Independent-Non Partizan Not to Contest Vancouver-Centre—C. C. F. Course Undecided—Only Object in Running Would be to "Spread the Gospel" Further

VICTORIA, Nov. 4: (CP)—Within twelve hours of the defeat of his government at the polls on Thursday, Premier S. F. Tolmie yesterday called for the resignation of his cabinet effective November 15, the resignations of the ministers to be presented to the Lieutenant Governor on that date. T. D. Pattullo, Liberal leader, will be immediately called upon to form a government and is expected to announce his cabinet at that time.

While no announcement is made, current report has it that Dr. George M. Weir, Vancouver-Point Grey; G. S. Pearson, Alberni-Nanaimo; John Hart, Victoria, and Dr. W. H. Sutherland, Revelstoke-Columbia, will be chosen as cabinet ministers. A. M. Manson K.C., Omicron; G. G. McGeer K.C., Vancouver-Burrard, and E. D. Barrow, Chilliwack, are also prominently mentioned while in some quarters the names of W. J. Asselstine, Atlin, and Dr. G. Allen Harris, South Okanagan, are heard.

The Independent Non-Partizans in Vancouver Centre, in view of the sweeping victory of the Liberals on Thursday, have decided not to contest the deferred election there but the group in Victoria will not make an announcement until Monday. Col. Lorne Ross, Independent in Victoria, has withdrawn from the contest.

Just before election it had been stated that William Dick, Conservative member of the last legislature for Vancouver, would replace the late W. J. Bowser K.C. as Independent Non-Partizan candidate for Vancouver Centre in the deferred election. Mr. Bowser had requested Mr. Dick to join him as a candidate in the non-partizan movement in the general election but Mr. Dick declined at that time.

It is not known as yet what the C. C. F. will do in regard to the deferred elections but it is believed to be fairly certain that it will not contest Victoria at least. As for Vancouver-Centre, opinion of the executive of the Federation is understood to be divided between contesting the election merely for the purpose of continuing to "spread the gospel" or permitting the return of the Liberals unopposed and save, for more useful purposes, the expense that would be involved in the holding of a poll.

In view of the political standing as a result of Thursday's voting, there is, of course, little doubt of

TWO POLLS TO REPORT

Pattullo's Lead Over Rudderham in Provincial Election Now Stands at 1046

With only two small polls—Tiel and North Island—remaining to be heard from, following Thursday's provincial election, the majority for T. D. Pattullo, Leader of the Opposition and Premier-elect of British Columbia, over G. W. Rudderham, C. C. F. candidate in Prince Rupert riding, early this afternoon stood at 1046.

Since yesterday, the following polls have been reported:

	Chap-Pat-Rudderham	tullo	ham
Jap Inlet	9	3	7
Refuge Bay	0	1	2
Humpback Bay	0	1	2
Goose Bay	0	0	1
Oceanic	0	3	2
Oona River	3	11	13

Jap Inlet has the distinction of being the only poll in the entire riding to accord a majority to Mr. Chapman.

The total absentee vote to date is as follows: Chapman, 15; Pattullo, 86; Rudderham, 28. The only point to report a large absentee vote for Prince Rupert is Vancouver-Burrard where Chapman received six votes, Pattullo 35, and Rudderham, three.

CABINET MAKING
 One of the most interesting sports today and for the next week will be that of cabinet making. T. D. Pattullo has his hands full in picking and choosing from the wealth of material offering.

So far as northern members are concerned there are in addition to Premier Pattullo, such men as A. M. Manson, former attorney general, H. G. Perry, and W. J. Asselstine who are prominently mentioned in regard to positions on the executive. It is probable that not more than one of these may be selected as the south would be dissatisfied if the north were over-represented. Yet geographical considerations should not influence the appointments if the men are best suited for the positions.

MISTAKE TO WEAKEN
 Looking back on the elections which took place this week, it seems to be a general opinion that the Conservatives would have done well to have disregarded the advice contained in the Kidd Report and its backers and to have stuck by their party. Had they done so they might easily have been the official opposition in the next Legislature. As it is today the C. C. F. group is likely to be considered the official opposition.

