CRUISER WON OUT

Prince Rupert All-Stars Lose 3 to Nil in Soccer

The smart and fast football team of H. M. S. Dragon had no difficulty in demonstrating its superiority over an all-star Prince Rupert eleven by a score of three to nil last evening, thus retaining possession of the Hanson Cup which the Dragon has held since her last visit here three years ago. The biggest crowd of fans to see a soccer match here so far this season was on hand despite an uncomfortable drizzle of rain in which the game was played. The score at half time was two to nil in favor of the warship which played down hill in the first period. Prince Rupert undoubtedly suffered through being without the services of two of its star players, Chenoski and McKay, for whom Gilker and Johnny Pierce relieved. The match was, on the whole, fairly well contested.

C. C. F. CASE PRESENTED

New Social Order Designed to Ensure Livelihood For People in Return For Work Urged by Dr. Telford

ECONOMIC DISCOURSE

Middle Course in Bringing About Economic Change Advocated—Clashes With "Reds"

"If you wish to continue the present collapsing economic system for another five years, vote for the old line party candidates. If, on the other hand, you desire a change, support the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation. But, above all, be careful of the type of men you choose and see to it that they are men of honesty, character and integrity, imbued with the ideal of service to mankind and not mere players of politics."

Such was the exhortation of Dr. Lyle Telford, prominent physician and surgeon of Vancouver, in addressing a well-attended meeting in the Moose Hall here last night in support of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation political movement. Dr. Telford, who has a free and easy, good-natured platform manner, won the sympathy of his audience from the outset and inspired a good measure of enthusiasm among his listeners. Particularly was this evident at the close of the meeting when some questioners, with obvious "red" tendencies, attempted to face the doctor with embarrassing questions. One of these individuals who questioned the speaker's sincerity in carrying C. C. F. gospel into company towns and became quite abusive about it, was ordered removed from the hall after he had refused the order of the chairman, T. J. Shenton, to take his seat.

Serious Situation

Dr. Telford, who spoke for about an hour and a half, referred in opening to the serious problem which faced the most of people today of earning a livelihood. Increasingly great numbers of people were being ground down under the present economic system and unemployment, while not a new thing, was becoming increasingly serious. He predicted that, despite what might be said to the contrary, prosperity could not return under the present system. The situation was one which must be faced seriously. A new plan must be adopted in the applying of human energy to the natural resources so as to produce a living for the people.

The speaker condemned the present system under which the ownership of natural resources and means of production of wealth and the control of the banking system were centred in and exploited by a small group to which some 96% of mankind had to pay tribute in the way of rents, profits, interest and graft. There was an abundance of wealth in the world, yet men and women were virtually starving to death. The workers had exhausted their pittance of wages as a result of the owning class closing down the wheels of industry owing to over-production. Unless there was a radical change in the whole economic system, conditions were bound to become even worse.

Dr. Telford described money as a mere acknowledgment of production of wealth in the way of food, manufactured products or something of social value which people mutually required. Money, in itself, was not of value as a commodity (Continued on Page Four)

Master William Herridge, son of Hon. W. D. Herridge, Canadian Minister to Washington and Mrs. Herridge, and nephew of Canada's Prime Minister, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, is seen here with his mother, both of them apparently enjoying themselves at Canada's Great Maritime playground, the Katy's Cove beach of the Algonquin Hotel, St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, New Brunswick, where they are spending their vacation. Major Herridge joined them there for a while.

AT RATHER infrequent intervals Prince Rupert is visited by vessels of the British Navy. They are always welcome. Both officers and men find something of interest in the city and district and Prince Rupert people find it a good thing to meet men from the old land who have travelled and to get their viewpoint on world affairs.

At a time like this when there is much loose talk going around it gives us a feeling of stability to feel that we are still in close touch with the British Navy—the fighting force that has distinguished itself in the past and that still holds premier position.

We are glad to know that members of the ship's company will take part in our festivities next week and that we shall have them with us for so long a time.

The following local business people join heartily in this welcome and invite the visitors to call and get acquainted:

Why stay RUN-DOWN?

Fruit-a-tives give new life. The only thing that makes me miserable now is the thought that for years I struggled along in a run-down condition, when, if I had known about 'Fruit-a-tives' I would have been well. I was constipated, bilious and suffered greatly from nerve headaches. 'Fruit-a-tives' cured me up generally. They really have done for the world of good.

HOW FRANCE DID IT

After the war France found herself in a position somewhat resembling that of Canada today. Borrowings had been large and interest charges were high. Instead of cutting the rates of interest, the currency was inflated until three-fourths of the internal debt was wiped out. In Germany they went one better than France. They gradually reduced the value of the mark until it altogether lost its value and the whole internal debt of the nation was wiped out.

In United States a commencement has been made in controlled currency inflation but not much has been done so far. Great Britain has to some extent done the same and so has Canada, although the latter does not officially admit it.

In Canada it seems as if the government would have to inflate the currency or reduce the rates of interest. The difficulty with this country is that much money has been borrowed abroad and payments of interest have to be made at a disadvantage if inflation is carried on.

FAILURE OF CONFERENCE

The failure of the Economic Conference was due to a difference of opinion between the gold standard countries and those which have gone off the gold standard. The Royal Bank monthly report says:

"Great Britain and the United States have contended that first efforts should be directed toward the restoration of prices, profits and activity of internal industry. When these results have once been attained, the next major problem will be that of securing the stability of the restored price level. Relative stability of international exchange will follow automatically when internal price levels have once been stabilized."

