CAREER OF NEW MAYOR

Melvin McKay Stephens Can Boast Long Line of Pure Canadian Ancestry Back to His Grandparents

Was Farm Bred

Went Ranching For Himself But Was Dried Out—Long in Railway Service and Pioneer of Prince Rupert

Another Ontario farm-bred boy to reach the office of chief magistrate of Prince Rupert, Melvin McKay Stephens, who was elected mayor of this city by a sweeping majority at the civic election here yesterday, can boast a long line of pure Canadian ancestry. His maternal grandmother was born at Fort Garry, where now stands the great prairie metropolis of Winnipeg. His maternal grandfather, John McKay, before his death, was the last living member of the original Selkirk settlement on the Red River, Manitoba. His paternal grandparents were United Empire Loyalists who moved from Pennsylvania to Canada after the Declaration of Independence by the United States.

Born at Beaton, Simcoe County, Ont., December 28, 1872, Mayor M. M. Stephens celebrated his sixtieth birthday a few days ago. He was the son of the late John S. Stephens and his wife, Annie McKay Stephens. With his family, he moved at the age of 12 years to Wawanesa, Man., where he grew up on a pioneer farm. At the age of 19, Mr. Stephens started out to farm for himself at Carnduff, Sask., but three years of drought put him out of the agricultural industry and he went railroading to earn enough money to pay his bills. He was thereafter to spend many years in the railroading game as telegrapher and station agent.

Starting his railway career with the Canadian Pacific in Manitoba, Mr. Stephens remained with that company for two years before joining the service of the Manitoba Northwestern Railway as agent at Gladstone Junction, north of Portage la Prairie, Man.

First C. N. R. Agent

Becoming joint agent at Gladstone for the Lake Manitoba Railway & Canal Co., which commenced construction in 1896, as well as the Manitoba Northwestern, Mr. Stephens can claim the distinction of having been the first station agent in the west of the new great Canadian National Railway system, for the Lake Manitoba Railway & Canal Co., of which D. B. Hanna was superintendent at Winnipeg, was the first western link of the now huge government-owned Canadian transportation system.

From Gladstone Mr. Stephens moved to Strathclair, Man., where he spent a short time before coming to British Columbia in 1898 to once again join the service of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Field in the Rocky Mountains near the Alberta border. After a year at Field, he was moved to Rossland where he took up duty with the commercial telegraphs of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

After the Western Union came into Rossland, Mr. Stephens joined its service as manager at that point and, when the Western Union was taken over by the Great Northern Railway, Mr. Stephens went in 1904 to Phoenix, then boom-

SENATOR IS DEAD

Lieutenant-Colonel J. W. Daniel of Saint John, New Brunswick, Passes Away

Long Public Service

Served as Alderman, Mayor and Member of House of Commons

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Jan. 13. (Canadian Press)—Senator (Lieutenant-Colonel) John Waterhouse Daniel M.D., M.R.C.S., aged 88, died here suddenly Wednesday night. He had been a senator for twenty years, having been appointed early in the regime of Sir Robert Borden as Premier of Canada.

The son of parents who came from Cornwall, England, the late Senator Daniel was born January 27, 1845, at St. Stephen, New Brunswick. He was educated at New Kingswood College, Bath, Somersetshire, England, and at New York and London, England, becoming a physician and surgeon in Saint John.

He entered public life in 1902 when he was elected as a Conservative to the House of Commons at a by-election. He was re-elected in the general elections of 1904, 1908 and 1911, resigning later to accept appointment to the Senate on March 20, 1912.

Senator Daniel was a Surgeon Lieutenant-Colonel in the militia and held a long service decoration. He was an alderman of Saint John for three years and mayor of the city for two years in addition to serving for one year as warden of the local St. George's Society and of the Council of Physicians and Surgeons.

Senator Daniel was a widower, his wife, who, before her marriage, was Jessie Porteous Ennis, daughter of the late John Ennis, Saint John, merchant, having died in 1921.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13.—Alarm that the discovery of three dozen sticks of dynamite buried a short distance from the great Los Angeles Memorial Stadium, in which the Olympic Games were held last year, indicated a plot to destroy the stadium was set at rest when tests were made and it was found that the explosive was ancient and disintegrated and could not have been exploded by any means.

BUCKLEY STILL IS CONFIDENT OF FINAL SUCCESS

Word has just been received in the city from Frank L. Buckley that he is just as confident as ever of being able to arrange the financing for the pulp mill at Prince Rupert. He says that, now the federal elections are over in the United States and the new president is to take office soon, it will be much easier to talk finance to the people who have money in the south.

DAILY EDITION Friday, Jan. 13, 1933

CONGRATULATIONS

We offer our congratulations to the new mayor and members of the council who were elected yesterday. They have promised to serve without pay and they have a difficult task before them if they are to prevent the city going into the hands of a receiver. Undoubtedly the ratepayers have confidence in their ability to handle the present situation or they would not have given them so decided a majority. We bespeak for them the hearty co-operation of the citizens, not only those who voted for them but also those who were opposed or who did not have votes.

Mayor-Elect Stephens has been in public life a good deal and has undoubted ability. None of the members of the city council are inexperienced in civic administration with the exception of Alderman-Elect F. W. Wesch, and he has had occasion to study civic affairs from the outside as president of the Ratepayers' Association. The new men in co-operation with the members of the council who were elected last year should be able to handle the present situation. We must expect them to hurt us in connection with the balancing of the next budget but we must remember it is for our own good. We wish them success.

