COMMON COURTESY.

Those who have attended public meetings in Prince Rupert and elsewhere, especially in British Columbia, cannot but have noticed the lack of courtesy extended to the chairman and the rest of the gathering by a few people grabbing their hats and making for the door just as soon as the audience rises to sing the national anthem.

We pride ourselves on our freedom in all British countries and it is only by taking advantage of this freedom that people are enabled to act with such rang discourtesy sioners held their monthly meeting to our king and country. It would not be tolerated in any and cleaned up all accumulated other country. Imagine such a thing being done in Russia business. while the people were singing the Red Flag or whatever the national song is through which the people express themselves. This is a British country, an integral part of the British Empire, and any who do not wish to remain in it are welcome to leave. Those who are citizens have taken an oath Rice, Balmoral; Eric Donald, city, of loyalty to the king and then they show their disloyalty by an open display at public meetings. Many of those who act in the manner mentioned have come to Canada because they expected to better themselves. They are taking advantage of British tolerance and flouting the people who have made them welcome.

This is not a question of whether they believe the words lice, sailed last night on the ss. in a close exciting game by a of the national anthems which are sung. Nobody has to Prince George for a trip to Vic- core of 7-5. Steen and Smith starask God to save the king or to believe that he is going to do toria. It was the G and empire and as such everyone should stand at attention with head uncovered while it is being sung.

When Canadians go to the United States they stand at attention while the people sing "America" or some other national song. In France they do the same while the "Marsellaise" is being sung and similarly they pay respect to the head of the nation while they are in Japan, Russia, split, Ready for Stove Italy or Germany. It is a matter of common courtesy to per cord do so. So in Canada the chairman of any meeting should insist that any who are willing to stay during the main Half part of the proceedings should remain at the end and at Cord least stand at attention with uncovered heads while the audience sings "O Canada" or "God Save the King."

Mud slingi g seems to have been going on around the Empire office.
