AID FOR WORLD FLIER MOVES FROM RUSSIA AND CANADA

Moscow Sends Planes And Ships To Assist Mattern Resume Trip

Centre of Alexander Relief Operations Moves From Prince Rupert to Juneau With Departure of Three Members of Party From Here Over Week-End

MOSCOW, July 10: (Canadian Press)—The Soviet government has ordered two seaplanes to Anadyr, Siberia, to assist James J. Mattern, young Texas world flier, whose safety was reported last week after having been missing for over three weeks following his leaving Khabarovsk for Nome in the course of his projected globe-encircling flight.

One of these planes was already at Khabarovsk where it was ready to hop off at dawn today for Anadyr with mechanics to be used in assisting Mattern to repair his plane for resumption of the flight. The second plane was said to be en route to Anadyr from another point. The Russian government has also ordered four Soviet steamers which recently sailed from Vladivostok for Bering Straits to render any possible assistance to Mattern. The Soviet government announced yesterday that it was willing to permit the planes to fly to Nome with Mattern or proceed there and deliver him anything he may need.

In the event of Mattern's plane being found to be beyond repair, the Russian planes or steamers could be used to take Mattern to Nome where he could be met by the Alexander relief expedition or obtain transportation to some other more convenient point on the coast to make contact with the members of the relief expedition who would accompany him home to New York.

A Bellanca seaplane is also reported to be available at Nome for Mattern's use if required by himself or the relief party.

Details of Finding Flier

Latest dispatches received here from Anadyr said today that the fuselage and wing of Mattern's plane had been damaged in his forced landing because of motor trouble. Advice state that he was found beside his damaged plane by a frontier guard boat which began patrolling the Anadyr River when the ice broke up. It is believed that a rifle and ammunition given Mattern by Soviet authorities before he left Khabarovsk stood him in good stead during the time he was lost. The flier is in good health and uninjured.