EXCELLENT STORIES
 The newest book dealing with this part of British Columbia is a collection of legendary stories dealing with the Haida Indians of Queen Charlotte Islands. It is written by Lurline Bowles Mayo, a lady who has made a study of Indian lore and conditions in the villages about the time that white men first visited there.

The stories are told in simple language and for that reason have a strong appeal for young people. Older folk will be equally if not more interested, especially those who already know something of the natives and their ways.

Most of the stories centre around a village named Quasnet but Port Simpson is also mentioned and the chief action in one of the stories takes place there. The Naas River also figures in at least one of the tales.

We strongly recommend this book to anyone wishing to be entertained and at the same time anxious to learn of the western native and his former habits of life. They are in marked contrast to Indian stories of the east or of the prairies.

PAINLEVE BRILLIANT

Mathematical Prodigy, Famous Scientist, Twice Premier and Nearly President

PARIS, Nov. 4: (AP)—Paul Painlevé, twice Premier of France, who is dead here, was born in 1863, son of a baker in the Latin quarter of Paris. A prodigy in mathematics at eight, a world famous scientist at forty, and Premier of France at 54, he missed by a narrow margin becoming president of the French Republic at 61 in 1924. Few men took as active a part in the politics of his country during the war and the reconstruction period.

He had the reputation of being the youngest man of his work in France, and the most absent-minded. At 62 he had the hair and complexion of a twenty-year old boy, while, like a great many men absorbed in scientific and social problems, he had difficulty in remembering where he was to lunch or dine.

Painlevé always showed pride in his humble origin and shaped his political action to suit. A republican, just on the edge of Socialism, he was dragged from his figures and equations into the political arena by the Dreyfus Affair in 1898. The vigor with which he advocated the revision of the trial brought him into contact with all the leaders of the Socialist and Radical parties and made him one of them. Never again was he able to get out of politics.

Twice Premier
 Deputy from the Sorbonne district of Paris in 1910, he became leader of the Republican Socialist group in the Chamber and became premier when Ribot fell from power in 1917.

Painlevé was called upon to administer the war department at a most critical stage of the hostilities. Russia was defaulting and the people of France were, through their representatives in parliament, demanding greater activity on the part of the army. A combined offensive by the French on the Aisne and by the British on the Somme, planned for early spring, but put off until the middle of April, failed to produce the desired results. Painlevé then inaugurated the policy of "waiting for the Americans." He declared that the French army would undertake no more offensives on an important scale but would wait until reinforced by the American Expeditionary Force.

He fell from power a few weeks later to return only after the victory in 1924 of the coalition of Radicals, Republican Socialists and Socialists of which he was the recognized parent. Painlevé formed his second cabinet in 1925 when Herriot was overthrown. He staggered political circles by calling Joseph Caillaux back from exile to be his minister of finance. He again started the country by forcing Caillaux to abandon the post and finally stumbled and fell himself on the same obstacle that had caused the downfall of the Herriot cabinet—the capital levy.

Last Halibut Catches Being Landed—Winter Quiet Settling Down—Tragedy of Decade Ago Recalled

Halibut landings at the port of Prince Rupert up to and including yesterday totalled 13,349,200 pounds of which 5,209,000 pounds had been brought in by Canadian vessels and 8,140,000 pounds by American. During the past week fifteen vessels landed their final catches of the season at the port, three Canadian boats bringing in 46,000 pounds in all and twelve American botoms, 320,000 pounds. Prices held up well during the week, the bids for second class fish being particularly satisfactory. During the past few weeks the most of the boats have been clearing nicely. The Canadian boats this week received from 5.5c and 5c to 7.5c and 5c for their catches and the American vessels from 7.5c and 5c to 8.6c and 5c. All Canadian boats are now accounted for this season and the next day or so should see the final American catches in.

With the election and its stir a thing of the past, and the depression, so they say, almost over as well, the boys will have to think up something else to talk about now, so how about making it Santa Claus and Christmas shopping which Doc Orme started rolling with his one-cent sale this week? One thing is sure and that is that business along the front is quiet enough with the halibut fishing ended for the time being and all lines of salmon fishing practically suspended. Truly the winter is with us again in real earnest. Even the weather confirms that. However, there is still lots of coal and wood for the fire around such popular gathering places as Hunt's, etc. and lots of room for expectation. So let's get busy on the winter sports and may all have a good time during the forthcoming vacation!

