EDITING THE CANNED DRAMA

In appointing a Board of Censors to censor the moving picture films sent for exhibition to Ontario, the Ontario Government has performed a duty that of late had been forced upon it. Obnoxious as all legislative interference is to the lover of liberty, it is very obvious that dangers lurk in the unhampered and unedited moving picture show.

This is no reflection on the value or usefulness of the moving picture entertainment. It is an outcome of the great place which the moving picture show now occupies in the world of entertainment. H. Johnston Cow Creek P.O. Box 187 From the early films showing horses jumping, soldiers marching, and ships sailing, etc., the moving picture show has come to be a vehicle of drama. Whole companies of well paid actors are permanently employed in acting vivid dramas before the bioscope. One big firm We've just received from Cassidy's, advertises for plots, and many a newspaper man in the bigger cities turns over a ten dollar bill by dramatising little incidents of the street for the moving picture shows. This has opened up a new field of entertainment and with it new dangers.

A few weeks ago in Prince Rupert among a number of interesting and instructive series of drama-pictures was one that portrayed an attempted rape and a successful murder. No notice was taken of it by the police authorities. It was a child's description of how a woman Linoleum split a man's head open with a hatchet, until the blood ran down his Enamelware face that induced us to go and see what the subject really was. On Blinds that occasion the audience was principally composed of children. Curtains Possibly the underlying horror of it did not deeply impress them—it Blankets did not appear to do so-but no one will question the impropriety of Mirrors allowing such a film to be exhibited.

Most of these films come from abroad, where perhaps the sensibilities of audiences are less keen than in English-speaking countries. The limit was certainly reached by the Parisian show house that exhibited a film showing the Caesarian operation as a special feature to the general public. The plea was advanced that it was an educational film. So perhaps it is, for the student of obstetrics, but for no other witness If mere argument that "it shows you how it's done," is sufficient to determine the educational character of a film, even the rape and murder type of picture drama might qualify as educational.

In Toronto the moving picture shows have been under a police censor for over a year with marked benefit both to the interesting character of the films shown, and to the patronage. Parents need not question whether the subjects will be unsuited to children's minds. Skeens Land District District of Coast Range & The character of the show is assured them. But for the millions who lead drab, unemotional lives some form of dramatic entertainment is needed. And the moving picture show has become the peoples' drama.

Because the moving picture show fills so large a place in the mental life of the people, and especially of the young people, care should be taken to see that improper subjects are not portrayed upon the screens.

The action of the Ontario Government will commend itself to B.C., occupation married woman, intends to apply for permission to purchase the following described thoughtful people who perceive the potency for good or evil that lies in the moving picture entertainment.

NAMES OF NEW COLORS

This Summer You Appear Clad in "Bamboo" or You Wear 'Rhubarb.'

or the new names for the shades of the old colors, are charming. For instance, there is "purfum," a light lavender, the color of an odor, if there were such a thing, and we are told by the oculist that there is; "bamboo," the shade of the cured stalk of that plant; "sandalwood," the brown of that wood; "rhubarb," a green as of the first shoots of the spring Alice blue, has appeared as "claire de lune." Another exquisite shade of light blue is called "quaker lady," which will need no description to those who remember the charming little woodland flower of the name. Some of the color names are not so poetic. The Erring Ones Reply to the Council's Letter-Alderman Hilditch Withdraws His Resignation But Newton Wants Him to Withdraw His Challenge

Cue for Hilditch

With this, however, the discussion was dropped, and the council proceeded to take up some unfinished business amongst other matters that of the Dunedin Block introduced by Alderman Morrissey.

Alderman Morrissey wanted to know why after this block had been condemned by the city council and ordered to be demolished it was still standing.

The Mayor said the matter was hung up by a dispute in the law courts between two parties concerned with the Dunedin block. Alderman Morrissey wanted to Do away with this. Patronize a white know by whose authority the demolition had been delayed.

A Voice from Afar

There was some desultory discussion. Suddenly the City Clerk remembered that the matter had AND CULVERTS been left in the hands of Alderman Smith and Alderman Hilditch.

> "When was this?" was the question. Alderman Smith was absent but a voice from the inmost recesses of the Mayoral sanctum betrayed the presence of Alderman Hilditch.

"It was in March last," piped the distant voice. Hilditch Comes Back

A ripple of laughter ran round the small audience and the aldermen, and the bright idea occurred to the Mayor that since Alderman Hilditch had withdrawn his reslatest about the Dunedin Block, he might be asked to resume his seat. Alderman Hilditch did so tearing himslef reluctantly apart from the cigar with which he was fumigating the Mayor's room.

On his return to the festive board the matter of the Dunedin Block was somehow sidetracked, and the City Engineer was summoned to take up the details of the sewer plans and proposals with the council.