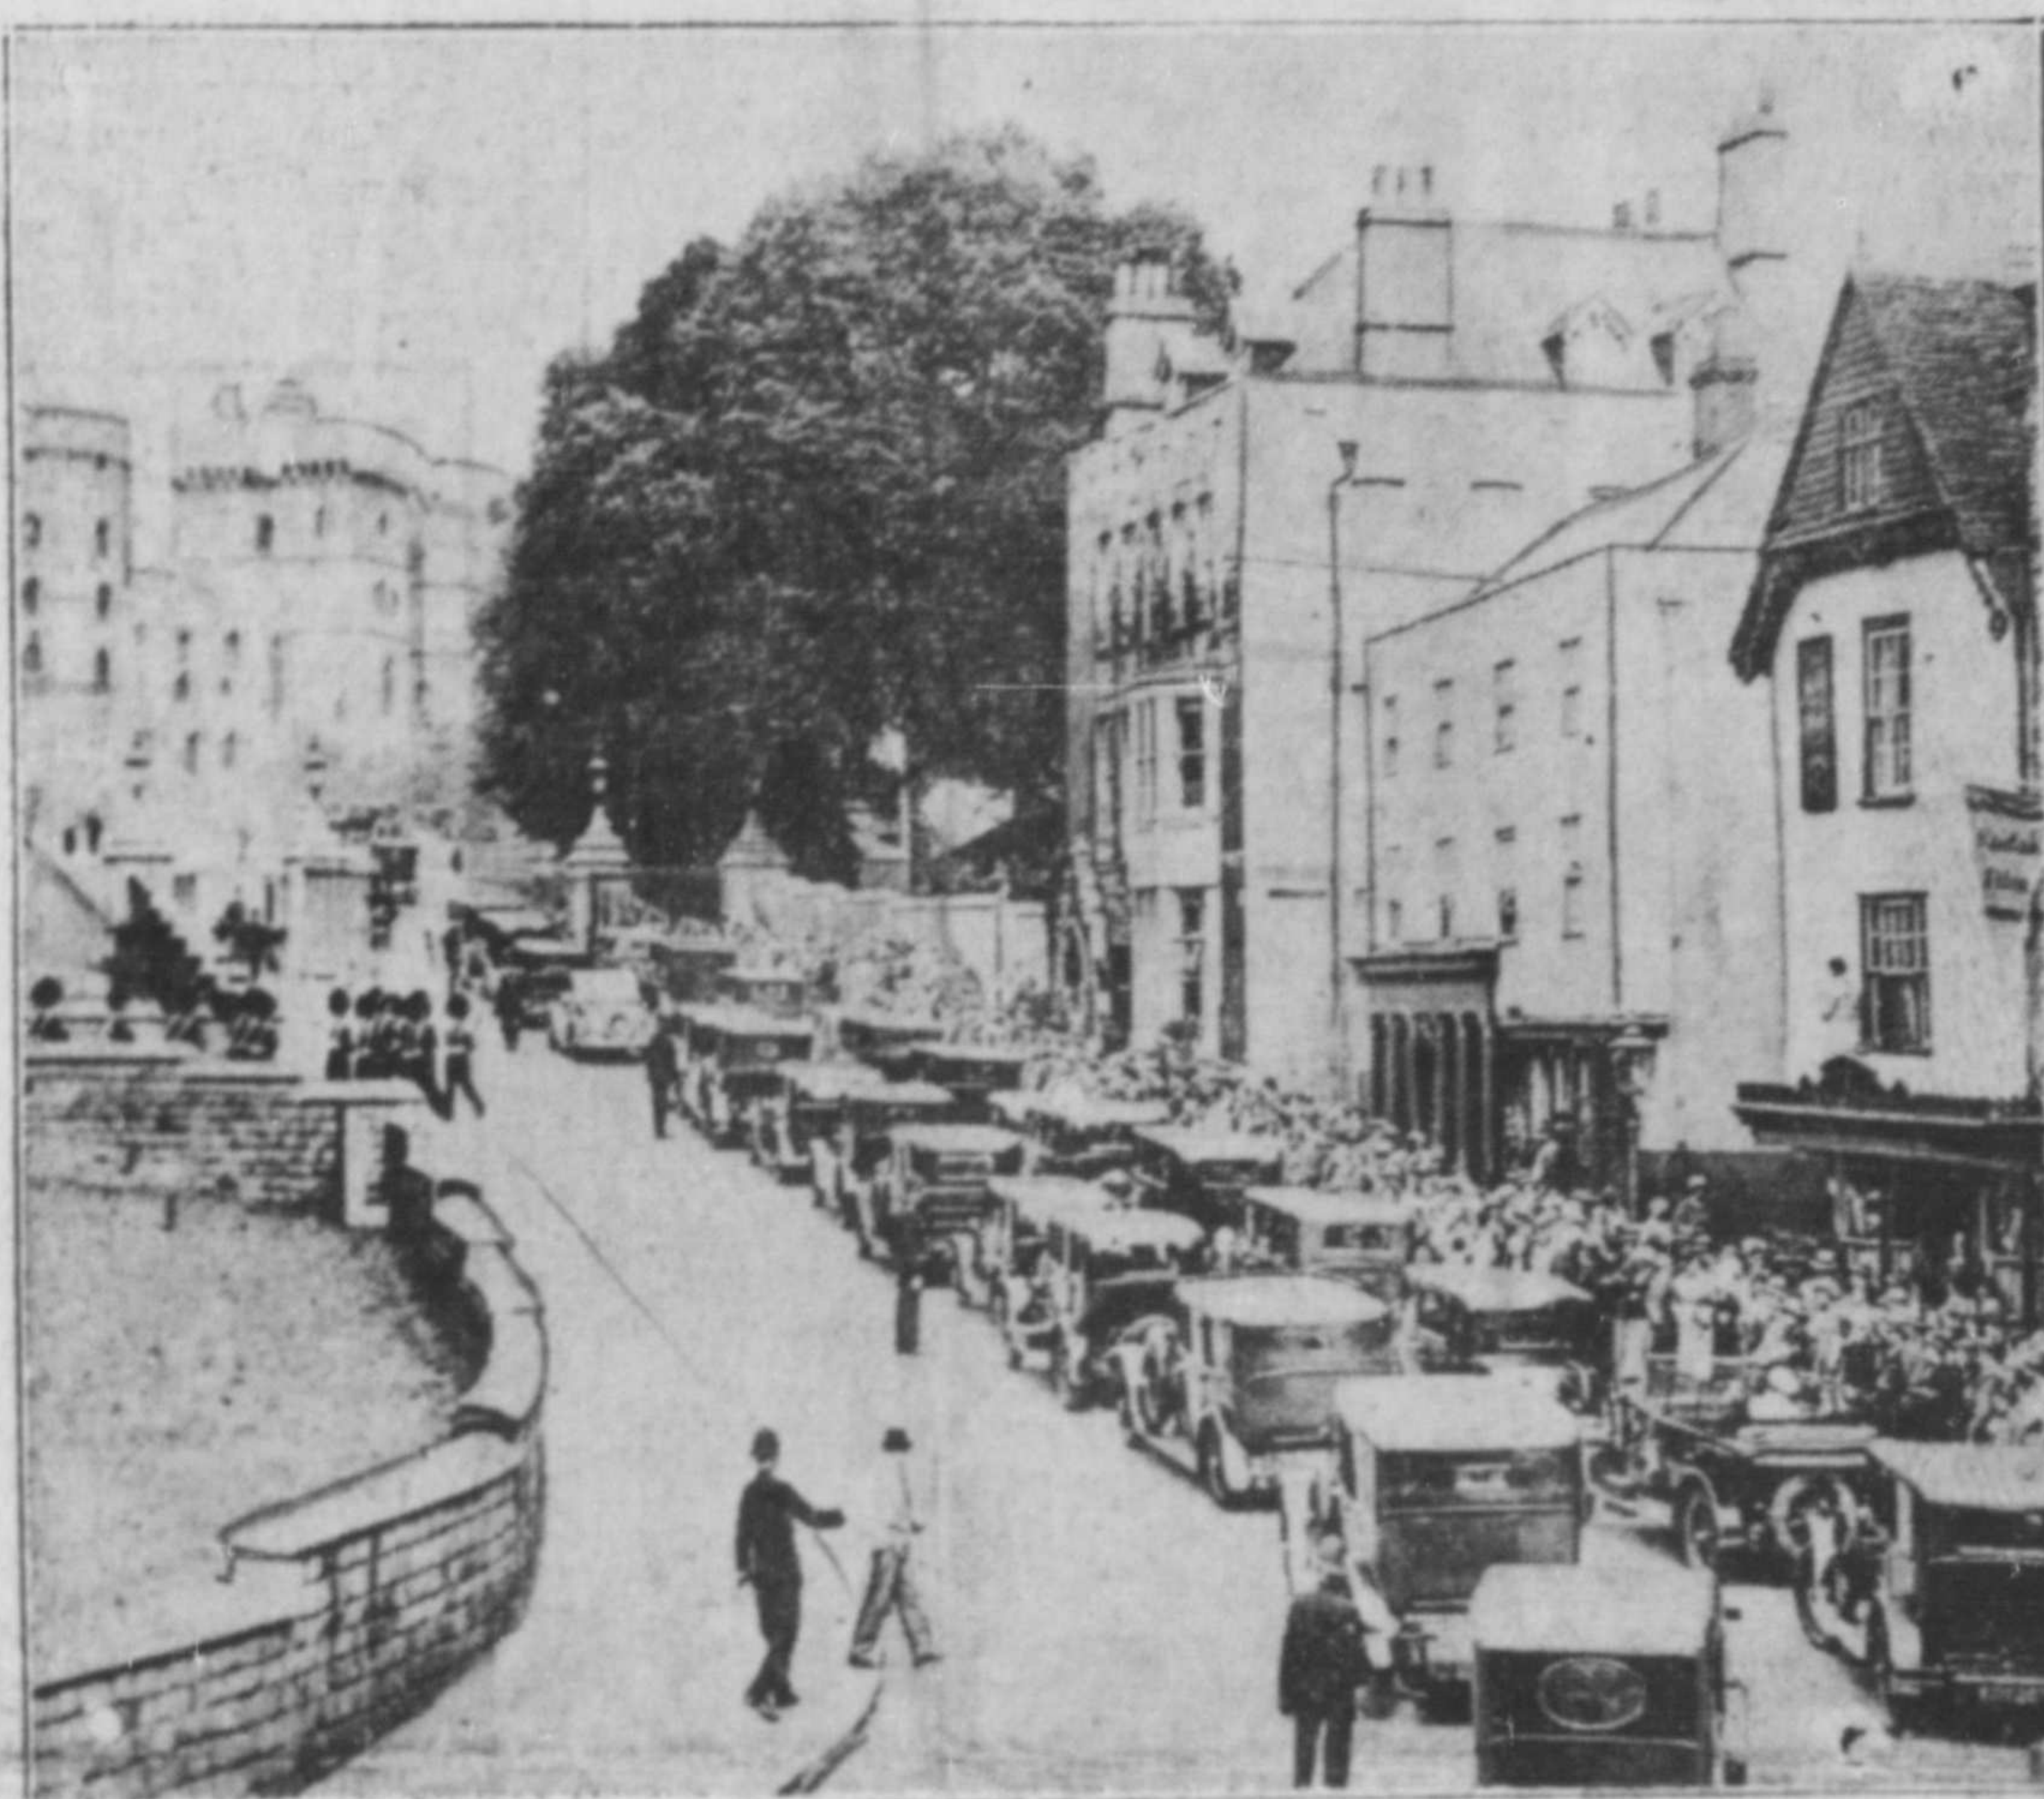

Plan to enable Mattern to continue his flight around the world was taking form today. From Anadyr Mattern has wireless his backers in Chicago asking that a new plane be sent so he could fly back to New York solo. The backers said that they would do "everything" in their power to comply with the request. Mattern's message also asked that the Alexander rescue party now in Alaska be sent on.

Mattern's plan was to fly solo from Anadyr to Nome in the American rescue expedition's plane and for members of the expedition headed by William Alexander to return to Nome in the Russian plane. Backers of Alexander, who is now at Juneau, have instructed him to comply with Mattern's request and he is expected to take off today via Fairbanks and Nome for Siberia.

The Soviet government announced that the powerful relief seaplane would leave Khabarovsk momentarily for Anadyr and that it was ready to fly from there to Nome to return Mattern to America.

Auditorium Pioneer Recreation Centre, Is Virtually Destroyed By Spectacular Morning Fire

