Airplane Flight From Stewart to Atlin Makes Rolston All the Stronger For Yukon-Alaska Project

Following an airplane flight which he made last week from Stewart to Atlin as a result of which he had the opportunity to view from the air some of the great mineralized country which exists in that part of the province, H. W. M. Rolston, independent candidate for Atlin in the forthcoming provincial election, declares that he is more satisfied than ever of the justification of the project for the construction of the proposed Yukon-Alaska highway. "The building of such a highway through British Columbia would not only open up a territory of immense resources, which alone would justify its construction, but would materially assist in increasing employment in the country," declares Mr. Rolston.

Mr. Rolston flew north on Tuesday of last week from Stewart to Atlin in a Canadian Airways plane piloted by Norman Forrester. He arrived here from Atlin on the Princess Louise yesterday afternoon and will proceed tomorrow evening on the Catala to visit Alice Arm and Anyox.

Atlin district is continuing to produce quite a bit of gold, states Mr. Rolston, particularly placer.

Japan Disputes Over Island

Japan has aroused intense international interest by claiming "title and rights" in nine Chinese Sea islets recently annexed by France. Japan insists, through Count Yasuya Uchida, foreign minister, that the problem of sovereignty be discussed and questions the legality of France's claim. Japanese capital has exploited the resources of the islands. Proximity of the islands to other outposts of the Far East is shown in the map.

TRIP WAS EXTENSIVE

Dr. J. T. Mandy, Resident Mining Engineer, Back After Over Two Months in North

Following an inspection tour to various parts of the northern part of his extensive district which occupied well over two months, Dr. Joseph T. Mandy, resident mining engineer for the northeastern mineral survey district, returned to the city on the Princess Louise yesterday afternoon. He was accompanied by Mrs. Mandy who made the trip with him. They left here on July 3 and, in the course of their trip which covered a lot of new territory never previously visited by a resident mining engineer, particularly the more recent new fields of mining activity, travelled by airplane, steamer, river boat and train as well as doing some old-fashioned hiking by trail.

Dr. Mandy found a great deal of interesting new mining expansion in progress in various parts of the north, some of which is most promising. Among the sections he visited were the Rainy Hollow, Atlin, Stikine River, Dease Lake and Liard River sections.

Large Cargo of Building Material to be Delivered To Surf Inlet Gold Mine
Presaging an early start on extensive renovation of the old Belmont-Surf Inlet Gold Mining Co.'s plant and facilities at Surf Inlet, the Union Steamship Co.'s freighter Chilliwack, Capt. W. W. Mounce, will be sailing next week from Vancouver with a large cargo of building material for Surf Inlet including 200,000 feet of lumber, seventy creosoted piles and ninety tons of steel.
The old Surf Inlet property was recently taken over by a syndicate headed by J. B. Woodworth of Vancouver and the ore is to be treated under a new and more up-to-date method of treatment than that which was used by the former Belmont-Surf Inlet Co. which abandoned the mine some years ago. Success in the financing campaign has resulted in the decision to get the building program under way at this time.

LEADERSHIP

Leadership is one of the crying needs in Canada. It was leadership that was demanded when W. J. Bowser stepped into the breach at the earnest request of men who demanded strong leadership. Now that leadership is gone, the independents are like sheep without a shepherd crying in the wilderness for someone to come and help them, they know not whom. True, there are volunteer helpers. R. W. Bruhn seems to have volunteered his services but so far they have not been openly accepted. Premier Tolmie would like to remain leader but all his ministers except Hon. Harry Pooley, Hon. S. L. Howe, Minister of Education Hinchliffe have deserted him, and most of the members of his party have left the fold and are straying afar. There are two new and almost unknown ministers but they are not in any sense of the word leaders. A somewhat similar condition exists in regard to the C. C. F. That party plans to nominate only thirty candidates for the provincial election and the man who is supposed to preside over their destinies could not be named today by more than one hundred persons in Prince Rupert. The council of nine that passes on all candidates before they can be nominated under the C. C. F. is an unknown council.

The only leader who has proved himself and who when elected will be a real leader is T. D. Pattullo, the man chosen in open convention by all the Liberals of the province. No other name for the leadership was suggested or even thought of. None other was needed. Mr. Pattullo is the only outstanding leader in the present election.

ONE OF THE SHEEP

One of the sheep crying in the wilderness without a shepherd is Dr. Clem Davies, pastor of the City Temple at Victoria. He is an excellent citizen, a good speaker and an attractive personality but hardly a statesman. Speaking from his own pulpit Sunday night he is reported to have said:

"How much longer is British Columbia to remain under the domination of the eastern bankers? Start your own bank. Issue your own money. Drive every chartered bank out of the province. There is nothing in the world to stop us incorporating a provincial bank and issuing our own money and arranging our own government loans just as the present banks do. There is also nothing to prevent us imposing such high license fees upon the banks as will prevent them doing business within our boundaries."

Possibly Dr. Clem is not aware of the provisions of the Canadian constitution as set forth in the British North America Act.

Increase of Fresh, Frozen and Mild-Cured Output Largely Responsible For Falling Off in Canned Salmon—Fewer Sea Lions Taken

Reports received of the Dominion Fisheries show that up to the early part of August more sockeye and pinks were processed in the British Columbia coast salmon canneries of the province than were packed in the corresponding period of 1932 but that other species of salmon were put up in smaller quantities than a year ago. The net result of gains and decreases was that the total pack was about 384,650 cases, approximately 37,800 cases below the 1932 figures.

The department explains that, while the pack so far has been smaller than in the like period of last year, it is noteworthy that one reason for this condition has been that substantial quantities of fish which in other seasons would have been canned have this year been prepared for sale in the fresh and frozen forms in order that advantage might be taken of improved marketing opportunities in the United Kingdom. A sharp expansion in the production of fresh and frozen salmon has been taking place. There has also been expanded production of mild-cured salmon.

Many fish bones lying about the sea lion rookeries west of Rivers Inlet when the Department of Fisheries vessel Givenchy went to that area this year on the annual lion hunt gave further proof of the mammals' rapacity and the injury they may do to the fisheries. Although weather conditions were favorable during this year's hunt and more landings could be made at the rookeries than ever before, the number of lions destroyed was smaller than in 1932, or 923 as compared with about 1,100. The frequency of the landings probably made the lions even more wary than usual. Of the total number killed this year 710 were mature lions and 213 were pups.

Today marks the opening of the deer hunting season but, owing to the fact that there is little if any snow on the mountain tops as yet and the deer are, as a consequence, running rather high, there will be little general interest on the part of hunters for a while. Hunting for geese and ducks in the Atlin district which includes the country around the lower end of Portland Canal, where local bird hunters are wont to foregather before this hunting becomes legal in the more immediate vicinity of the city, also opens today. Doubtless, some expeditions to Winter Harbor, Khatza-

Halibut landings at the port of Prince Rupert during the week ending yesterday totalled only 176-100 pounds, all of which was from American vessels, no Canadian vessels being in with catches during the week although some of the larger local boats are expected back shortly with fares from Area No. 3, where fishing is still legal. Landings for the week brought the grand total for the season up to 11,105,500 pounds as against 11,352,450 pounds at a similar date last year. American landings for this year now stand at 6,164,000 pounds in comparison with last year's 7,872,700 pounds while the Canadian total is 4,941,500 pounds as compared with 3,479,750 pounds in 1932 at the same date. Prices on American fish during the week ranged from 6.5c and 4c to 7.3c and 4c.
