeth conference, among bishops from all over the world, it was a very rare thing to hear the title even there. As to the west, where I come from, it's never used. I think, everywhere, that 'lordship' business is passing out," he concluded.

Is Greeted as "Bish"

"Westerners not likely to prolong its life?" I confirmed. "Not very—out in my diocese, to tell you the truth, it's quite a common thing for me to be greeted as 'Bish,'" informed the stately cleric. "Shocking!" I deplored; "you shouldn't have such a love-letter countenance," which, however, I fear Dr. Rix will possess to the end.

"Visiting your old Ontario parishioners, are you, bishop?" "Well, somewhat. I preached at Orangeville, where I once was rector, last Sunday. I do wish I could get to Cannington—but I fear I can't."

"Anyhow, I'll give them your love, through The Daily Star," I volunteered.

"Will that get there all right?" "Get there!" I echoed; "why, your lord—why, my dear bishop. The Daily Star refreshes Cannington like the dew—all the intelligent people read it every night."

"Many thanks," said the bishop. "Many readers," replied I. "But how about the Church of the Redeemer, where you assisted Rev. Septimus Jones—all the deacons, wardens, sagesmen, saints, in that church devour The Star before and after supper. Message for them?" "I'm going to preach there next Sunday night," volunteered the old-time curate.

"Fine—and where in the morning?" "At St. Simon's," replied the preacher who, I hope, sounds as good as he looks.

"I'll tell the world that," replied The Star, as he wrote it down.

Faith in Prince Rupert

These details attended to, I got at business; "How big is Prince Rupert?" I inquired. "About 7,000—about the same as when I went there."

"Will the town ever amount to much?" "Absolutely," cried the fond bishop; "why, it is the outlet of the North Pacific. And its harbor!—its harbor is the finest in the world. We could entertain the whole British navy," exclaimed the thrice hospitable prelate.

"Prospective, wealth mostly in lumber?" I surmised. "Colossal," the Dr. agreed—"but Prince Rupert should become the greatest fishing port of the world," he amended. "Why, in one day, I've seen 350,000 pounds of halibut landed there—there is no limit to our possibilities as a fishing centre."

"Quite a fisherman yourself, are you not?" I digressed. "Well," replied the modest man, "I once caught a 32-pound salmon."

myself," I said, "if that's one of the perquisites—I presume their direct descent from St. Peter, who was a bit of a fisherman himself, is what gives the bishops the edge on the rest of us." I proffered, rather proud of my proficiency in church history.

"Stern and Wild" "How does your diocese come to bear the name of 'Caledonia'?" I asked the head thereof. "Because it's 'stern and wild,' just like 'Scotland,'" replied the bishop.

"That's better than being like the people," I reassured. "I thought it was 'because it resembled the Highlanders.'" The bishop took no stock in the humorous attempt. "It was so named by a section of true Scottish settlers," exclaimed my informant (whose mother was "fra Glesca"); "they thought it like their native land—so our diocese was really called for Scotland."

"Rather got the edge on the Presbyterians that time, didn't you Dr.?" I suggested. "My very warmest friends, or a lot of them, have been Presbyterians," replied the bishop; "especially a minister called Grant—he's in Fort William now. A splendid chap,—by the way, he looked remarkably like yourself."

"Don't ever tell him that," I advised; "vanity has ruined many an excellent minister. How far do you have to travel, in your episcopal duties?" "One point in my diocese, I reach only after a journey of 1,200 miles," was the significant reply.

"And how many clergymen have you?" I pursued. "Only twenty-four," was the answer, of almost painful contrast.

"All with big parishes?" "The smallest is well over 100 miles square," was the terrifying answer.

Four Came for Help "Much depression out there now?" "Inescapable," he replied; "that's why the church has brought four of us down here, to tell our story, and to inspire the hearts of our people to help us."

"Are you, like brother Renison, going to take any clergymen back with you?" I inquired. "No, none—I have more now than I can pay."

"A day or two ago, Bishop Rix, an eminent Presbyterian minister from Buffalo told me that a general movement almost universal, on the part of the clergy there, was bringing about a voluntary reduction in all their salaries, till the tide should turn. Is there anything of that kind happening in your diocese?" "Yes. For the people are in such need. At a place called 'Stewart,' for instance, it is said that 75 per cent. of the population are receiving relief."