The scorched outside walls were all that remained standing today of the Auditorium, large pioneer rolling skating rink, dance hall and recreational and amusement centre on Sixth Avenue West, following a spectacular fire of mysterious origin at 2:45 this morning which virtually completed its destruction. The loss is placed at $4,000 or upwards and the building was fully insured. The owner, L. J. Marren, is at present in Terrace and there was supposed to have been no one in the premises since he left last Wednesday. All doors were locked, windows screened and the key left in charge of a neighbor.

The building, erected some 23 years ago, was two storeys in height, measured 10 by 50 feet and had a full hardwood floor for dancing. No one was injured and heavy rain and dead calm night aided the fire department in its good work of saving adjoining buildings.

Building All Ablaze
The fire alarm was turned in at 2:50 a.m. by Patsy Mazzei who saw the building aflame from his home several blocks away and ran to the street to break the signal box. The department responded promptly but, by the time the firemen arrived, the whole interior and roof was a seething mass of flame mounting high into the air, the shingles on the roof of the Trommer building next door having started to burn. The fire, as far as the adjoining building, which is uninsured, was quickly extinguished and with but slight damage then efforts were concentrated on bringing the main conflagration of the Auditorium under control which was effected with rapidity by stringing four lines of hose into the blazing structure. Sparks and embers were flying in the air for blocks around but it was raining hard and there was but little wind so they caused no further damage.

The fire is believed to have started in the front part of the building which was heated by a stove. As far as could be learned up to this morning, no one had been in the building since the owner left the city for the interior on Wednesday.

ON FLIGHT TO YUKON

Col. D. R. MacLaren and W. C. Shelly of Vancouver on Way North

Col. D. R. MacLaren D. S. O., Western Canada manager of the Canadian Airways, was believed to be still stormbound at Bella Bella at the end of the week in the course of a flight from Vancouver to Carcross, Yukon Territory, with W. C. Shelly, former provincial minister of finance, on board a Junkers monoplane. Col. MacLaren is flying Mr. Shelly north to visit some mining properties in the Yukon and Northern British Columbia in which the latter is interested.