Capt. J. R. Elfert, harbor master, started his school for navigation on Wednesday of this week with a few students putting in an appearance. Classes are expected to get under way in force during the coming week and there is every indication that they will prove as popular as ever on this occasion.

Three coast liners were in port late yesterday afternoon or last night, there being three sailings for the south within a little over six hours. The Princess Norah, Capt. William Palmer, arrived at 3:30 p.m. from Skagway and sailed at 5:30 for Vancouver, the Princess Adelaide, Capt. S. K. Gray, arrived at 4:45 p.m. from the south and sailed at 10 p.m. on her return to Vancouver while the Cardena was in from 6:3 p.m. until midnight.

On account of very stormy weather of late, the Skidegate trolly fleet has been unable to get out much recently and very few salmon have been caught, according to word from the Queen Charlotte Islands. Some seining is still in progress in that area and two salteries at Jedway are continuing operations on chum salmon.

Sea Epic Recalled

On the first day of November twenty years ago, Peter Robinson, his son, Richard, and Stephen Ryan, all of Metlakatla, were wrecked on the north end of Stephens Island.

They were trying to get to Squadaree but the wind was too strong and the big seas threw the gasboat on a small rock, about the size of a house. It was dark and the tide was falling. Mr. Robinson and his son were drowned.

The next morning at daylight Ryan made a small raft with some of the wreckage to try to get to the island but his raft was too narrow and when he got on it, it tipped so he abandoned it and swam back to the rock.

The gasboat had been loaded with about a ton of potatoes and Ryan found two of these potatoes in a cleft in the rock. This was the only food he had during the fifteen days he remained there.

It rained almost continuously and Ryan suffered greatly from cold and the constant wetting but was able to shout when he heard a gasboat nearby. The men on this boat were searching for him and heard his shouts. He was unable to stand or to recognize his rescuers, one of whom was John Leighton, who died last week. Ryan's health was permanently impaired and two years ago he lost his sight.

Dr. Neal Carter of the Pacific Biological Station at Nanaimo, who is to succeed D. B. Finn as director of the Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental Station, in a recent address before the Chemistry Society of the University of British Columbia in Vancouver on "Oceanographical Chemistry," referred to the work in this department which was being carried on by the Fisheries Experimental Station at Prince Rupert.

The Armour Salvage Co.'s local service boat Salvage Princess, Capt. Joe Desmules, is due back on November 20 from Vancouver where it is having a new crankshaft installed, replacing one which broke down recently while the vessel was on a salmon packing charter between the Queen Charlotte Islands and Namu cannery.

United Church Play on Again

Mrs. John Manson, Director, Honored With Presentation at Entertainment Last Night

There was another good-sized crowd at First United Church last night for the second presentation of the three act sketch "The Little Clodhopper" under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid and everything went off splendidly again.

At the close of the program, G. A. Edgecombe, on behalf of the Ladies' Aid, made the presentation to Mrs. John Manson, who directed the play, of a handsome metal flower vase in appreciation of her work.

Following the entertainment refreshments were served to those who took part by members of the Ladies' Aid.

Staff Sergeant Alex McNeill, provincial police, who has been confined for the past month to his home suffering from a severe attack of influenza, is able to be around again and will be resuming duty at his office next Monday.

Are Honored By Rail Folk Here

Presentation of a handsome carrying set was made last evening to P. L. Petersen and bride on behalf of members of the Canadian National Railways Badminton Club and personal friends of the groom. The presentation was made by F. M. Davis, chairman of the club, who pointed out that the tokens of esteem was only a small mark of affection which the groom had earned from the members by his consistent good sportsmanship and friendliness in play at all times. Other guests of honor were Mrs. Petersen, mother of the groom, and his sisters, Karina and Thora.

The event progressed to a satisfactory conclusion by the playing of several rounds of badminton in the early part of the evening, followed by a banquet at which the presentation was made after which dancing was enjoyed.

Mr. Petersen was recently similarly honored by his work mates of the C. N. R. shops, where he is employed, he being the recipient on that occasion of a lovely present of cutlery.