Heroic Heralds From Afar I could not but discern, in eye and voice, the tokens of the admiration and the sympathy with which this sheppard and bishop of the souls of men regards alike his clergy and his people. And, for a moment, I indulged a sense of satisfaction that I had been privileged, on successive days, to come into touch with two such magnificent missionary hearts as those of Dr. Renison and Dr. Rix.

And I found time, too, to swiftly fore-fashion my plans for Sunday next. Good Presbyterian though I be (even if inlaid within the wider folds of the united and more catholic church) my heart and feet, on April seventeenth, would fain be so turned aside that I might hear the messages—one in the morning and another in the evening—of these two heroic heralds from afar in whom we see in very truth the irrefutable proof of that succession which is both ancient and apostolic.

CONDITIONS ON SKEENA RIVER

Editor, Daily News:— I see by your paper that they want the unemployed to work in the relief camps for $7.50 a month. I would like to draw your attention to conditions on the Skeena River. The other day 65 Chinks came to work in one cannery. There are 10 canneries on the Skeena going to operate. They employ over fifty Chinks each and they get paid $2.50 a day. The other day 300 Japs got licences to go fishing and before the season is over, another hundred or two will go fishing, licence or no licence. All the fishpackers around the canneries are Japs. So if half of that number were white men it would take 500 unemployed.

The Duff Commission was going to have the Orientals off the river in 10 years. That's about 10 years ago. Instead of the Orientals leaving the country our member at that time, who was on that commission, had to leave. The cannerymen say the white men can't catch fish. Well, that's what we want—conservation. If we let the fish go up the river this year, we can't help but catch them in the next cycle year, four years later.

The Japs and Chinks are fighting over Manchuria, but they took the Skeena and Fraser Rivers without firing a shot. Peaceful penetration you call it, but we got another name for it.

The sockeye pack for last year is about all gone at a pretty fair price. The canneries cut the price of sockeye last year 20 cents. The average for a boat is about 800 fish, so the fishermen lost $160 there. Spring salmon was cut from 10 cents to four. The average catch for the man fishing springs is around 6,000 pounds, so the fishermen lost another $360 there.

If a fisherman stays on relief for six months he gets $80 and then the canneries steal ten times that much of him.

BOY SCOUTS AT CHURCH

Anniversary of St. George's Day Celebrated With Parade Yesterday Morning

The Third Rupert Troop of Boy Scouts, comprising Cubs, Scouts and Rovers, with First Prince Rupert Pack of Cubs, held their annual church parade to First United Church yesterday morning in commemoration of St. George's Day. Scoutmaster P. C. Miller was in charge and there was a large muster of cubs, scouts and rovers.

Rev. Alfred Wilson, pastor, delivered an appropriate sermon for the boys.

'Probation After Death' Science Subject Sunday

The subject of the lesson-sermon in Prince Rupert Christian Science Society on Sunday was "Probation After Death."

One of the Bible texts was, "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me." (Psalms 23: 4).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "If man believes in death now, he must disbelieve in it when learning that there is no reality in death, since the truth of being is deathless."

Roads of the central interior from Prince George to Hazelton are specially referred to in a large road map of British Columbia and northern Washington which is published in a recent special automobile section of the Vancouver Province. The map was prepared by draughtsmen of the Automobile Club of British Columbia.

SPENDING TO SAVE .. THROUGH

Advertising

Not many of us, these days, are troubled with so much money that we cannot spend it. But we are interested in spending the money we have, to get the most out of it.

One way—and not a new way, either—is to make a budget. Put down, week by week, the money that comes in. Put down beside it, week by week, the money that goes out. So much for food, so much for clothing, so much for rent. So much for giving, and for luxuries.

Where Advertising Helps

It won't always be easy, of course, to stay within the budget. That's where advertising helps you. Advertisements in this newspaper tell you how much rugs, butter, breakfast foods, dishes, homes, automobiles will cost, before you go shopping! They point out ways to save money. They show you how to cut a little here, a little there. And each day, they tell about new inventions, new products, new ways of doing things, that help make this life of ours very much worth living!