At Carcross, Col. MacLaren will exchange the Junkers plane for a Fokker monoplane which has been engaged in commercial flying in the Yukon for the Canadian Airways with Norman Forrester as pilot. Col. MacLaren returning south with the French machine while Forrester continues his operations in the north with the German.

The MacLaren plane, having failed to put in an appearance here during the fine weather Saturday afternoon, might have gone direct north without stopping here, it was thought.

CHICAGO TO ANCHORAGE

A Loening amphibian flying machine put into Prince Rupert Saturday night at 7 o'clock from Vancouver on its way from Chicago to Anchorage, Alaska, in which district it will spend the summer engaged in mining work. The machine was still here today awaiting improvement in weather before proceeding north.

The Loening plane, hopping from Chicago on June 28, left Vancouver at 8 o'clock Saturday morning. Stops were made at Alert Bay and Swanson Bay. Lloyd H. Bauer is pilot of the plane, others on board being H. Dries, mining engineer, and his son, Arthur. The plane also has on board some heavy mining equipment.

Stops were made on the flight from Vancouver here, which took about six hours flying time, at Alert Bay and Swanson Bay. The ship, of which type few have been previously seen here, is equipped with a 300 h.p. Wright Whirlwind engine. Its speed is about 85 miles per hour.

The base of the season's operations will be made near McGrath, Alaska, and Mr. Dries expects to spend the summer there, calling here in the fall on his way south.

The machine had unsettled showery weather on the flight here from Vancouver and had to fly close to the water a good deal of the way owing to low ceiling.

Senator Key Pittman of United States Expects Success For His Plan—Great Britain Adopts Attitude of Raising Wholesale Commodity Prices

Pittman told the press that his expectation

Father Leray Is Moved to Dawson

Well Known Roman Catholic Church Priest is Transferred From Stewart to North

Rev. Father Emil M. Leray O. M. I., who has been stationed at Stewart for several years and is also well known at many other points in this district, has been transferred as parish priest of the Roman Catholic Church to Dawson, it is announced, and will be leaving shortly for the Yukon to assume his new ecclesiastical duties. Father Leray, who has been in the city from Stewart for the past few days has become very popular and highly esteemed during his ministry in this district and his departure will be regretted by numerous friends without as well as within the sphere of the church. He has been particularly active during his residence at Stewart in ex-servicemen's activities, having served in the ranks with the French Army during the Great War.

W. O. Fulton returned to the city on this afternoon's train from his summer home at Lakelse Lake.

was based on the prospect that India would agree to limit sales of her huge stocks resulting from the melting of silver coinage. He added that present indications are that the agreement will allow India to sell between 30,000,000 and 40,000,000 ounces of silver annually. Pittman believed that, if the agreement was reached, the price of silver would rise to forty cents per ounce and that, after the understanding had been carried out by legislative action, which he estimated would take about six months, the price would rise to fifty or sixty cents.

Speaking of conference matters in the House of Commons today, Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, declared that Great Britain's basic policy was the raising of wholesale commodity prices. He declared that this was not possible by monetary action alone although certain monetary factors must be present as necessary preliminaries to raising price levels. He maintained Great Britain's middle of the road policy between gold and non-gold countries, concluding by advising to "keep our heads."

Capt. J. R. Elfert returned on this afternoon's train from a visit to Lakelse Lake.

DEATH OF NOVELIST

Sir Anthony Hope Hawkins Passes Away in England at Age of Seventy

LONDON, July 10: (Canadian Press)—Sir Anthony Hope Hawkins, famous writer, died here on Saturday. He was 70 years of age.

The law lost a disciple when Sir Anthony Hope Hawkins found in it a task master that was interfering with his invention of stories.

Writing was only a side line at first, but, more and more, the man who used the pen-name of Anthony Hope resented the intrusion of legal work on his time for spinning romances.

It was not, however, until after the popular success of "The Prisoner of Zenda," which was published when he was 31, that he definitely turned "professional," as he put it and dropped his legal tomes for the lively world of his imagination.

All told he produced some two dozen novels and then, in 1927, published his memoirs. He was knighted in 1918.

He made several visits to America. Early in 1903 he crossed the Atlantic on an informal trip. On the boat on which he returned was the girl whom he married a short time later, Miss Elizabeth Sheldon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Sheldon of New York. They became the parents of two sons and a daughter.