MAYOR ORME RETIRES

Mayor Orme retires now after an honorable record of administration for the past three years. They have been difficult years, no one knows so well as he how difficult. In carrying out his duties the mayor has at all times shown that good humor for which he is well known and has come through to the end smiling. During his three years of civic administration he has shown himself to be a born diplomat. There never was a period in the history of the city when the business of the council was conducted with as little friction as during his term. He treated every member of the council with courtesy and respect and took each into his confidence. This at once disarmed critics and made for harmony.

The unfortunate world condition has made the lot of every administrator hard. Prince Rupert has suffered with other places but the residents of the city have not felt it as badly as they might have done under a less wise administration. While Mayor Orme steps out of the civic administration at a time of crisis, he steps out with a clean record and with the knowledge that the three years he gave to the city have been years of useful endeavor and much accomplishment.

POLITICS AND PROGRESS IN DINNER TALK

Rev. C. D. Clarke Gives Very Interesting Address to Rotary Club At Commodore Cafe

At the Rotary Club luncheon yesterday afternoon in the Commodore Cafe, President George Woodland in the chair, Rev. C. D. Clarke of First United Church talked of Conservatism, Liberalism and Radicalism in an intensely interesting manner, showing how the young men were mostly radical in their views. Later they steered down into Liberalism and, as they grew older, their Liberalism became the Conservatism of the day. He was not speaking politically although politics came in for a share of attention. A person who changed his views was not a backslider.

Illustrating his talk, the speaker mentioned that, at one time, both tubs were considered radical and, in at least one of the states to the south, were taxed as a luxury. The person who introduced them was a radical but today a person who used a bath tub was not necessarily radical. Usually the radical took only one forward step and later the younger became more advanced, caught up with him and then forged ahead. Then while holding the same formerly radical view the radical became a conservative.

The half-way between radicalism and conservatism was the liberal who bridged the gap and performed a very important function. What today tended to make progress bumpy was possibly the loss of a great many of the men of one generation in the war. This caused people of today to be twenty years behind the times in some respects. Today these men would have been liberals.

Speaking politically Mr. Clarke said that radicals were not the cause of revolutions such as the French revolution. It was the conservatives who caused the trouble. In the stream of life much of the debris was thrown off at the sides of the river but some of it continued and possibly sank at the mouth of the stream where, in time, it held together and dammed back the water. Then as the water rose and the pressure became too great there was a breaking away or, in other words, a revolution. That took place at Britannia Beach where the waters of the creek became dammed back until they rose and forced their way forward, leaving death and destruction in their wake. It was impossible to stop progress.

In politics, radical, liberal and conservative did not mean much but liberalism had a very definite place in the social fabric. Conservatism was the holding on to the good of the past so that it might be welded on to the progress of the future. It was necessary to a sound progress.

In conclusion the speaker stated that, when looking back years hence, he expected the year 1932 would be singled out as one that made a great contribution to progress.

ing mining camp of the Boundary district, as first station agent for the Great Northern Railway.

Under Matheson

Remaining with the railway at Phoenix for two years, Mr. Stephens entered civic service for the first time when he was appointed city clerk of Phoenix in 1906. It is an interesting fact that D. J. Matheson, now city treasurer in Prince Rupert, was then mayor of Phoenix.

In 1908, attracted by the promise of the new railway terminus on the Pacific Coast, Mr. Stephens landed in Prince Rupert to enter the real estate and insurance business which he has successfully carried on here for the past quarter of a century.

In the early days, Mr. Stephens was active in the work of the Prince Rupert Board of Trade, being, indeed, its first secretary and later a member of the executive for years. He has been a member of the city council for five years at various times and, on several occasions, has been chairman of the finance committee. Twice he was an unsuccessful candidate for the mayoralty. On his third attempt yesterday, he proved victorious, the citizens choosing to repose their confidence in his experience and ability during the difficult year ahead.

Prominent Mason

A Mason and a Shriner, Mayor Stephens is now the senior wP Master of the craft in Prince Rupert. Some years ago he was active in connection with the affairs of the Native Sons of Canada. He is a keen horticulturalist and, as a result of this hobby, his home on Emerson Place, during the summer, is one of the show places of the city.

Mr. Stephens has five children—three sons and two daughters. In addition to his wife and family, his mother, Mrs. Annie McKay Stephens, also lives with him here.

STORY IS THRILLING

"Wild Horse Mesa", Featuring Randolph Scott and Sally Blane, Showing Here

Zane Grey's "Wild Horse Mesa" is being presented as the major feature picture offering at the Capitol Theatre here for the end of this week. The film is based on one of Grey's most popular stories dealing with a great wild horse herd of the West, descendants of blooded animals that had escaped from early Spanish explorers.

Chane Weymer, whose part is taken by Randolph Scott, who is rapidly becoming very popular in western pictures and was last seen here in "Heritage of the Desert," is a friend of the Indians on whose territory the last of the great herd seeks refuge and he deals in these herds legitimately, fighting the barbarous methods of Rawlins (Fred Kohler) and other horse thieves. Around Weymer's adventures is built up a very thrilling story as all who know the novel are aware.

Sally Blane is the pretty heroine of the picture and, between her and Scott, a pretty romance is woven. Others of prominence in the cast are Lucille La Verne, as the mother of the heroine; Charlie Grapewin, as an old cousin of the latter, and Jim Thorpe, noted grid-iron star, as an Indian chief.
