Marriage, Reeve McRae of Cornwall, Shot Man Dead.

(Canadian Press Despatch) Cornwall, July 8.—The ne temere degree, which makes an unsanctioned marriage between a Catholic and Protestant not recognisable at law, led to a tragedy here last night when James Shaw a drug clerk of Carp, was shot dead by Reeve McRae.

The wife of Dr. McRae who is a Catholic had left her husband since the publication of the decree, and would not return. Dr. McRae and Shaw went to the home of the wife's parents last night to try and induce her to return. A dispute ensued, and during the dispute, the woman's uncle, Reeve Shaw, who died shortly after. Reeve McRae is now under arrest charged with murder.

Duke of York's School, London., June 20.—I enclose you a post card showing a photograph of Lord Roberts inspecting our company in the grounds of the Duke of York's school. The officer accompanying him was my old colonel in the Grenadier Guards. It revived many old memories to see him again. Since I last wrote I have had a two days' visit to my old home. found my aged mother in good health, and very glad to see me after an absence of twenty years. I was glad to look on the old scenes dagain.

We had a church parade to S Paul's Cathedral last Sunday. There was a big turnout of people along the line of march to see us. Captain Stork is in London and called to see us yesterday. He is looking well, and in his rounds met two men who were in his old THE British Union and National Fire Insurance regiment at Brantford.

I get the Prince Rupert News here, and it is always looked over with a great deal of interest by the men of the contingent. Hoping all is well with Prince Rupert,
