The Russinns re-started to eat under the new policy inaugurated by Stalin when he ousted Trotsky, the heir Plan was forced on the people in a ruthless and unprecedented manner. Hundreds of thousands of giants, Mujiks, were driven by force from their lands and packed in box cars destined for the forests of Siberia. Anyone with more than two cows and 35 acres of land was considered a kulak (bourgeois) therefore, to be ousted to make way for the collective farms, and for the introduction; of the tractors. The pencilled pledge given by Lenin to the Russian peasants in 1918 to divide the land, was discarded by Stalin in 1928, when he gave orders to drive by force the peasants from their holdings.

This ruthless and insane way of pretending that man might live outside of his nature or act according to the precepts of preconceived theories, was proved futile right; under the eyes of Stalin. The struggle between the forced collectivism of the Soviets and man's inborn individualism, has marked a very significant victory for the latter. In June, 1923, Stalin in a famous address said: "The equalitarian idea must be abolished in the sphere of wages." This is doing away with the doctrine with which the Utopia had started in Walker, special investigator connected with the provincial fire marshal's department at Vancouver, conducted an inquiry into circumstances surrounding the fire which destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dawson in Smithers on Christmas

The hearing commenced Wednesday morning and continued until midnight. Resuming next morning. evidence was taken until well along in the afternoon. The enquiry was held before Magistrate H. B. Campbell, who, at the conclusion of the hearing, deferred his judgment until such time as the reams of evidence had been typewritten and he ha an opportunty to read it over.

Mr. and Mis. E. C. Dawson, who were residing in the house with he elder Dawsons at the time of the fire, were subjected to a gruelling cross-examination at the Jobs of Thousands of Railwaymen hands of the investigator. Their evidence was highly contradictory at times, and out of this confuct of testimony there evclved consid-OTTAWA, Jan. 27-J. B. Protection for Pedes-

At the regular weekly luncheon of the Prince Rupert Rotary Club.

Lieut.-Col. S. D. Johnston gave an interesting talk on insurance, particularly in relation to protection against reckless or careless drivers of motor cars. The new legislation

The principal reason or purpose of this act was to protect the ped-

Heretofore the pedestrian has loses income and incurs expense.

He naturally turns to the man who has caused him to be laced in this position and he has to go to court to get compensation. The court awards him damages to cover his losses and the wherewithall to pay but when he comes to collect he is liable to find that the man who injured him has nothing but an old car. The same applies to a person passed this Act in an endeavour to give the penestrian a chance to recover. Even this act does not give 100 per cent protection to the man or property that is injured or damaged. For there is a big loophole-a man has to have lost his license

RADIO STARS

Romantic Comedy in Which Air Artists Are Stars Showing Tonight and Tomorrow

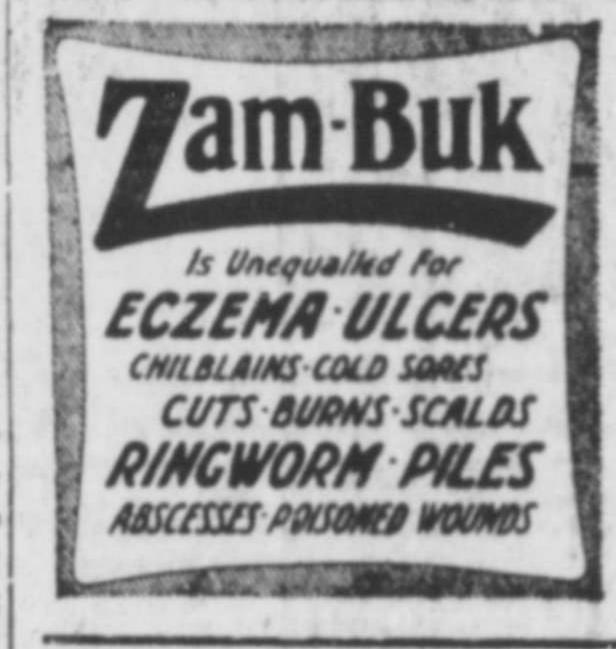

Leading radio stars make their bow to the movie public in company with a cast of screen favorites in "The Big Broadcast," romanti comedy set against the background of a radio studio, which comes to the Capitol Theatre tonight and tomorrow.

Bing Crosby, air ace, with Stuart Erwin and Leila Hyams, screen players, head the cast of the production. Kate Smith, the Boswell Sisters, the Mills Brothers, Cab Calloway and his orchestra, Vincent Lopez and his orchestra, Burns and Allen, and Arthur Tracy, (The Street Singer) head the radio cast.

The picture does not depend for its effectiveness on the mere presence of names, however. A definite plot holds it together.

It has to do with Crosby's affair with Sharon Lynne, which he takes so seriously that he never gets to the studio in time to broadcast. He loses his job, much to the dismay net only of himself, but of Miss Hyams, who is rather too fond of him. But his dismay is even greater when Miss Lynne marries a broker. leaving him flat!

At this point he meets Erwin, who also sad-first because Miss Hyms has abandoned him; second because a "dame from Dallas" has aken him for $100,000. But when e finds that Miss Hyams is infatuated with Crosby, he spends his remaining $900.000 buying the station and a network to restore Bing to his job and make Leila happy. This leads to further amusing consequences which are straightened by means of a big broadcast in which all the stars participate.
