The Letter Box

OBJECTS TO WORK ON TRAIL

Editor, Daily News:—

It is understood that the projected trail or road to the summit of Mount Oldfield has been suggested to be included in the relief program. Under the new agreement the unemployed, married or single, would have nothing to show for their labors. They will only have the memory of wet weather, wet feet, and will have neither the spirit nor equipment to take part in the winter sports that the road is intended for. Those who are so keen on sport can easily borrow the tools and a few hours' work each week would make a trail sufficient for their purpose. To ask the unemployed to work on a project of this sort, the utilitarian value of which is nil, is an imposition. The personal records of the majority of the unemployed will bear witness that it is not through laziness but through principle that they demur at being asked to work without pay. This will not bring back good times. A nation's best market lies within its own boundaries and, if the mass of the people is deprived of purchasing power, why abuse them further? Shelley's lines on "Slavery" apply today as forcibly as they did a hundred years ago:

"Tis to work and have such pay
"As keeps life from day to day
"In your frame as in a cell
"For the tyrant's use to dwell."

Roads built under such conditions are in the same class as the slave labor of Egypt and Rome—regardless of the humanitarian aspects—the effect it has on men to be forced to work for nothing, men who have been brought up with some measure of self-respect and respect for their country's laws and institutions.

This is a case not only for organized labor and the employed worker to unite with the unemployed worker but should be taken up with all parliamentary representatives and candidates as to what sort of society is desirable—free men or serfs? A road to Mt. Oldfield under these conditions would be an everlasting disgrace!
CHARLES CHAPMAN.

CHENOSKI LOST OUT

But Local Lightweight Put Up Game Fight Before Yielding Technical K.O. at Ketchikan

According to radio reports last night, Pete Chenoski of this city suffered a technical knock-out in the sixth and final round of a boxing main event at Ketchikan at the hands of Eddie Quanto, tough Filipino lightweight, whom he was called upon to take on at the last minute. Chenoski is said to have made an impressive showing which went over strong with a crowd of some four hundred or so fight fans.

SPORT CHAT

Last Saturday evening's pugilistic entertainment at the arena of the Empire Social Club marked Harry Macey's debut as a promoter in the local cauliflower industry and there was a large and appreciative audience on hand. There was plenty of action in the cap, all but one of the six bouts on the program going the full time. The crowd of fans taxed the capacity of the arena and augured well for the proposed revival of the boxing business in Prince Rupert. Native people were much in evidence, being attracted, no doubt, by Bright being one of the headliners while Indians were also featured in a special event.

Nina Gurvich had nothing to worry about at any stage of the main event with Steve Bright of the Naas River. He was much too clever for the rushing native who forced the fighting a good deal of the way and showed plenty of spirit and a real willingness to mix things up. The native boy displays plenty of courage and promise, has a good, useful left slash and, with some proper training and management, looks like he has possibilities for developing into a real boxer.

Bright rushed Gurvich from the opening gong. Nina covering up and letting the native swing on him. Bright soon slowed up and then Nina opened up and sent him to his knees with a right swing to the jaw. The Indian looked surprised. It was the only knockdown of the bout. In the second, Bright got in a few light backhand slaps to the face with his left. Nina responding with hard rights to the cheek. The third was slow as Nina showed a tendency to lay off. Bright took advantage of the opportunity and won this round with lefts to the face which did not hurt Nina much.

They mixed it hard and fast in the fourth. After Bright had led vigorously with head clouts, Nina gave him a bloody nose with some hard rights. It was the first blood. The fifth was again rather slow. The native was tiring and beginning to hold on. Gurvich took the points on such action as there was. The Indian rushed in at the opening of the sixth and forced Nina against the ropes but Nina continued to administer stiff rights to the face, holding Bright off a couple of times with his left to do so. Before the opening of the sixth round, Jack McEvoy was introduced to the audience as a challenger of the winner.

Bronson Hunt did the leading pretty well throughout the semi-final, rushing hard in the first round and obviously distressing Chuck Hickey with right uppercuts to the chin. Bronson slowed up in the second and clinched, Hickey making the most of things in close. Hickey, landing more cleanly, gave a better account of himself in the third and had Bronson covering up. Hunt again did the leading in the fourth but Chuck was better on infighting.

Wesley and Ames, the Indians who staged a special event, would have been good in a wrestling match. The crowd got a kick out of the thing. Ames is said to be a deaf mute but he is no dumb bell as far as wanting to slug is concerned and had it not been an exhibition, he would have been fairly called the winner.

NEW SHOP IS OPENING

One of the prettiest little specialty shops in the city is being opened tomorrow morning by Mrs. M. Dougherty on Third Avenue on the corner opposite the Besner Block.

Mrs. Dougherty is specializing in wool suits, dresses, pullovers with matching caps and accessories.

Made-to-measure suits are among the lines handled by this new shop.

Mrs. Dougherty is asking the ladies of the city to call and see her at her new shop and inspect the goods. She has had a good deal of merchandising experience and is in close touch with the market and can give her friends the benefit of her advice.