When not in London, Sir Anthony and Lady Hawkins lived in a quaint, old world home in Surrey.

Sir Anthony was born February 9, 1863, the second son of Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Hawkins.

The boy was first sent to Marlborough and then to Oxford, ranking high as a student and becoming president of the Oxford Union. He was admitted to the bar at Middle

WHIFFLETS From the Waterfront

Rev. Father J. Byrne Grant, parish priest of the Roman Catholic Church here, was a recent recruit to the ranks of local yachtsmen and is a very familiar and popular figure these days around the floats of the Prince Rupert Rowing & Yacht Club of which he has become a member following his purchase of Norman Daglish's pleasure boat. It is Father Grant's first experience as a yachtsman and he is deriving a great "kick" out of the pleasures as well as trials and tribulations of a gasboat owner's life.

The San Diego pleasure yacht Chalis, with its owner, C. Boynton, accompanied by his wife and nephew, on board, has been a guest vessel at the floats of the Prince Rupert Rowing & Yacht Club for several days, having been held up here on account of unfavorable weather in continuation of a cruise to Ketchikan and elsewhere in Alaska. The Chalis, a vessel of 12 tons register, forty feet in length and comfortably appointed within as well as of attractive appearance without, was a visitor here previously some two or three years ago. She cruised leisurely north from Nanaimo to this port and left yesterday for the north.

Dick Wynne, after attending school in Vancouver, was here last evening bound for his Anyox home.

Temple in 1887 and mingled law with writing, contributing articles and stories to papers. He also looked with interest on a political career, but his ambitions faded when, as a Liberal candidate for Parliament, he was defeated in the general election of 1892.

Sky Line Hiking in the Rockies

Organized trail hiking in the Canadian Rockies will be inaugurated for the coming year by a hike slated to start at Lake Louise on August 4th. An increasing interest is being taken in trail hiking in the Canadian Rockies, and a committee consisting chiefly of experienced members of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies and the Alpine Club of Canada, has undertaken the organization of a new order called the Sky Line Trail Hikers. The inaugural hike will start this summer on August 4th from Lake Louise and tramp over the Saddleback through Paradise Valley and over Sentinel Pass to Moraine Lake, where the first night's camp will be made. On Saturday, August 5th, the party will hike from Moraine Lake over Wenchehenna and Opabin Passes and will have the thrill of crossing two glaciers before arriving at Lake O'Hara. On Sunday the hikers will be able to take in the magnificent scenery around Lake MacArthur, Lake Ossa, and Mount Odaray, and members of the party will be able to enjoy the excellent fishing in Lake O'Hara. The Pow-Wow will be held on Monday, August 6th, after which the members will like to Waapta and catch the evening train back to Lake Louise. The magnificent scenery of the Canadian Rockies and the pure joy of achievement, together with the comforts assured by the arrangements made by the Canadian Pacific Railway make this one of the finest and most healthful of holiday outings.

We received yesterday a letter from a lady living up country who for years has used Pacific Milk, using no other.

"I do not know when we first began using Pacific Milk," she writes. "It is years now. It seemed so much better than any milk we had had that we kept on from the first can."
The letter is a long one and we will quote from it again.

MOSCOW SENDS PLANES AND SHIPS TO ASSIST MATTERN FROM ANADYR

Another Plane?
NEW YORK, July 10.—James Mattern's backers in New York were considering the possibility yesterday of providing him with an entirely new plane with which to continue his world flight from Anadyr.

Northland Withdrawn
WASHINGTON, D.C., July 10: (Canadian Press)—United States coastguard officials stated Saturday that Commander S. V. Parker of the cutter Northland had been given permission to go to the Siberian coast to rescue James Mattern, United States round the world flyer, but a later announcement said that the vessel was being withdrawn from the relief operations and was returning to Nome to outfit in resumption of necessary medical and dental service work among people of the isolated outposts of Bering Sea and the north coast of Alaska, leaving relief work for the world flyer, at least temporarily, in the hands of the Soviet authorities until such time as the Alexander party is able to reach Siberia.

The Northland has been engaged in searching for Mattern ever since he became missing.

With the departure of William Alexander, Fred Fetterman and Thomas Abbey by airplane for Juneau and the return of Harold Person by train to Terrace, the centre of activities in the Mattern relief expedition shifted from Prince Rupert to the capital of Alaska over the week-end.