Sockeye Fishing Season Closes—Larger Local Halibut Boats to Continue Operations—Arrival of H. M. S. Dragon is Event of Interest

A very disappointing 1933 sockeye fishing season comes to a close on the Skeena and Naas Rivers this evening with the termination of operation of sockeye nets but all canneries on the Skeena River are expected to continue operations for some time further in the hope of filling their cans with fall varieties. Seining for pink salmon in the central area is now general and some gill netting with coho nets will also be continuing. With the canneries, apparently, prepared to put up all varieties, it is expected that operations may continue at some of the plants until well into October.

Seining in the Naas River district has been ordered closed today resulting in the automatic termination of canning operations there for the season.

Despite the order of the International Fisheries Commission closing halibut fishing in Area No. 2 of the Pacific Coast on August 29 owing to the expectation that the quota for the season will have been reached by that time, it is expected that at least a dozen or so of the larger vessels of the Prince Rupert fleet will continue fishing operations in the further westward Area No. 3 until possibly into November. Of course, a large number of the large American vessels will also continue operating there until well into fall, there being no prospect of the Area No. 3 quota limit being reached for some time. This will mean that landings will continue to be made at Prince Rupert for an indefinite period despite the near approaching closing down of fishing in the nearer Area No. 2 where the majority of the smaller Canadian boats operate.

Capt. Norman Brodhurst was in port for a few hours yesterday afternoon with the packer Coho with which he is now engaged in packing pink salmon from Mussell Inlet and Laredo Sound to Inverness cannery. The Coho, which is under charter from the B. C. Packers to Inverness, is being used in place of the Klemtu Cannery which is at present laid up with engine trouble. The J. P. Todd interests, in turn, have the packer Provincial under charter to the B. C. Packers at Nanaimo.

An event of major interest for the local waterfront, of course, was the arrival and mooring yesterday afternoon off headquarters of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve on the local Canadian National wharf of the trim, grey light cruiser H. M. S. Dragon of the American-West Indies squadron of the Royal Navy which is in port for a six-day visit which will terminate on Thursday of next week. Hundreds of spectators lined the dock as the warship glided smartly up the harbor, took a long swing and gradually warped into her mooring, the strains of the music of the ship's band being heard from the after deck while squads of sailors and marines stood at attention at various points on the vessel's decks as the cruiser was brought to a stop. Soon after the arrival of the warship, City Commissioner W. J. Alder, Lieut. Walter Hume, local commanding officer of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve, and other officials went on board to call officially upon Capt. W. F. Wake-Walker O. B. E., commanding officer, and extend an official welcome to Prince Rupert. Prince Rupert has prepared to give a right, warm welcome to H. M. S. Dragon and her officers and men and, during the ship's stay, a full program of entertainment is planned. Hard times or no hard times, visits from vessels of His Majesty's fleet to Prince Rupert are always acceptable and the stay of H. M. S. Dragon will be no exception to this rule.

Short reckonings make long friends.

C. C. F. CASE PRESENTED

and its issuance should be a matter for the state and the state alone to control. There should be no limit to money except that of the needs of the people and their capacity for production. Certainly there was no justification of its exploitation as a medium of exchange by a minority of the people.

The C. C. F., the speaker emphasized, did not want chaos but merely to take over the present economic system as a going concern and readjust it in an orderly way. The idea was to take over means of production of wealth with the object of making and distributing the things the people required, not with the object of making profits but with the idea of providing the people with the necessities of life in the way of food, shelter, clothing, etc. After all, this was what the most of people were striving to provide themselves with today and many were being ground down to early death by the worry over their inability to do so.

War Upon Poverty

"Let us declare war upon poverty," urged the speaker, "and conscript the natural resources, the machinery for the production and distribution of wealth and the services of the men and women of the country say between the ages of 20 and 56." A plan for the organization and administration of a new economic system designed to socialize the natural resources, means of distribution and transportation, banking, education, health, social services and recreation was outlined by the speaker with the aid of a large chart. The object was to get men and women back at work and give them full value for their toil and provide them with economic security. Under this system, he said that would not work neither should he eat nor should he that would work be allowed to starve. The greatest opportunity possible would be afforded for self-development of every citizen. A prosperous country the speaker described as one that "produced all its people needed and gave its people access to all that it produced." Human rights should be placed before the rights of vested interests. To secure health, happiness and security for the people was the ideal of the C. C. F. To effect all this, men must be selected to govern public affairs who were pledged to put a new economic system into effect by endeavoring to remove some of the old abuses. Honest and sober men must be selected to meet the problem.

The British Columbia provincial election was the first opportunity that the C. C. F. had to help in bringing about a new social order. It was a people's movement entirely and, so far, it was meeting with a vastly greater response than had ever been anticipated. The movement appeared due to become even better than a strong minority which at first, had been the most that had been hoped for it.

In a question period which followed before Dr. Telford left to catch the evening train for the interior, the speaker emphasized the fact that the intention of the C. C. F. was to put into effect economic changes by constitutional methods. He urged that a local candidate be placed in the field but that care be exercised in the choice of candidate who should be a person of character, honesty and integrity. Among the critical questioners of Dr. Telford was William Chapman, local candidate of the unemployed. A collection which was taken resulted in the sum of $30.34 obtained.