EDICT IS PROTESTED

Married Men Express Opposition Against City Commissioner's Working Terms

It was decided at the special meeting of the Unemployed Councils held in the Canadian Labor Defence League Hall last night to protest at the edict of the city commissioner or "no work, no relief" for married men.

The principal complaint is that there is no provision for replacement of wearing apparel and most of the unemployed are now short of clothes, particularly of the sort necessary for work in the bush. In this climate rubber boots and slickers are necessary. There is also declared to be an insufficient allowance for food. The bread-winner on his return from his labors will, it is claimed, naturally consume more than his share and his family will have to be on short rations.

Six months ago when the relief was changed to the provincial rate it was guaranteed, the unemployed declare, that there would be no work demanded, it being recognized by the municipal authorities at that time that it would be unfair to ask men to work on the reduced allowance. There is also said to be the injustice of the man with the large family having to put in a period of 15 to 20 days—practically a full month's time in this climate—while the man with the small family can clear off his indebtedness in a short time. Under the present system of civic relief the purchasing power is very limited and a return to the scrip system is declared to be necessary to take advantage of the cheapest market.

The work now to be performed is wood cutting for the schools and public buildings. It was charged at the meeting that, in the first mile and a half of the proposed road to the wood-lot, there is not enough timber to corduroy the road.

The resolution adopted at a special meeting last Friday was reaffirmed, "that no work be performed until such time as an adequate wage be forthcoming to cover a necessary increase in food, provide special working clothes, boots, slickers, also adequate clothing for dependents, medical and dental attention, money to be paid in cash and worker to be allowed to work as long as necessary in order to comply with his requirements according to the standard of living laid down in the Labor Gazette.

A night letter was ordered sent to the minister of labor, Ottawa, stating that destitute married men are being asked to work with no provision for clothing or shoes.

Oscar Larson occupied the chair of failing to see that his boy attended school was dismissed with a warning by Magistrate McClymont in city police court yesterday.

WHIFFLETS From the Waterfront

W. E. Boeing's handsome yacht Taconite of Vancouver, largest and most pretentious of the southern pleasure fleet to visit the port so far this summer, arrived here shortly before noon yesterday morning, having her owner and party on board. The cruise is a leisurely one and the party is enjoying some fishing along the way although, so far, it had found water a little too high for much success. The night before arriving here, the Taconite spent at Klew Nuggitt in Grenville Channel. A Boeing flying boat, with Pilot C. L. Scott in charge, is being used in connection with the cruise of the Taconite and arrived here at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, a short time before the yacht, tying up at the hangar of the Northern British Columbia Airways. The Taconite is well known here, having paid frequent visits to this port in the past in the course of cruising voyages. The Taconite left yesterday afternoon to do some cruising in local waters before returning south. The flying boat hopped off at noon today.

With party of commercial men on board, the Vancouver power cruiser Pride of the West was here over the week-end, tying up at the floats of the Armour Salvage Co. The vessel left early yesterday afternoon for Anyox. Stewart and other northern points in continuation of her business cruise.

Visiting the Skeena River at the end of the week in celebration of his recent release from the Prince Rupert General Hospital where he had been a patient for a week or so, Skipper George Frizzell had the misfortune to have the Laura F II sink at her moorings at Port Essington. The vessel has been raised and is expected back in port within a day or so little the worse for her immersion. No details have yet been received as to the cause of the mishap.

CHEMISTRY DISCUSSED

B. E. Bailey Interesting Speaker Before Prince Rupert Labor College

Under the auspices of the Prince Rupert Labor College on Friday evening last the college adherents and friends heard a most interesting and instructive lecture delivered by B. E. Bailey, the subject being "Chemistry in Relation to Human Welfare." The lecturer dealt with the subject matter in a most capable manner and, in an elaborate way, he pointed out how the science of chemistry had become an effective servant. Particularly in aid of human welfare, he touched upon the discoveries of the science. He said its service had been extended to many varied processes essential to the good of man. He cited as instances discovery in minimizing the destructive fruit pest, in the killing of the insect, destruction of mosquito, the house fly with Fly-Tox, the moth with the moth ball, the discovery of a poison to kill bacteria, the cause of disease in the human system, the cure of diseases such as diabetes with insulin and cancer with radium, the art of tempering metals such as malleable iron or steel, the art of the hardening process of steel and the wonderful discovery of the anesthetic alleviating pain in surgical work, in the purifying of foodstuffs and the elimination of elements therefrom injurious to life.

For the delivery of so interesting a lecture the lecturer was accorded a hearty vote of thanks.

HARRY ZEFFERTT is "DAD"

STEWART, July 4.—On June 29 a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Zeffertt. Mother and child are both doing well.

Having on board the largest list of tourists to visit the port so far this season, C.P.R. steamer Princess Louise, Capt. Arthur Slater, arrived here at 9 o'clock yesterday morning from Vancouver and sailed a couple of hours later for Skagway and other Alaska points. There were in all 198 passengers on board the vessel, 170 of these being round trip tourists. Five persons left the vessel here while about ten went north aboard her.