Alexander and Fetterman hopped off at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon for Juneau with Pilot W. L. McCluskey in Col. Victor Spencer's Junkers seaplane "City of Prince George" and Abbey, for whom there was no room in the Spencer plane, got away to Juneau at 2:40 yesterday afternoon in the Alaska Southern Airways Lockheed-Vega seaplane "Chicago" piloted by Bob Ellis which was sent down from Ketchikan to get him and take him north to rejoin his companions in the Alaska Capital where arrangements were being made for aerial transportation for the three members of the party to Nome or Siberia with the intention of either assisting James Mattern in getting his plane in readiness to resume his world flight or else bring him to Prince Rupert enroute to Terrace and fly him home to New York in the relief plane "King's Brewery" which is temporarily grounded following its forced landing in a hay field near Terrace last week.

Harold Person left by train Saturday night on his return to Terrace to stand by the plane and check it up for its return flight east on the return of the relief party from the north.

Will Meet Mattern
Alexander, on leaving here, stated that it was his intention to fly north with Fetterman and Abbey and meet Mattern, continuing until he meets him, no matter how far north, pick him up and bring him back here enroute to Terrace. In the event of failure after all to secure suitable aircraft for the trip to Nome or Siberia, he will use marine craft. He is resolved no matter how to get Mattern and bring him south as soon as possible.

In the event of Mattern's plane still being in such shape as it may be able to fly out after being reconditioned, it is Alexander's intention to go right to Siberia with his two companions, both of whom are mechanics who took a prominent part in the building of the Mattern ship, and recondition the ship for the rest of the world flight and come south with it via Nome and Fairbanks.

Christening of Greek Child By Orthodox Priest

Picturesque Ceremony Last Evening When Young Son of James Killas Was Formally Taken Into The Church

Nearly all the Greeks of the city, about half a hundred in number, gathered last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Killas, Graham Avenue, Westview, to witness the picturesque and solemn ceremony of christening their youngest son, Christ James Killas. The god-parents were Mr. and Mrs. George Christy and official witnesses of the event were three pretty little girls, Annie and Nora Postulo and Emily Christopher, while the oldest brother, Nick, swung the censer.

Rev. A. Mandilaris of the Greek Orthodox Church at Vancouver performed the ceremony in which the god-parents made solemn promises to see that the little chap was brought up in the faith of the church. A font had been provided in the centre of the living room which was filled with warm water duly consecrated and mingled with oil and, at the appointed time, little Christ James was brought forth in the garb of the first parents of the race, anointed with pure olive oil from head to foot and then dipped three times in consecrated water, typifying the washing away of original sin and his adoption into the church. Also he was marked with the sign of the cross, while the candles in the hands of the witnesses burned brightly, the incense fumes permeated the temporary chapel and the priest chanted or intoned the words of the beautiful Greek baptismal service. Directly after the christening the old custom of distributing money was followed, nickels being scrambled for by the children and pieces of silver being handed to each guest.

To celebrate the event, a sumptuous supper was then spread and young and old, filling two rooms of the house, sat down at one time to eat, drink and be merry. Music followed the banquet and, before breaking up, Rev. Mr. Mandilaris addressed the gathering at some length, urging them, while adopting the duties of citizenship in Canada to hold fast to the traditions that had made their nation great in the days of old and to carry out the teachings of their church.

The gathering concluded with the drinking of the health of Mr. and Mrs. Killas and family and the final blessing of the priest.

'Animal Kingdom' On Screen Here

Ann Harding, Leslie Howard and Myrna Loy in Leading Roles in First of Week Picture

One might regard "The Animal Kingdom," coming to the Capitol Theatre screen here at the first of this week, as a battle of art against commercial enterprise, with Ann Harding and Leslie Howard, abetted by Leni Stengel and Donald Dilloway, ranged on the side of art, and Myrna Loy, Nell Hamilton, Ilka Chase and Henry Stephenson ranged solidly on the side of enterprise.

The title is based on the belief that human beings, in their love lives, are still living pretty much in the animal kingdom. The picture should provoke controversies for weeks to come.

William Lambie returned to the city on Saturday afternoon's train from a trip to Hazelton.
